Ponies Not Sold Swim Back Home

Spectators and participants alike gathered at the Chincoteague carnival grounds last Thursday to watch the pony auction unfold and place their bids on the wild foals. Bids ranged from $750 to a record high of $21,000.

Catherine Miller was the victor of the intense bidding war that resulted in the winning bid of $21,000 on a black-and-white buy-back foal, which was returned to Assateague Island to live out his days. His sire is the well-known stallion of the north herd, “Black Tie Affair” or “Ace.” He is also the full brother to a yearling filly – another black-and-white foal named “Gracey” who was sold at the auction as a buy-back last year for $12,000.

The auction kicked off at 8 a.m. with a showcase of the Chincoteague Pony breed in the form of an exhibition by the Chincoteague Pony Drill Team. Fans and supporters gathered on the auction grounds, bringing their own chairs or huddling around the fences as the bidding began. Fifty-four foals were auctioned off, as were various memorabilia, including paintings and keepsakes of the Saltwater Cowboys.

The auction proved very exciting and even emotional for some spectators. A first-time attendee to the swim, Kaylin Corsiatto of Middleburg, Md., recalled a little girl who won a bid on a foal for $800. “She was crying, and completely in tears. It was really cute. The auctioneer knew this little girl wanted the pony so badly, so he ended the bidding for her.” Asked what her favorite part of the auction was, Corsiatto replied, “Probably seeing the Feather Fund Kids getting their ponies.” The Feather Fund is a non-profit organization whose goal is to help exemplary kids obtain a Chincoteague Pony of their own.

The following day, the Saltwater Cowboys herded them back down the streets and into the Assateague Channel. where they swam back to Assateague to roam free until next year’s swim.

Pony Week Officially Declared Success

By Linda Cicoira

“This was a very big event this time,” Town Manager Robert Ritter reported. “We definitely had a lot more cars to park and a lot more folks in town. Probably parked more cars than in the last four or five years.”

Evelyn Shotwell, executive director of Chincoteague Chamber of Commerce, noted her office had 72 percent more visits during Pony Penning this year compared to the previous event.

“The events seemed to run flawlessly,” said Councilman J. Arthur Leonard. “The Pony Swim was a beautiful day. Everything was great. Auction did well. Prices seemed to do well this year. Behind the scenes town employees did a … good job.”

Vice Mayor Ellen Richardson thanked the town’s Public Works and Police departments, as well as state troopers who helped. “It’s a lot of hard work to stand out there all day long … direct them this way and that way.”
Businessman Confirms Plans for Oyster

By Ron West

Local businessman Eyre Baldwin urged the Northampton Planning Commission Tuesday to move the county forward.

Baldwin said misinformation is being spread by individuals opposed to bringing gradual growth and job opportunities to the area. He noted that for the past six years, there has been speculation concerning properties in Oyster. In fact, according to Baldwin, a historic building referred to as the “Harvey Building” was moved near the harbor front and was restored to possibly create a small mom-and-pop store in Oyster, but zoning regulations have stood in the way. “Clean businesses like ecotourism would be a great fit for the “Harvey Building,” but currently I am not allowed to rent out a kayak, according to the current county zoning,” Baldwin said. He asked that the county work with his company to make the building an example of what can happen when private money and local government work together.

In the only public hearing, Debra Guerrero, speaking for Pembroke Commercial Realty, requested support for a special-use permit to allow expansion of an existing drainfield at the Food Lion Shopping Center south of Cheriton to allow for a veterinary clinic.

According to documents provided, the shopping center has a sewage-system permit that allows for the discharge of up to 965 gallons per day (gpd). Currently, businesses at the shopping center discharge approximately 800 gpd. The wastewater system would need to be able to handle an additional 600 gpd to accommodate the new clinic.

Dr. Nathan Higgins, the prospective operator of the clinic, emphasized the need for a clinic in the lower end of the county and urged the planners to approve the permit request.

The commission voted unanimously to support the request and forward it to the Board of Supervisors.

Chairman Dixon Leatherbury announced that Commissioner Martina Coker had resigned from the Planning Commission. He read a letter from Coker expressing her opposition to the way the proposed Zoning Ordinance was developed as well as to the elimination of the need for some special-use permits. It is up to the supervisors to name a replacement.

