Husband & Wife Die When Fire Destroys Their Home

By Linda Cicoira

Two Eastern Shore residents died after being overcome by smoke and carbon dioxide during a fire at their Northampton County home early Sunday morning, according to Deputy Chief Matt Pruitt of Cape Charles Volunteer Fire Company.

The blaze started in a window-unit air conditioner and spread to two rooms of the dwelling, which was destroyed, the firefighter said.

State Police Sgt. Michelle Anaya identified the victims Tuesday as Aaron Winslow Townsend, also known as Shag, 74, and his wife, Valerie Marie Townsend, 47, of Blueberry Drive in the Cheapside area.

Mr. Townsend was well-known in the community for selling potatoes on Lankford Highway across from the U.S. Fuel Citgo Station in Kiptopeke, Chief Eddie Stockton of Cheriton Volunteer Fire Company said.

The fire was reported at about 2:45 a.m. Anaya said an investigator determined the cause to be electrical.

Pruitt said the fire “was contained to the living room and kitchen area” of the 1980s singlewide 70’x14’ mobile home. About 35 firefighters from Cape Charles, Cheriton, Eastville and Nassawadox responded. Northampton Emergency Medical Services and Cape Charles Rescue were also on the scene.

“The two victims were in a back bedroom,” said Stockton. “Smoke and heat got them. That’s a silent killer. Smoke will get you,” he continued, adding, “He was a very nice guy. It was a shame. We got down there as soon as we could. It makes us feel bad. … When we got there, it was fully involved. … The AC (unit) pretty much melted.”

A spokesperson from the Norfolk Medical Examiner’s Office said the bodies were brought there for autopsy. A cause will not be declared until results of toxicology tests come back, which takes about 12 weeks. No surprises are expected, she said.

The Northampton County Board of Supervisors toured the former Northampton County Middle School complex this week to get a first-hand view of the condition of the structure.

The supervisors wanted to assess what repairs need to be done if it is to continue to be used by county and/or outside groups. County Administrator Katie Nunez told the supervisors that leaks have left ceiling tiles covered in mold. She also pointed out leaks in several rooms along the front of the building and damage to one restroom.

Nunez described plans to modify parts of the structure and add a four-bay garage to house the county’s Emergency Medical Services (EMS) Department, should the board approve that option. Nunez said the garage would cost between $300,000 and $400,000.

Currently, the county’s Parks and Recreation Department and Extension Service are based in the building, which dates from the mid-1950’s. It has had several additions, including the newest in 1993.

Nunez said the county must de-

A Delaware boy too young to have a license arrived on the Eastern Shore of Virginia this week driving his father’s car and toting the man’s shotgun. Authorities are accusing the 15-year-old (whose name was not disclosed because of his age) of using the weapon to rob U.S. Fuel Citgo Station on Lankford Highway in the Kiptopeke/Townsend area of Northampton County at about 3:30 a.m. Tuesday. After obtaining the undisclosed amount of cash, the suspect then headed for the first underground passage of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel.

Northampton Sheriff David Doughty speculated that when the boy saw the lights from inside the tunnel, he probably thought there was a roadblock ahead and quickly made a u-turn. His sudden change of direction caused bridge-tunnel police to notice him and a high-speed chase eventually ensued. Doughty said it ended with the boy crashing the vehicle into a ditch at the intersection of Seaside Road and Lankford Highway about two tenths of a mile north of Sunset Beach. There the boy holed up in the car for hours. “Due to the nature of the incident and the safety of passing motorists, Route 13 (Lankford Highway) was closed to traffic,” Doughty reported.

“The suspect refused to exit the vehicle and brandished the firearm out the window at the officers several times,” the sheriff said. At just after 5 a.m., the boy “ exited the vehicle with the gun and pointed it at officers, causing a state trooper and a deputy to discharge their weapons” at him.

The boy was not hit by gunfire and retreated into the car, Doughty said. “The individual involved in this incident is being charged with felony eluding police, robbery and use of a firearm while committing robbery,” Doughty said.

