Board Action Paves Way for New Development in Northern Accomack

By Bill Sterling

Accomack supervisors discussed at length Wednesday a proposal to amend local ordinances to allow private wastewater treatment plants in residentially zoned areas, as they currently are in agriculture, business and industrial districts.

Current regulations allow only for a public water and sewer treatment facility in a residentially zoned district. Rich Morrison, director of Planning and Community Development, recommended amending the ordinances to be consistent.

The move was requested to allow The Atlantic Group to move forward with its project for the Town Center at Wallops Island Spaceport Planned Unit Development (PUD) and Bridge Hill Development in the Atlantic area.

Mark Baumgartner, counsel for the Atlantic Group, said, “We are happy to follow a path, but give us a clear path.”

The project, which was first proposed six years ago, would include in its final stages 730 residential units and over 700,000 square feet of commercial space.

After a closed session, the supervisors voted 9-0 to amend the county Residential Zoning District and to return the application from the Atlantic Town Center PUD and Wastewater Treatment Center to the Accomack County Planning Commission, giving it 60 days to return a recommendation to the supervisors concerning the wastewater treatment facility and 100 days to return the PUD application recommendation to them.

With no comment from the public during a public hearing, the supervisors voted 7-2 Wednesday to give themselves a 3 percent pay increase. Supervisors Robert Crockett and Wanda Thornton opposed the action.

No supervisors commented prior to the vote. Effective next month, the raise will be the first for the supervisors in 23 years.

They are paid $7,000 annually, which will increase by $210, with slightly larger raises for the chairman and vice chairman.

In other business, Crockett asked that a vote be taken by the board next month on a request from the Eastern Shore Public Library Board of Directors for $6 million toward construction of a new library. The supervisors met with the library board in June and heard a presentation on the need for a library to replace the current facility, built in 1964 and expanded in 1984. The supervisors said then a decision would be made by September.

The library board is facing a March 2016 deadline to have a foundation started at a site donated by Shore Bank on the left side of the entrance to its corporate headquarters, across from Four Corner Plaza.

The proposed 32,000-square-foot library includes an Eastern Shore Room approximately three times the size of the current one, dedicated computer space and training room, meeting rooms of varying sizes that will be accessible after hours, and an expanded children’s area with homework rooms. The proposed library would support three branch libraries as the current library does.

The entire cost of the library project has been estimated at $7.7 million. The library board is seeking to raise $2 million through grants and contributions.

A request by Supervisor Donald Hart to hold a public hearing on the need for a new library was turned down when the supervisors were polled. He was supported only by Supervisors Ron Wolff and Reneta Major.
Wachapreague Official Urges That Seaside Waterway Be Maintained

By Bill Sterling

Wachapreague Mayor Fred Jancey asked the board to adopt an aggressive approach to preserving the Virginia Inside Passage (VIP) and contact all groups involved, as well as state and national legislators, to voice opposition to the proposal to disestablish navigational aids.

The proposal, which involves 135 aids to navigation, would affect 100 miles of the VIP from Chincoteague to the northwest side of Fisherman's Island. It is the result of encroaching shoaling and a lack of funds to dredge the passage.

Jancey called the waterway “the economic lifeblood of Wachapreague” and it would be “the death knell for our small town” if it were discontinued.

The U.S. Coast Guard is seeking public comment on the proposal.

Wolff said Coast Guard officials would be appearing at his monthly meeting in August — moved to the NASA Visitor Center to accommodate a larger crowd — to discuss and answer questions concerning the proposal. He said, “This is not going to be something that happens anytime soon.”

Thornton said she has discussed this issue with Coast Guard and U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and held a meeting on Chincoteague involving several groups. She said that everyone wants to preserve the passage, but “it is a matter of money.”

A group of citizens from the Texaco Town area who live on Calvin and Lee roads appeared before the supervisors to ask that something be done about large holes in their road that make them almost impassable.

Jackie Farlow, who lives on Calvin Road, said, “The holes are big enough to lie down and disappear.”

Other residents said the road is getting to the point that emergency vehicles and oil trucks will not be able to reach the residences and that property values are being hurt.

The Virginia Department of Transportation has a Rural Addition Program that provides funds for roads that are not part of the state system. Stewart Hall, director of Public Works, stated that VDOT estimates it would cost approximately $157,000 to fix the two roads. Currently, there is $95,000 set aside in the VDOT Rural Addition Program for Accomack County.

Thornton said no taxpayer funds can be spent on private roads, and having faced this issue on Chincoteague, she is aware of numerous similar situations.

Hart and Major spoke about improvements made in the Cedarview and Lynnhaven areas, where roads were repaired and citizens were assessed the cost to repay the county.

Supervisor Grayson Chessor said he lives on a dirt road and understands it can be costly to maintain a private road.

There was some confusion as to whether Lee Street is private or public since it bears a green sign, whereas Calvin Street has a brown sign.

The board decided to ask VDOT to come to the August meeting and explain how the policy works concerning private roads.

