Arsonist Tonya Bundick has asked for separate trials for each of the 62 charges of deliberately setting fires made against her in connection with a spree that ended nearly a year ago.

Defense lawyer Allan Zaleski’s motion for the request was filed this week in Accomack Circuit Court. He is seeking separate proceedings “in order to preserve the right of the defendant to due process of law as guaranteed under the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Virginia,” he wrote.

Bundick was convicted earlier this year in Virginia Beach Circuit Court of deliberately causing one fire and conspiring to set it. Evidence had been presented to a jury at that proceeding when Bundick changed her plea to guilty.

Her motion to move the trials for the remaining 62 cases off the Shore has not yet been decided. Bundick also has not been sentenced for the convictions. She is being held in Eastern Shore Regional Jail.

Affordable Housing Project Put on Hold

By Linda Cicoira

Accomack Village, the $10 million 96-unit family apartment complex proposed for 6.4 acres along Lankford Highway outside of Parksley, is at a stumbling block.

A safety issue at the nearby intersection with Metompkin Road caused county supervisors to unanimously vote Wednesday to postpone a decision regarding the project.

Developer Dave Koogler of the Mark-Dana Corporation (MDC) needs the board’s approval to apply for a $700,000 Community Block Grant that would jumpstart the affordable housing plan. In addition, a conditional-use permit would have to be obtained. Koogler built nearby Accomack Manor in 2007.

The proposed complex would likely bring 100 more cars to the area, which worries members of the adjacent Zion Baptist Church.

“We’re in a very dangerous spot,” said Tom Wilson, a member of the church’s board of deacons and a structural engineer. “It’s the wrong idea to add development back there … you do not turn off on a super elevation turn.”

Wilson said the circa 1852 church has been hit three times—“twice at high speeds … last time it almost came in our front door. The new sign isn’t because we wanted a new sign. The other one got run over.”

Wilson favors a Virginia Department of Transportation (VDOT) plan to close the road in that area and build a new one about 200 feet north of the intersection. He guessed the project would cost $500,000.

“VDOT said they didn’t have the money,” said board Chairman Jack Gray, who represents the district. “But even if they did, it was far down on the list.” Gray said he met with Koogler and his daughter. “He will not pay to move the road.”

Director of Planning and Community Development Rich Morrison said a right-of-way included in the conditional approval of Accomack Manor was not identified. “VDOT isn’t telling exactly where the road should go. In fairness to Koogler and the church, “it has to be surveyed. A legal instrument needs to be provided. I saw this moment coming. It’s been difficult to nail the thing down. Koogler is not interested in giving the right-of-way away until the road is getting ready to be built.”

Supervisor Ron Wolff complained MDC “wants us to move forward where it hasn’t moved forward at all.”

The Northampton County School Board is seeking a replacement for current Superintendent Dr. Walter Clemons who will be leaving at the end of June.

The public was given an opportunity to offer views on the subject at a hearing conducted last Thursday at Northampton High School. Two dozen citizens attended; several offered their opinions.

Board Chairman Skip Oakley said the board wanted to hear input on the traits citizens want to see in the next school superintendent. “We need to try to build our system into what is best for our students,” he told the gathering.

Parent Sean Ingram noted that he had several issues with the present school system. Ingram said students at the high school need some consistency with staff instead of the heavy turnover of recent years. He urged the School Board to require staff members to be guided by the student dress code that has been in effect for over a decade. Ingram said he wants a superintendent who is hands-on and able to give direction to staff.

Diane Davis, who provided direction to the Vocational Department prior to retirement, stressed the need for the new superintendent to have had extensive classroom experience. “He or she needs to be someone who is not easily persuaded by one or two small groups in the community,” Davis said. “The person needs to be knowledgeable in both the core as well as vocational subject areas.” Davis noted that not all students are going to go to college and that they need to be well-versed in one or more of the fields of vocational training to better prepare them for a career in the business world.

Former Superintendent Dr. Dawn Goldstine stated that until you have had a bad superintendent, it’s hard to be sure what a good one really is. She stressed the need for whomever is selected to listen to the parents in the community. “The person needs to have a proven track record as a teacher and as a leader,” Goldstine said. “He or she needs to be a collaborative leader, friendly, and one who contributes to the community.” Goldstine said the superintendent should guide staff while letting them do their jobs. “The person needs to be a role model and most importantly, view the position as more than just another job,” she said. “It’s a 24/7 job and the superintendent needs to be nearby and available whenever needed.”

