Today marks the 50th anniversary of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, an event that changed America and is one of those milestones in history that almost everyone alive at the time can recall exactly where they were when they heard the news.

Thomas Murray of Accomac was a journalist covering Capitol Hill for the Asbury Park Press and the Jersey City Journal and happened to be at the White House that fateful day.

“I was interviewing Andrew Hatcher, the first black person to serve in the White House press office, when I heard five bells go off on the UPI wire service,” Murray recalled. “I knew it was important from the number of bells ringing. I read a story from Merriman Smith coming across the wire that said President Kennedy had been shot.”

Smith was a Pulitzer Prize-winning wire service reporter on the scene in Dallas. Murray, then 25, believes he was the lone reporter at the White House at the time because all the UPI and AP reporters were in Dallas covering the president’s trip.

“I walked outside the White House and saw maybe 100 people lining up at the iron picket fence that surrounds the White House grounds,” said Murray. “Before long, the throng grew to over 1,000. Many had transistor radios to their ears.

“And then I will never forget the scene of a maintenance man walking slowly to the flag pole, where the American flag was flying. He looked to be trembling and sobbing as he walked. When he lowered the flag to half mast, I never heard such screaming and sobbing. I remember a black lady with a colorful hat crying, ‘Oh God, don’t let it be true. Let him live, God. Let him live!’ ”

Murray filed stories that ran the next day in his two newspapers describing the scene at the White House in the moments after the news that President Kennedy had been assassinated reached Washington.

Only five months before, Murray had been in Berlin when President Kennedy made his famous “Ich bin ein Berliner” speech. Murray had served in the U.S. Army Special Services in Europe, playing honky-tonk piano and dancing the Charleston. With the help of some American Army GIs, Murray put a piano loaded with speakers on a truck and played George M. Cohan’s “I’m a Yankee Doodle Dandy” when the president’s motorcade stopped briefly at an intersection while thousands of Berliners chanted “Kennedy, Kennedy.”

“President Kennedy acknowledged my playing of the famous World War I song,” said Murray. “I was a great admirer of President Kennedy and was saddened at his death.”

Growing up in New Jersey, Murray learned to play the piano and classics from the honky-tonk era when schools were closed during World War II so the heating oil could be used for American troops. As a young child, he was sent to stay with his grandmother during school closures. “I can’t read a note, but she had an old Victrola and played those records all the time. I sat down at the piano and could soon play those songs,” said Murray.

Now 75, Murray mixed politics and journalism in an interesting career. A graduate of the University of Maryland’s School of Journalism, he was a Washington correspondent for 14 of the Hearst newspapers during the Vietnam War and the emerging candidacy (Continued on Page 6)
Lewis Captures Senate Nomination

By Linda Cicoira

Del. Lynwood Lewis, an Accomack lawyer, secured the Democratic Party’s nomination Saturday to seek election to the 6th District State Senate seat. If elected, the process would likely begin again to fill Lewis’ delegate post.

“I want to thank … voters for the support they have shown me today,” Lewis stated on his campaign website Sunday. “Congratulations to Paula Miller and Andria McClellan (both of whom sought the nomination), for running campaigns about important issues. I look forward to working with both of them.”

Final caucus results showed Lewis winning in Mathews and both Eastern Shore counties. In total, he got 2,658 votes.

Miller, a former delegate, took Norfolk and Virginia Beach. Her total was 1,292. McClellan got a total of 929 votes, but did not win in any of the areas.

Figures relayed by Larry Keefe, chairman of the 6th Senate District Democratic Nominating Caucus, were: Lewis 731, McClellan 29 and Miller 21 in Northampton; Lewis 1,513, McClellan 51 and Miller 29 in Accomack; Lewis 274, McClellan 778 and Miller 1,173 in Norfolk; Lewis 3, McClellan 18 and Miller 23 in Virginia Beach; and Lewis 137, McClellan 53 and Miller 48 in Mathews.

The governor has not set a date for the special election because before he does so, Lt. Gov.-Elect Ralph Northam must resign from his Senate seat.

Republicans were holding their caucuses for Northam’s seat Thursday at press time. Seeking that party’s nomination are Wayne Coleman, CEO and owner of CV International Inc. in Norfolk; and Richard Ottinger and John Coggeshall, both Norfolk attorneys.

Accomack County Supervisor Ron Wolff already is gearing up for a Lewis win. Wolff announced this week that if Lewis moves up to the Senate, he would seek the Democratic nomination for delegate of the 100th District.

“It’s something I’ve been thinking about for awhile,” said Wolff, who lives in Assawoman and has a restaurant in Atlantic. “The opportunity only presents itself one time,” he continued. “I’d probably regret it if I didn’t try. I think I’ve had a pretty good experience since I’ve been on the board” of supervisors for the last 11 years.

Wolff has held about 120 informational meetings for his constituents and said he has learned what is important to them. “We are all looking for clean water, jobs, good education.”

Donald Hart, an active Democrat and chairman of the Accomack Board of Supervisors, would not give a definite answer about his interest in the delegate post. “I am considering it after many people have contacted me and encouraged me,” he said Wednesday. “However, at this time it is premature to make any announcements as … Northam has not resigned, no election date for the Senate has been set and Republicans have not chosen a candidate for Senate.”

“Our focus right now as Democrats should be to get Lyn Lewis elected to the Senate, not to focus on a future possible race,” Hart remarked.

Animal Control provides food and shelter to abandoned, unwanted, lost or stray kittens, cats, dogs, and puppies. They place more animals per year than any other group on The Eastern Shore. Some animals do not make it. Animal Control, however, does their best to reunite those lost pets with their families, find rescue groups that will take the animals until they are adopted and even provides adoption services at their facility. This is only a fraction of what Animal Control does and is responsible for in our community. Right now, Animal Control needs your help in providing suitable food for their kittens. They desperately need canned food that is ground up or paté in any of the following brands: Special Kitty (Walmart), Home 360 (Food Lion), 9-Lives, and Purina. Animal Control contributes so much to our community that is not known or even recognized by our citizens and now they need our help. Shore Woman Hurt in Fatal Crash

By Linda Cicoira

A Cape Charles woman was injured last week in a fatal crash in James City County, according to State Police.