County Administrator Steve Miner gave an update on the Wallops Research Park and a public park in Accomac that would include a ballfield and walking trail. Miner said a recreation area that was being lost due to restrictions at the Wallops Research Park is being replaced by a land swap with the National Park Service and General Services Administration. The park would be located on the old Jones Lumber Mill property outside Accomac.

Miner also informed the board that work on a round-about at the Tasley intersection would begin in August and create detours for traffic in the area. The intersection has been the site of numerous accidents.

Supervisor Laura Belle Gordy reported that interviews for a new tourism director are being held today. The position is vacant after David Schulte, who was hired in 2012, resigned because his wife did not want to move to the Shore, according to Gordy.

Rich Morrison, director of Planning and Community Development, and David Fluhart, director of Building and Zoning Director, gave the board an overview of their departments. The report showed in 2012 there were 722 permits issued for construction valued at $29.9 million, compared to 2008, when 949 permits were issued for construction valued at $37 million.

At the recommendation of Finance Director Mike Mason, the board voted unanimously to opt out of the Virginia Local Disability Program and seek coverage through a comparable employer-paid program at a 13 percent lower rate.

Jesse Chandler appeared before the board to ask that the speed limit be reduced on Daugherty Road near Accomac, adding he wanted to raise funds to erect “Children at Play” signs in the area. Chandler noted that a child had been killed in a traffic accident on the road. The supervisors later voted to conduct a speed study on Daugherty Road.

In other matters, Supervisor Kay Lewis thanked the businesses that supported the local Little League teams that traveled to the state tournament. Four teams representing various levels of baseball and softball competed in the state tournaments and made excellent showings. (See page 19 for details.)

The board also agreed to waive tipping fees for debris removed from the Onancock School property. Donna Ware told the board volunteers would be removing debris around the nature trail.
Annual Pony Festivities Begin This Weekend

The Pony Round Up: July 20 & 21

This weekend, “Saltwater Cowboys” on horseback will begin to round up the approximately 150 wild ponies that live on Assateague Island. About 50 ponies reside on the southern end of Assateague Island, and will be herded into a southern corral. About 100 ponies reside a little farther north on Assateague Island, and will be herded into a northern corral. The ponies can be viewed by the public in the southern corral, which is located on Assateague, just off the road that leads to the beach.

The Beach Walk: July 22

On Monday at daybreak, the Saltwater Cowboys will move the ponies from the northern corral out to the beachfront, then south along the Atlantic Ocean, and join them with the ponies in the southern corral. To see the ponies make their way from the north corral to the south corral along the beach, be at the Assateague Beach by 6 a.m.

The Pony Swim: July 24

On Wednesday, the Saltwater Cowboys will swim the ponies from Assateague to Chincoteague Island. During “slack tide.” Slack tide is about 30 minutes between tides, when there is no current. This is the easiest time for the ponies to make the swim. The time of slack tide varies each year. However, the swim generally takes place between 7 a.m. and 1 p.m. The specific time will be announced at the carnival grounds next week.

The Chincoteague ponies will swim across Assateague Channel, just south of Memorial Park on the east side of Chincoteague Island. There is no charge to see the ponies swim. However, the ONLY parking at Memorial Park is designated for handicap use. All folks coming in just for the day are encouraged to go to Chincoteague Combined School (4586 Main St.) and catch the free shuttle. Those lodging on Chincoteague Island may catch a shuttle bus near their lodging. We recommend getting started early on this day and to anticipate a heavy crowd.

The first foal to come ashore will be named King or Queen Neptune and will be given away in a raffle drawing at the carnival grounds later in the day (time to be announced). Tickets are sold each night at the carnival and among the crowd while waiting for the swim to occur. You must have a ticket and you must be present to win.

The Parade to Carnival Grounds: July 24

After the swim, the ponies will rest for about 45 minutes. Then the Saltwater Cowboys will “parade” the ponies down Main Street to the carnival grounds where the auction will be held Thursday morning.

The Pony Auction: July 25

The purpose of the pony swim is to move the ponies from Assateague Island to Chincoteague Island so that the foals can be auctioned. The auction serves two purposes. First, it helps to control the overall size of the herd. Secondly, the auction is a fundraiser for Chincoteague Volunteer Fire Company. The auction will begin at 8 a.m. Thursday.

The following are tips for those who plan to bid for a pony during the auction:

- Be there early; the crowds are huge and you will want a space as close to the front as possible.
- Wear a sun hat and sunscreen and bring plenty to drink. A folding chair is a good idea since the bleachers fill up quickly.
- You do not have to register for the auction. If you raise your hand during the auctioneer’s chant, you ARE MAKING A BID.
- Your transportation home for your new foal (a horse trailer) must be approved by the pony committee. Ponies must be picked up by 5 p.m. Friday.
- The only acceptable forms of payment are Visa, Mastercard, and cash. The fire department will not accept checks.
- Auction winners will receive a certificate saying they purchased a Chincoteague pony from Chincoteague Volunteer Fire Company.

Last year, 67 ponies were sold for a total of $96,252 at an average cost of $1,436. The high bid was $7,000; low bid was $400.

Each year the fire company designates a few ponies as “Buy Backs.” A Buy Back Pony is a foal designated to return to Assateague Island to live out its life. The Buy Back Pony will be auctioned with the rest of the foals.