Taking a different tact, former educator Cathy Buynr stated that the job is very different from what it was a decade ago. She pressed for someone who is not outdated and is ready to hit the ground running. “We can’t wait for someone from out of state to learn what is required by the State of Virginia to help improve the schools,” said Buynr, who is opposed to requiring the individual to live on the Eastern Shore. “We should be willing to look at people who might live here and possibly pay them to move to the area. I’d rather get someone in the door and hope that they will move later to the area.”

Said educator Heather Marsh, “Whomever we select needs to be part of our community. Our kids are being over-tested and are losing interest in school.” Marsh pointed out that the county is losing a lot of teachers who are becoming disheartened with the schools. “It takes a while to become a good teacher,” she added.

Andy Ceeling suggested that the superintendent needs to be a facilitator and someone who respects and supports the teachers. “Morale is low among the teachers now and the kids are aware of how unhappy they are,” he said, adding that the superintendent needs to be seen out in the community a lot. “We need someone with common sense, who supports the teachers and will help the students improve,” said Ceeling. “Lots of degrees are not as important.”

A final suggestion from the audience proposed that the board have someone visit the community where the finalists for the job live and see what those people have to say about them.

The board hopes to interview candidates later in the spring and have someone selected in June who will be ready to be on the job on July 1.

Northampton Grand Jury

A quiet indictment handed down by a Northampton Grand Jury earlier this month was made public Tuesday and adds to the long list of charges against a self-employed waterman accused of attacking a member of the National Guard last October.

Carpenter was indicted in January on counts of attempted murder, use of firearm in the attempted murder, abduction by force or intimidation, malicious wounding, hit and run, strangulation, driving under the influence of drugs, driving on a suspended license and possession of cocaine.

Eminhizer, 22, testified at a preliminary hearing that she had to fight for her life after Carpenter, whom she had never met, struck her with his car while she was jogging on Sunnyside Road near Oyster, got out of the vehicle and started beating her in the head with what she guessed was a tire iron, then forced her into the vehicle, threatened her with a knife, fought with her over his long gun, tried to break her neck and choked her before she managed to get away and run into the woods near Eastville. A trial date has not been set.

Also indicted was Alice La Croix, 52, of Mason Avenue in Cape Charles, charged March 14 with two counts of misdemeanor obtaining goods with intent to defraud on Dec. 17, 2013, illegally obtaining a credit card or credit-card number between Dec. 6 and 21 and on Dec. 17, embezzling money on Dec. 7 and felony obtaining money by false pretenses on Dec. 30. Secured bail was set at $1,000.

Frederick Eugene Walker, 55, of Rue Court in Exmore was indicted on a count of possessing cocaine on May 7, 2013. Bail was set at $10,000.

Accomack Circuit Court

Larrie Linwood Taylor, who spent about 10 years in prison for driving drunk and causing the death of an off-duty state trooper and his 9-year-old son in 2003, was convicted last week in Accomack Circuit Court of DUI.

Taylor, 66, who was living on Boggs Road in Painter when the Aug. 11, 2013, incident occurred, pleaded not guilty to the felony charge. He testified that he had been drinking all day at a friend’s house across the street and woke up in the wrecked pick-up truck.

An accident report filed by Trooper B.E. Lewis states Taylor was driving on Boggs Road at about 10 p.m. when the vehicle “ran off the left side of the road and struck a pole” about two-tenths of a mile west of Route 620.

A charge of driving on a revoked license was dismissed because Assistant Commonwealth’s Attorney J. Spencer Morgan did not provide documents that Taylor was prohibited from driving. Judge W. Revell Lewis III ordered a presentence report. Taylor was taken back to jail to await sentencing.

In 2003, Trooper Anthony Daryl Campbell, 35, of Exmore died from head and chest trauma, according to an autopsy. His son, Andrew Tyler Campbell, died of head injuries. Leigh Campbell, the wife and mother, was critically injured. She attended last week’s proceeding.

Taylor’s criminal record includes 15 traffic charges.

In another case, Trae Preston Rantz, 19, of Lankford Highway in Oak Hall was sentenced to three years each for felony destruction of property and attempted grand larceny of irrigation equipment belonging to Benjy Thomas on July 19, 2013. All but 15 days was suspended. Rantz was ordered to pay $645.53 in restitution.

Asia Renee Woolford, 23, of Rantz Street in New Church was sentenced to three years for grand larceny from Walmart in Onley, with all but 20 days suspended, and 60 days for a second offense of shoplifting, with all but 10 days suspended, to run consecutively.

Charles Stewart Young, 37, a resident at G.F. Horne Assisted Living on Hartman Avenue in Onancock when the incidents occurred, was sentenced for malicious wounding to 10 years, with three suspended. That term was set to run consecutively with six years each for burglary and grand larceny, with all but three years suspended, for a total of 11 years to serve. Young stabbed a Horne worker, broke into Onancock General Store and stole money.