Chincoteague Urges Comment on Refuge Plan

By Linda Cicoira

Island leaders are continuing to urge the public to send comments about Chincoteague National Wildlife Refuge’s proposed Comprehensive Conservation Plan (CCP) to federal officials.

“It is important for the gateway community to the wildlife refuge and seashore … to carefully review the … document and work together for the best combination of management plan actions for the next 20 years,” a publication put out by the town notes.

“Here is why you need to provide comments by Aug. 15 … the plan for moving the beach to the north is not finished. There are no studies or designs to prove that the visitor experience at the new recreational beach will be the same or better than what we have today. Any change needs to be evaluated in the economic impact report. If the current beach is vulnerable to storms, why will the new location be any better if the management plan for overwash areas does not change?”

On the public safety side, the beach access news alert states, “If the federal management of Assateague Island changes to take down the dunes, Chincoteague Island will be exposed to eight feet of storm surge and ocean waves according to the recent FEMA Coastal Flood Risk Study. A storm damage reduction plan by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers (ACE) study is needed in the CCP … A strategy and action plan are needed in the CCP to keep the beach open following a major storm or government shut down.”

Comments should be sent to Tom Bonetti, Refuge Planner, U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, 300 Westgate Center Dr., Hadley, MA 01035 or via email to northeastplanning@fws.gov and marked with “Chincoteague” in the subject line.

The town will offer an open house from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Aug. 11, to help the public comment and get information.

Hospital Taxes Forgiven for Now

Northampton County Commissioner of the Revenue Anne Sayers has reviewed the status of Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital, as well as Riverside Physician Services as it concerns both real-estate and personal-property taxes.

She and Northampton Administrator Katherine H. Nunez issued the following statement:

“Until such time as we can receive a formal ruling from the Department of Taxation as to whether Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital is classified as a tax-exempt organization or not, we have agreed to exonerate the total tax obligation. This determination was made to insure that we do not delay Riverside’s ability to pursue any improvements to the Nassawadox campus since there is a local county ordinance that stipulates that building permits cannot be issued if taxes are outstanding.

“As always, we continue to work with Riverside as a key partner in the Northampton County community.”

Sloan began in alligator research for the Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries before joining F&W in 1987. Since then he’s worked in five service regions and four program areas.

Scott Kahan, northeast regional chief of the National Wildlife Refuge System, said, “Mr. Sloan has a great deal of experience and we are excited about welcoming him as the new project leader of Chincoteague National Wildlife Refuge.”
Board Discusses Hospital Water Line in Closed Session

By Linda Cicoira

Accomack supervisors met for nearly an hour Monday evening in a session that was closed to the public.

They took no action when they came back into an open session, but immediately voted unanimously to adjourn.

The topic of discussion involved the board’s preference regarding a water line proposed to be constructed from Onancock to the new hospital near Onley. The purchase of easements is involved and therefore, discussions legally can be kept secret, according to County Attorney Mark Taylor.

County Administrator Steve Miner said Accomack has a stake in the issue because when the water line is completed, ownership will be transferred to the county, which will maintain it.

Car Crashes into ESCADV Office

An unidentified driver went into diabetic shock Sunday night and crashed into the office of the Eastern Shore Coalition Against Domestic Violence on Market Street in Onancock. There was a child in the backseat of the vehicle. No one was seriously injured in the accident, according to reports. “We were hit, but we were not knocked down,” Peaches Dodge, chairwoman of the agency’s board of directors, said Tuesday. The group will conduct business a few doors west and across the street for about six months until damage reports are completed and the building is restored. According to the agency’s Facebook site, “We are happy that no one was seriously hurt in the car accident … and we are very thankful to Ed Weber Contracting who dropped everything to come to our rescue Monday morning. They helped us dig through the rubble to find critical things we needed, they helped us secure the building.” The staff and advocates can still be reached at 787-1329.

Exmore

Exmore Town Council is seeking applicants again to fill a void that has been created by the resignation of one of its members.

Longtime Councilman Charles Massey has submitted his letter of resignation, citing health issues that prevent him from continuing to serve. Mayor Doug Greer Sr. and council commended Massey for his long years of dedicated service to Exmore. Council is asking that any town citizen interested in the seat obtain an application from the town office within the next three weeks to allow council time to review and/or interview candidates prior to the Sept. 8 council session.