Sgt. Michelle Anaya reported that Carolyn L. Duff, 68, of Randolph Street was airlifted to the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond after her vehicle and another collided at around 3 p.m. last Thursday, Nov. 14, on Interstate 64 West in James City County.

Trooper D. Weymouth-German determined that after impact, the 2003 Chrysler Town & Country driven by Lauren Michele Monroe, 43, of Manassas, Va., slid into the median, ran off the road, and struck a tree, partially ejecting her. Monroe was not wearing a seatbelt. She died at the scene.

The other vehicle, a 2005 Subaru, driven by Duff, also slid into the median and ran off the road. It then struck a “high tension wire impact attenuator … before overturning,” Anaya said.

No charges were filed.

The investigation is continuing, the sergeant said.

Atlantic Town Center Gets Thumbs Down from Accomack Supervisors

By Linda Cicoira

The PUD is a dud.

Accomack supervisors denied a proposed conditional rezoning amendment Wednesday night that would allow the first planned unit development in the county to become a reality.

Best known as Atlantic Town Center (ATC), Developer Chris Carbaugh’s plan for Wattsville was nixed due to concerns about a sewage plant he wanted to build on Bridge Hill. Supervisors Ron Wolff and Grayson Chesser, who represent Districts 2 and 3, respectively, spearheaded the action. Citizens in the two areas have rallied for years against the undertaking, fearing pollution and a drain on local water sources.

Also voting against the sewage proposal were Chairman Donald Hart, Vice Chairman Jack Gray and Supervisor Laura Belle Gordy. Supervisors Wanda Thornton, Kay Lewis and Robert Crockett were opposed to Chesser’s motion. Supervisor Reneta Major failed to raise her hand for either side and abstained when pressed for a response. She did not explain her vote.

The supervisors unanimously sent actual consideration of the PUD back to the Planning Commission for due process. County Attorney Mark Taylor said all proper ordinance information was not included in that body’s public hearing. The commission recommended denial of both requests.

“If Bridge Hill is turned down, it kills the whole process,” Thornton complained. “You can’t have sewer if you don’t have Bridge Hill.”

Initially, Carbaugh wanted to put his wastewater facility at nearby Atlantic, where treated water would have been discharded to basins. Residents complained the refuse would seep into the aquifer.

The commission contended that putting the facility on a neighboring parcel was not appropriate either. It also found the “treatment facility size and scale is not in-keeping with the Future Land Use Section of the Comprehensive Plan.”

Chesser said he didn’t want last-minute proffers to be considered, though Carbaugh and his lawyer, Mark Baumgartner, did not make a public offer during the session.

“This is the worst ongoing saga I have seen in my 18 years” as supervisor, Thornton said. “I think these people (the development group) have been treated atrociously.”

Wolff vehemently disagreed. “This has been a long, drawn-out process because it is new … We should be held accountable to the people to do it right.” He further argued that the plan, which was renamed Town Center at Wallops Island Spaceport, would not bring new NASA or aeronautic employees to the area.

“They’re not interested in buying a house here,” Wolff said. “They could care less about it.” But he contended the current situation is a good thing since the workers are here for a couple of weeks or months and spend. “We don’t have to put up the infrastructure. We don’t have to build new schools … we’re getting the benefit and then they’re leaving.”

The board unanimously appointed Angela Wingfield of Atlantic, a strong opponent of ATC, to the Planning Commission. She will take Chairman Phil Hickman’s seat. He is stepping down on Dec. 31 after 21 years to let younger people get involved.

Commissioner George T. Parker resigned effective Nov. 14. In an email to Planner Rich Morrison, Parker wrote, “I will not be able to provide the commitment of time and effort in the future … we will in all likelihood be relocating … I do not want my resignation to be misinterpreted, by others, as predicated by any decision the Board of Supervisors may make on ATC.”

Supervisors Continue To Whittle Zoning Ordinance

By Ron West

The Northampton Board of Supervisors continued to dilute the Draft County Zoning Ordinance Tuesday.

County Economic Development Director Charles McSwain proposed several ordinance changes that would eliminate duplications and restrictions that many have suggested are obstructive.

For example, McSwain recommended eliminating the allowance of bed and breakfasts in conservation districts. He pointed out that most property located in conservation districts is controlled by the government or conservation groups and not likely to be sites for residential development.

The issue of how to deal with storage units and/or non-road-ready truck trailers was addressed once again. At the last board session, Supervisors Larry Trala and Oliver Bennett had raised concerns over their placement. Trala suggested that parking them in residential areas is an issue, while Bennett noted that some farmers use truck trailers to store straw or grain.

County Administrator Katie Nunez reminded the board that trailers already placed on property in accordance with the current Zoning Ordinance would be grandfathered and not forced to be moved.

McSwain indicated that this, as well as other items in the draft, would be refined over the coming weeks. The long-range schedule for completion of the Zoning Ordinance calls for public information session and public hearings on it after the first of the year with a vote on it in late spring.

Additional parts of the ordinance were eliminated by the board because most are covered by state codes.

David Annis reported that the Accomack-Northampton Planning District Commission has been instrumental in renovating or replacing 12 homes in the Culls section near Cheriton. Eight other homes have been elevated to a height of one foot above the base flood elevation requirement. Three additional home are on the list to likewise be elevated.

Annis added that the Regional Housing Authority operates 155 affordable rental units on the Eastern Shore, of which 89 are in Northampton County.

Asked by Board Chairman Willie Randall how many homes still do not have indoor plumbing or running water, Annis responded that there were likely 300 or so in the two counties.
Accomack Grand Jury

A man who was extradited from Ohio is being held in Eastern Shore Regional Jail in connection with the death of a Northampton resident last spring.

