Nearly 70 percent of local residents responding to a recent survey have had enough.

“Yes, I am sick and tired of snow,” wrote Dawn Conquest of Onancock in her answer to a survey conducted by the Eastern Shore Post. “It is March now, time for it to go! I am not sure how much snow we got total, but I can say it was enough.”

“Because of all of those winter storms we have had, we have missed several days of school,” the kindergarten teacher at Kegotank Elementary School continued. “To pass the time, I played on my Wii, slept, watched TV, read a book, played with my dogs and baked.”

Accomack school administrators are deciding how to make up the snow days. Unofficially, they may take away the April 9 teacher workday and possibly conduct classes on April 17, which was part of spring break.

“Oh, yes, I’m so over winter already!” said Ann Page of Accomac. But the weather didn’t keep her from getting where she had to go.

“I hate snow,” wrote Debra Bergner of Hacksneck. “I was born in Idaho in January. I hated snow when I was born. I hated snow when I was growing up. I moved away right after high school to get away from the snow. Why is there snow in Virginia? We live in the south! I am moving to a warmer planet. Show me the scientist that said there is global warming so I can bury him in the foot of snow in my front yard.”

“I don’t work, but it has forced me to stay home and my Mother is in the hospital,” Bergner continued. “I can’t get out to the highway to be with her because they don’t plow Back Creek Road.”

“I am over winter for this season,” wrote Ashley Mapp of Onancock. “NO MORE SNOW! I had at least 2-3 inches of snow with a layer of ice below it. I have not missed any work because of the weather. My jobs are in healthcare. We work rain, shine, and snow.”

“I’ve had enough, thank you!” Harold Smith of the Keller/Melfa area said. “I’m from N.Y. Snow is part of my life. I like snow in moderation, however in the country, snow is a different thing from the city.”

“During the last storm, I arrived home … and could not enter my driveway and had to leave my car on the road and walk to my house,” Smith added.

Joyce Green of Parksley said she is “a summer girl at heart, so any amount of snow is too much for me. One snowfall is nice to see, but only if it disappears the next day … I was ready for winter to be over after the first snow and am anxiously waiting for spring.”

“I’m ready for spring,” wrote Bobby Carroll Huether of Pungoteague. “He said it’s time because he’s planted peas. “Always heard get at least one snow on your peas and they would be a sweeter harvest.”

“I am so ready for spring and summer!” answered Michelle Taylor of Quinby. There were two or three inches of snow at her house, so she was forced to stay put. “With three children at home, they keep me busy. We watched movies, made snow cream,

No More Harvest Festival

The Eastern Shore of Virginia Chamber of Commerce has decided that it will no longer sponsor the Harvest Festival, held the first Wednesday in October at Sunset Beach.

“Due to the changing times and our renewed focus on membership, an event such as Harvest Festival has become less effective in supporting our mission and no longer has the same benefits it used to,” said chamber board Chairwoman Kristin Webb. “This was an extremely difficult decision made with a lot of consideration by the entire chamber Board of Directors. The chamber has begun and will continue a discussion with our membership and community leaders on new ideas that more successfully promote our membership and connect businesses and our communities.”

The Chamber will be forming a development committee to plan a new event to begin in 2015. Interested chamber members who would like to be part of this committee are asked to contact Jean Hungiville, executive director, at jhungiville@esvachamber.org.

Even our new state delegate, Rob Bloxom, showed his snow disapproval. “Ready for 90 degrees,” he said. “The Capital works anyway.”

And while those anti-snow folks are in the majority, there are others who are laid back about the messy precipitation.

“I don’t mind really whatever the weather is: I can’t change it so I enjoy it,” wrote Eric Dodge of Onancock.

“Never a problem passing the time. In-house projects. Reading, and on and on. Always enough to do.”

“Que sera, sera! (Whatever will be, will be)” said J.W. Jeffries of Chincoteague Island.

“Since I can do nothing about the weather, I gladly welcome each day,” said Adelaide Hollandsworth of Onley.

All three of those last survey takers are retired.

Others do appreciate winter.

“I like snow!” said Don Williams of The Greens near Melfa. “I was born and raised north of Green Bay, Wisconsin, and loved skiing.”

“Love it!” wrote Kerry Allison of Craddockville, who managed to work and watch movies during the storm.