State law allows children older than 14 to be tried as adults. Commonwealth’s Attorney Bruce Jones is off this week. Assistant Commonwealth’s Attorney Beverly Leatherbury said she has not determined if the suspect will be tried as an adult.

Doughty would not release the names of the officers who shot at the boy. According to the sheriff, the suspect had been reported missing by his parents in Delaware.

cide on how best to use the building to comply with requirements for a grant the county previously received from the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA). The grant dates from the period when the county owned the Sustainable Technology Industrial Park (STIP) in Cape Charles. The STIP has since been sold, but the funds from the grant, now estimated at $600,000 must either be returned to the USDA or used for a structure supporting community services.

County Economic Development Director Charles McSwain spoke of the potential use of the building’s former kitchen area by local vegetable growers as a way to promote small businesses.

In a related matter, the supervisors reviewed a request from the School Board for $30,000 to modify a portion of the high school to create a “school in a school.” According to Superintendent Dr. Walter Clemons, the concept is to wall off a portion of the southeast end of the existing high school to use as a middle school. The modification would allow the high school and middle school to operate within one structure, while separating Grades 7 and 8 from Grades 9 through 12.

The one other issue discussed by the board was the funding of Phase I of the Public Service Authority’s (PSA) recommendation to provide wastewater infrastructure from south of Cheriton to the Cape Charles wastewater facility. The area includes approximately 70 commercial parcels, but not pipelines that would run into Cheriton. PSA Chairman Bob Panek said the pipeline likely would be a 3- or 4-inch main with the possibility of a second line.

Nunez provided options for the funding and recommended that the board consider a 25-75 percent special tax district.

The board agreed to advertise for a public hearing to receive input from county residents regarding the options.

It Didn’t Rain on THIS Parade

The thunderstorm which provided the backdrop as approximately 130 ponies swam from Assateague to Chincoteague Wednesday had subsided by the time the Saltwater Cowboys paraded the ponies from the swim site to the carnival grounds. Despite the recent downpour, thousands of spectators lined the streets. The three-day annual celebration continued Thursday with the Pony Auction and Friday with the pony swim back home.
From Hollies Church …

Rev. Joe McKnight said it has been a wondrous circle that has seen volunteers save Hollies Baptist Church near Keller as much as half of a nearly $400,000 addition to the church.

“We have a mission to see everyone in the area has a home that is warm, safe and dry,” said McKnight, pastor for the past 15 years at Hollies.

“Now, many of those who have been helped are helping us to add on to the church and are also working on other homes in the community that need repairs.”

The addition to Hollies now underway will add just over 4,000 square feet of space. But just be careful what you call it.

“Tired director of Virginia Spaceport, who asked McKnight if he could help his group of volunteers.

“If I had a hammer … I’d hammer out having to leave to get a shower or have a meal. It is not for us at the church.”

Last November the church began a fund drive to build the addition and by spring had over $120,000 collected without affecting the church’s budget.

Work began on the addition in early summer. Not long after, McKnight got a call from Billie Reed, retired director of Virginia Spaceport, who asked McKnight if he could help his group of volunteers.

… to Saxis, Help Has Arrived

The old Peter, Paul and Mary song said, “If I had a hammer … I’d hammer out love between my brothers and sisters all over this land.”

This week, about 300 youth from all over this state were hammering throughout the Shore and sending messages of love to needy homeowners.

It was all part of the project, Impact Virginia, sponsored by the Virginia Baptist Mission, involving rising seventh graders to seniors. Coordinated locally by Rev. Will Baker of Drummondtown Baptist Church in Accomac, the week-long mission involved 16 work teams of 20 youth each, spread from Saxis to Exmore.

At some sites, youth were repairing roofs. At others, they were replacing floors in porches and giving the steps a fresh coat of paint.

As she helped replace a roof in Onancock, Allison Capps, 18, said, “The best part of the week is meeting a lot of people your age who have the same beliefs and the desire to help others.”