Northampton Circuit Court

La’Toya (Toya) Chinel Burton, 35, of Milton Ames Road in Cheriton was sentenced to five years in prison Monday in Northampton Circuit Court for obtaining Medicaid funds by false pretenses.

All but six months of the term was suspended. Burton was ordered to pay restitution of $10,415. A charge of making a false statement to obtain funds was not prosecuted. The crimes occurred between March 29 and Nov. 19, 2012.

Brandon Antonio Tankard, 27, of Church Court in Nassawadox was sentenced to five years on each of two counts of forgery, with all but 10 months suspended. For petty larceny, Tankard got 12 months, with all but two months suspended, for a total of 12 months to serve. He was ordered to pay $650 restitution for the March 2013 incidents.

Rachael Lauren Leonard, 30, of Knoxville, Tenn., got 10 years each for 10 counts of grand larceny, to run concurrently, with all but 10 months suspended. The crimes occurred in 2011. Additional charges of felony theft that allegedly occurred in 2012 were not prosecuted.

Cordelia Smith, 43, of Birdsnest pleaded guilty to being an accessory after the fact, amended from a charge of grand larceny. She was sentenced to 12 months in jail, with all but 30 days suspended. Three counts of burglary and a count of grand larceny were not prosecuted.

Joseph Anthony Hartshorn, 21, of Virginia Beach pleaded guilty to burglary, grand larceny and stealing property with the intent to sell it, occurring Jan. 24, 2013. The cases were continued pending completion of a presentence report.

Mary Elizabeth Boole, 30, of Exmore was convicted of burglary, two counts of grand larceny and two counts of stealing property with the intent to sell it, occurring Jan. 24, 2013. A presentence report was ordered.

Accomack District Court

Judge Gordon Vincent found probable cause Monday in Accomack General District Court to certify sex offenses to a Grand Jury in the case of Francisco Janel-Pol of Bloxom Circle in Mappsville. He was taken back to Accomack Jail, where he is being held without bond on charges of attempted forcible rape and sexual battery occurring Jan. 11.

Through an interpreter, the alleged victim, one of several former housemates of the defendant, testified that Janel-Pol came up behind her while she was cooking and attempted to rape her while her 2-year-old child clutched her pants leg.

“I asked him why he wanted to rape me in front of my son,” she said. “I struggled with him … I go outside and call the police … he put his hands on me (wrists) and he wanted to throw me to the ground … I was fighting him.”

The woman said he told her, “even if he spends 10 years in jail, when he gets out of jail he’s going to kill me.”

In a signed statement written through an interpreter, the defendant admitted he grabbed the victim. “I tried to take her shirt off and her pants off but she didn’t let me,” Deputy Commonwealth’s Attorney Matthew Brenner read from the document.

Northampton District Court

A local teacher was awarded more than $1,000 in back pay from Broadwater Academy recently in Northampton General District Court.

Faith Sturgis of Painter said she left the Exmore school last summer to take a position elsewhere, but did not receive her last paycheck from Broadwater. When Sturgis questioned the matter, she said she was told there had been a change in the way workers were paid and she was not owed any money.

Sturgis said no one realized that this had occurred several years ago because the teachers still got their pay every two weeks.

The suit was filed on Oct. 18, 2013, and settled in January with an award of $1,063.51 and court costs of $54 going to Sturgis, who represented herself. Judge Gordon Vincent removed himself from presiding over the case, as he is a former member of the Broadwater Board of Directors. Judge Michael R. Katchmark of Chesapeake heard the case.

Sturgis said the five-year statute of limitations for other teachers to collect their pay ends this fall. She said as many as 30 teachers could be affected.

Several teachers and Headmaster Jeremy McClean were contacted about the case but none would comment.

“People are not going to rustle feathers,” said Sturgis.
WHILE WE WERE SLEEPING........

Some of you may remember a full-page ad with this headline published in this paper several years ago. The series of ads was aimed at informing readers of a developer’s plan to build a Biomass Conversion Plant in close proximity to Exmore’s Downtown Business District. The plan was given initial approval by the Exmore Town Council and Planning Board. But after being informed of the REAL risks associated with the conversion of biomass to alternative fuel, most of the same regulators said they would never have approved the proposal if they “had known then what they know now!”

Indeed, the conversion of biomass (soybeans, vegetable oil, corn, or organic waste) to alternative fuel (biodiesel, ethanol, etc.) involves either chemical, thermal, or biochemical methods. It requires large amounts of fresh water, propane or heating oil, and raw material that could otherwise be used to feed those in need. It also very often involves dangerous and highly toxic chemicals such as methanol, which must be stored onsite. Biomass conversion can also produce wastes such as glycerin, which is toxic to aquatic and avian life. Glycerin also kills the beneficial organisms that are needed to enable a wastewater treatment plant to break down waste, and discharge into these systems can be disastrous.