And there are those who have to criticize our modest accumulation.

“This ain’t real snow,” wrote Jim Kaczmarek of Parksley. Kaczmarek was raised in Buffalo, N.Y., where genuine snow falls. “I lived thru the blizzard of 1977,” he said.

A Melfa resident, who didn’t fill in his or her name, also has had enough snow for the season. “One is not forced to stay home. It’s a strong suggestion that considers putting one’s personal safety and the safety of others at risk. Those who don’t consider the suggestion as a smart move usually end up in the ditch or having an accident just ‘cause they had to get out for a six pack or smokes. I always have an activity lined up for rainy/snowy days, even if it’s just getting caught up on my reading.”

A quiet indictment handed down by a Northampton Grand Jury earlier this month was made public Wednesday. Indicted was Letisha Maria Robberecht, 34, of Woodcock Circle in Cape Charles on two counts of embezzling money from Bayview Citizens for Social Justice, Inc., between Jan. 1 and Nov. 30, 2013. Robberecht was arrested Feb. 19 and freed on $10,000 unsecured bond Feb. 20.

Acomack Circuit Court

It took less than 50 minutes last week for an Acomack Circuit Court jury to acquit Ramon Armando Dominquez-Lopez, 46, of Front Street in Accomac, who was charged with aggravated sexual battery of an 8-year-old girl on March 17, 2013. The child testified against Dominquez-Lopez. He was accused of having the girl lie “on top of him while grabbing her buttocks” as he watched “porn on TV,” according to court records. Dominquez-Lopez denied the accusation.

Accomack District Court

A Painter man was arrested late last week and charged with breaking into a house and deliberately setting it on fire while occupants were inside, according to records filed in Accomack General District Court.

Charles Allen Watson, 48, of Linhaven Circle is being held without bond in Accomack Jail for the alleged Feb. 27 crimes.

The suspicious blaze at 15490 Ethel Ln. near Painter was reported early last Thursday morning, according to Painter Fire Chief William Campbell. Four companies responded. The fire is believed to have originated in the living room.

In another case, Dalbert Perry Nedab, 39, of Wachapreague Road in Wachapreague is accused of possession of a controlled substance with intent to distribute it on Feb. 26. Secured bond was set for $1,500.

Samuel Dennis, 27, of Payne Road in Bloxom is charged with possession of a controlled Schedule I or II substance with intent to manufacture it and possession of a firearm while attempting to distribute the drug. Secured bond was set for $5,000.

Northampton District Court

Three Northampton men were charged with abduction, strangulation, assault and battery, and assault and battery when in a mob in connection with a Feb. 27 incident.

Records filed in Northampton General District Court list the suspects as Keyon Leroy Cherry, 26, of Madame CJ Walker Lane in Exmore; Terrell Devone Mason, 25, of Frederick Douglas Road in Exmore; and Shane Isaiah Smith, 28, of Lankford Highway in Eastville.

All three are being held without bond in Eastern Shore Regional Jail. An April preliminary hearing is scheduled.

Mason, who said he was not “present during the attack,” also is charged with intentionally destroying or damaging property worth less than $1,000.

In another case, Harry Martin Scheuer, 46, of Chesapeake Avenue in Chesapeake was charged on March 5 with driving after having been declared an habitual offender. He is being held without bond.

On March 1, James Hobson Jr., 31, of Monroe Avenue in Cape Charles was charged with a third offense of DUI in five years, which is a felony. He also was charged with the misdemeanor offenses of refusal to take a blood or breath test, driving on a suspended license and possession of marijuana. No bond was set.

Police & Court Postings

Accomack Grand Jury

Police are looking for the culprits who broke into Kool Ford in Keller Monday night or Tuesday morning and stole two vehicles, including a maroon 2014 Ford Mustang.

Acomack Sheriff Todd Godwin said the incident was reported to his office at about 7:45 a.m. When deputies arrived, they “determined that entry was gained into the business during the overnight hours and two vehicles were stolen along with other undisclosed property.”

One vehicle, the make and model of which was not disclosed, was recovered later that night. The Mustang was not recovered at press time.

Anyone with information about this crime is asked to contact the Accomack Sheriff’s Office at 787-1131 or 824-5666. Tips also may be submitted through the department’s website at www.accomackcountysheriffsoffice.org.

