New Recreational Park Taking Shape

By Linda Cicoira

Accomack supervisors adopted a master plan for the new recreational park near the county seat Wednesday.

The site of a former lumber business will eventually include parking for nearly 100 vehicles, several ball fields and an office for Parks and Recreation and Public Works departments.

The property was acquired as part of a federal land swap to allow for Wallops Research Park (WRP). Phase I of the site includes water and sewage systems, stormwater treatment, seating, a multipurpose recreational field and walking and biking trails. Later, concessions and restrooms and a playground are planned. And at some point, a pavilion/bandstand, tennis courts and a dog park would be erected.

Supervisor Robert Crockett suggested that grant money might be obtained by including a ball field on Tangier in the plan. Accomack Schools Superintendent Dr. Kregg Cuellar agreed to discuss the issue with Parks and Recreation Director Wayne Burton.

An update on construction of infrastructure at WRP also was provided. Things are “on budget, on time (and) environmental issues are going good,” Construction Director Bill Remington of Davis Bowen & Friedel, Inc. said. “I expect this to be completed without issue by the end of” 2014. A 1,200-foot long concrete taxiway also will be completed by the end of the year, he added.

“I’m not waiting for the asphalt to be in to begin marketing,” said Park Director Julie Wheatley. She got 600 email addresses from Kansas State Universi-

Temperanceville Intersection Records Another Fatality

By Linda Cicoira

The second person to die this month in a traffic accident in Accomack County was killed Wednesday after pulling out in front of traffic on Lankford Highway in Temperanceville, according to State Police Sgt. Michelle Anaya.

Catilina Perez Mejia, 30, of Nelsonia died at the scene. She was driving a 2001 Hyundai Accent west on Temperanceville Road at about 4:45 p.m. when she failed to yield at the intersection and drove into the path of a 2001 Dodge Durango, which was going north on Lankford Highway, Anaya said.

Three unidentified passengers in the Hyundai were taken to Peninsula Regional Medical Center in Salisbury, Md. The driver of the Dodge, Scott Rosenwald, 39, of Elizabeth City, N.J., and an unidentified passenger in his vehicle also were taken to the hospital with minor injuries. Three other passengers were also riding with Rosenwald.

“Alcohol and speed did not play a factor in the accident,” said Anaya. “All involved were wearing their safety belts.”

The first fatal accident that occurred this month was at the same intersection and also occurred when a driver pulled onto the highway.

All Accomack Public Schools Expected To Be Accredited at Some Level

Seven of 11 Accomack public schools are expected to be fully accredited for the 2014-15 term based on tests taken the previous year, according to a report made to the School Board Tuesday night. The other four schools are likely to be accredited with warning.

Arcadia, Chincoteague and Nandua high schools; Tangier Combined School; and Accawmacke, Chincoteague and Kegotank elementary schools should be fully accredited. Nandua Middle was fully accredited last year, but may be accredited with warning for English this year. Arcadia Middle was cited for the same warning in English last year and anticipates being warned again this year.

Metompkin Elementary was fully accredited last year. This year an accreditation with warning for English and Math is anticipated. Pungoteague Elementary got full accreditation last year and may be accredited with warning for English this year.

Based on data from the 2013-14 term for the graduating class of 2014, the report showed benchmarks of 75 percent for English and 70 percent for math, history and science. The graduation and completion benchmark was 85 percent.

Special-Education Director Addresses Board

On her 10th day with Accomack Schools, Dr. Nancy Lewin impressed the School Board with her report regarding special-education needs and how she plans to deal with them.

“You hit the ground running,” longtime School Board member Audrey Furness told Lewin.

“It is wonderful to have you in Accomack County,” agreed Vice Chairwoman Margaret Miles, who conducted the session.

Lewin said another speech pathologist is needed and she plans on asking for funds to hire one. There are four teachers now for 309 students, a ratio of about 77 to 1.

She also suggested that non-billable Medicaid, which can’t get reimbursed, be handled a different way to save $47,025. “It is a salary for a teacher,” Lewin remarked, adding there are three vacancies for special education and two instructors are still needed for visually impaired students. “I am working diligently” to find qualified candidates for those posts, she said.

Lewin said a student transition program is needed prior to senior year. “I have plans for creating a network … for partnerships to create that.” Graduation rates also need to be addressed, she continued.

The director said various state standards, including some for preschoolers and parent involvement, need to be met. “We need to do a lot of work … in engaging our parents,” she noted.