Savannah Britt said, “Serving God and seeing the faces of homeowners when you finish your work makes the effort worthwhile.”

The youth not only gave up a week of their summer vacation, they also paid up to $300 to cover their expenses.

Each afternoon at 4, the youth, who hailed from all parts of Virginia, returned to Metompkin Elementary School, where they showered in temporary trailers and were fed from a mobile food unit that is capable of serving 900 meals. The trailers and food unit are part of the Virginia Baptist Mission disaster relief efforts. Following a worship service, the youth had some free time before retiring at 11p.m.

Up at 6 the next day, the youth were served breakfast before a morning worship service, then branched out to worksites by 8 a.m. The groups were deliberately mixed with youth from different churches to expand the friendships formed during the week.

Local churches, with coordination from Geneva Lotspeich through the Women’s Missionary Unit, brought lunches to the worksites each day.

Ministers, adult chaperones and volunteers with a construction background filled out the teams and provided direction.

“My name is Halley Mosteley and I’m having fun and making new friends,” said Halley. “The only bad part of the week for me is standing in line every night, waiting for the showers to open up.”

Rev. Dennis Milam of Westwood Baptist Church in Springfield, Va., worked with a group replacing a porch at a Keller home. “This home needs a lot more love than we can give it in a week,” he said, “but it certainly will be greatly improved for us having been here.”

Rev. Baker said the homes were selected by the Social Services department of both Accomack and Northampton counties and the Eastern Shore Area Agency for Aging. “Several of the homes, including the ones on Saxis, needed repairs from the damage by Sandy last fall,” said Rev. Baker.

He added that 84 Lumber had been generous in providing building materials.

The youth took off Wednesday afternoon to enjoy themselves at local beaches, restaurants and other recreation areas.

Rev. Lee Farmer of Coan Baptist Church of Northumberland, working with the group at the Onancock site, said, “The youth learn new skills while understanding the importance of teamwork on a project like this. They come motivated to work.”

High schooler Halley Mosteley said she was having fun and making new friends, but lamented, “The only bad part of the week for me is standing in line every night, waiting for the showers to open up.”

Leadership issues dominated the Exmore Town Council meeting last week, as they have at the last few sessions.

Concerns over procedures and actions by Town Manager Zeke Jackson resulted in a closed meeting with representatives of the Virginia Municipal League and John Anzavina of Springsted Inc. and. Council hired Springsted at the end of 2012, at a cost of approximately $16,000, to locate viable candidates for town manager. Anzavina and the Virginia Municipal League representatives left the closed session without comment.

Jackson, who has been on the job approximately five months, said after the session that he has accepted a position with another municipality and would be leaving the area soon. Jackson has been offered an administrative position in Sister Bay, Wis.

Exmore will be advertising for his replacement.

Mayor Doug Greer and Jackson announced the results of a recent public survey to ascertain satisfaction with the way the town is being led. Of the more than 600 surveys sent out, 72 (about 11 percent) were returned. While most respondents agreed that the town is in better shape than in the past, there were a number of comments in opposition to certain recent actions taken by the mayor, council and/or town manager. The majority of the respondents agreed that the Police and Public Works departments are doing a good job.

In other business, council unanimously approved a water conservation plan as a precaution, should the need to cut back on water use arise. The town has a water withdrawal permit that limits water usage. If water usage continues at its present rate, some form of water restriction might be necessary before the end of the year. The conservation measures range from reuse of water at home to limitations on outside water use to water lawns or wash vehicles. Extreme measures could result in a moratorium on new connections and reductions on home usage.

In a related area, council voted to move forward with efforts to drill a new well for the town. At a cost of approximately $424,000 the well might be online by the end of 2014. The current well that provides water for the town dates to the 1950s.

In a final action of the evening, the Council voted to push the Town Yard Sale back from the fall of 2013 to the spring of 2014.

At the beginning of last week’s session, Councilman Robert Duer was sworn into office by Circuit Court Clerk Traci Johnson, as was Mayor Greer, whom Duer replaced.