Northampton Circuit Court

A Painter resident was sentenced to five years in prison Wednesday in Northampton Circuit Court for unlawful wounding in connection with an incident last August during which he repeatedly punched another man, causing him more than $63,000 in medical bills.

All but a year of the term was suspended for Ronnie Bernard Wilson Jr., 22, of Coal Kiln Road. According to testimony, Wilson had a grudge against Howard Thomas because he claimed to have paid Thomas to repair a car that disappeared while in Thomas’ possession.

When the two passed each other at the entrance to the Royal Farms store on Aug. 24, 2013, Wilson struck Thomas four times in the face, breaking the man’s jaw and crushing his orbital socket. Both the prosecution and the defense agreed it was a chance meeting.

The majority of the medical tab was picked up by the state Victim Compensation Fund. Judge W. Revel Lewis III ordered Wilson to make restitution of $13,848 or up to $40,000 if the bills continue, since Thomas needs future surgery on his jaw to realign his teeth.

In another case, Carlos Brinkley Cardoza, 42, of Hospital Avenue in Nassawadox pleaded guilty to possession of a firearm by a felon and grand larceny in connection with incidents that occurred on Oct. 26, 2013. The case was continued pending completion of a presentence report.

Robert Earl Stines, 50, of Seaside Road in Nassawadox will not be prosecuted for a count of threatening arson on Sept. 5, 2013. He was convicted of assault and battery in connection with the same incident. Stines was given a 10-day suspended sentence and fined $100.

Lester Lamont Walters, 31, of Jamaica, N.Y., pleaded guilty to nine counts of credit-card forgery that occurred on Aug. 16, 2013. According to testimony, nine fraudulent credit cards were found in Walters’ possession after a Cape Center worker recognized him as a man who used a fake credit card at the business on a previous occasion.

Judge Lewis said Walters could face up to 90 years in prison for the offenses. A presentence report was ordered and Walters was remanded to jail.
A shadow is defined as “a translucent shaded area cast by a larger object that has light cast upon it.”

So it was that one day last month, approximately three dozen students from Northampton High School stood in the shadow of mentors. Northampton High School assistant principal Jennifer Kidwell, who spearheaded the effort to offer students the opportunity to shadow at various businesses, noted that Northampton County Chamber of Commerce partnered with the school to help place students in a variety of locations.

From artistry to education to the military, students watched, questioned, listened, and tried their hands at skills that might put them on a career path.

Four students, all of whom are cadets in the school’s Cadet Corps, arrived at Cape Charles Coast Guard Station and immediately found themselves running a mile and a half, followed by a battery of sit-ups, pushups, and pull-ups. These are tasks that active-duty Coast Guard personnel must be able to accomplish to be prepared for live-saving missions at a moment’s notice. Team Coordination Training in which the students took part, can mean the difference between life and death when you have to trust everyone on your crew to do what is expected.

All four students who spent the day at Station Cape Charles expressed an interest in joining the military when they graduate. Cadet 2nd Lt. Eugene Spady said he wants to become an officer, but plans to serve first as an enlisted soldier to learn how to take orders before he begins giving them.

Other students were equally as busy learning other skills. Five spent the day with Riverside Health Services, shadowing nurses and a physician. Colton Collins, who is considering a bio-chemistry or medical career, found that shadowing Dr. Robert Paschall kept him on his toes as he hopped from one room to another at Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital.

Medical care for animals drew David Shears and David Henderson to shadow workers at Norfolk Zoo. Shears said one of his tasks at the zoo that day was to help prepare the animals for the cold. He said that he was told to work toward a degree in biology or zoology to prepare for a career as a zoo worker.

At the other end of the spectrum, Latrell Ayers spent time learning the delicate skills necessary to become a mortician by shadowing at Morris Funeral Home. Ayers said he hadn’t realized how much is involved in preparing the deceased for their final resting place. Also important, according to Ayers, is dealing with family members during a stressful time.

Municipal government led one student to shadow several Northampton County officials. County Administrator Katie Nunez and Assistant County Administrator Janice Williams said that student Autumn Gummesom buzzed between a number of departments, helping to deal with taxes as well as getting a feel for zoning and development concepts.