A national study in 2012 of 107 Biomass facilities in the U.S. found that 85 of those plants were cited by state or federal regulators for violation of clean air or water standards in the previous five years. Just as troubling, since 2006, dozens of these plants have suffered from major fires, have exploded and/or polluted sensitive waterways and ecosystems.

Incredibly, while we were sleeping, kept in the dark and neatly tucked away, Northampton County planning staff were burning the midnight oil, rewriting our protective zoning code at the direction of the county supervisors to make it “business friendly.” And one of the many proposed items that would change our county forever is to allow Biomass Conversion plants “by right” in any district. These include residential, waterfront, cottage, mixed residential, agricultural and all others. No Special Use Permit, no public notification...just build it and go! While they clarified this new code by limiting the plants to “small scale,” in the footnotes they say that small scale is defined as anything you can do in a building 4,000 square feet or less. You don’t have to be an expert to realize you can get a lot of methanol tanks, vats, and other processing equipment in a 40’ x 100’ building! Yes, no limits on gallons/day, odor, noise, waste disposal, or water use. This is “business friendly” on steroids!

Sadly, this near heretical proposal in the draft zoning amendment is only one of many that stand to pull the pins from the undercarriage of what makes Northampton County one of the most sensitive and attractive ecosystems and nature-based tourist attractions east of the Mississippi. The drafters of the amendments seem to forget that the Eastern Shore gets its drinking water from the Columbia Yorktown-Eastover aquifer, which is a “sole source” reserve. That means that the only recharge to this supply is from rainwater that seeps through our sandy soil...taking with it anything we place on the ground! From removing protections of our sensitive seaside marshes and wetlands, to cluster housing, to exclusionary zoning prejudicing low-income residents, the proposed zoning amendments are akin to an environmental, natural resource, and social grenade.

We urge all readers of this page to contact your local, county, state and federal representatives and demand that this insane process be halted and reset. We must stress that any zoning ordinance amendments be consistent with the previously well-deliberated and adopted Comprehensive Plan and be subjected to full and unfettered public participation.

Supervisor Wanda Thornton suggested that a separate entryway be build on Lankford Highway in front of the new development. She urged the parties to seek help from the highway department. “VDOT does have safety money. I don’t care what they tell you.”

“Koogler does a good job,” said Supervisor Grayson Chesser. Still, he said he couldn’t support the project.

“I don’t want to give him false hope. I wouldn’t want to be going across there on a Sunday morning. I assume everybody is right with the Lord.”

Supervisor Robert Crockett said the developer should provide alternative plans “since VDOT says it is not safe.”

Regarding the road, Thornton said of VDOT, “They may have to move it whether they want to do it or not.”

Koogler did not attend the session. “I know you know that you lack housing — affordable housing,” Koogler told the board several months ago. “If you built it, they’ll stand in line trying to get in because there is that much need.” He said the one-, two- and three-bedroom low-income apartments would be spread across five brick or stone buildings with a central structure for a clubhouse, laundry, fitness room, computers and management office. The plan includes sprinkler systems, ceiling fans, smoke detectors, laundry connections, wall-to-wall carpets and energy-star appliances.

In other business, Supervisor Kay Lewis reported that getting easements for drainage in Saxis, Sanford and Justisville has taken longer than expected. “Hopefully, the projects will start around June,” she added.

The supervisors also:

• set a public hearing for April 16 regarding Atlantic Town Center Utility Company’s request for a conditional-use permit for a central water and sewer facility near the intersection of Thompson and Chincoteague roads in Wattsville;

• authorized staff to apply for a National Park Service Public Water Access Projects grant not to exceed $25,000 (the local match would be in donations to the county by adjacent owners);

• awarded the $352,400 sheriff’s office addition project to Beauchamp Construction;

• agreed to terminate a lease agreement with Nextel Communications for antennas and associated equipment at the Mappsville Tower. Nextel determined the site is no longer viable for its operations.

A new political party is being poured out on the Shore.

It’s the Eastern Shore Chapter of the Hampton Roads Tea Party.

“We started the Tea Party here to promote personal responsibility, free markets, smaller government, stop wasteful spending, private property rights, constitutional principles and lower taxes,” said Vice Chairman Jim Kaczmarek of the Parksley area. “Our goal is to engage, empower and equip the citizens of the Eastern Shore to protect and promote the values of constitutionally guaranteed rights, limited government, free markets and personal responsibility.”