Court Appeal Delays Renovation of Old Cape Charles School

The USACE has indicated that it cannot justify the cost of the dredging that would benefit only one company.

During a brief discussion regarding possible commercial development along Lankford Highway in the vicinity of the Cape Charles traffic signal, Councilman Frank Wendell stated his opposition to the town supporting such development as it would harm local businesses. Councilwoman Joan Natali and Councilman Steve Bennett noted that council had not pressed for the development there but that it had been recommended by the Public Service Authority (PSA). Councilman Chris Bannon noted that a simple solution might be for the town to seek a boundary adjustment out to the traffic light and then any commercial development would be in or near town.

Testerman provided an update from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) regarding flood insurance rate maps and modifications to the flood zones in town. The maps can be found at www.rampp-team.com/va.htm.

Mayor Dora Sullivan discussed the issue of a medical facility to provide 24/7 emergency care in the area. She noted that the county Board of Supervisors had created an ad-hoc committee to study alternatives that might be provided by Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital once it moves to Onley. Council agreed to submit Sullivan’s name for consideration to the committee.

Sullivan noted that the town needs to continue looking for its own alternatives to the problem of little or no emergency medical care being available to the citizens of the lower end of the county after the hospital moves.

Dave Tyler Is Always Looking for A Game

Last week, Dave Tyler was at his camp showing a boy how to throw a baseball. He was in his element, striding toward the catcher, demonstrating the proper arm angle.

Trim as ever, Tyler has been hanging around baseball fields since he was a young boy growing up in Charles City, Va.

That has been some time now, but Tyler is not saying exactly how long.

Asked his age, Tyler said, “Aw, I forget. What did Satchel Paige say? ‘How old would you be if you didn’t know how old you are?’”

Tyler first moved to the Eastern Shore in 1969 when he was doing field work for the Virginia Institute of Marine Science. He had previously worked with NOAA, having earned a degree in physics from Elon College.

When VIMS offered a transfer after four years here, Tyler decided he wanted to remain on the Eastern Shore, opened a marine railway in Wachapreague and repaired boats.

But he has never been far from a baseball field. For over 20 years, he managed the Virginia Shores, a baseball team involving players of wide-ranging ages. Before that, he was involved in some loosely organized leagues that would play anyone who could field a team.

“We had some good years,” Tyler recalls. “The Shore has produced a lot of talent, but as time went on, it was difficult to know if you were going to have enough players to field a team some days. Plus, the traffic on weekends got so bad I didn’t feel like fighting it anymore.”

Tyler has a hard time understanding why anyone would choose to do anything over playing baseball.

He was the one who rounded up every kid in the neighborhood as a boy to get a game going. He played briefly at William and Mary, then recalls not so fondly three years in the Marines during the Korean War because “it was the only time of my life I wasn’t playing baseball.”

Once out of the service, he signed with the San Francisco Giants. At the time, almost every town of any size had a minor league team. Tyler wound up playing in several leagues and numerous states.

“I had no aspirations of making it to the majors,” says Tyler. “I just wanted to play ball.”

He played in dust storms in Oklahoma and on nights in Montana so cold they burned the bench to stay warm.

He even arranged his wedding to his wife Dolores, an art major from UCLA, to fit into the baseball schedule. But when the first of four children arrived, he decided to get a real job.

His two sons, David Jr. and Wat, followed him on baseball diamonds throughout their youth. Wat, now 50, still plays baseball on teams that get together on weekends looking for a game.

During the years Tyler spent in the Hampton Roads area, he served as a batting practice pitcher for the Tidewater Tides, pitching to future major league players.

“I would rush home from work and go out to the park every night. Just putting on those sanitary white socks made me feel like I hadn’t done a lick of work all day,” recalls Tyler.

In his years on the Shore, Tyler has umpired all levels of baseball, working mostly middle-school games this past season.

He also served as a scout for the Baltimore Orioles for many years and remembers a tryout held in Pocomoke one year.