Kaliyah Weatherly may have had the “sweetest” job of the day. Weatherly spent the day learning that dessert decorations involve more than just slapping on a dab of icing. Shadowing at a cupcake bakery in Norfolk, she got a taste of a busy baker’s schedule. While some bakers learn on-the-job, Weatherly hopes to enhance her skills at a cooking school to help her on her career path.

The arts drew Yuh-Mey Hwang to shadow an instructor in Christopher Newport University’s Music Department. A gifted flute player, Hwang hopes to teach music. She said the career calls for five years of training that will provide her with a master’s degree.

Noah Burkhard is looking for a career in the visual arts as a professional photographer. He shadowed at New Revenna in Exmore where he helped do a photo shoot for a New York magazine. He hopes to pursue training for his career at Christopher Newport or at the Art Institute of Virginia Beach.

During a follow-up session with the students, Kidwell urged the students to seek opportunities to expand on their shadowing experience. Noting that they needed to perform community service, Kidwell reminded students that there are a number of opportunities to do so in jobs that mirror their chosen career path.
Health Matters

Beware: Ovarian Cancer Can Be Sneaky

Ovarian cancer is difficult to detect, especially, in the early stages. This is partly due to the fact that these two small, almond-shaped organs are deep within the abdominal cavity, one on each side of the uterus.

These are some of the signs and symptoms of ovarian cancer:

- Bloating
- Pelvic or abdominal pain
- Trouble eating or feeling full quickly
- Feeling the need to urinate urgently or often
- Fatigue
- Upset stomach or heartburn
- Back pain
- Pain during sex
- Constipation or menstrual changes

Persistence of symptoms is key. Because these signs and symptoms of ovarian cancer have been described as vague or silent, only around 19 percent of ovarian cancer is found in the early stages. Symptoms typically occur in advanced stages when tumor growth creates pressure on the bladder and rectum, and fluid begins to form.

Have a comprehensive family history taken by a physician knowledgeable in the risks associated with ovarian cancer since 5 percent to 10 percent of ovarian cancer has a familial link.

Every woman should undergo a regular rectal and vaginal pelvic examination. If an irregularity of the ovary is found, alternatives to evaluation include transvaginal sonography and/or tumor markers. The most common tumor marker is a blood test called the CA-125.
In Accomack & Northampton: LET THE SEARCH BEGIN

By Ron West

The Northampton County School Board took the first steps in what may be a long road toward replacing Superintendent Dr. Walter Clemons, who will be leaving the county at the end of the current school term in June.

The Virginia School Board Association (VSBA) has agreed to coordinate a search for viable candidates for the board to interview, with the hope of having a new superintendent in place by July 1.

Speaking for the VSBA, Executive Director Gina Patterson outlined the steps toward conducting a survey to choose the attributes that the board desires in a superintendent. Most importantly, Patterson stressed the need for the board to obtain as much input as possible from the public and school staffs regarding just what they want to see in the leader of the school system.

A public survey is available online at www.surveymonkey.com/s/Northampton_Supt and at each county school and the School Administration Building.

Additionally, a safety study of Lankford Highway which I proposed in the Senate was carried over until 2015 to allow me to convene some meetings with the Virginia Department of Transportation, State Police, the two county governments, and the public to discuss safety improvement needs along the corridor. Rumble strips are scheduled to be installed along the shoulders of Lankford Highway for the length of the Shore this summer.

The Assembly welcomed Rob Bloxom on Wednesday Feb. 26, when he was sworn in as the newest member of the House of Delegates from the 100th District. I look forward to working with him on issues important to the Shore.

My contact information here in the Senate in Richmond is 804-698-7506 and my email address is district06@senate.virginia.gov. Our district contact information is P.O. Box 760, Accomac, VA 23301, telephone number 866-787-1094. Please contact me on issues of concern to you and visit the office if you are in Richmond. I will be here until March 8.

“Hiring a new superintendent is the biggest task facing a School Board and we want to make sure that the public has a voice in this process,” Said School Board Chairman William “Skip” Oakley. “We hope that parents, staff and residents will take the time to fill out the survey or attend the public hearing. The deadline for completing the surveys is March 13th. The board members expressed a desire for as many groups as possible, such as churches and other organizations in the county, to encourage as much participation in the survey as possible.”