In other business, council conducted a public hearing regarding the possible sale of four properties owned by the town. Two are at Lee and Washington streets and parking lots, where rain can wash them down storm drains and into nearby creeks and streams.

Such runoff is harmful to creeks, streams, the Chesapeake Bay, and the fish, crabs, and oysters that live there. Reducing runoff pollution is among the key goals of the Chesapeake Clean Water Blueprint to restore the health of the bay.

Volunteers should meet at the Town Hall parking lot at North and King streets. Families are welcome, but the children must be supervised by a responsible adult on a one-to-one basis.

Brinkley Presented Leadership Award

Vernon N. Brinkley Jr. has been honored by the Virginia, Maryland and Delaware Association of Electric Cooperatives (VMDAEC) with the 2014 Electric Cooperative Leadership Award.

Brinkley, who retired last year after 31 years as president and CEO of A&N Electric Cooperative (ANEC), accepted his award at the VMDAEC annual membership meeting on July 28 in Williamsburg.

In presenting the award, VMDAEC President and CEO Jack Reasor praised Brinkley for his four decades of dedicated and exemplary service to electric cooperatives. In addition to leading ANEC and serving on the VMDAEC board of directors, Brinkley served for more than 30 years on the board of Old Dominion Electric Cooperative (ODEC), ANEC’s power supplier, and was chairman of the ODEC board from 2001-04.

“During Vernon’s career, the cooperative more than quadrupled in size, from fewer than 8,000 meters in the early 1980s to more than 35,000 meters today,” noted Reasor.

During Brinkley’s last five years at ANEC, the cooperative acquired Delmarva Power’s service area on Virginia’s Eastern Shore and made substantial investments in right-of-way maintenance and capital improvements.

“Vernon has served electric cooperatives wisely and well on a national stage, both as a board member of the National Information Solutions Cooperative and as a stellar representative for many years on the board of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association,” said VMDAEC Executive Vice President Richard Johnstone. “His candor, wry wit and concern for the member-consumers of cooperatives all across the land have earned him the respect and admiration of his peers.”

Car Care

Where’s Baby? Look Before You Lock

With summer heat upon us and more young children being found inside hot cars, AAA Tidewater is adding its voice in supporting SafeKids, the National Highway Transportation Safety Administration and General Motors in strongly cautioning parents, caregivers and motorists not to leave children alone in a closed vehicle and not to allow children to play in or around cars and trucks. According to SafeKids, a child dies from heatstroke every 10 days from being left alone in a hot vehicle.

AAA Tidewater reminds parents and caregivers that children can die within minutes inside a hot vehicle and Virginia law makes it illegal to leave children unattended in a vehicle. “Make ‘Look and check the back seat for children before you leave the car’ a routine whenever you exit a vehicle,” said Georjeane Blumling, vice president of Public Affairs for AAA Tidewater.

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, heatstroke is the leading cause of non-crash vehicle fatalities for children 14 and younger.

Nationwide, 619 children have died from heat stroke after being left in unattended vehicles since 1998, with 13 deaths thus far in 2014. Last year, 44 children died from heat stroke after being left in unattended vehicles.

“We think that we’re only going to be inside a store for a few minutes, but children under age 4 are the most at-risk for having their lives endangered by being left in a hot car,” said Blumling. “Children should not be left in a car … or forgotten because of distraction. If you see an unattended child in a vehicle, call 9-1-1 immediately.”

Shaded parking, cracking windows open and tinted windows don’t lessen the interior temperature of a closed car, according to pediatric researchers. Doctors warn that if it’s a 90-degree day, it could be at least a life-threatening 130 degrees inside a car. A child’s body isn’t as efficient as an adult’s and warms 3-5 times faster, leading to dehydration and heatstroke.