“Dick Bowie, who was the area’s supervisor of scouts at the time, always timed the players in the 60-yard dash. Anything under seven seconds was pretty good. One day, we had timed everyone when two guys in this old car pulled up after Dick had put away the stopwatch,” Tyler recalls.

“I said, ‘You might want to time these two guys.’ So, he pulled out the stopwatch and told the guys to run. They got out of the car without any warm-up and took off. Dick looked at his watch and said he didn’t get the time right because it said 6.3 or 6.4 seconds. They ran it again, and he got the same time.”

One of the runners was a young Bobby Brown, who Bowie followed through high school and signed to an Oriole contract. Brown, who befriended Tyler, turned down a basketball scholarship to Norfolk State and eventually made the major leagues, playing for the New York Yankees and San Diego Padres, carving out a reputation as a superb defensive center fielder and base stealer.

Tyler has run his summer camp for about 10 years now, preaching fundamentals and passing on the love of a game filled with great stories.

But he keeps moving forward, always happiest when he is on a baseball diamond. It was also Satchel Paige who said, “Don’t look back. Something might be gaining on you.”
On Tuesday, July 16, at Memorial Park Courts, adults and youth enjoyed the morning learning about the game of tennis. They practiced their skills with Linda Mormile, a certified USPTA instructor, and Debbie Ullmann, a Community Tennis Association of Chincoteague volunteer. Youth participants included Gavin Daisey, Avmarie Backich, Tyler Merritt, Zoey Merritt, Billy Reed, Bailey Wolfe, Abby Kambarn, Gregory Oehm, Emma Faith, William Ergle, Andrew Ergle, and Karyssa Evens. Adult participants included Evamarie Konow-Backich and Clyde Morris.

A second free lesson, which is open to residents and visitors, will be conducted on Tuesday, Aug. 13. Lessons for adults (16+) will be from 9 to 10 a.m. and for youths (7-15) from 10:15 to 11:15 a.m. Participants must wear tennis shoes. Water, hats, and sunscreen are suggested. Racquets will be provided for those without.

Ken Schultz To Speak on Fishing

Ken Schultz will speak about the many opportunities for recreational fishing on Virginia’s Eastern Shore on Aug. 27 at 7 p.m. at Eastern Shore Public Library in Accomac.

He will discuss the primary species caught locally, seasonal opportunities, and access points, as well as answer questions about gear and fishing from different types of watercraft and piers.

Schultz retired to the Shore after a career as a journalist, author, and broadcaster for ESPN and staff writer for Field and Stream magazine. He is an avid photographer and kayaker, and represents the Eastern Shore on the Virginia Marone Resources Commission’s Recreational Fisheries Advisory Board.

The event is sponsored by the Friends of the Library. Light refreshments will be served.
Flounder Fishing Unusually Good for July Up and Down the Shore

By Bill Sterling

Flounder fishing is seeing some of its best action of the year, according to reports up and down the Eastern Shore.

Matt Appel of Sea Hawk Sports Center says the water temps on the seaside are relatively cool for this time of year, helping flounder action.

Donna Roeske of Captain Bob’s Marina said, “Although the weather surely feels like July, the fishing finally feels like May. The flounder bite has taken off not only in the back bay waters but at the inshore wrecks as well. Anglers are coming back to the docks with pretty catches.”

Donna added, “Still holding strong is the Chincoteague Channel — anywhere from Capt. Bob’s north to the high school. I cannot stress enough — if you don’t have Gulp as part of your bait lineup, you are reducing your chances of keeper flounder by a huge percentage. A tandem rig is the preferred tackle, topping the hooks with bucktail or mylar teasers. Don’t waste your time sweltering in the heat fishing any tide but high tide — a few hours before and a few hours after does the trick.”

Regulations for flounder require keepers to be at least 16” and you can keep four per person.

At Wachapreague Marina, they say flounder fishing at Wachapreague is as good as it has been all year. A lot of anglers are getting their limit. Silversides and big minnows are the best bet. Cedar Island and in front of the Old Coast Guard Station close to the marsh are the hot spots.