Applications for the position will be accepted between March 17 and April 11, then the board will begin the interview process.

Anyone with questions or comments on the survey may contact Patty Mysko at pmysko@ncpsk12.com

There will be a public hearing on the selection of a new superintendent Thursday, March 13, at 7 p.m. at Northampton High School.

School Board Asks County for $8.7 Million
By Ron West

The Northampton School Board presented its FY 2015 budget request at a public information session last week at Kiptopeke Elementary School.

The $20.3 million spending package calls for $8.7 million in local funds, an increase of $590,047 over the current budget. Superintendent Dr. Walter Clemons noted that the proposal calls for a two-step increase for staff pay, which has been stagnant in recent years.

The budget request includes an increase in eRate funding (money related to the phone and Internet service) and an expected increase in state funding as a result of changes in the Local Composite Index, which determines how much funding the state provides.

Clemons also identified a number of capital improvement needs, including replacement of the roof at Occohannock Elementary School, and resurfacing the parking lots at Occohannock and Kiptopeke elementary schools, for a total cost of just under $900,000. Needed repairs to the high school, School Administration Building, and bus garage would cost between $1 million and $2 million.

A decision on when and if the high school and middle school are to be replaced has yet to be made.

The Broadwater basketball team breaks every huddle with the chant, “Family.” The players are obviously close, often getting together Sundays for an open gym day at the school to play basketball even after a week of practice.

Millwood School, the team Broadwater met last week in the state semifinal on the Petersburg campus of Virginia State University, is not so much a family as it is a basketball factory, a team assembled in one season at a school that only had grades 1 through 8 until recently. It had no sports teams competing at the varsity level last year.

How, you may ask, can a school go from not having a basketball team to having a state championship squad a year later?

A story on the front sports page of the Richmond Times-Dispatch the day of the game detailed the successful start-up of the basketball program.

It pointed out that one of the team’s top players had never heard of Millwood School a year ago. I am sure he wasn’t alone.

Located in Chesterfield County, Millwood is in its 25th year, but in 2013, three students became the first to graduate at Millwood.

The athletics director at the school decided last spring to form a basketball team to start the school’s sports program.

He offered the coaching job to Chaz Starnes, who had recently departed Amelia Academy after winning the 2013 state championship in Division 3 for the Virginia Independent Schools Athletic Association.

Starnes also had coached AAU basketball and talked to a former player who was interested in transferring from a public school to a private school and reclassifying.

That player talked to some AAU teammates, and before long, six players from the Squires Richmond Basketball team, one of the top AAU teams in the area, were transferring to Millwood.

Overnight, Millwood became one of the top basketball programs in Richmond. The team came within 2 points of defeating Benedictine, the top-ranked team in the Richmond Times-Dispatch basketball poll.

Millwood now has 43 students in high school, 13 of whom play varsity basketball. And because most of the transfers reclassified, the team only had two seniors this year.

Reclassifying is controversial. Private schools can gain an advantage by fielding teams with players a year older and more developed.

Broadwater, too, will be bolstered next year when the football and basketball teams likely will include Tyler and Taylor Major, two of the Shore’s top athletes who transferred from Arcadia in mid-semester. The twins were reclassified as sophomores and will have two years to compete for the Vikings.

This Broadwater team featured two transfers from Nandua and another from Northampton, all key players who have fit in extremely well since transferring as juniors to Broadwater. Neither, however, reclassified.

Still, the transferring of top talent from public to private schools naturally causes hard feelings among some public school coaches who helped develop the talent at an early age.

But for the student-athletes, it often means additional exposure and sometimes an extra year to prepare for college with hopes of acquiring a scholarship.

Across the bay, however, it has been taken to a whole new level.

Smith looked at him quizzically and asked, “Get me some players?”

“Yeah, I can get some good players to come to your school,” said the man.

“By the way, where did you get number 10?” referring to Broadwater’s top player, Michael Riopel.

What Millwood did not have, apparently, is a fan base. Broadwater filled an entire section with fans and cheerleaders who cheered loudly for every Viking basket. Though the school was less than 30 miles away, Millwood had no cheerleaders and only a few supporters who were church-like quiet for each Millwood highlight.