The indictment, handed down by a county Grand Jury in September, were made public last week after the accused was returned to the area. In those documents, 27-year-old John (also known as Dre and Andre) Dandre Lavon Logan is charged with malicious wounding by a mob, malicious wounding, murder by a mob (lynching) and participating in street gang violence.

Officers from the Hamilton County Sheriff’s Office in Cincinnati, Ohio, brought Logan to Eastville, where he is being held without bond pending a trial set for Oct. 4, 2014. He waived his right to an extradition hearing. The Marshals’ Southern Ohio Fugitive Apprehension Strike Team arrested Logan without incident on Oct. 23.

The defendant is from Ohio, but has visited the Shore all his life and was living with his aunt at her home on Blankenship Lane in Tasley when he allegedly committed the offenses.

Jessie Lee Jordan, 23, of the Cape Charles area was beaten and then shot outside A& E Auto & Truck Repairs on Sylvan Scene Drive and Lankford Highway in Treherneville on April 13. A party was going on inside the establishment that night when Jordan, who was called Alex by his family and Sponge Bob by friends, was attacked, authorities said.

Court records show Jordan died from a gunshot wound to the abdomen after being taken to the emergency room at Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital by friends.

Logan initially was arrested May 16 and charged only with malicious wounding by a mob. He was held without bond, then released after the charge was dismissed during a June 20 preliminary hearing. Sometime between then and September when the indictments were brought, Logan went back to Ohio.

Three Tasley brothers also have been charged in connection with the death.

Wicomico County District Court

An Accomack man waived extradition in Wicomico County District Court in Salisbury, Md., last week and will be returned to Accomack to face trial for first-degree murder.

Jamar Edjuan Hickman, 24, is accused of the shooting death of James Marqué Wyatt, 32, also of Tasley, and use of a firearm in the crime. According to the Norfolk Medical Examiner’s Office, Wyatt died from a gunshot wound to the torso.

The incident was reported to authorities near 2 a.m. July 28 at a home on Daugherty Road in Tasley. The victim was rushed to Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital in Nassawadox, where he was pronounced dead.

Sheriff Todd Godwin said an investigation “revealed that a altercation occurred between several individuals at this same address and subsequent gunshots were fired, resulting in Wyatt being injured.” A party was going on when the incident occurred, Godwin said.

Northampton Circuit Court

A Virginia Beach man pleaded guilty Monday in Northampton Circuit Court to two counts of obtaining money by false pretenses, according to Commonwealth’s Attorney Bruce Jones.

Forty-one-year-old Benjamin Leon Turner committed the crimes on Jan. 20 and Feb. 28, 2009. A presentence report was ordered. Charges of forgery and passing a bad check that allegedly occurred on Feb. 28, 2009, were not prosecuted.

Accomack Circuit Court

A 19-year-old Bloxom man was sentenced in Accomack Circuit Court last week to 20 years in prison for maliciously maiming an admitted marijuana dealer during an illegal drug transaction on Dec. 5, 2012.

All but four years of the term for Darren Tyler West of Nelsonia Road was suspended; those four years are to be served in a youth offender program, according to court records.

The victim was John Charles Miller Jr. of Hallwood. The two men met on a country road near Modest Town, the record states. During the transaction, West stabbed Miller in the throat.

“I … opened my door and I rolled myself out of the car to avoid any more attack,” the victim told authorities. “I drew my knife and I got back in the car to attack Darren.” Miller said when West grabbed the blade, “I pulled the handle of the door on his side and I shoved him outside.”

Miller said he managed to drive away but not before West came back at him. “I could feel myself bleeding very bad all over.” He said West “stabbed me in my right shoulder. I continued to accelerate and the passenger door hit him and knocked him on the ground and I continued speeding away.”

A motion to order $60,000 in restitution for medical bills for Miller was not granted because no evidence of the expenses was provided.

William Clinton Ashbrook, 43, of Crisfield, Md., was sentenced to five years each for grand larceny and burglary, to run consecutively. The crimes occurred on Dec. 4, 2010. Ashbrook was remanded to jail.

Jennifer Susanne Fears, 36, of Cashville Road in Onancock was sentenced to 12 months each for 11 counts of obtaining money by false pretenses, a year each on six counts of obtaining money by false pretenses, and 10 years for grand larceny. All but a year and four months was suspended. She was ordered to pay $21,256 in restitution to Kathyanne Runninger.

Fears also pleaded no contest to unauthorized use of a 2001 Hyundai Santa Fe belonging to Brenda J. Bobitka on May 12, 2007.

Noe Escalante-Velasquez, 32, of Dreamland Court in Accomac was sentenced to five years in prison for unauthorized use, five years for leaving the scene of an accident and 12 months for driving on a suspended license. All but a year was suspended. He was also fined $30 for following too closely. Escalante-Velasquez’s driver’s license was suspended for six months.

Brezuan Antrell Douglas, 29, of McCray Lane in Accomac pleaded guilty to two counts of grand larceny that occurred between July 30 and Sept. 1, 2012. A presentence report was ordered. The case was continued until Feb. 3, 2014.

Christopher Antonio Smith, 41, of Bundick Street in Onancock was sentenced to five years each for two counts of failing to register as a sex offender. All but seven months was suspended.

Judgment was withheld for a year in accordance with First Offender Status for Marquis O. Giddens, 25, of Hilltop Lane in Wattsville, who was charged with possession of cocaine. His driver’s license was restricted for six months and he was ordered to be on supervised probation for a year.

Northampton District Court

William Thomas Smith, also known as Bobo Smith, 38, of A.S. West Road in Painter was charged with breaking into the residence of Tretake Clark and assaulting her on Nov. 10, according to Northampton District Court records.

Smith is accused of breaking down the front door of the Bayside Road home. Clark told authorities that she and her daughter were in the bathroom. “She stated she was struck in the head several times and her hair was pulled,” Northampton Deputy G.M. Evans wrote on the arrest warrant. “She had a visible knot on her forehead. Her door jamb appeared splintered and bits of wood were on the living room floor.”