Ron Greaser at Don’s Tackle Shop on Wachapreague Road, agrees. “Flounder fishing at Wachapreague is as good as it has been all year. After a slow spring season, July flounder fishing is outstanding. A visiting crew yesterday from North Carolina found 21 keeper flounder on both sides of Cedar Island and around the old Coast Guard Station.”

He adds that local fishermen and charters found good fishing the last two hours before high tide. Water clarity was optimum. Silversides and bull minnows were top producers, along with jigging bucktails tipped with minnows or scented plastics. Sand mullet and a few croaker are available in the bay inside Cedar Island.

Chris at Chris’ Bait and Tackle says there are reports of flounder out of Oyster, with anglers finding clear water. Spadefish, sheepshead and some triggers have been around Plantation Light, the bridge-tunnel and the third and fourth islands. Puppy drum have been around the seaside and bayside speckled trout areas along with some specks. Some spot have been in the mix off the piers and also while fishing for mullet.

On the bayside, try the channel at Mudhole in Pungoteague Creek for croakers, sand mullet and some gray trout. Also look for the same bottom feeders on the Occohannock in deeper holes by marker #10 and on the two fish reefs just west of both creeks. Cobia are on the towers and navigation buoys, taken by chumming and sight casting. Speckled trout still can be taken in the creeks and on the flats, with incoming tides in low light times being the best bet.

On the wrecks and reefs in the ocean some keeper sea bass, triggerfish, cobia and good numbers of flounder are available. Mahi are also in the mix.

Offshore, the action will be in Wachapreague this week for the annual Eastern Shore Marlin Tournament as anglers will fish two of three days through Sunday.

In other tournament action, more than 30 youth have signed up for the Youth Croaker Tournament which starts tomorrow and concludes with an awards ceremony on Aug. 10, where prizes — including a trip for four to Busch Gardens in Williamsburg — will be awarded.

Effective August 5, 2013, the Town of Exmore will enact and enforce the following Ordinance
ORDINANCE NO. 178

AN ORDINANCE TO ESTABLISH RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR WATER EMERGENCIES AND CONSERVATION BE IT ORDAINED BY THE TOWN COUNCIL OF THE TOWN OF EXMORE, VIRGINIA THAT:

(a) Purposes and authority to declare water emergencies. For purposes of this ordinance, unless the context clearly requires a contrary meaning, the term “water” shall mean potable water withdrawn from any water utility system that is owned and/or operated by the Town of Exmore.

In the event of an actual or anticipated shortage of potable water due to climatic, hydrological, mechanical, and/or other extraordinary conditions, the Town of Exmore may determine that certain uses of water should be reduced, restricted, curtailed and/or prohibited. These reductions, restrictions, curtailments and/or prohibitions are intended to protect the health, safety and welfare of the residents of the Town of Exmore.

The Town Manager, with the approval of the Mayor and Council, or its subsequent ratification within forty-eight (48) hours is authorized to declare water emergencies in the town, as a whole or portions thereof, affecting the use of water.

(b) Water conservation measures. After the declaration of a water emergency and upon a determination by the Town Manager of the existence of the following one or more conditions, the Town Manager shall take the following actions which shall apply to any person whose water supply is furnished from the Town of Exmore public water utility system:

(1) Condition 1. When moderate but limited supplies of water are available, the Town Manager shall, through appropriate means, call upon the affected population and entities to employ prudent restraint in water usage and to conserve water voluntarily by whatever methods available.