The AAA urges motorists to:
- Immediately call 9-1-1 if you notice a child locked unattended in a car.
- Never leave car keys or car remote where children can get to them.
- Always keep doors and windows locked to prevent kids from playing inside a vehicle.
- Never leave a child unattended in a car, even if windows are tinted, cracked open or down.
- Develop “look before leaving” routines. Ensure that all kids exit the vehicle at your destination.
- Create an electronic reminder to make sure you dropped your child off at daycare.
- Leave something needed for the day in the back seat with your baby — a briefcase, purse or shoes.
- Develop a daycare drop-off plan so that if your child is late or isn’t at daycare, you’ll be called within a few minutes. Some children have been left in office parking lots by distracted adults forgetting to drop them off at day care.
- If a child is missing, check the car, including the trunk. If you have a pool, check there first, according to safety experts.
- Teach children that the car is not a play area.
- Don’t treat heatstroke at home with cold water or cooling the child in a tub of water. Only a specialist should treat heatstroke. Seek medical treatment immediately.

Kool Ford in Keller
When Pam Downing was growing up in Nassawadox, her father had friends over once a month for a poker night. “We would hang around and watch and play with the money they threw on the floor,” said Pam, who graduated from Northampton High School in 1992.

After earning her degree from Virginia Tech in family child development in 1996, Pam moved out to California and now lives in Redondo Beach near Los Angeles.

Now 40, she is employed at a physical therapist office and dabbles in comedy routines, the bit that drew her to L.A.

“I did OK, but I wasn’t going to enter this year until my father convinced me to try again,” Pam recalls. “Dad was right there and was enjoying every minute of it. He was my biggest cheerleader,” says Pam.

But she also has maintained that childhood interest in poker and last year entered the World Series of Poker. “I went all in, and he laid down a pair of kings. When he saw my aces, he smiled and said with a chuckle, ‘Please don’t do that to me again.’ ”

That would be Big Bill Downing, on the rebound from health issues and encouraging his daughter to sit at the table with the best poker players in the world. He traveled west to be with Pam throughout the tournament at the Rio All Suite Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas, Nev.

From among 6,800 players entered in the tournament, Pam started advancing and was on a roll when she was seated at the table with Phil Ivey, one of the best known poker players in the world, having won over $6 million on the poker circuit.

“On the first hand I drew pocket aces and stayed in the hand until it was just me and Phil,” remembers Pam. “I went all in, and he laid down a pair of kings. When he saw my aces, he smiled and said with a chuckle, ‘Please don’t do that to me again.’ ”

“Dad was right there and was enjoying every minute of it. He was my biggest cheerleader,” says Pam.

“It was so great having my dad there to support me.”

As I soon begin another season covering high-school sports, I do so with a salute to Greg Merritt, who stalked the sidelines for 25 years, reporting on the games of the local high schools.

Greg died at home last week among his family after being diagnosed with ALS, commonly known as Lou Gehrig’s Disease, late last year.

Greg and I shared a love of sports and the New York Yankees and enjoyed many a conversation through our quarter of a century of working together. It was easy being his boss because I received virtually nothing but praise from area coaches in regard to his sports coverage.

About three weeks ago, Buck Boggs, Dennis Custis and Tommy Bonniwell, all former coaches Greg once worked with, and I visited Greg at his home on Chincoteague. Butch Travis, another former coach, had visited a few weeks before.

For three hours we sat and talked about sports, both local and national, sharing stories from the past. There were a lot of laughs and some poignant moments, too. Greg got a bit emotional when discussing the recent 75th anniversary of the Lou Gehrig retirement speech, when the Yankee great uttered those famous words, “Today I consider myself the luckiest man on the face of the earth.”

Our visit was an enjoyable afternoon for all of us, and we agreed to do it again soon. But Greg’s health quickly declined, and he died as he wished, peacefully without great suffering.

I will recall Greg as a tireless journalist who went to incredible lengths to cover local sports, a bit of a maverick who had a wry sense of humor, and a great friend who shared so many sports memories because we were of the same age growing up on the Eastern Shore.

But most of all, I will remember Greg as one of the best fathers I ever had a chance to be around. I saw Greg interact with all three of his children, Crystal, Drew and Mark, and he included them in all aspects of his life.

That will be the legacy I think Greg would most want to be remembered for — and the role he played best.

Pungoteague Ruritan Club Poker Run a Success

Pungoteague Ruritan Club’s 2014 Bayside Poker Run held on Saturday, July 26, included 25 entries, with 20 small boats cruising the Chesapeake Bay in this eighth annual navigational competition.

A crowd estimated at more than 100 people attended the awards celebration at Monadox Point on Nandua Creek at the end of the day. The awards ceremony attended by captains, crew, and club members was a bayside cook-out.