Lewin plans to refine relationships with school leaders and develop goals for each. She is going to allow parents to “constructively voice their opinion, concerns (and) expectations” and will send them an introductory letter. Lewin plans to do the same with the students.

She also promised to set up an “accountability” program for supplies, to make sure specialized books are ordered on time and “to employ recruitment strategies that will help us to acquire the very best special-education teachers.”

Northampton Circuit Court

Stephen Ray Carpenter’s pleas of guilty and no contest were accepted Monday in Northampton Circuit Court for abduction with intent to defile, attempted first-degree murder, strangulation, malicious wounding and various driving violations in connection with an attack on a member of the National Guard last October.

The 29-year-old Townsend man could get life plus 55 years and 23 months for the crimes. He was taken back to Eastern Shore Regional Jail to await completion of a presentence report.

A plea bargain in the case was struck with Commonwealth’s Attorney Bruce Jones, who agreed not to pursue an additional charge of simple abduction or to charge Carpenter with possession of a gun by a felon.

The victim, Paige K. Eminhizer, testified at a preliminary hearing that she did not have prior to the incidents. “She now occasionally suffers emotional effects … an emotional impact,” the prosecutor said. “She occasionally suffers from migraine headaches and vertigo, which she did not have prior to the incidents.”

Last December in lower court, she said Carpenter forced her into a vehicle, drove her to other locations, threatened her with a knife, fought with her over his gun and tried to break her neck and choke her before she managed to get away and run into the woods near Eastville.

Carpenter admitted to DUI, driving with a suspended license, hit and run and possession of cocaine. He pleaded no contest, which means he realized there was enough evidence to convict him, to attempting first-degree murder and the other violent charges.

Jones made no recommendations for sentencing in the plea bargain. The prosecutor also disclosed that the “victim’s blood was in various places in the defendant’s car” and cocaine and THC were detected in his blood. Cocaine was in Carpenter’s pocket. The amount of cocaine in his system was comparable with consumption of large quantities or use over a long period, according to testimony.

Lt. Michelle Hallett of Northampton Sheriff’s Office said the victim was badly bruised and scratched about the head and body and her orbital socket had been lacerated and broken. “She had been strangled” and there was “swelling in knuckles so they were no longer definitive.”

In another case, Bobby Lee Bundick, 57, of Painter was sentenced for possession of a firearm by a felon to five years in prison, with all but three months suspended. For DUI he was given a year, with all but six months suspended, and a $1,000 fine with the condition that he complete a VASAP program. His driver’s license was suspended for three years.

Acomack Circuit Court

Francisco Janel-Pol, 27, of Bloxom Circle in Mappsville pleaded guilty last week in Accomack Circuit Court to attempted rape of a housemate.

Through a Spanish interpreter, the victim testified that Janel-Pol came up behind her while she was cooking and attempted to rape her while her 2-year-old child clutched her legs. “I struggled with him … I go outside and call the police … he put his hands on me (wrists) and he wanted to throw me to the ground … he wanted to have sex. … I was fighting him,” she said. The woman said he threatened to kill her when he gets out of jail, even if it takes a decade.

Janel-Pol admitted he grabbed her with force. “I tried to take her shirt off and pants off but she didn’t let me.”

A presentence report was ordered. Janel-Pol was remanded to jail.

In another case, Michael Wayne Bowman Jr., 35, of Duck Pond Lane on Chincoteague was sentenced for a third offense of DUI in five years to five years in prison, with all but 12 months suspended, and fined $1,000. Bowman also was fined $100 for driving on a suspended license. A special condition of the sentence is that he abstain from alcohol.

Ra’Shawn Brown, 18, of Budd Street in Parksley was sentenced for breaking into Angela Cuce’s house on April 3 to five years, with all but time served suspended.

Garrod Snead, 22, of Barkley Street in Salisbury, Md., pleaded guilty to abuse and neglect of a child, occurring April 21, 2011, in which the boy was injured. A presentence report was ordered. Snead remains free on bond.

Teresa Mae Wilkins, 40, of Gaskins Road in Onancock was sentenced to 12 months in jail for obtaining money on false pretenses from Walmart in Onley on Feb. 2, 2013. She got five years each for an identical charge and for attempting to obtain money on Feb. 7, 2013. All but time served was suspended.

U.S. District Court

Maurice Antonio Smith, 31, of Parks Road in Parksley was indicted by a U.S. District Court Grand Jury recently on a count of possession of a firearm by a felon. The charge involves “a Ruger .17HMR caliber revolver, which had been shipped and transported in interstate and foreign commerce,” according to the indictment. Smith was arrested Aug. 14.