(2) Condition 2. The Town Manager is hereby further authorized during the duration of a water emergency for which voluntary measures would be insufficient to order the restriction of or prohibition of any or all of the following uses of the water supply.

a. Watering of outside shrubbery, trees, lawns, grass, plants, home vegetable gardens, nurseries, commercial greenhouses, nursery stocks and sod growing, except from a watering can or other container not exceeding five (5) gallons in capacity. This limitation shall not apply to commercial greenhouses, nursery stocks and sod growing, which may be watered in the minimum amount required to preserve plant life between 6:00 pm and 8:00 am.

b. Washing of automobiles, trucks, trailers, or any other type of mobile equipment, except in licensed commercial vehicle wash facilities.

c. Washing of sidewalks, streets, driveways, parking lots, service station aprons, exteriors of homes or apartments, commercial or industrial buildings or any other outdoor surface, except where mandated by federal, state or local law.

d. The operation of any ornamental fountain or other structure making a similar use of water.

e. The filling of swimming or wading pools requiring more than five (5) gallons of water, or the rehilling of swimming or wading pools that were drained after the effective date of the declaration of emergency, except that pools may be refilled to a level of two (2) feet below normal, or water may be added to bring the level to two (2) feet below normal, or as necessary to protect the structure from hydrostatic damage.

f. The use of water during outdoor recreational activities. This limitation shall not apply to water utilized for drinking and sanitary purposes during such activities.

(g) The use of water for any purposes other than fire suppression and related training exercises, unless otherwise approved by the Town Manager.

h. The serving of drinking water in restaurants, except upon request.

i. The operation of any water-cooled comfort air conditioning unit that does not have water-conserving equipment in operation.

(3) Condition 3. In addition to the restrictions and prohibitions authorized under subsection 2 above, the Town Manager is hereby further authorized during the duration of a water emergency to implement any or all of the following:

a. Industrial, institutional, commercial, governmental, wholesale and all other nonresidential customers shall be allotted a percentage reduction based on that customers’ average monthly water consumption for the same billing period of the previous calendar years’ consumption.

b. Individual residential customers shall be limited to a specific volumetric or percentage reduction of water per month.

c. Declaration of a moratorium on new and expanded connections to the public water utility system, unless such connections are primarily intended and designed to provide fire protection and/or potable drinking water to lawfully permitted residential or nonresidential buildings that are existing or subsequently constructed at the time that a water emergency is declared.

(4) Condition 4. When critically limited supplies of water are available, the Town Manager shall restrict the use of water to purposes, which are absolutely essential to life, health and safety. Such permitted uses of water may include, but may not be limited to, the provision of limited quantities of water for drinking and sanitation purposes to residents, health care facility patients and/or emergency shelter evacuees, who are unable to utilize their potable water supplies due to the loss of electrical power, storm events or other natural or man-made causes.

(f) Failure to address leaks. It shall be unlawful for the owner of any residential Unit or units or the owner of any commercial or industrial establishment, which is found to be an excessive user of water due to leakage from waterlines or plumbing fixtures on the premises, to fail to take immediate action to repair and to stop such leakage after being so ordered by the Town Manager or his agent.

(g) Effective date: The imposition of the restrictions above shall become effective upon publication in any newspaper of general circulation in the Town of Exmore, or broadcast upon any radio or television station serving the Town of Exmore.

(7) Appeals for exemptions. Upon implementation of subsections (2), (3) or (4) above, the Town Manager shall establish an appeals procedure for customer applications for exemptions from the provisions of subsections (2), (3) or (4) on a case-by-case basis and, if warranted, to make equitable adjustments to such provisions. The Town Manager shall also be empowered to establish regulations governing the granting of temporary exemptions applicable to all or some of the uses of the water supply set forth in subsections (2), (3) or (4). The Town Manager shall, in rendering a decision on such applications, balance the economic and other hardships to the applicant resulting from the imposition of water use restrictions or allocations against the individual and cumulative impacts to the water supply resulting from the granting of such exemptions and may impose reasonable conditions to ensure compliance with the terms of the exemption.

Any person subject to a decision rendered by the Town Manager under this section may appeal such decision to the Mayor and Council. The appeal shall be in writing and shall be submitted to the Town Manager, as agent for and clerk to the Mayor and Council.