This year’s small boat competition once again included the “Chesapeake Challenge” as the “navigational” component of the event. This challenge required the crew of each boat to compete in a physical activity at each checkpoint.

This year’s activities included a crab pot “float-tossing” competition, Cornhole, a line-throwing event and a bocce competition that was held on the lawn at the Eastern Shore Yacht and Country Club checkpoint.

When the final points appeared on the leader board, Tee Time, captained by John T. Williams out of Onancock Creek was declared the winner with a score of 128 points out of a possible 158. Runner-up scores of 117 were posted by Capt. Craig Vogt’s crew of Vogt Float and Capt. Matthew Freeze’s crew of the Mallory Square.

The Chesapeake Challenge prize was $350 and poker-hand winner Mark Freeze of Nassawadox Creek won a weekend vacation prize of equal value while crewing aboard his son’s boat. Thanks to the generosity of Davis Wharf Marine, International Auto Service, Don’s Tackle Shop, Eastern Shore Outfitters, Exmore Western Auto, HW Drummond, Island House Restaurant, K&E Marine, Sandpiper Marine, Shore Marine, Kool Ford, Seahawk Sports, Shore Tire, Seaworthy Marine, E.S. Animal Hospital, Dave’s Auto Cool, and Wachapreague Marina for the many hundreds of dollars worth of additional “dock prizes” were won by various participants. Raffle winners went home with an original Willie Crockett painting and a Turner Sculptures blue crab.

In addition to thanking the businesses for their contributions, event coordinator Paul Custis also expressed appreciation to Turner Sculptures, Willie Crockett, Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 12-2, the Eastern Shore Post, Eastern Shore News, Eastern Shore Yacht and Country Club, Occohannock on the Bay, St. George’s Episcopal Church, WESR Radio and East Point Marina for helping to make the event possible. Carla Lauer of Hacks Neck received a huge thank-you from the crowd for hosting the awards ceremony at her home on Bay Breeze Farm overlooking the Chesapeake Bay and Nandua Creek.

Proceeds from this year’s annual event will go toward the club’s handicapped access ramp projects and its scholarship program. The Pungoteague Ruritan Club builds wheelchair ramps for citizens in need in the club’s service area as part of its community service outreach activities and also awards college scholarships to local students.

Exmore Rotary Helps Custis Ballfield

Exmore Rotary Club recently made a donation for improvements to the Randy Custis Memorial Park in Nassawadox. The grant was used to purchase materials to refurbish the athletic building, better known as the “blue” building. The labor was provided by Exmore Rotary Club members under the leadership of Mike Loring and the supervision of Mark Shaffer, Thomas James and Tommy Taylor.

Exmore Rotary Club has long been a proactive presence on the Eastern Shore in terms of membership, diversity, outreach and support for the community. Over the years the club has supported organizations like Habitat for Humanity, Lighthouse Ministries, United Way, local fire departments, and the Eastern Shore Community College Foundation.

Rotary, established in 1905 by a Vermont lawyer named Paul Harris who practiced law in Chicago, is the oldest service club in the country. Harris proposed to three business colleagues that they meet on a rotating basis in each other’s office — hence, the term Rotary.
Croaker may not be the most desired fish of anglers, but the hardheads are providing steady action on the seaside and bayside.

Chris Snook of Chris’ Bait and Tackle reports that croaker are biting at buoy 262 near the Eastern Shore of Virginia Wildlife Refuge out of Oyster and at The Chimney.

Croaker also can be found on the seaside off Wachapreague and Chincoteague. Shrimp, squid and Fishbites have been the best baits.

Flounder fishing inside on the seaside has been the best the last two hours of the incoming tide and the first hour of outgoing, but those who can get outside and fish the wrecks off Chincoteague and Wachapreague have been scoring limits with good-sized flounder. Jigging with bucktails and squid, as well as clam chunking, are very popular.

Capt. Steve’s Bait and Tackle on Chincoteague reports a group on Huntress Charters with Captain John limited out, with the largest flounder weighing 5 pounds, 8 ounces.

Don’s Tackle Shop reports that schools of red drum have been reported on the seaside inside the inlets. Anglers enjoyed a banner season last year, catching puppy drum on the season throughout the fall and are hoping for the same this year.