Northampton Circuit Court

A 30-year-old Exmore man is accused of two counts of raping an 11-year-old girl who stayed with his family this summer.

Judge W. Revell Lewis III granted a secured bond of $50,000 to Emilio Abel Hernandez-Sanchez of Willis Wharf Road Monday in Northampton Circuit Court so he can go back to his job.

The bond was granted during an appeal hearing. A warrant filed in Northampton Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court says the incidents occurred between June 4 and Aug. 8. Hernandez-Sanchez also is charged with two counts of sexual abuse by a custodian during the same period.

Assistant Commonwealth’s Attorney Beverly Leatherbury argued, “It appears … he is a valued employee,” but “a good worker can get a job anywhere. There is always … concern to the community when a child is the victim. “Presume there is a danger to the community,” she said to Lewis.

“I do not believe he will constitute an unreasonable danger,” the judge said after referencing Hernandez-Sanchez’s responsible position at a local aquaculture business. One of the business owners was a character witness for the defendant.

“These allegations were not brought forward until the girl returned to Illinois,” said defense lawyer Tucker Watson. “She also spent time with other family members here. At no time did she make allegations about Sanchez.”

The girl allegedly told police that on two occasions the man took her into a room and raped her. He warned her not to tell or he would kill her, she told the authorities.

Exmore Police Sgt. Jason Campbell investigated.

The file on Ledbetter states, “This man hit victim with a roofing hammer in the head.” Both were arrested Aug. 12 and are being held without bond.

Henry Carlyle Hart III, 34, of Northside Road in Onancock was charged with a third or subsequent offense of petty larceny, which is a felony, occurring Aug. 15 at Walmart. Unsecured bond was set at $3,000.

Patrick James Johnson, 38, of Turkey Run Road in Mears was charged with felony possession of a controlled substance and misdemeanor possession of drug paraphernalia on Aug. 18. He was arrested the same day. Secured bond was set at $2,500.

Brian William Clayton, 29, of Guilford Road in Bloxom was charged with possession of heroin and a syringe on Aug. 18. He was arrested the next day. Secured bond was set at $10,000.

Alisha Denise Hermann, 24, of Myrna Lane on Chincoteague was charged with embezzling less than $200 from Bays Inn on July 29. The offense is a felony because Hermann has been convicted of embezzling at least twice before. Secured bond was set at $5,000.

Ernest Elwood Smith, no age available, of Pungoteague was charged with causing more than $1,000 worth of intentional damage on Aug. 6. He was arrested the next day.

John H. Lewis, no age available, of Largo, Fla., was charged with sodomy by force, occurring Feb. 1, 2013. He was arrested Aug. 12, 2014. The case was moved to Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court.

Curtis John Lambert, 40, of Bay Breeze in Horntown will not be prosecuted for charges of abduction, two counts of forcible rape, and assault and battery between June 16 and 17. The victim did not show up for the preliminary hearing, an official said.
Judge Tyler Denies Bundick’s Request for New Lawyer

Arsonist Tonya Susan Bundick was denied her request for a new attorney Thursday in Accomack Circuit Court.

Judge Glen A. Tyler praised defense lawyer Allan Zaleski and refused to appoint another counselor for Bundick’s upcoming sentencing on Sept. 4 for one case of arson and conspiracy and one case of arson.

Bundick is awaiting trial on more than 50 other arson charges, including fires at Leatherbury United Methodist Church on Deep Creek Road and the historic Whispering Pines Motel in Tasley. Tyler previously ruled that Bundick is entitled to have a separate trial for each charge.

“The motion of the defendant in these two cases is denied,” said Tyler. “What we do thereafter remains to be seen.”

Bundick sent two letters to the clerk of court asking for information about how to proceed. “I am writing to find out the proper procedure for having your public defender removed from your case,” Bundick wrote. “The legal representation I have been receiving is ineffective and I don’t find the legal advice I am given to be in my best interests.” Bundick repeated those complaints to Tyler.

“I do have an unhappy client,” said Zaleski. “I would join in that motion” for a change of representation.

“I believe this was made in good faith … it may be mistaken but it was made in good faith.” Zaleski said his son, her other lawyer, was unable to attend the hearing but would “like to get out also.”

Bundick said she does not want to serve as her own attorney. Her first lawyers, Shannon and Garrett Dunham, were removed after alerting the court of an undisclosed conflict of interest.