The winner of a Buy Back Pony will get to name the pony before it is returned to Assateague. Buy Back Ponies replenish the herd and actually have become some of the highest priced ponies sold at the auction.

The Pony Swim Back to Assateague: July 26

On Friday, the adult ponies will make the return swim to Assateague Island, where they will live in the wild for another year.

Acomack Circuit Court

Gregory Donzell Bailey Jr., 34, of Onancock was found guilty last week in Acomack Circuit Court of two counts of robbery and two counts of use of a firearm in connection with a hold-up at SunTrust Bank on Market Street in Onancock last Aug. 2. Bailey was remanded to jail until a presentence report is completed. Bailey also pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of unlawful wounding — reduced in a plea agreement from malicious maiming — involving a fellow inmate, Bryan Shay Lang Sr., who was injured on Feb. 14. A presentence report was ordered.

Pierre Antonio Justice, 33, of Smith Lane in Temperanceville pleaded guilty to possession of a firearm by a felon, occurring Oct. 19, 2012. He was sentenced to five years, with three years suspended.

Marcus Lamar Mears, 26, of Oyster House Road in Acomac pleaded guilty last week to eluding police on Jan. 15, 2012. He was sentenced to five years, with all but 12 months suspended and his operator’s license was suspended for six months.

Mappsville residents Derimon Har-gis, 20, of Pettit Street and Nathaniel Ross Mumford, 42, of Chester Street pleaded guilty, under a plea agreement, to stealing property belonging to Henry Ennis Johnson. They originally were charged with grand larceny. Hargis and Mumford were given a 12-month sentence, suspended for 3 years, during which they must maintain a clean record and make restitution of $200.

Bonnie Lou Thompson, 52, of Sea Breeze Drive on Chincoteague Island was sentenced for distributing methylphenidate to 10 years, with all but 10 months suspended. She also was given five-year suspended sentences for distribution of buprenorphine, distribution of diazepam, and distribution of hydrocodone, to run consecutively.

Bernadette Yvette Mills, 32, of Melfa was found guilty of nine counts of grand larceny and 18 counts of petty larceny, all involving the property of Jesse R. Strand of Melfa, and nine counts of identity theft involving Strand’s SunTrust Bank accounts. Mills was sentenced to five years on count of grand larceny and identity theft, and 12 months on each count of petty larceny, to run concurrently, with all but one year suspended.

Mills also was sentenced on three counts of obtaining money from insurance companies by false pretenses to 10 years on each count, and on two counts of attempting to obtain money from insurance companies by false pretenses, to 12 months on each count. Mills was ordered to pay a total of $7,131.13 in restitution.

Acomack Grand Jury

Three previously “quiet” indictments handed down by an Acomack Grand Jury have been made public.

Brezuun Antrell Douglas, 28, of Acomac was indicted charges of grand larceny involving the property of Christine Murphy, occurring July 30, 2012, and from Connie Chandler in September 2012.

William Thomas Nelson, 37, of Mel- fa was indicted on a charge of distributing cocaine on Jan. 3.

Billy Harmon, 27, of Wattsville was indicted on charged he distributed cocaine on Oct. 9, 2012, and heroin and cocaine on Nov. 6, 2012. He also is charged with possessing marijuana on Dec. 4, 2012.

Acomack District Court

Ramon Celestino-Gonzalez, 36, of Nelsonia faces two counts of reckless disregard for life, a first offense of driving while intoxicated, and driving on a suspended operator’s license, all allegedly occurring July 4. According to Acomack District Court records, the first two counts stem from the accusation that he had two children improperly restrained in the back seat of a vehicle he was driving while drunk.

Austin Sebastien Parks, 19, of Chincoteague Island has been charged with breaking into Chincoteague Fire Department on July 7 and stealing an ATM Machine, cash, a case of stuffed dogs and a case of police department pins. Parks also is charged with grand larceny in connection with the theft of a 2011 Yamaha Outboard from Donald Ross and flat-screen TVs, cell phones and an electric heater from Mary Welpy.

Elizabeth S. Coolidge-Reed, 36, of Chincoteague Island has been charged with hit and run in a July 3 property-damage accident at the intersection of Routes 13 and 180, causing over $1,000 damage to a white Ford Expedition. According to court records, the driver said that a Pontiac SUV had struck his vehicle and not stopped. and continued on. Coolidge-Reed was apprehended in Onancock in response to a “Be on the Lookout” alert issued for her vehicle.

Cheyenne Brooke Woltzky, 19, of Poolesville, Md.; and Christopher Carl Heyden, 19, and Joel Michael Archibald, 23, both of Frederick, Md., each were found guilty of misdemeanor or petty larceny and sentenced to 32 days, with 30 days suspended, and fined $150. The trio had been charged with grand larceny in connection with street signs stolen on Chincoteague on May 30. The signs belonged to the town and a local store. Court records show the property has been returned.
Federal Funds Available To Prevent Damage from Another Sandy

The U.S. Department of Agriculture’s Natural Resources Conservation Service is providing up to $124.8 million in Emergency Watershed Protection Program-Floodplain Easement funding to help prevent damage from significant storm events in Virginia and 11 other states affected by Hurricane Sandy.