Broadwater also received an extra bit of hospitality when Ace Custis, a 1992 Northampton High School graduate and a Virginia Tech Hall of Fame player who now coaches at Virginia State University, invited the team the night before to practice on the court where they would play the semi-final game the next day. Ace also talked to the team, which was staying at nearby Ft. Lee, thanks to a contact made by a parent.

“I will always be a Shore boy and will be rooting for them today,” said Ace before the game.

“That was really classy and very generous for Ace to reach out and invite us to the gym so we could get comfortable with the surroundings,” said Viking coach Eddie Spencer, who coached Ace in youth basketball.

Classy, indeed, and a tribute to the family values that run deep on the Shore.

Broadwater Bows in VISAA State Semi-Final

Story and photos by Bill Sterling

Broadwater could not survive a 13-0 run by Millwood School to open the second half and fell 85-57 in the state semi-final game of the Virginia Independent Schools Athletic Association last Friday in Petersburg.

The Vikings trailed 17-12 after the first quarter, with Matt McCaskill hitting an early 3-pointer and Wesley Shrieves scoring 5 points.

“They were deep and athletic,” said Broadwater coach Eddie Spencer, “and we didn’t handle their press very well in the second half, leading to some easy baskets for them.”

In the first half, virtually all of the Millwood scoring came from inside as they worked the ball to 6’7” Jermaine Matthews and 6’5” Jordan Cross, who each finished with a team-high 19 points for the Bobcats.

Broadwater trailed 55-34 after three quarters, but came back with a strong fourth quarter with four 3-pointers, two by McCaskill and one each by Michael Riopel and Frank Long.

Millwood, however, poured in 30 points, with three 3-pointers of its own.

Shrieves led the Vikings with 19 points, while McCaskill and Riopel had 11 each. Burrows chipped in 9 points.

“We didn’t play our best game,” said Coach Spencer, “but overall we played well. That was a very talented team we met today.”

Millwood went on to win the state championship the following day with a 68-62 win over Christ Chapel.

Looking back on a 23-7 season, Spencer said, “It’s been a great season. We had quite a ride, winning 18 straight and knocking off some very good teams.”

Spencer also said he will miss his five senior starters next season. “They were a pleasure to coach and worked hard to achieve what they did,” he said. “We had three players to make All-Metro, which was a first for Broadwater (see Page 21), but Wesley Shrieves improved greatly as the season went on and became a human highlight film with some amazing dunks. And Frank Long, who doesn’t get much attention, had a solid year and always seemed to hit big shots when we needed them.”

Broadwater advanced to the VISAA state semi-finals with a thrilling 60-59 win over North Cross of Roanoke by scoring 4 points in the final 25 seconds, the winner coming on a Riopel basket with four seconds remaining after a drive and a pass from Burrows, then surviving a successful half-court heave by North Cross that was ruled to have come a half-second after the buzzer.

Brendon Burrows puts up a left-handed shot in action against Millwood last Friday in the VISAA semi-final game. The Vikings lost 85-57.

Broadwater coaches Eddie Spencer, Joel Simpson and Curt Smith greet seniors Michael Riopel, Brendon Burrows, Wesley Shrieves and Matt McCaskill in the waning moments of Friday’s semi-final loss to Millwood in the VISAA semi-final last week. Frank Long also played his last game for Broadwater.
Broadwater’s Michael Riopel, Brendon Burrows and Matt McCaskill were named to the 12-man Metro Conference first team, with Riopel unanimously named Player of the Year.

Broadwater placed second in the nine-team Metro Conference during the regular season and finished runner-up in the conference tournament before advancing to the Final Four in the Virginia Independent Schools Athletic Association state tournament.

The 6’5” Riopel averaged 19.8 points per game and led his team in rebounding with 6.3 per game. “I’ve coached Michael since he was 5 years old at some level,” said Broadwater coach Eddie Spencer, “but it’s nothing I’ve done that has made Michael the player he is. He is always working on his game and striving to get better.”

Riopel is being recruited by several Division 3 colleges.

Burrows, 6’2” and 240 pounds, could drive to the basket and mix it up with bigger players or pull up and hit a 3-pointer while leading the break. “He was a force when he had the ball,” said Coach Spencer. “Teams didn’t know how to guard him because he could play inside or outside.” Burrows averaged 14.9 points per game and grabbed 6.3 rebounds a game while handing out a team-high 2.8 assists a game.