“We have about 32 members so far but a few more will be signing up at our next meeting on April 2, 7 p.m. at Market Street Grill in Onancock,” he continued.

Kaczmarek said, “We were contacted by members of the Hampton Roads Tea Party in December to start a branch here on the Shore so we are part of the Virginia Beach, Norfolk, Portsmouth and Suffolk group.”

Other officers include Chairman Billy Graham of Fox Grove and Franco Nocera of Northampton, both well-known area Republicans. Nocera owns a local restaurant and hosts a local radio program. Graham campaigned for Melody Scarley for that party’s nomination for delegate of the 100th District at the recent Republican Mass Meeting. Since then he filed to run for chairman of the Accomack Republican Party only to drop out a few days before the election.

Kaczmarek said the local Tea Party’s new Facebook page got 110 likes in the first 36 hours.

Was Parksley closed meeting legal?

I do not believe the January closed meeting held in Parksley was legal. I sent an email which stated: (Mayor James Grover Eichelberger announced they would be going into executive session to “discuss legal matters and personnel matters.” That statement was not sufficient to satisfy the requirements for holding a closed (executive) meeting. §2.2-3712 Subsection A states: “the subject matter of the closed meeting shall not be sufficient to satisfy the requirements for holding a closed meeting.” The town attorney Thomas B. Dix, Jr. being present should have pointed that out. No motion was made to go into closed (executive) meeting. No affirmative recorded vote was taken approving a motion. No specific reference was made to the applicable exemption from open meeting requirements provided in §2.2-3707 or Subsection A of §2.2-3711.)

The town minutes indicated that a motion was passed to go into Executive Session to discuss legal and personnel matters. No such motion was made during the open meeting. No such motion can be made after going into closed meeting.

The town minutes indicated that the council voted and agreed that only such public business matters as were identified in the motion convening the Executive Session were heard, discussed or considered by the Town Council. That vote was not legal. §2.2-3712 Subsection D requests a roll call to be held in open meeting after conclusion of the closed meeting.

I believe Parksley needs to get its act together when holding a closed meeting. Perhaps they need to find another town lawyer.

Community Grant Winners Announced

The Eastern Shore Health District and Eastern Shore Healthy Communities have announced the recipients of the 2014 Community Garden Initiative:

- No Limits Community Garden, providing access to and knowledge of healthy vegetables for brain injury survivors
- Bayview Rural Village Community Garden, educating homeowners about nutrition
- The Foodbank of Southeastern Virginia and the Eastern Shore Community Garden
- New Roots Youth Garden in Cape Charles
- The Food Forest in Painter
- Eastern Shore Community Service Board Community Garden in Parksley
- the Healthier Tangier Initiative Community Garden on Tangier

Proposals to develop or sustain a community garden were submitted from organizations, interested parties, and community members. Residents are encouraged to visit the gardens.

Shorekeeper Jay C. Ford commented on the Food Forest, noting that Shine and Rise Farm in Painter will build Virginia’s first public food forest in conjunction with Central Green and Virginia Eastern Shorekeeper.

“Growing a wide variety of annual and perennial fruits and vegetables, the Eastern Shore Food Forest will offer classes to the community on growing and healthy eating as well as providing nutritional, delicious food to those in need,” Ford said. Noting that only three other food forests exist in the United States, Ford said, “This will be a wonderful addition to our region and we are proud to be spearheading this project.”

Trail Ride This Week for Special Olympics

Burton’s Bayside Farm in Cheriton will be the site of a trail ride to benefit Special Olympics Virginia-Eastern Shore. Local landowners have opened approximately 15-20 miles of countryside for the trail, which will be open from Thursday, March 27, until Sunday March 30.

The organized trail ride, to be held Saturday, March 29, will include lunch on the trail and dinner/entertainment that evening. The cost is $40. Further information may be obtained from Facebook (Burton’s Bayside Farm Benefit Trail Ride) or by calling Sandy Taylor at 414-1212. Pre-registration is encouraged and the forms are available for downloading.

Fresh Pride in Parksley Closes

By Linda Cicioira

It was a rerun from 2011. Employees and customers of Fresh Pride in Parksley found out the store closed Monday when they arrived for work and to shop. The last time it happened was in Onley when a note was posted on the front door.

“Yes, yesterday was our last day,” a man admitted when he answered the Parksley store’s telephone Tuesday. He would not answer any other questions and referred calls to Scott Beavers, CEO of Camellia Food Stores, which trades as Fresh Pride.

On Wednesday, Beavers was unable to say how many workers lost their jobs in Parksley or if any employees would be transferred to other locations. “Only Chincoteague and Exmore stores will stay open,” he added, dispelling rumors that empty shelves at the Chincoteague store are a sign of what is to come. “This is a tough time of year,” he said, explaining that a budget was given to Chincoteague for the first time this winter. But there are no plans to close the store.