“My observation over the years dealing with … Zaleski is that he is a seasoned, experienced and able criminal defense,” said Tyler. “Legal counsel in this case on both sides have done very good legal work … this has been a very unusual case … even for the Commonwealth of Virginia at large. Lots of things to know about these cases … factual and legal.”

Pocomoke City Police Chief Kelvin D. Sewell has issued the following statement: “During the past month, there have been several downtown and other local businesses that were broken into and ransacked. The suspects were looking for cash and easily resellable items that are easy to carry.

"Pocomoke City Police have initiated additional patrols in the area during the day and evening hours. "Pocomoke City is a quiet community and residents may become complacent about security. I encourage residents and business owners alike to make sure you do not leave your doors unlocked after business hours and to leave a security light on that would deter individuals from trying to hide in the darkness. In addition, the installation of security alarms and cameras would be an added asset and deterrent for criminals.

"Please remain vigilant and notify the Pocomoke City Police Department of any suspicious activity that you may see."

Resolution
To Thank The Riverside Team Members for Exemplary Emergency Action

Whereas, Northampton County experienced a devastating tornado on July 24, 2014 that killed three individuals and injured more than 25 others; and,

Whereas, Riverside proactively plans for natural disasters and extraordinary weather events that could impact their community of care at any point during the year; and,

Whereas, the Riverside staff interacts with emergency response teams to assure that a coordinated response with reduced response times for those in need of care will minimize the negative physical and emotional impact of an extraordinary event; and,

Whereas, the community is very fortunate that during such a difficult and critical time, the patients, rescue personnel and community were able to experience excellent Riverside care, communication, and leadership in action,

Now, therefore, be it resolved, the Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital Board of Directors applauds and acknowledges the exemplary teamwork, leadership, and care provided by all physicians, nurses, team members, pastors and volunteers of Riverside and emergency response personnel, who by working together, were able to minimize the calamity and negative impacts of such a devastating event within our Eastern Shore Community.

Unanimously passed by the Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital Board on August 26, 2014.

Curtis Badger has done his share of traveling around the world, experiencing adventures from Europe to Mexico, but at this point in life he says in his new book, Exploring Delmarva, A Travel Guide from Cape Charles to Chesapeake City, he is content “to stay on Delmarva every chance I get.”

Here is how he states it in his preface to the book, “I've spent the last year of my life exploring Delmarva, and I can honestly say I don't want to go anywhere else. From where I live on the Virginia portion of the peninsula, I can take a leisurely drive and spend a long weekend visiting wonderful places and meeting people with whom I feel a deep kinship. The fifty adventures described here are just the tip of the iceberg, just the beginning. There are extraordinary places to discover down back roads on Delmarva, creeks to paddle, fish to catch, wonderful food to eat ... a world of discovery to be found here in the three states that make up our peninsula. I think my sense of adventure, my love of travel, is still intact. I've just learned to focus it closer to home, to enjoy the things around me.”

Many years ago, when we were coworkers, Curtis and I shared many an outdoor experience. We fished at Stone Rock, hunted waterfowl at Red Bank, caught bass in freshwater ponds and enjoyed marsh henning at Folly Creek.

Curtis chose to write about many of these adventures, sometimes using me as the model for his photography for various outdoor magazines. Eventually, he chose a life as a freelance writer and photographer. In addition to countless magazines articles, he has authored more than 30 books, many on the mid-Atlantic coast.

His book, Salt Tide, was described by the Richmond Times-Dispatch as “a rare and glorious literary combination of natural history and memorable writing.”

I have many of Curtis’s books, including A Naturalist Guide to the Virginia Coast, Bellevue Farm, The Wild Coast, Virginia’s Wild Side, A Naturalist History of Quiet Waters, and Clams. I often pick one up to be inspired to enjoy the beauty of our peninsula’s unspoiled nature that offers so many outdoor opportunities.

This newest book will get you off the couch to sample some of the 50 trips he has enjoyed firsthand, often with his wife, Lynn, and their son, Tom, on the Delmarva Peninsula.

He visits historic Lewes in Delaware, St. Michaels in Maryland and Kiptopeke State Park here in Virginia, in addition to jaunts to bays, museums and natural reserves. He hikes, bikes, paddles and rides the back roads of Delmarva to offer readers firsthand accounts that will open their eyes to the wealth of places to explore and experience in Delmarva.

He also adds a handy “Best Places” list that covers just about every activity, several on the list right in our backyard on Virginia’s Eastern Shore.

The Delaware trips strongly emphasize the First State’s coastline, reflecting both human and natural history. There are also visits to refuges, such as Bombay Hook, and farther south, Prime Hook, that include miles and miles of wild coast and salt marsh meadows stretching as far as the eye can see.