NRCS will accept applications through Sept. 2 from residents of 25 Virginia counties affected by this storm, including Accomack and Northampton counties, where a major disaster was declared under the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act:

The program complements traditional disaster recovery funding and allows NRCS to purchase a permanent easement on lands within floodplains that sustained damage from Sandy and restore the area to a natural condition.

Private lands and those owned by local and state governments are eligible if they are located in a floodplain, not subject to tidal influence or action from storm waves, and were damaged by flooding during Hurricane Sandy, which impacted Virginia Oct. 28-29, 2012. Other lands within the floodplain are eligible, provided the lands would contribute to the restoration of flood storage and flow, provide for control of erosion, or improve the practical management of the floodplain easement.

“Floodplains store water, helping to protect lands downstream from future flood damage,” NRCS State Conservationist Jack Bricker said. “Restoring these ecosystems ensures that the land will continue to provide environmental, economic and social benefits in the face of future threats.”

Compensation rates and ranking priorities will vary by location and whether the land is agricultural or vacant or has homes or other structures on it. If a structure is present, NRCS will cost-share the removal or demolition of that structure and enroll the remaining lot in a permanent easement.

Interested landowners on the Shore should contact the USDA Service Center in Accomac (phone 787-0918 x124) to learn more about the program and submit an application prior to the Sept. 2 deadline.

Cargo Module for Space Station Arrives at Wallops; Next Flight Set for September

As part of NASA’s ongoing effort to deliver supplies to the International Space Station (ISS) using commercially-developed space systems, the second Pressurized Cargo Module (PCM) for Orbital Sciences Corp.’s Cygnus spacecraft arrived at NASA’s Wallops Flight Facility July 17 to begin processing.

The PCM will be used for the first of Orbital’s eight operational cargo delivery missions to the ISS under the Commercial Resupply Services (CRS) contract with NASA. This first contracted cargo flight will follow Orbital’s demonstration mission to the space station, which is scheduled for mid-September.

The Cygnus PCM arrived via an Antonov An-124 aircraft, the world’s second largest operating cargo aircraft. It was shipped from the Thales Alenia Space’s facility in Turin, Italy, where it was manufactured under a subcontract from Orbital.

Over the next few months, Orbital’s engineering team will load it with supplies bound for the ISS and will integrate it with the spacecraft’s service module which houses the spacecraft’s avionics, propulsion and power systems. Orbital builds and tests the service module at its Dulles, Va., manufacturing facilities and ships the completed unit to Wallops for integration with the PCM.

Orbital is currently scheduled to launch its first Cygnus mission to the ISS under the Commercial Orbital Transportation Services (COTS) development program in September, with the first complete Cygnus that is already at Wallops awaiting integration with Orbital’s Antares rocket. All of Orbital’s ISS cargo resupply missions will occur from the Mid-Atlantic Regional Spaceport’s pad 0A at Wallops.
The Virginia Department of Health (VDH) has announced that Fisherman’s Island has been closed for shellfish harvesting due to reports of three cases of Vibrio parahaemolyticus illness associated with the consumption of oysters harvested from this area. The closure is effective through July 11, 2014. The Division of Shellfish Sanitation will monitor the shellfish during this period to determine if the area can be re-opened sooner.

A map of the affected area is posted online at www.vdh.virginia.gov/shellfish. The affected shellfish are bivalve molusks, including oysters and clams, but not crabs or finfish.

Vibrio parahaemolyticus occurs naturally in brackish saltwater, and can grow in shellfish during warm months. Although not all strains cause illness, some can cause gastrointestinal illness in humans. The illness is usually self-limiting, lasting for a few days, but can be more serious in people with compromised immune systems.

The Northampton School Board this week reviewed results of a recent survey regarding its current dress code.

In place for over seven years, the dress code originally created a divide among students, parents, and school staff when students were required to wear standardized school outfits that some referred to as uniforms.

Results of the survey showed that some staff members are concerned that the dress code is not being consistently enforced.

Board member Kristen Webb noted that prior to implementation of the dress code, some disruptive events at the high school had led to an attempt to prevent the wearing of gang-related colors. In addition, Webb noted the need to try to instill school pride and unity among the students of each building. Board members Anne Terry, Deloris Lindsey, and Mickey Merritt echoed the need to continue with the dress code for safety reasons.

Superintendent Dr. Walter Clemons stressed the need for all staff to enforce the dress code from the time students enter the building.

The board voted to modify the present code by adding several items and colors to the approved clothing list. Blue jeans of the appropriate size, Capri pants, sweatshirts with college logos, and pink shirts were added to the approved list. A full list of clothing types and colors for students attending the schools can be obtained by contacting the schools or by going to the school system’s website at www.ncpsk12.com.

During the public input session, Will Leland, a teacher at Northampton High School, expressed concerns regarding behavior issues and the concept of middle-school students attending the high school.