“No, that’s just a rumor,” a Chincoteague Fresh Pride worker said Tuesday. “Weather and other factors have kept us from getting some supplies, but it’s just a matter of working out the kinks. Our store isn’t going to close.”

When the Onley store went out of business, Scott Perkins, Fresh Pride director of operations, blamed the move on a “saturated market.” He said with the “increase in competition that store has not been profitable for a couple of years … we were losing tens of thousands of dollars a month.” Some of the Onley workers had been transferred to the Parksley store.

In those days, winning the ACC tournament was more important than today. The NCAA field only had 32 teams and included very few outside the conference tournament winners, although North Carolina did get into the field despite the loss. Neither N.C. State nor Maryland, both Top 20 teams defeated by Virginia en route to the final game of the tourney, made the NCAA field that season.

Both U.Va. and Carolina lost their first-round NCAA tourney games in a year Indiana went undefeated throughout the season to claim the national title. It has not been done since, although Wichita State will attempt to duplicate the feat this year.

But back to the wedding in 1976. I recall saying to Jimmy, “Virginia finally wins the ACC tournament, and I miss it. Claudia is going to hear about this.”

Jimmy replied, “They are on the rise. They’ll win another.”

Sure enough, in a few years U.Va. garnered the top recruit in the nation in 74” Ralph Sampson. Although the Harrisonburg product was named National Player of the Year three straight years, the Cavaliers never won an ACC tournament in his time. U.Va. even had a Final Four appearance after Sampson departed, but still no ACC tournament titles in a league dominated by the Carolina teams.

Claudia has been a good friend over the years, never failing to call me on my birthday. I must admit I often forget to call on hers. But I sometimes tease her that I never will forget her wedding anniversary because it was the night the Wahoos won their one and only ACC tournament title.

Until now. Joe Harris, Marshall Brogdon and a host of other Wahoos who thrive on defense and team play won the ACC title last Sunday after also capturing the regular-season title. Defeating Duke was not the monumental upset it was 38 years ago, but it was sweet, although as an ACC fan I’ve always pulled for Duke when playing anyone but Virginia.

Now I can say I have witnessed the Wahoos winning an ACC title. And I can finally forgive Claudia Harmon for celebrating her wedding on the night Virginia won its first 38 years ago, although, the truth be told, it’s hard to hold a grudge against someone who never forgets your birthday.

But I am not ready to forgive Ralph for not getting U.Va. at least one title during his era. This may take a bit more time.

Local Cheerleader on Virginia Squad

Helping to lead the cheering for Virginia during this stellar season is a local graduate, Kristen Parker, the daughter of H.D. and Barbara Parker of Davis Wharf. Parker, a graduate of Broadwater Academy, is a third-year student at U.Va. taking premed courses. She has been on the cheerleading squad for three years and is pictured below, third from right.

Feeling Lucky?

Warren Buffett is offering $1 billion to the person who fills out the perfect brackets for the NCAA tournament. One billion has a lot of zeros, but not nearly as many as the odds of accomplishing this feat, which are one in 148 followed by 18 zeros.

Good luck. I just hope to beat Angie in the office pool. Despite professing to know little about college basketball, she won our pool last year.

New & Used Tires/
We fix flats
By Bill Sterling

Last week’s preview featured softball and girls’ soccer. Today, we take a look at baseball and boys’ soccer for the upcoming season.

Nandua always has high expectations, having gone to the Final Four in the state baseball playoffs the past two years.

Coach Luke Brankley says the key to this year’s success will be finding a number one pitcher with the graduation of ace Austin Heenan, now pitching for VMI. Ryan Haynie pitched well in the state playoffs last year and will be counted on in key games. Curtis Ormsby and Jake Guy also will be on the mound for the Warriors.

Of course, many eyes, including professional scouts’, will be on Hunter Taylor, the Nandua catcher who already has signed to play college ball at the University of South Carolina and is regarded as one of the top high-school catchers in the country. Taylor clubbed eight homers and had 40 RBIs in only 67 at-bats last season. His strong throwing arm also limits what the opposition can do on the base paths.

Nandua returns seven starters from that state playoff team last year and also will get contributions from Devante Mason, Tyreim Blake and Derek Bjorlo.

Arcadia coach Terry Mohler says his team has a nice mix of size, speed and overall talent. Key players for the Firebirds include Zach Mills, Mason Grove, Austin Bagwell and several underclassmen who have been impressive in spring practice.

Coach Mohler says the key to success this season is to play well-rounded ball games, remain aggressive and continue to develop younger players.