The “subjects are not married, do not reside together … and according to the victim, haven’t lived together in three to four years,” the deputy wrote. Secured bond for Smith was set at $3,000.

Troy Earnest Moses, 42, of Cypress Street in Painter was charged with a third or subsequent offense of petty larceny, which is a felony. The crime allegedly occurred on Nov. 12 at Dollar General in Exmore. Exmore Police Officer Marc Anthony Marshall investigated. Secured bond was set at $2,000.

Accomack Circuit Court

Sean Erick Pike, 20, of Seaside Road in Cape Charles was charged with stealing a firearm belonging to Taylor Scott on Nov. 1, according to records filed in Accomack General District Court. He was arrested on Nov. 13 after being extradited from Pocomoke, Md. Pike is being held in Accomack Jail without bond.

C.A. McPherson of Accomack County Sheriff’s Office investigated.
Northampton Schools Still Lag Behind State Benchmarks

By Ron West

The Northampton County School Board and most of the newly elected board members who will assume office in January recently received an update on benchmark testing scores from representatives of Edison Learning.

The benchmark scores show that while progressing, most of those tested were still well below what is needed for the schools to earn full accreditation. The benchmark scores identify areas that need to be reinforced prior to the actual online SOL testing.

Superintendent Dr. Walter Clemons reported that the system’s Comprehensive Plan is due for an update by the end of 2013. He urged everyone to go to the school system’s website to review the document and submit suggestions for consideration in the review process. The document may be viewed by clicking on “Board Docs” at www.ncpsk12.com

His report to the board shows that the system currently has 1,580 K-12 students plus an additional 129 pre-K and special-education students. Twenty-four students have left the county schools, while 16 new students have moved into the area in the past month. The county has seen a decline in the student census from well over 2,000 students in the past decade.

Northampton High School assistant principal Jennifer Kidwell reported that the job-shadowing program that is conducted annually would occur in February. It provides an opportunity for students to partner with local businesses and government agencies for a day to experience what that job entails.

Clemons reported that preliminary budget numbers call for just over $500,000 in new funding.

Bundick Asks Court To Move Her Arson Trial Again

By Linda Cicoira

Accused arsonist Tonya Susan Bundick wants another new trial location.
A motion filed Wednesday in Accomack County Circuit Court asks Judge Glen A. Tyler to move the proceedings away from the Hampton Roads area. In October, Tyler agreed to change the venue from Accomack to Virginia Beach, which is in the same circuit.

The request does not specify how far away Bundick would like the case to go. But she contends she cannot get a fair trial in the Hampton Roads area due to publicity the case has received.

The 40-year-old Hopeton woman also is asking that evidence and remarks during her trial be limited to the charges against her and not include the 68 arson-related crimes to which her fiancé confessed.

Charles Robert Smith III, 38, also known as Charlie Applegate, is being held without bond in Accomack Jail. He pleaded guilty to the offenses late last month. Bundick was indicted on a count of arson and a count of conspiring with Smith to commit arson in connection with an April 1 incident on Airport Road near Melfa. She is free on bond. Citing conflict of interest, the first lawyers who represented Bundick were granted a motion to withdraw from her case in October.

“In his confession Smith not only admitted his participation in the burnings but also alleged that this defendant participated in a number of the burnings,” Bundick’s new attorney, Allan Zaleski of Norfolk, stated in the court record. He attached an article that appeared in the Eastern Shore Post on Nov. 1 to his motion, noting the story “sets forth that Smith implicated this defendant in his statement.”

Zaleski also complained that clips of the video confession were broadcast across Hampton Roads by various television stations. “This defendant (Bundick) denies involvement with the arson crimes of Smith and has asked for trial by jury of the issue of her guilt.”

“Those broadcasts create a grave danger that potential Virginia Beach jurors will have extensive knowledge of the statements of Smith,” Zaleski wrote. “The defendant alleged it would be difficult if not impossible to select an impartial jury.”

The lawyer also is asking the court to “limit the evidence to the dates, times and locations” of charges only made against Bundick. He does not want background testimony concerning the history of the arson investigations to be allowed. Zaleski also is seeking to ban any argument or remark by the prosecution “in regard to any such other arson incidents or any related investigations.”

A hearing on the motions is set for Dec. 11.

In his confession, Smith told police he deliberately set dozens of fires in Accomack County at Bundick’s direction in an effort to save their relationship. “I think this was a stress reliever the way it came about,” Smith said. “I thought it was a joke at first (when she mentioned setting fires). … I just started laughing and then I figured out she was for real.”

Smith said Bundick set more than a dozen of the fires and drove him to the sites of many others. He also stated he and Bundick were responsible for a spree of graffiti that covered Accomack in the months before the fires began.

Festival of Lights Dec. 6

On Dec. 6, the Eastern Shore community will participate in a decades-long tradition of remembrance and hope.

Sponsored by Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, the Festival of Lights in Nassawadox ushers in the holiday season. All Shore residents are invited to join the illumination ceremony, and to honor and remember loved ones.

The tree lighting ceremony will take place under the front canopy of Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital at 5:30 p.m., followed by holiday music and refreshments. The lights will shine each evening throughout the holidays.

Lights can be purchased for $5 each. Forms are available on posters at local businesses and post offices and at the hospital. Honorees receive an acknowledgement of the gift. Donors will be recognized in the ceremony’s program and in a Book of Honor on display in the hospital lobby throughout the year.
The Eastern Shore Railway Museum in Parksley will be having a Spaghetti Supper today, Nov. 22, at the Parksley Firehouse Social Hall from 5 to 7 p.m. The menu includes spaghetti, garlic bread, salad, and an assortment of cakes. The cost of the dinner is $7 for adults and $4 for children under 12 years of age. Carry-out dinners will be available.

Proceeds will benefit the museum. If you have any questions, please call 665-5060 or 665-6271.

Motorists are advised to be alert to a new traffic pattern on Route 316, at the intersections of Coastal Boulevard and Tasley, Greenbush and Fairgrounds roads.