Dr. Julie Ball reports sheepshead are still a sure thing along the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel, with plenty of nice fish around. Spadefish ranging up to around 7 pounds are also still available along the bridge-tunnel and around the islands, as well as on many inshore structures. Trigger fish also are hitting in these same areas, with some triggers pushing to over 3 pounds. Spades and triggers also are feeding on inshore and near-shore wrecks, along with some keeper seabass.

Ball also reports that offshore, the billfish action is on the rise, with multiple white marlin releases, a few blue marlin encounters, and even some sailfish action this week. While a few boats are catching several white marlin on the troll, the boats returning with double-digit releases are using live-baiting techniques. A few big yellowfin tuna pushing to over 70 pounds are also around, along with some scattered big-eyes. Boats also are finding some willing wahoo, plenty of bailer dolphin and big gaffers this week.

The Eleventh Annual Cape Charles Cup
August 16, 2014

75+ sailboats from the Cape Charles Cup will be in Cape Charles on Saturday, August 16, after the first leg of the race from Little Creek.

About 1/3 of the boats (20) will be at the town docks, and the crews will be roving the town Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning. Many others will come downtown from the Kings Creek Marina.

Tyler Webb Getting the Job Done

After giving up two runs in his Triple-A debut with the Scranton/Wilkes-Barre RailRiders, Tyler Webb has not allowed a run in his last six outings and has lowered his ERA to 2.08 since being promoted to Triple A. As of Tuesday, the 2009 Northampton grad has struck out 13 batters in 8.2 innings, and batters are hitting only .161 against the 6’6” lefty. Webb was mentioned on a Major League Baseball television broadcast Tuesday as one of the top left-handed options for the New York Yankees in the minors.
July 22, 2014

Dear community member,

Excellent health care services are vital in creating a vibrant community where people want to work, live and play. Riverside is grateful for the opportunity to continue to serve in this role here on the Eastern Shore. We are here for the community in times of need, but also as neighbors, friends and family.

In our role as a community member, we want to keep you informed about our progress in bringing you the latest in hospital facilities, skilled physicians and caring providers. We have a lot to report.

- We have designed the facility that is pictured below, a 52-bed acute care hospital.
- Within the bed count are 10 critical care beds for the most acutely ill.
- Over 50% of the facility will be dedicated to outpatient care such as imaging, laboratory, physical therapy, and more.
- We will have a modernized mommy/baby unit to meet the needs of expectant mothers.
- We will build an adjacent medical office building to create a centralized campus feel.
- We will also co-locate our cancer center to provide for patient convenience.

There are a few remaining issues to be solved with regard to permitting and site preparation. We anticipate a quick resolution to these items and to begin site preparations in the fall. After that, we anticipate a 24 month construction period.

Until then we will continue to serve you at our Nassawadox site as we have for the past 85 years. We fully plan to continue to provide ongoing services to lower Eastern Shore and have recently opened our Cape Charles primary care location to Saturday hours for urgent needs.

Probably even more important than a new campus, is the renewed commitment to how we render care. Across all our facilities and care providers we are implementing the Riverside Care Difference... best expressed by our mission statement—to care for others as we would care for those we love. This is our true commitment to you.

Thank you for your patience as we work through the complex exercise of building a new facility. In the meantime, be assured that we are here for you and fully committed to our Eastern Shore. We will be publishing updates on our progress until construction is complete and we look forward to serving you at our new site. Please expect to receive an update from us on a regular basis.

Thank you.

I learned when I am going to die. I asked the application twice and got the same answer both times. Not only that, but I found out a heart attack is what will cause me to go. Yes, there is such a thing as knowing too much.

A much younger friend posted that www.hoffunapps.com reported he would die when he is 58 years old in the year 2034. He will be “killed by a ghost due to paranormal activity.”

The cause of his demise sounded a bit far-fetched. So, I guess I thought it was OK to venture into the unknown. I mean, how bad could it be? The application has me dying on Nov. 2, 2019. That is only about five years away. I thought I had more time. I want to go to the Grand Canyon and see the Pacific Ocean.

Still, if that wasn’t enough information; I had to know more. “A boy from Painter” likes me.” My “biggest enemy also lives in Painter.”