Northampton coach Will Leland takes over for a struggling Northampton baseball team that hopes to achieve more success this season. Cody Johnson and Nick Lewis return to head up the pitching, while Ryan Outten handles the catching duties. Will Carstens and Jake Green should help the offense. Josh Outten also returns after a year’s absence from the team.

Coach Leland says an emphasis on the fundamentals and the development of some young players will improve the team’s record this season.

Chincoteague coach Will Thompson is relying on a young team headed by two seniors, Corey Riefler and Alex McGee, his top two pitchers. Freshman Trey Fisher was also impressive on the mound in early-season scrimmages and will see plenty of action. Up the middle, the Ponies will have Dylan Mason at shortstop and Mason Marshall at second to bolster the defense.

Freshman Collin Derrickson is behind the plate. Returning freshman starters Miles Libertino and Joe Thornton also will be key players.

Coach Thompson says although his team is young, it has considerable experience and he hopes to see improvement over last year.

Broadwater baseball is relying on some young players, bolstered by seniors Ben Holland and Michael Rispel, who will handle much of the pitching duties and are expected to lead the offense.

Coach Ed Vance also is looking to Ben Farlow, Austin Murphy and Justin Shaffner to shore up the team. That quintet will provide infield defense when not pitching, while newcomer Taylor Major will roam center field. Cortland Bunce will handle the catching duties.

Broadwater got off to an earlier start than the Shore District teams and was 1-1 in league play heading into its spring break this week.

Soccer Kicks Off

Northampton and Nandua have dominated the soccer scene on the Shore for the past several seasons.

This year, the two schools will not meet in the playoffs due to the reclassification of schools, with Northampton in 1A and Nandua a 2A school.

Northampton lost 12 seniors from a team that made it to the regionals last year, but Jacket coach John Gorman doesn’t look at the upcoming season as a rebuilding year and is pleased with this year’s team that will include some promising newcomers from a strong JV squad last year.

Omar Cruz, Sammy Pineda, John Delmar, James Teeling and Junior Guildo all saw considerable action last season. Coach Gorman expects José Abarra to fill the goalie position capably. He adds freshman Jesus Malnaldo showed promise in early-season scrimmages which saw the Jackets defeat Kings Fork 3-0 and lose to Princess Anne of Virginia Beach 1-0.

Nandua will feature an All-Region returnee in David Wright, who scored 25 goals last year, and key contributors Elvis Mayorga and Andrew Colona. Caleb Clark will be back in goal for the Warriors. Wright is committed to playing soccer at VMI after his senior season.

Coach Paul Nolz says despite Northampton being in a different classification this year, the two teams always enjoy their intense rivalry.

Arcadia coach Patrick Cornwell says key players returning are Peter Rivera and Edgardo Martinez in the midfield, Josh Sanvs, Oscar Francisco, Matt Simpko on the back line, and forwards Caleb Lucy and Pedro Francisco looking to get the ball in the net.

The Firebirds open their season at home today against Windsor.

Chincoteague, coached by Charles Heath, is a young team depending on Jake Rickman, Hunter Lewis, Matt Lindsey and Seth Owens for leadership.

Coach Heath says freshman Tristan Binder is among nine freshmen who have shown promise in practice.

Nandua Indoor Soccer Completes Season

The Nandua Indoor Soccer League, which competes from January through March, just completed its 11th season under Coach Paul Nolz.

This year, more than 130 young soccer players played on 14 teams in two divisions for eight weeks.

Teams in the U-10 and U-14 divisions are named after the national teams that compete in the World Cup.

Team Germany, coached by Miguel Diaz, defeated second-place Holland 5-1 to win the under 10 championship.

Leonardo Bonilla scored three goals for Team Germany. Levin Smith and Leonardo Banilla showed great promise in scoring goals. Gerardo Ontiveros, did an excellent job as goalkeeper.

Team Argentina, coached by Andrew Colona, defeated team Spain 4-3 to win the hard-fought under 14 division championship. Brandon Alvardo proved to be the best goalkeeper of the older division.

Players interested in playing next season or enrolling in the Paul Nolz Soccer Academy this summer can contact Coach Nolz at 787-7625.

Vikings Top Portsmouth Christian 13-6

Broadwater defeated Portsmouth Christian 13-6 last Thursday in a baseball game with wintry conditions, 36 degrees at game time and winds howling at 25 miles per hour in Exmore.

The Vikings opened a 5-1 lead in the first inning, then shut down the visitors after PC tied the game 6-6 in the second inning.

Ben Holland relieved Michael Riopel after the third inning and pitched no-hit ball for four innings, striking out five and walking three.

Riopel led the Viking attack with a single, double and triple, collecting two RBIs and scoring twice.