The roundabout is designed to increase intersection capacity and improve traffic flow while addressing sight distance deficiencies.

Construction of the Tasley roundabout, the first on the Eastern Shore of Virginia, began Aug. 12. Chincoteague’s comparable roadway is a traffic circle, not a roundabout. The difference between the two is the traffic pattern and the way the channelization is designed, according to Brooke Grow, public information officer with the Virginia Department of Transportation.

Cheriton Volunteer Fire Company will hold a 50/50 raffle during its fried chicken dinner, to be held Wednesday, Dec. 11, from 5 to 7 p.m. The raffle will be held at 6 p.m.

In addition to fried chicken, the menu includes seasoned flat green beans, cole slaw, rolls, tea or coffee and homemade dessert.

The cost is $9 for adults and $5 for children younger than 12.

Take-outs will be available.

The Eastern Shore Health District has announced two special free flu vaccination clinics.

Walk-in clinics will be held at Accomack County Health Department in Accomac and at Northampton County Health Department in Nassawadox, on Tuesday, Dec. 3, from 4 to 7 p.m. The number of flu shots available under this free program is limited and available for those 3 years and older only; therefore, flu shots will be given on a first come, first served basis.

Exmore Town Council called a special session last Thursday to fill a vacancy on Town Council created when Councilman Robert Duer was named town manager.

Council selected Exmore resident Bryon Heaster to complete Duer’s term. It will be up to the Circuit Court to schedule an election for the seat or allow the town to wait for the May 2014 elections.

Duer had been named to council this year after Mayor William Moore Jr. moved to the Belle Haven area, making him ineligible to serve as mayor. Councilman Douglas Greer Sr. was elected by council to serve out the remainder of Moore’s term and Duer was named to finish out Greer’s term.

In the only other item covered in the special session, council agreed to appoint Sandy Savage to fill a vacancy on the town’s Planning Commission.

Wild Dogs Have Hopeton Residents Living in Fear

By Linda Cicoira

Chincoteague is famous for its wild pony herd while Hopeton is becoming known for its wild dog packs.

Residents of the latter area complained at a session of the Accomack Board of Supervisors Wednesday of vicious canines attacking wildlife and livestock.

“It’s resulting in danger to the people in the area,” said David Van Dessel, who told of numerous attacks to household pets in recent weeks. He also found the remains of two raccoons that “were killed and torn apart” in a field and complained that he’s been chased by the dogs.

“They are attacking anything they can get a hold of,” Van Dessel’s daughter, Teresa, said. “It’s going to get worse.”

She said she alerted Animal Control, which is overseen by Accomack County Sheriff’s Office (ACSO), four times with no satisfaction.

Once she said she was told traps could not be set because the officer was on vacation and had the only key to retrieve the equipment. Another time, Ms. Van Dessel said, she was told an officer would not respond unless someone had been bitten.

Supervisor Jack Gray advised them to call Lt. Carl Wright of ACSO. Gray said that after complaints were made last year, Animal Control, thanks to Wright, trapped 27 dogs. Gray was referring to Matt Cormons’ cow that was lost to a pack attack.

Cormons was in attendance and reported counting 26 stray dogs at a nearby trailer park recently. He blamed the death of two of his turkeys two weeks ago on wild or stray dogs.

“It is a matter of time before a child is injured or killed,” Cormons said. “It is a serious issue.” He suggested investigating what other areas do to combat such problems.

Supervisor Grayson Chesser said he faced a similar predicament two years ago when stray dogs killed a cat at his home. “Dogs are named companion animals” and people are afraid to kill them.

“It’s hard to sight a gun when you have to think, ‘Am I committing a felony?’ ”

Sheriff Todd Godwin addressed the issues the following day when contacted by the Post. He said if a dispatcher told Ms. Van Dessel that traps weren’t available because an officer took a key on vacation, he or she was wrong. Regarding the biting rule Van Dessel was told about, Godwin said, “That is not the way we handle any kind of dog complaint.”

The sheriff said officers need a court order from the health department to shoot a dog. He said using tranquilizer guns is a liability since the animal could cause a traffic crash. “We don’t have the option of just shooting,” Godwin said. “Wild dogs, they won’t trap” easily, he continued. Godwin said the department purchased a “spring-loaded snare” which is like a lasso to help catch the dogs. “We are doing all that we can.”

New Affordable Housing Project Proposed

By Linda Cicoira

Accomack Village is the name Developer Dave Koogler has given his $10 million, 96-unit “family” apartment complex proposed for 6.4 acres along Lankford Highway near Parksley.

He asked Accomack supervisors Wednesday to consider approving his application for a $700,000 Community Development Block Grant that would help fund the project adjacent to Accomack Manor, which Koogler’s company, Mark-Dana Corporation (MDC), built in 2007.

The supervisors wanted time to look over the plans before making a decision. County staff is expected to make a report about it in December.

“I know you know that you lack housing — affordable housing,” Koogler told officials. “If you built it, they’ll stand in line trying to get in because there is that much need.”

Koogler said the one-, two- and three-bedroom, low-income apartments would be spread across five brick or stone buildings with a central structure for a clubhouse, laundry, fitness room, management office, and computers. The plan includes sprinkler systems, ceiling fans, smoke detectors, laundry connections, wall-to-wall carpets and Energy Star appliances.

In addition, he said, full criminal background checks would be conducted on all applicants, who must be employed or show an income source and make 2.5 times the rent to qualify. The development will have a “zero tolerance policy for criminal activity.”

Rent amounts would be determined by a formula that would limit the cost to no more than 30 percent of a tenant’s income. Median incomes for rent-restricted units may not exceed 60 percent of the area median family income, which, according to Koogler, is $51,900 for a family of four in Accomack.

The “program is a long-term solution to a continuing problem as housing must remain in the affordable program at least 30 years,” Koogler continued. “These will be for 40 years.”

MDC has been involved in building affordable housing for more than 40 years, Koogler said. The company also constructed Exmore Village I and II and Peter Cartwright Apartments in the Exmore area.