Didn’t know I had one of those. And I will get something surprising on Oct. 17, 2016. Really? I have to wait that long for a surprise? That is messed up.

Why are people attracted to me? Yeah, I wanted to know that. “Because you are innocent.” Really? OK.

My first “crush name” starts with a “T.” I can’t even remember back that far. This is so addictive. I just had to keep going. I was banging on those information buttons.

The next thing it told me was I am in the wrong profession. I should have been a teacher. Ha! I guess I’ve been practicing that karaoke voice for nothing. Students, beware.

In a previous life, I was “a Dachshund.” Should I really comment on that? I don’t think so. The calculator in this application also guessed that I am 21 years old. Yippee! I have no idea how that can be possible when it also said I was Leonardo Da Vinci during the Renaissance. But I like it.

Here’s a good one. If I were a dessert, I’d be a chocolate chip cookie. “You just beg for a tall glass of milk,” it said. You’ve got to laugh at this stuff. Someone is probably getting a pretty large paycheck to make it all up.

According to this program, my eyes, which it never saw, make me a visionary. And my next honeymoon will be to Jamaica. Hey, I was born there.

A button popped up that said, “Click here to find out who your first real love is and where you will meet.” I couldn’t resist. I had to know. “The first letter of Linda’s true love will be ‘R.’ He will meet you at a coffee shop.” That’s pretty funny since I’ve never drunk a cup of coffee in my life. I’m a hot-tea lover. I guess I’d better switch over. So much coffee, so little time.

Families Grateful to 1st Responders

Dear Editor:

We are writing to express our deep gratitude to all emergency and volunteer personnel, the Sheriff’s Office, State Police of Virginia, and all other agencies who helped with the response to the tornado at Cherrystone Campground on July 24. Our three families are seasoned campers who have been through rough weather before, but nothing remotely close to this scale. The destruction that the tornado caused was unbelievable; the promptness and organization of those in charge was impressive. The emergency response was so immediate and efficient. Chain saws and axes were in motion and sirens were heard, it seemed, as soon as the storm ended. Campground roads were being cleared of trees, ambulances were on scene and the sheriff’s office was ever-present with directions. Someone was in control of what seemed like a completely out-of-control situation. Again as campers, we wanted to be a part of the control, but it was comforting looking back that we were led out of the area and taken care of by loving strangers. Our hell was over … the healing could begin.

Our first reaction, after the storm ended, was to grab our kids and get out of the campground; and we were initially frustrated with having to wait in the campground café, then board buses and go to the local high school. As campers, we are more comfortable with organizing and taking care of ourselves, our things and others around us – it was hard to let someone else be in charge and not be involved with helping out. However, we boarded the buses and headed out to the school, trusting and believing that those in charge knew best. And it was proven that they did; we were well taken care of and when allowed, could go back to the campground safely to secure our belongings.

The immediate outpouring of support, at Northampton High School from the community, Red Cross, Salvation Army, local restaurants, businesses and churches, and countless others was overwhelming. Cases of bottled water, enough food to feed a town, clean and dry T-shirts and socks, lotion, toothbrushes, books, kids’ toys, dog food, baby formula — it was too much to see at times. We were just so grateful.

The Sheriff’s Office representative and the county representative couldn’t have been more professional and responsive. These two women took the time to listen to our concerns and questions, find the answers and keep us informed in a consistent and timely manner. They made what could have been a long and frustrating day less so, and we will be eternally grateful. The high-school vice principal and staff were so caring and helpful, opening the cafeteria and showers, bringing in tables and power strips to charge our cell phones so we could contact our families. Teachers offered playing cards and games from their classrooms and secretaries took the sweatshirts off their back for us. Amazing grace ...

The volunteers at the school were so friendly, positive and accommodating. They also made what could have been a long and frustrating day less so, and we will be eternally grateful. It is amazing what a clean white T-shirt and dry pair of socks will do in an emergency for a person who probably has a dozen of each at home. The three Cherrystone campground staff members who took the time to come to the high school to check in on us, and stayed for hours chatting with us and offering much needed support and laughter, will be forever in our memories.

Finally, after all was done for the day, a comfortable and clean room at the Peacock Hotel, free of charge, was more than we could bear.