He noted that having a daughter in Grade 7 walking the hall at the same time as seniors, some of who might be 18 to 20 years of age, is not acceptable. Additionally, Leland expressed concern over what he called the revolving door concept of students who were assigned to the system’s T.E.C.H. Center, only to return to the regular classroom for a few days before being sent back to the T.E.C.H. Center, often repeatedly, resulting in a decline in their academic performance.

A final issue raised by Leland was the need to pay staff members at the appropriate level. Clemons responded that years without a pay raise had resulted in staff being on a pay step that doesn’t reflect their actual years of service. He added that he would look into the specifics of the issue.

Regarding concerns over safety and intermingling of students of various ages, Clemons suggested that students in Grades 7 and 8 might use a modified “silent” bell schedule at the high school to avoid such issues.

Dr. William Turner says this is his last boat. He has been building boats since he was 14 and counts 160 boats, ranging from small skiffs to 22-foot vessels, among his handiwork.

This one is a beauty. A sleek 15-foot, 9-inch skiff built with aged white cedar with overlapping panels and a center console, this boat is the one he plans to cruise around on Occohannock Creek, where as a boy he explored every gut.

There have been very few boats Dr. Turner has built that he has kept for himself.

“When I was a teenager, I thought the girls liked me because of my good looks and physique, but I found out it was because I always had money in my pocket,” says Dr. Turner with a wry smile.

“I charged $175 for a 14-foot skiff and could make it with $75 of materials, giving me a $100 profit. That was a lot of money in those days.”

“Today, a quart of good paint will cost you $75,” he remarks.

Turner sold his boats all over the Shore through his high-school years and then helped put himself through the University of Virginia by building boats.

“One day I went to the public dock at Quinby and saw eight boats I had built,” recalls Dr. Turner.

In four years at UVA, where he earned a degree in anthropology, he spent only four weekends in Charlottesville, hitchhiking to the Shore every weekend so he could build boats and enjoy fishing and hunting.

He also built boats he raced with friends on lakes throughout Virginia.

In recent years, he has built boats for his 10 grandchildren, including his youngest, now 3.

All told, Dr. Turner estimates he has spent more than 400 hours on this boat, which will be powered with a 40-horsepower, four-stroke outboard that will push it “a lot faster than I need to be going.”

“The white cedar is 40 years old, and I had enough to make three boats. But I was off just a bit on cutting some boards and sometimes had to start a new panel. That was OK because the stuff makes great kindling,” adds Dr. Turner.

He also made a push pole that he says is much better than an oar, although this boat will draw very little water.

As a boy, before he had motors, he often poled his way along waterways. Dr. Turner always loved the outdoors and lived near a famed taxidermist, Robert Rockwell, who did most of the major animals in the Smithsonian Institution.

“He told me taxidermy was not the way to go anymore and encouraged me to try sculpting,” recalls Dr. Turner.

Finding that a degree in anthropology does not lead to a job on the Shore, he turned to creating ceramic sculptures while working as an insurance adjustor in Norfolk.

Knowing he needed a profession to live on the Shore, he went to dental school at the age of 30, although he and his wife already had three small boys.

“Boats put me through UVA. Ceramic sculptures put me through dental school,” says Dr. Turner.

He soon turned to bronze and became a nationally known sculptor, opening Turner Sculptures in Melfa, where he built this boat and follows his other pursuits.

Now 78, he leaves most of the sculpting to his son David, who has been commissioned to create numerous major pieces for museums, universities, parks and other institutions.

An author of three books, Dr. Turner recently signed a contract to do another. He also enjoys painting and has been known to dabble in local politics over the years, never afraid to challenge public officials, although he was briefly one when he ran for supervisor and won back in the 1980s.

He didn’t run for a second term, but used the compensation to start a scholarship for high-school students, still funded today.

Dr. Turner also says he has a design for building docks that makes them almost indestructible, even in the worst of storms.

“Most docks are built with a nail or spike holding the piling to the dock,” Dr. Turner notes. “When heavy waves hit the dock, the force is transferred to the pole and the decking, and something eventually has to give. My dock is held together with ropes, which give the dock some flexibility, and in a bad storm, the energy of the wave is dissipated when it strikes the dock.”

Just like Dr. Turner, the dock — which fronts the Cheseapeake Bay — is still standing.
Two Local Teams Reach State Little League Championship Games

CALL 50-70 Squad Makes State Finals

Central Accomack reached the championship game of the 2013 Intermediate (50-70) Baseball Tournament hosted by Aragona Pembroke in Virginia Beach that ended Monday afternoon.

In the award presentation Monday evening, organizers referred to Central Accomack as “the little engine that could” because the team bounced back after losing its first game and then forced a two-game playoff for the championship by handing Grottoes, the eventual champion, its first defeat in the double-elimination tournament.

Grottoes advances to regional play in Tennessee this weekend.

Central Accomack lost to Central Chesterfield 7-4 in its opening game Saturday, then swept through the losers’ bracket, starting with an exciting 7-6 win over Fairfax when Waylon White stole home in the final inning for the game-winning run. CALL then redeemed itself against Central Chesterfield with an 11-6 win and knocked off Grottoes 10-8 to force the winner-take-all contest Monday evening.

Playing its second game of the day, Central Accomack suffered one bad inning and fell 15-2 to Grottoes in the finals.