Koogler said he is hoping that the entrance to Metompkin Road would be moved to the other side of Zion Baptist Church when the new development is built. Land from the corporation and the church already have been donated for that cause.

The developer contends that not a lot of money is made from the ventures. It’s a “labor of love,” Zoogler said. “You get rich in helping people.”

In other business, the supervisors turned down a request from Natural Resource Conservation Service (NRCS) Floodplain Easement Program that would have bought out a Sanford landowner’s property. The county would have been responsible for buying the parcels while the agency would have reimbursed the owner for buildings that were damaged in Hurricane Sandy. The officials said they need more information. Staff was concerned that the action would set a precedent.

The fall season for high-school sports has come to an end.

Now is the time to roll out the basketballs and the wrestling mats for the winter sports.

But let’s look back on the fall sports and glean what we can from an overview.

It’s obvious Eastern Shore football is not on a level with teams on the other side of the bay, judging from the lopsided scores last weekend when both Nandua and Arcadia were defeated in first-round playoff games.

But talking to both coaches this week, it’s also obvious that although the losses stung, they also served to show the underclassmen returning next year what it takes to compete at a higher level.

Coaches Tony Nock of Arcadia and Chris Miles of Nandua said their players understand they need to hit the weight room, sharpen their fundamentals and prepare like never before to advance in the playoffs.

Both teams have a core of returning players who have the talent to take their teams to the next level. Now they should have the motivation.

The one factor beyond the control of high-school coaches is the development of football players at a young age. Pop Warner Leagues and other youth leagues in many areas develop players using the same system as the high school where those young tykes will be playing some day.

A player learning the fundamentals as a freshman, no matter how talented, will have trouble competing with a player who has been schooled in the basics of football since an early age.

That is why the Accomack County Youth Football League is so important to the progress of high-school football on the Shore.

Led by Wayne Burton, director of Accomack’s Parks and Recreation Department, and also an assistant coach with Arcadia, the league includes 130 youth from ages 5 to 14 playing in three age divisions.

Chincoteague has a youth program that, though independent, works with the Accomack County Football League. Chincoteague High School Coach Nick Howard said the current group of high-school players has benefited greatly from the island’s youth program. Victorious in the last five games they played this season and returning almost all their starters, the Ponies should be taking another step forward next season.

In Northampton County, the lack of a youth football program is a hindrance to improving the level of football.

Coach David Farlow of Northampton, who I felt made great progress with the Yellow Jackets this season despite its third straight 0-10 season, propped up the youth football program in the county for years and then ran a successful JV program before becoming head coach of the high-school program.

Without Farlow at the lower levels, there was neither a youth football program nor a JV team in Northampton this season.

Burton said Farlow has been very supportive of the Accomack Youth Football League, sending equipment and players from Northampton.

“We’re here to develop all players from the Eastern Shore. It’s not about one school or the other,” said Burton.

But still, without a youth football program in Northampton, it will be difficult for the high-school team to compete with its counterparts.

Looking at Broadwater’s season is a bittersweet experience. An 8-2 season is a mark to be proud of, but when one considers the two losses were both 1-point defeats in games where there were so many opportunities to change the outcome, it also can be deflating.

Consider that Broadwater’s only regular-season loss was to Virginia Episcopal School — which won the Division 3 state championship with a 10-1 record and had a double-digit winning margin in all but two of its wins — and you know VES must have great respect for the Vikes.

The other 1-point loss, of course, was in the state semi-final to Fuqua, which lost the state championship to Blessed Sacrament-Huguenot in overtime after a controversial call. A 2-point try by Huguenot with little time remaining to force the game into overtime was ruled no good, setting off a Fuqua celebration. However, referees huddled and reversed the call, sending the game into overtime, where Fuqua lost.

Switching from football, volleyball had Northampton and Nandua representing the Eastern Shore in playoff competition. The Lady Jackets were conference runners-up, with the Lady Warriors ousted in the first round.

Next year looks promising for those two teams to advance in the playoffs. Northampton returns the Shore District’s Offensive and Defensive Players of the Year in Taylor and Kennedy Webb, respectively, both sophomores this season. Nandua, a very deep team, loses only one player from a team that was unbeaten during the district regular season.

Youth also ruled in cross country, where the top two boys were sophomore Evan Lawrence of Nandua and freshman Logan Godwin of Arcadia.

Northampton, which has won the team titles with great depth, will likely continue that trend, but an emerging star is sophomore Erica Head, who qualified for the state cross country meet while also making All-Region as a field hockey midfielder.

In golf, two of the best local golfers are girls, Arcadia junior Sarah Jones and Nandua sophomore Leslie Iberra, who will be back next season to shoot even lower scores.

To wrap up, though they really play no factor in the regular season, here are the conference alignments. Nandua and Arcadia are in 2A East with King William, Windsor, Bruton and Maggie Walker Governor’s School. Northampton and Chincoteague are in the 1A East with Franklin, Surry, Sussex County and Appomattox Regional Governor’s School.

The conferences are based on enrollment with 1A the smallest up to the largest 6A schools. Region play involves schools of similar size from the eastern region of the state.

The quiz comes next week.

Three Fishing Tourneys Slated

Three local tournaments will keep anglers busy through early December.

Captain Steve’s Annual Striper Tournament begins today and continues through Sunday. There is no cost, and awards are given for the top five stripers by weight. Anglers can register at the shop on 6527 Maddox Blvd., Chincoteague, or by calling 336-0569.

The 18th Annual Rockfish Riot — a benefit for the Northampton County Toy Closet — is being held by Chris’ Bait and Tackle in Capeville from Nov. 29 to Dec. 8. Registration for each angler is $40 plus a donated toy. Fifty percent of the prize fund goes to first place, 30 percent to second and 20 percent to third. To register, stop by the shop at 28316 Lankford Hwy. or register online at rockfishriot.com

The eighth annual Rockfish Derby — a benefit tourney for Atlantic Volunteer Fire and Rescue Co. — is being held Dec. 7-8. The cost is $30 per adult angler, $15 per youth. Registration includes a ticket to the Anglers’ Dinner meeting that features door prizes and 50/50 raffles. There are cash prizes for the top four adult winners and prizes for first- and second-place youth winners. Call Atlantic Volunteer Fire and Rescue Co. at 824-4844.