McCaskill averaged 13.7 points per game from his guard position. “Matt’s quickness and speed allowed us to put him on the opposition’s point guard and disrupt their offense,” said Spencer. “He also had an excellent outside shot, but if teams pressured him, he had the quickness to drive to the basket.”

All three All-Metro players are seniors.

Wendell Named All-Metro Basketball

Wendell averaged 18.7 points and made 3.5 steals per game.

Her best game came when she scored a high of 32 points, converting 5 of 6 3-point shots.

“Katie was our go-to player for offense,” said Broadwater coach Ralph Dodd. “She had a knack for finding the basket and was a key player in our pressing defense.”
Northampton Competes in State Indoor Track and Field Meet

The Northampton High School indoor boys' and girls' track team had a good day at the Virginia High School League (VHSL) 1A-2A East Regional indoor Track and Field Championship held recently at the Boo Williams Sportsplex in Hampton, Va.

Placing third in the 55-meter dash was Taylor Campbell with a time of 7.64 seconds. Marquel Fitchett finished eighth in the 55-meter hurdles with a time of 8.95 seconds. The boys' 4x200 relay time of 1:44.30 was fast enough to earn a sixth-place finish.

The high point of the meet was when Smith, Fitchett, Williams and Campbell finished second in the 4x200 relay with a time of 1:55.17, right behind the Double AA State Champion team from Brunswick High School.

The teams are coached by Northampton High School educator and County Supervisor Oliver Bennett.

Nandua Middle School Wins District Title

Nandua Middle School clinched the district title in an epic basketball game against Arcadia Middle School in early February. That win also made the “Braves” tournament champions as well. Head Coach Gwame Mizzelle stated, “This was the best middle school basketball game that I have ever witnessed. I am extremely proud of my guys for fighting until the very end against a very good basketball team.” Nandua finished the season with a record of 5-1 winning the final game against the only team that defeated them. The championship game entailed all that anyone could ask for in a basketball game. It was a nail biting game until the very end with Nandua winning in overtime 62-60 against Arcadia.

Dear Editor:

I would like to respond to the Feb. 14 article about deer hunting with dogs.

I’ve hunted deer for over 20 years and yes, I’m a still hunter. I take great pride in knowing that I’m the one who scouts, sets tree stands, and clears shooting lanes — and spends hours doing it. I’m a bow and gun user. I also clean my own deer after I get one or at least get it ready to be processed.

I belonged to one of the local clubs that use dogs and all I can get out of it is that it doesn’t take any work to hunt with a dog.

A day of hunting with dogs: You get a group of hunters together, park along a road, and get the dogs on the other end of the woods. The hunter walks into the edge of the woods and waits for a deer that is running from a number of dogs that will chase him to no end. It doesn’t matter if it’s on another person’s property or not. When a deer runs in front of five or six hunters, and each one of them gets at least two shots off, you can imagine what that deer looks like. No wonder they donate it to the foodbank; it’s because the deer has so many horns on it, that’s all it’s worth — hamburger. The only thing that goes back home with them is the horns and they are so proud of how they got them.

Here are some facts:

1. No matter how deep or far in the woods deer are, they have to come out to eat and breed and that’s what real hunters look for. It may take days or weeks to get that big buck, but that’s why they call it hunting.

2. GPS on dogs is a joke. On how many properties has that dog run deer before the dog comes out on a road so the hunter can recover it before a landowner or hunter of private land recovers it or confronts the club?

3. As far as intimidation goes, yes, it’s because most landowners don’t carry guns with them and I’ve never seen a club member looking for a deer and not carrying a weapon.

4. As a landowner, yes, I’ve had hunters and dogs cross my land and I’ve confronted them. It got to the point where one day I got out of my tree and the dog followed me home. That’s when I took him to the pound. And some hunters loved him so much they followed me home. That’s when I took him to the pound. And some hunters loved him so much they never came to the SPCA to get the dog back.

This year, a group of landowners will be filming the way these clubs operate and let it become public.

My suggestion on how to settle this is to have a public vote on it. Make it so anyone over the age of 18 who lives in Accomack County can vote, and make it convenient, like on a Saturday. It’s a public issue, so let the public decide it, not a group of friends on a board or committee.