Again, we are so thankful for all who were involved with the tornado at Cherrystone Campground. This wonderful campground, your towns, county, and state are just so wonderful, it’s hard to put into words. We think this verse says it all: Matthew 25:35-40 “For I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was a stranger and you welcomed me, I was naked and you clothed me, I was sick and you visited me, I was in prison and you came to me.’ Then the righteous will answer him, saying, ‘Lord, when did we see you hungry and feed you, or thirsty and give you drink? And when did we see you a stranger and welcome you, or naked and clothed you? And when did we see you sick or in prison and visit you?’ And the King will answer them, ‘Truly, I say to you, as you did it to one of the least of these my brothers, you did it to me.’ ”

Mayor Lauds Tornado Response

Dear Editor:

Our thoughts and prayers continue go out to the victims of the recent tornado at Cherrystone Campground and to their families, especially the young children who lost their parents.

The response of the citizens of Cape Charles, Northampton County, and the Shore as a whole makes me proud to live here. Police Chief Jim Pruitt and Cape Charles Volunteer Fire Company were the first on the scene, followed by fire companies from all over the Eastern Shore and the Hampton Roads area. Our police and Public Works employees, after assuring that our town citizens were safe and the town largely undamaged, followed to help with search and rescue efforts.

I saw many of our own citizens and Cape Charles businesses at Northampton High School with donations of food, supplies, games for the children and even dog food for those pets rescued with their owners. In addition, although subsequently unneeded, many in town volunteered to open their homes to any campers who might require housing.

Praise goes to the county for its rapid and very well-organized response, which speaks to careful planning and, in general, to the citizens of the Shore for stepping up. The county, the Town of Cape Charles and all the citizens of the Eastern Shore have much to be proud of in this response effort. From time to time, tragedies happen. There is no way to turn back time so as to prevent them, but we can respond with help and caring.

As for our own town, we should be grateful that the damage was very minor and, more importantly, that there were no injuries or loss of life. There were some branches and a few trees down and some areas lost power for several hours. Our Public Works Department had the streets clear of branches and completely passable by the end of the following day, and VDOT had swept up the remaining debris of leaves and small twigs by Saturday.

The town is very fortunate to have such dedicated employees, especially in the Public Works and Police departments. They went above and beyond to ensure the town was safe and to help those in need. Please take a moment to thank them for a job well done.

Cape Charles Mayor George Proto

Multiple Arson Trials Unwise

Dear Editor:

It is good to know that some common sense still exists. W.H. Turner (Aug. 1 edition of Eastern Shore Post) is correct that a sensible strategy needs to be employed in the Bundick arson cases.

Ms. Bundick must be afforded a fair trial in each case in accordance with our laws, but each arson does not need to be brought to trial. The community was traumatized by the seemingly random arsons throughout Accomack County, but spending a fortune to prosecute Ms. Bundick is not necessary and is of small benefit to the county’s citizens. Accomack residents need to know that there is indeed a strategy and an end game.

Congratulations to Cancer Center

Dear Editor:

The American Cancer Society would like to congratulate Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital’s Cancer Program for being recognized for Outstanding Achievement by the American College of Surgeons Commission on Cancer.

During their recent survey, the Cancer Center was awarded commendations for meeting standards in seven areas that were reviewed. These included referral to clinical trials, clinical outcomes, data quality, advanced education of staff and community outreach providing cancer education. To receive the Outstanding Achievement Award, the center had to exceed expectations in all of these areas. In 2014, only 14 percent of programs surveyed nationwide received this recognition. Riverside Shore Memorial was the only program in Virginia to earn this distinction this year.

We are proud that the high quality of care provided by the staff of Riverside’s Cancer Program has been recognized and are privileged to partner with them in the fight against cancer. Mary Belli

Tangier Documentary Remarkable

Dear Editor:

What a treat it was to attend the July 19 screening of Pocomoke City native Jenny Roberts’ documentary, “Pieces of Tangier,” in Onancock. It is her 2013 master’s thesis, but more than that her personal effort, at much of her own expense, to convey the unique life of Tangier residents as erosion nips the island.

Betty Martin (unrelated to me) attended last year’s screening at the Mar-Va Theatre and was equally impressed. In fact, she undertook a several-month volunteer effort to coordinate the sterling screening presentation which garnered significant generosity and participation from the Accomack community.

Northampton residents look forward to a screening in the not too distant future.