The Town Manager may issue temporary waivers or exemptions within the provisions of this section for such periods of time as may be necessary for the Mayor and Council to formally consider action on the appeal. The Mayor and Council shall render on the appeal and may: affirm, with or without modification, the Town Manager’s decision; or approve the requested exemption, with or without modification. The Mayor and Council may impose reasonable conditions to ensure compliance with the terms of any exemption granted hereunder.

Any decision rendered by the Mayor and Council shall be subject to remedies provided by statute.

(a) Penalty for violation. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance, or of any of the conservation regulations promulgated hereunder, shall, upon conviction thereof, be subject to a fine of $250.00. Each act or each day’s continuation of a violation shall be deemed a separate offense.

In addition to the foregoing, the Town Manager may suspend public water utility service to any person continuing to violate the provisions of this ordinance or the regulations promulgated hereunder.

If such public water utility service is terminated, the person shall pay a reconnection fee of fifty ($50.00) before service is restored.

(b) Declaration of end of water emergency. The Town Manager shall notify the Mayor and Council when, in his opinion, the water emergency situation no longer exists. Upon concurrence of the Mayor and Council, the water emergency shall be declared to have ended.

The Town Manager is hereby further authorized to declare water emergencies in the town, as a whole or portions thereof, affecting the use of water.

CBBT Does Need New Tunnel

Dear Editor:

After over a year of deliberation, the Chesapeake Bay Bridge and Tunnel (CBBT) Commission recently approved a resolution to begin construction of a parallel tunnel under Thimble Shoals Channel as soon as financially possible. The goal of completing a parallel two-lane facility to complement the original crossing has been planned since 1987. Unfortunately, financial constraints prevented achievement of this goal when the first phase of the Parallel Crossing Project was finished in 1999. Now, due to a combination of careful and conservative financial planning, historically low interest rates and low-cost federal financing sources, we are poised to be able to deliver on the promise of prior commissions.

CBBT parallel tunnels often are perceived to be necessary only to handle traffic growth that the existing bi-directional tunnels cannot. This is only one of many variables studied by the Joint Legislative Audit Review Commission, the Virginia General Assembly, VDOT, and third-party traffic engineering firms.

However, unlike other marine crossings in the Hampton Roads region, the CBBT lacks a viable alternative route in the event of an emergency closure. An extended interruption of CBBT access could be economically devastating to both Shore counties and would disrupt a critical travel link to the tourism-dependent cities of Hampton Roads and the region's military bases. Access to critical medical facilities for Eastern Shore residents could be cut off.

Both of the existing tunnels are 50 years old. Ordinary maintenance creates an average of 1,400 hours of tunnel lane closures per year, increasing crossing times. This does not include closure for major repairs such as the project slated for later this year.

According to a recent travel-time analysis performed by third-party consulting engineers, the number of motorists experiencing delays and the total hours of delay will more than double by 2030, with over 693,800 users experiencing over 83,400 hours of delay each year.

The United States’ slow economic recovery has created an aggressive bidding environment for major infrastructure projects. At the same time, interest rates for municipal market debt remain near all-time lows. Importantly, a toll increase now would help the CBBT establish the strongest credit rating possible, further reducing borrowing costs.

The impact on local users is minimal, with a proposed 24-hour round trip rate that increases only by $1, preserving the commuter rate of $5 per trip. Seasonal travelers will bear the majority of the rate increase.

Time costs money. The CBBT Commission intends to utilize three initiatives to advance the construction timeline. First, the financing plan anticipates using the Transportation Infrastructure Finance and Innovation Act loan program to accelerate the project by several years and potentially save over $100 million in project costs. Second, the commission intends to use a Design-Build procurement method for additional savings. Finally, the commission has proposed increasing the current toll schedule, which will generate revenue to advance the project by several years and potentially save another $100 million.

Because we did not receive federal or state funding, our financial models show that a financing plan without a toll increase leaves a future funding gap well over $400 million.

We want to hear from the public before making a final decision. Visit www.cbbt.com/IS2013.html to learn more about the project and the public information sessions to be held in Onley, Eastville, Norfolk and Hampton. Written comments to the commission may be emailed to marketing@cbbt.com.