Andrew Hart, only an eighth grader, had three singles and three RBIs.

Taylor Major was 3 for 4 with three stolen bases and an RBI.

Richardson Competes in National Track Meet

Broadwater senior Preston Richardson competed in a New Balance national meet last week in New York City, finishing 39th with a throw of 49’ 3.5”, well below the 57 feet he threw to win the Virginia Independent Schools Athletic Association indoor meet a month ago.

Broadwater coach Eric Hack said the setup was not suited to Richardson’s style. “The ring was set up for spinners, since the Armory in NYC is often where the USATF National Championships are. Preston uses the glide technique in competition. So, it was very slick and not good for his style. As a show of his tenacity, he went home and worked on the spin technique all weekend,” said Hack.

The previous weekend, Richardson traveled to Hampton Saturday to compete in the first-ever Virginia Meet of Champions, where he placed fourth in shot put with 52’ 10.25”.

Recruited by several Division 1 track programs, including the University of South Carolina and North Carolina State, Richardson also won the VISAA state title last season in the discus with a throw of 167’ 10”.

Mom
I love you for all the times you picked me up when I was down. For all the times you traded your warm smile for my frown.

For all the times you brushed my hair and tucked me into bed...Or needed something for yourself and put me first instead.

For all the dreams that we have shared, the tears and laughter too. I love you, Mom, with all my heart...

There's no one quite like you!

HAPPY 60TH BIRTHDAY
(MARCH 25) TO MY BEST FRIEND, KARLA PARKS.
I LOVE YOU MOM.

LOVE,
ANNIE

Several people told me another simple fix is to put more trashcans around. I suggest placing them in areas that can be accessed via a car window and that drive-through restaurants have drive-up trash dispensers.

Paul Muhly of Parksley belongs to the Waste Watcher group that is battling the litter problem. He wants all road deputies to enforce litter laws. Personally, I'd like to give the benefit of the doubt to those officers who see a litterbug in action. Catching them is hard because deep inside the culprits know what they are doing is wrong.

Muhly said much of the litter falls out of the back of pick-up trucks because the loads are not secure or covered. “Use hidden cameras from the arsonist case to monitor bad areas,” Muhly suggested. “Have our Eastern Shore senator and delegate jointly sponsor a ‘Deposit & Return Bottle Bill’” that provides 10 to 15 cents per bottle. Muhly also supports an additional “fast food take-out tax ... dedicated to the hiring of additional litter officers.”

I like the deposit and return idea but would that work on alcohol bottles? Dan Hillman of Locustville had a brainstorm. “Perhaps the county can offer money for bagged litter similar to deposits on soda bottles. Five bucks a bag.”

Muhly did a few clean-ups with the anti-litter group and “realized that not only do we have a trash and litter problem ... but we also have a DUI problem,” he said. “The beer bottles far outnumber the soda cans.”

Some folks suggested periodically publicizing the cleanest and most littered roads.

Sandra Schultz of Accomac said community service sentences are the key for those caught littering. “It is a theft of service because there is a cost to the community to clean up the mess.” She also cited the loss of quality of life. “A significant percentage (of the trash collected) is beer cans and other alcoholic beverage containers. Do you think that the people who throw this stuff have been drinking and driving?”

Sharyn McQuaid of Melfa suggested “litter traps,” which she compared to speed traps ... I do think it is going to be hard behavior to change.” As a Friend of the Eastern Shore Public Library, McQuaid said, clean-ups are conducted twice a year, including getting litter out of the bushes around the entrance. In the fall, “one of the pieces of litter was a dirty diaper!!! This was in addition to the beverage cans and food wrappers that are usual items. The people that litter at the library door are within a hundred yards of a trash can and on foot.”

Eric Dodge of Onancock said, “It all comes down to awareness and pride. If those things aren’t in place, then people litter. How do you get there? Peer pressure. I honked at someone who threw a paper out his window at a stop, and I think it actually registered.”

An Onancock woman had a fine idea. A litter party! Yippee! “One way we could attempt to combat the litter ... would be a Shorewide trash pick-up day with maybe a centralized location for everyone to gather afterwards and have food and drinks, maybe even a fund-raiser to help,” Ashley Mapp said.

I think there should be cake, I immediately thought. Please don’t litter!

Nothing quite says trash like litter. It shouts “lazy.” It screams “disrespect.” It echoes “ruin and havoc.” I have to be hard behavior to change.” As a Friend of the Eastern Shore Public Library, McQuaid said, clean-ups are conducted twice a year, including getting litter out of the bushes around the entrance. In the fall, “one of the pieces of litter was a dirty diaper!!! This was in addition to the beverage cans and food wrappers that are usual items.