Flounder are still being taken inside the inlets in the deeper channels on frozen silverside minnows.

Redfish (puppy drum) heading south for the winter are being caught off the beaches of the barrier islands. Use finger mullet or cut spot. Inshore, anglers have been throwing spinnerbaits almost exclusively, although some are using mullet on a top and bottom rig or a bull minnow with a bobber.

Bayside anglers are taking pan-size rockfish in the creeks, with a few keepers mixed in. Trollers are starting to pick up a few rockfish in deeper water, but birds still haven’t been working enough to give away fish locations. Casting bucktails and jigging spoons under baitfish balled up has produced the best.

Near the bridge-tunnel, big trophy rockfish have arrived, with reports of fish 42 inches and over being landed.

Hunters for Hungry
Seeking Donations

The Eastern Shore Chapter of the Virginia Hunters for the Hungry is conducting its 16th season of service to residents of the Shore.

The program raises funds to pay the processing cost for deer donated by local hunters. The deer are processed into packages of ground meat that are distributed through the Foodbank.

The deer may be taken to the refrigerated trailers at the foodbank in Tasley or B&B Market in Machipongo. They also may be taken to the local processor, Brent Powell, in Wachapreague. The deer must be field-dressed and registered.

The program pays $45 per deer for processing costs, discounted from the going price of $80 a deer.

The local chapter is requesting both deer and financial donations. Send checks made payable to “Hunters for the Hungry” to P.O. Box 1702, Parksley, VA 23421.

Sarah Jones of Arcadia Qualifies for State Golf Tourney

Sarah Jones of Arcadia advanced to the state golf tournament for the second straight year by shooting a sparkling 79 on Kempsville Greens in Virginia Beach last month. She finished third out of 36 girl golfers from all classifications of high schools in the eastern half of Virginia.

The Firebird junior then shot 96-96 in a two-round tournament at Jefferson Lakeside Course in Richmond to finish 37th of 52 among all state public-school female golfers.

“The greens were very quick at the state tournament, so they were good scores,” said Coach Brian Salisbury.
Nandua Bounced from Playoffs by Bruton, 48-10

Story and photos by Bill Sterling

Bruton’s Kapri Doucet scored four touchdowns to lead Bruton to a 48-10 win over Nandua Friday night in the first round of the Group 2A playoffs at Williamsburg.

Bruton scored on its first four possessions en route to a win that advanced it to the next round of the playoffs and left Nandua with a 6-5 record.

“Same as last year, they were bigger, stronger and faster,” said Nandua coach Chris Miles. “It’s a tough way for our seniors to end their careers, but we have a lot of underclassmen who say they want to get in the weight room and are looking forward to next year. We played much better in the second half against what were still mostly their first-string players.”

Bruton, 7-3 and the fifth seeded team among the 16 teams to make the playoffs, opened the game with a 56-yard pass play from Bilal Wallace to Dailey Melkwon to the 6-yard line, leading to a one-yard scoring run by Doucet.

Before the quarter was over, Doucet added an 11-yard touchdown run, followed by an 11-yard dash by Wallace to give Bruton a 19-0 lead.

With Nandua having trouble making first downs, Bruton scored three more times in the second quarter on touchdown runs of 6 and 13 yards by Doucet and a 45-yard fumble recovery and run by Richard Taylor, giving Bruton a 41-0 lead.

Nandua opened the second half with its best drive of the game, marching downfield, with David Wright kicking a 35-yard field goal when the drive stalled.

Wright caught a pass from Nandua’s Tyreim Blake in the fourth quarter and outpaced the Panther defenders for a 39-yard score in the fourth quarter.

Greg Dockery tacked on the final Bruton score with a one-yard run late in the game for the 48-10 final.

Doucet led the winners with 132 yards rushing.

Montrae Armstrong led Nandua with 100 yards on 17 carries.

Wright, in addition to scoring all his team’s points in his last game as a senior, led the defense with 13 tackles, while Jamar Jones and sophomore Will Farlow had 11 each and Armstrong added 10.

Bruton will travel tonight to play Riverlands of Staunton, who advanced by defeating Arcadia 57-14 at home.

Story by Bill Sterling

Arcadia had no answers for Riverlands Saturday as the homestanding Gladiators surged to a 57-7 halftime lead en route to a 57-14 win in the opening round of the 2A East playoffs Saturday at Staunton.

“They were a lot quicker than they looked on film, and they ran the winged-T offense to perfection,” said Arcadia coach Tony Nock. “Their line was huge, led by a tackle who has signed with Pitt, and their backs were fast and ran with great patience. We didn’t help ourselves by committing eight penalties and three turnovers in the first half alone. A few of them were costly, too.”

Riverlands scored on its opening drive on a two-yard run by Ben Agnor, then Landon Diehl followed with another two-yard run before Cole Smiley tacked on a seven-yard run. The Gladiators also earned a safety when a Firebird punt was blocked out of the end zone for a 23-0 first-quarter lead.

Riverheads poured it on in the second quarter with touchdown runs of 4 and 21 yards by Smiley, 24 yards by Chance Staton and 40 yards by Agnor. Nathan Eye also scored on a 31-yard pass from Kendall Casto.

Trailing by 57-0, Arcadia put together its best drive of the game, marching 62 yards in seven plays to get on the scoreboard. A 31-yard pass from Josh Sanns to Taylor Major moved the ball into Riverheads’ territory, then the Firebird duo hooked up again with a three-yard scoring pass.

“Josh played tough. He had a cast removed from his broken hand on Monday and had what was probably his best game of the season. He probably had six passes dropped, or his stats would have been much better,” said Coach Nock.