The 50-70 intermediate league is a step between the major and minor leagues, with the numbers referring to the 50-foot distance from the mound to home plate and the 70-foot distance between the bases.

Senior Softball Girls Reach Championship

The Central Accomack Senior Softball All-Stars, including some of the top high-school players from all five Shore schools, reached the championship game of their tournament Monday before falling to Honaker 9-1.

Central Accomack blanked Rye Cove 11-0 on Friday to open the tournament, with Autumn Ferguson and Emily Haugh combining for the shutout and Tiffany Trader ending the game with a two-run, walk-off homer. Central Accomack then was blanked 10-0 by Honaker. After eliminating Richmond 3-1 Monday morning, with Whitney Metz getting three hits and Ashley Justice two and Kaylan Wright earning the win on the mound, Central Accomack met Honaker again in the championship round and fell 9-1.

Honaker was the host team for the state tournament, requiring Central Accomack to travel more than nine hours to reach the far western part of the state to compete.

“It was an awesome experience for our team,” said Coach Dale Wright. “Honaker had an excellent team, but they also displayed great sportsmanship and had outstanding facilities.”

CALL Junior All-Stars Finish Fourth in State

The Central Accomack Junior All-Stars, ages 9 and 10, split their four games in state tournament play to finish in the top four.

CALL lost its opener 16-2 to Huguenot Friday, but rebounded with a 15-0 win over York, with Emma Whitley pitching a no-hitter. Michaela Lewis, Caroline Turner and Madison Greer each had doubles in the win. CALL followed that with a 5-3 win over Honaker, with both games played on Saturday.

Central Accomack then faced Huguenot again on Sunday and battled until the final inning this time before being eliminated with a tough 8-7 loss.

Coach David Smullin said the support of the local community helped the girls on their trek to the state tournament.

Shore Major All-Stars Advance to Brackets

The Shore Major Softball Team, ages 11-12, reached the bracket games Monday after winning two weekend games before being eliminated with a loss to Loudon Monday.

On Friday, Shore defeated Clifton Forge 21-3, with Anna Sexauer leading the hitting attack. Courtney Barker and Sara Weber handled the pitching duties. Shore then topped Prince William County 4-0, with Barker throwing the shutout.

Shore was handed its first loss in pool play, falling to Saltville 12-0 on Sunday to finish as runner-up in its pool.

Playing a pool winner Monday, Shore fell to Loudon 12-1.

“We ran up against some tough competition in the last two games, but overall we played well and I am proud of the effort our girls gave us,” said head coach Jim Weber.
Nandua’s Heenan, Joseph Play in All-Star Games

Two Nandua athletes saw action in the East-West All-Star games last week. The annual games included players from many of the Virginia High School League sports with Group A, AA and AAA athletes represented.

Austin Heenan, who will pitch at VMI next season, pitched a perfect inning and struck out two for the East All-Star baseball team in a game won by the West 14-3. The remaining hitter flew out to left field. Heenan played first base for three innings. He went 0-1 with a walk at the plate.

Heenan had a 0.51 ERA with 90 strikeouts in 40 innings this season. A lefty on the mound and at the plate, Heenan hit .463. He made the first team All-State Group A team.

Nandua coach Luke Brankley was on the coaching staff for the game.

Janay Joseph was 1-2, hustling out an infield single. The game was rained out in the 8th with the East losing 9-8. She caught three innings and did a good job, according to Nandua coach Lynn Williams, who was the head coach for the East team.

“It was a great experience getting to know the East All-Star girls. They were a very talented group with many playing at the Division 1 level next year,” said Williams.

Joseph was an All-Region selection as a catcher. She will be playing softball at Virginia State next season.

Preston Richardson competes at the Junior Olympics Region III meet in Landover, Md., last weekend, winning both the shot put and discus and qualifying for the national meet in Greensboro, N.C., next week.

Richardson Wins Two Events at Junior Olympics, On To Nationals

Preston Richardson threw a personal-best 55’5.5” in the shot put to win the 2013 Junior Olympics Region III 17-18 male division on Saturday against competition from Virginia, Maryland and Washington, D.C.

A rising senior at Broadwater, Richardson was a dual champion at the Virginia Independent Schools Athletic Association track meet, which included private schools of all sizes. He also won the discus at the two-day event Sunday in Landover, Md., with a throw of 155’2”.

Richardson now qualifies for the National Junior Olympics Championship to be held in Greensboro, N.C., on July 24 and 25.

Tyler Webb Lowers ERA with Hold

Tyler Webb continued his string of strong performances as a professional with his second hold as a reliever for Charleston, pitching a perfect inning Sunday to preserve a one-run lead in a game won by the RiverDogs 5-4.

Since being called up from Staten Island, a Rookie League where he did not allow a hit in five innings, to Class A Charleston, Webb has allowed only one run in six innings for a 1.50 ERA. He has struck out 11 batters while walking only one and has allowed five hits.

Webb, the son of Kirk and Kristen Webb of Nassawadox, is a 2009 Northampton High School graduate who earned 17 saves this season as the closer for the University of South Carolina while making third-team All-American, setting a school record with 110 career appearances as a pitcher.
Flounder Fishing Picking Up; Miller Wins Sea Hawk Tourney

By Bill Sterling

Flounder fishing has picked up on the seaside, just in time for the flounder tournament sponsored by Sea Hawk Sports Center in Pocomoke, Md. Matt Appel said the tourney raised over $500 for a local family in need. Alvin Miller won with a 6 pound, 7 ounce flounder.

According to Appel, flounder can be found both in the inlets and on the rail cars near Black Fish banks. He also caught four nice speckled trout in the northern Tangier Sound last week.

Don’s Tackle Shop said flounder are being taken in the clean water at the old Guard Station, in front of the docks. Flounder are located around the old Coast Guard Station, in front of the docks on the 18-foot drop-off, and across the channel off the Deep Marsh bank. Fish also are found in Horseshoe Lead and in Millstone Creek. Bottom rigs tipped with Gulp and silverside minnows or jigging bucktails tipped with Gulp or Zman have been top producers. On the outgoing tides, look at the mouth of guts for the redworm hatch, as fish will stack up there gorging on the redworms. Use a pink Gulp to imitate them.

On the ocean reefs and wrecks, flounder are stacking up. Also look for cobia and spadefish over shipwrecks, and sea bass and triggerfish on the bottom.

Offshore, the water has been rough this week, but when the weather improves, look for bluefin on Lumpy Bottom and Sam’s Hill. Yellowfins and bigeye tuna have been concentrated on the north tip of the Washington Canyon.

Bayside fishing is scattered, according to Don. The Ditch at Wise Point has concentrations of Sand Mullet, some large spot and croakers around the bridge. Redfish can be found from the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel up the shore on sand bars, mostly on the outside of creek mouths. Casting scented plastics on jigheads and using shrimp on bottom rigs have been most effective. Cobia have covered up the bay from the CBBDT north to the towers off Silver Beach. Sight casting to cruising fish or anchored up chumming has produced.

Chris at Chris Bait and Tackle said there are reports of flounder around the little bridge. Flounder also have been around Buoys 36-42 in 30-60 feet of water. Spadefish have been at Plantation Light, high rise and fourth island. Croaker are out of Oyster but have been small. Spot are in the mix around Oyster, Lattimer Shoal and off Cape Charles. Cobia are still doing well; you just have to deal with a bunch of sharks and rays, according to Chris.

Sea mullets are still abundant around Lattimer Shoals and Cape Charles. Tarpon are now visible rolling out on the seaside. Chris said a few have been hooked. The Cell also is starting to heat up with spadefish and flounder.

The report at Steve’s Bait and Tackle on Chincoteague is that the summer is heating up with a lot of croaker coming into the bay. There has been a consistent kingfish bite near the inlet, and a good number of flounder still being caught in Chincoteague Bay for this time of year, with multiple people limiting out. The surf action continues to be hot with kingfish, croaker, and spot.

At Capt. Bob’s Marina, flounder are being caught in Chincoteague Channel, also known as Flounder Alley. Also, more flatties have been landed between Daisy’s Dockside and past Lewis Channel, near the high school.

Some nice-sized ones are being caught in Assateague Channel, directly in front of East Side Marina.

Offshore, bluefin and yellowfin tuna are being caught about 28 miles off, near the parking lot, and a few near Lumpy Bottom. Although trolling with ballyhoo has been the favored method, some blue-water anglers have started chunking with butterfish. A nice bonus for the costly trip, in addition to the tuna, is mahi-mahi, in the 20- to 30-pound range.
Ruritan's Bayside Poker Run July 27

Pungoteague Ruritan Club will sponsor a small-boat “poker run” Saturday, July 27, on the Chesapeake Bay and adjoining creeks in the club’s community service area.

Any boat owner may register to participate. It is not a race, but simply boaters choosing their own course and pace to locate and visit five pre-chosen locations designated on a nautical chart with notes and guidelines.

Registration, which is limited to 30 boats, is $75 and captains may include as many crew members aboard as Coast Guard regulations allow. After July 19, registration will be $85 up to the morning of the event. Registration forms are available from any Pungoteague Ruritan member or by calling Paul Custis at 789-1766. They also are available at Sandpiper Marine, Western Auto in Exmore, Shore Marine, Davis Wharf Marine, Don’s Tackle Shop, K&E Marine, Deep Creek Marina, Wachapreague Marina, Seaworthy Marine, and Eastern Shore Outfitters.

Competition in the event will be in two parts. In the “navigational skill” part, boaters will plot a course to “log in” at five specific locations within designated time allowances. These locations will be spread among Onancock, Pungoteague, Nandua, and Occohannock creeks and will be disclosed to all captains simultaneously at a meeting on the morning of the event. Points in this competition also will be earned in “survivor” type challenges in various activities.

The “luck” part of the event will involve boaters picking up a playing card at each of the five locations and bringing a poker hand at 5 p.m. to a final destination where they will disclose their hands and submit their navigation sheets.

The navigation prize will be $350 or more and the poker prize will be a fall vacation getaway package. Additional “dock prize” drawings will be held for fishing gear, boating accessories, and other marine items. Complimentary hot dogs and hamburgers will be served during the awards ceremony at a beach setting.