The Firebirds, playing after traveling six hours on a bus the previous day, scored in the second half when Sanns connected with Jamaz Clark on a 27-yard touchdown pass. Logan Godwin kicked his second extra point of the game to make the final score 57-14 as Riverheads failed to score in the second half.

Riverheads moved to 10-1 and now has reached the 10-win mark for the fifth year in a row. Tonight it will host Bruton, which advanced by defeating Nandua.

Sanns was 8 of 25 passing for 112 yards and two touchdowns, with Taylor Major catching six passes for 68 yards. Travon Copes led Firebird rushers against Riverlands last Saturday.

Tyric Harris led the Firebirds with eight tackles, Tyler Major and Peter Rivera added five tackles each, and John Wright, Eric Grinnage and Clark had four each. Major and Dylan Taylor had fumble recoveries.

“We have a few seniors graduating we will miss, but we also have a good nucleus of players returning with some good, young players coming up from the JV,” said Coach Nock. “We have a lot to be proud of, getting the first winning season for Arcadia since 2000 and getting a share of the district title.”
Hunter Taylor Signs with USC

Hunter Taylor, a 6-1, 210-pound catcher and a senior at Nandua High School, signed a baseball scholarship with the University of South Carolina Thursday at school. Attending the signing were his parents, Scott and Melissa Taylor of Onley, flanking Taylor, and his grandfather, Kenny Wright of Onley (far right, seated). Also attending were (from left, standing) assistant principal George Parker, Nandua coach Luke Brankley, travel ball coach Jamie Evans and Nandua athletic director Gary Reese. Taylor was a member this summer of the EvoShields Canes Showcase 17 and under travel team, which won three national championships in Georgia, Arizona and Florida. Four members of that team will be signing with the University of South Carolina. Evans said, “Hunter was the best hitter on our team. He got clutch hit after clutch hit for us and did a great job behind the plate.” Evans also said he expects pro scouts to be following Taylor this spring.

Paglia Gets First Collegiate Pin on Mat

Casey Paglia, a redshirt freshman at American University in Washington, D.C., compiled a 5-2 record at the North Carolina State Wolfpack Open last weekend. Paglia, a three-time state champion at Northampton High School, recorded his first collegiate pin and now stands 7-4 on the season.

Broadwater’s Kathleen Kraft was named to the All-Metro Conference first team volleyball squad recently.

Kraft, a junior, had 115 kills this season to lead the Lady Vikings. She also contributed 43 aces with a 93.6 serving percentage, six blocks and 43 digs.

Shore Runners Compete at State Meet

Evan Lawrence of Nandua placed 33rd in 17:41, a personal best, at the Group 2A cross country meet last Saturday at the Great Meadow 3.1-mile course in Plains, Va. Only a sophomore, Lawrence set the district record and “had an exceptional season,” said Nandua coach Dana Wright.

“That was the best finish I’ve had by a Northampton runner at the state meet,” said Northampton coach Rich Wilfong of Madisen’s performance.

Arcadia’s Logan Godwin also qualified for the state meet, but chose to be with the Firebird football team for a state playoff game being played the same day. A kicker, Godwin was 2 of 2 on extra points at the game.

Broadwater Cross Country Runners in State Meet

Broadwater Academy’s cross country runners competed at the Virginia Independent School Athletic Association state championships earlier this month at the Woodbury Forest 5K course.

The Viking boys placed 21st out of 29 teams, with Nick Gomer the top Viking runner, finishing 91st among 271 runners in 20:20. Jackson Rose was two places behind Gomer in 20:23. Tommy Golibart finished in 22:00. Jack Buchholz, 22:02; and Robby Parker, 22:16; finished out the top five for Broadwater.

Other Broadwater boys included Jacob McClaskey, 22:36; Luke Lai, 24:57; Ryan Scott, 25:41; Ryan Bess, 25:42; Elijah Turner, 26:12; and Brandon Tankard, 28:13.

Among the girls, Sydney Parks, a sophomore who was the Metro Conference girls’ champion, finished 52nd in 23:29 to lead the Viking girls. Anna Sexauer, only an eighth grader, was 90th among 198 runners in 24:53. Kelsey Parker, 26:06; Meadon Noonan, 27:26; and Vera Cameron, 28:43; rounded out the top five for Broadwater.

Other Viking girl runners included Palmer Smith, 28:58; Charlotte Graham, 30:19; Virginia Cunningham, 31:26; Jessie Smith, 31:29 and Katherine Xu, 32:24.

Head All-Region in Field Hockey

Erica Head of Northampton, a sophomore, has been named to the All-Region team in field hockey. Head, who also made the All-Conference 41 team, was chosen from teams that represent the eastern half of Virginia after the Lady Jackets reached the regional tournament following a runner-up showing in conference play.

Northampton coach John Gorman said of his midfielder, “Erica controls the ball and has great field vision in directing traffic downfield. She has two more years and should continue to improve.”

United Way Asks for Support

Dear Editor:

The United Way Fund-raising Campaign is off to a good start as we aggressively pursue our goal of $300,000 to provide essential funds to local community organizations serving critical missions. Our theme this year is “Uniting the Shore, One Person at a Time.”

The United Way of Virginia’s Eastern Shore is an independent volunteer organization run by Shore residents. The money raised here stays on the Shore unless designated otherwise.

Our United Way provides funds to many of your favorite charitable causes. You can make one donation to help multiple organizations. It is the heartfelt donations and support of the community that are used to help individuals who are homeless, provide meals to those who are hungry, protect those who suffer from abuse and neglect and provide positive outlets for our youth throughout both counties with recreational and educational activities.

I challenge all who can to donate through the United Way so that those who are in need continue to receive support. Individuals can give through employer payroll deduction or through a direct contribution using a pledge card. Contributions also can be made by logging on to the United Way’s website at www.esunitedway.org.

I want to personally thank all those who have contributed thus far and encourage others to join in the worthy cause as we Unite the Shore, One Person at a Time.

For more information, go to the website or call 757-7622.