A raffle associated with the event provides three chances to win a Billy Crockett carving, a Willie Crockett original painting or a Karen Pruitt print. You need not be present to win.

Proceeds from this event will benefit the club’s college scholarship program and its handicapped access ramp project fund.

In Loving Memory Of Our Sister
LINDA TAYLOR
2/18/49 - 7/23/12
We knew little that morning
God was to call your name.
In life we loved you dearly;
in death we do the same.
It broke our hearts to lose you,
You did not go alone.
For part of us went with you to the day God called you home.
You left us beautiful memories,
Your love is still our guide,
And though we cannot see you,
You are always at our side.
Our family is broken,
and nothing seems the same,
But as God calls us one by one,
The chain will link again.
We Love & Miss You!
Love, Pat, Rachel, Rose & Phyllis

We are deeply saddened by the passing of Chester Savage. This is a very difficult time for all of us. Your presence helped to lighten our burden. We are grateful for your company and would like to hear your lovely memories of him.

Family, Neighbors and Friends:
We would like to express our gratitude and appreciation for the acts of kindness and the outpouring of love shown to us during the recent loss of our mother, Florence T. Lucey. The cards, the flowers and the donated food we received not only nourished our bodies but our souls as well. Special thanks are given to Guy Doughty, director Doughty Funeral Home, whose expertise and empathy made the unbearable bearable. Also to our Hospice Social Worker Peggy K., Hospice Nurses, Kathy B. and Teresa K., Hospice Nursing Assistants, Rob-in, Tina, and Monica who provided not only compassionate care to our mother in her final days but also strength and guidance to our family. To her personal care givers, Betty M., Thomas E. and Susan W., we are eternally grateful as they loved, soothed and comforted our mother as she transitioned. Lastly, we wish to thank Father Michael Breslin, Deacon Don Donovan, Mike Flanagan, Susan Kovacs, Dolores Bohi, Chris Bannon, Ed DeAngelis, Alicea Brady, Mary Surrin, Marion Simonsen and all the parishioners of St. Charles R.C. Church who provided for and/or attended the beautiful celebration of life service for mom. Special thanks to Marion Simonsen and the members of the Parish Life Committee who provided the food for the repast. May God continue to bless you.

First off, I want to say that Eastern Shore folks are mighty nice to those who use a cane or a motorized cart. I’ve had perfect strangers volunteer to help put groceries in my trunk. And doors were opened more times than I can count. I am surely thankful.

Unfortunately, I also have other observations. Yeah, you knew that was coming, didn’t you?

Before this major knee issue started, I thought people who used canes had a hard time with balance or something. It never really occurred to me that they are in pain. For some reason, I associated discomfort and agony with a walker but not with a cane. It seems rather snazzy.

By the way, I was taking pictures on a pier in the middle of nowhere on a windy day when my first walking stick blew overboard and floated away. It was a long hike back to the car.

I also wrongly thought there were too many handicap parking spaces in lots across the Shore and everywhere else I’ve ever been. Now I know there never will be enough of those spaces and they will never be up for grabs when I need them or if they are, they will be entirely too far away from where I am going.

Also, there are sadly many men and women out there holding on to their shopping carts with all of their might because they are too proud or embarrassed to do anything else. Listen up, you guys. Grab a little go-cart and GO. Those things can whip around really fast and are FUN.

There are several stores on the Shore that have scooters, which customers can use to take in their vastness. These are in high demand. Sometimes one has to hoof it to find one. And other times the machines need to be charged or will go really sloooow. Also, while driving the scooter, watch out for people who are tall because they will fall over you. Their peripheral vision is not aimed at your location. In addition, there are those who are in their own little worlds and could run you down accidentally.

Some of the end aisles at stores are high, so be ready to feel like you are crossing a mountainside road. Full steam ahead! Also, don’t be afraid to voice an “excuse me” to get a crowd to open a path.

I’ve also encountered entryways that are locked at the end of handicap ramps. Yeah, go all the around the building and up some stairs instead. It makes a lot of sense, doesn’t it?

There are some governmental buildings that are prime examples of such access issues. I’m not going to point out which ones because at this writing I don’t know if the surgery will work and I don’t want to irritate anyone. I was recently told my nosing around gets on people’s nerves. To those folks, I am out of commission right now, so relax.

There is one building that is about 100 steps from the handicap space. That can be a very long walk. And some places always seem to have flooding so the walk is longer if you don’t want to get your feet wet or there is an incline that hurts to use. Thankfully, there are elevators around even though I hate closed-in-without-an-escape-route closets. I have been learning to tolerate them for a minute or two. Mind over matter is what a friend tells me. See you soon.

By the time you read this, I will have a partially replaced knee. Yippee! I’m praying that when it’s all over, I will regain my mobility and shout from the end of the driveway and anywhere else that is now a major trek. The surgery took place earlier this week, but since I’m recuperating I wrote this column before that.

There’s been a lot of learning associated with the joint bones that have been grinding together in my right leg. So, I’d like to share what I’ve learned about my surroundings and myself, particularly in the last 12 months.