In Maryland, many of the trips have something to do with the water, including canoeing on the Pocomoke River and Nassawango Creek. The Badgers also go sailing, fishing, camping on the beach, and crabbing, and even witness a lunar eclipse from an oceanfront hotel room.

There were visits to Chestertown, Rock Hall, Kent Island, Wye Island, Oxford, Deal Island, Furnace Town and Tilghman Island, where Curtis and Lynn spent their 20th wedding anniversary rock fishing in a setting not known for its romanticism but offering everything they were looking for — outdoor sports, wonderful food and friendly, unpretentious service.

On Virginia’s Eastern Shore, where Curtis was born and raised, he explains that most of the getaways in Virginia tend to be “far from the madding crowd.” “We go fishing on an uninhabited barrier beach, we collect clams on a tidal flat, we go after a ‘nice mess of fish,’ and we explore remote waterways in small boats. We paddle a canoe not to reach a destination, but simply to spend some time alone with our thoughts.”

These experiences, says Curtis, can’t be summed up in a travel brochure and put on a rack at the visitor center.

Chincoteague, Tangier, Onancock, Saxis, Savage Neck Dunes and Fisherman Island are some of the locales the Badgers frequent to enjoy a wide range of activities.

And don’t say, “Gee whiz, here it is the end of summer, and I am motivated to do all these activities when the season is over.” This book encourages you to enjoy Delmarva when there is a need for a sweatshirt or a heavy parka, when “the hardwoods show color and the geese are in the cornfields.”

Curtis makes a great point about Delmarva I’ve often thought of, too. Although we here on Virginia’s Eastern Shore are Virginians and value our rich history, we often think we have more in common with residents of the Delmarva Peninsula than the portion of Virginia that lies west of the Chesapeake Bay.

Badger writes, “We live in mostly rural environment, our history and culture are tied to the land, and certainly to the water that surrounds us. We hunt and fish, we farm and raise corn and tomatoes in our gardens. We go clamming and crabbing. We enjoy being on the water and hate to contemplate life away from it.”

Curtis points out that Delmarva residents even prepare their food in a similar matter. For example, on Delmarva, everyone will tell you spot should be fried, never broiled or baked, and certainly never poached. Purists will tell you the head and tail should be left on.

He advises that if you go west 100 miles and ask someone the best way to cook spot, you are likely to be arrested, handcuffed and taken away, charged with having culinary intent toward the family dog.

Ty Traister, new head coach at Northampton High School, conducts practice Tuesday. The local season gets underway next Friday night as Northampton hosts Nandua, Arcadia hosts King William and Chincoteague hosts Hampton Roads Academy, all with 7 p.m. kickoffs. On Saturday, Aug. 30, Broadwater hosts Brunswick Academy at 2 p.m. Next week’s Eastern Shore Post will feature a preview with photographs and a full schedule of each football team.
Shore Anglers Have Numerous Fishing Options

Don of Don’s Tackle Shop on Wachapreague Road says flounder fishing on the reefs and wrecks off Wachapreague and Chincoteague is still holding the most attention on seaside. Sea bass are showing up on the same structures, with triggerfish and spadefish also available. Also prowling these areas are cobia and dolphin. Tuna fishing has been sporadic, and the marlin bite is getting better.

Inside the inlets, croaker are king, with many smaller fish the rule. Keeper flounder are found in the inlet areas, with many small fish mixed in.

Don adds that the only reports of redfish and speckled trout on the seaside have been on the Machipongo River out of Willis Wharf. Tarpon are still around from the south end of Hog Island to Fisherman’s Island in the backwaters. With the extreme tides from this big moon, fish have dropped into the channels on low tides.

Bayside fishing has croaker and sand mullet taking squid and shrimp. Spanish mackerel in good numbers have showed from the Range Tower off Silver Beach south to Cape Charles. Best lures for them are gold and silver Clark Spoons trolled behind 4-ounce in-line sinkers or #1 planers.

Anglers should note the bull red drum fishing we have is a catch-and-release fishery. Great numbers of them are available from Nassawadox south to the bridge-tunnel. The slot size for red drum is 18-26” to legally keep.

Chris at Chris’ Bait and Tackle says anglers continue to load up on croaker out of Oyster past The Chimney and Buoy 262 out of the refuge. Flounder are being caught around the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel at the fourth island and Buoy 42. Sea mullet are being taken out of Cape Charles drifting the channel and off Sunset Beach.

Cobia are being seen out by Buoy 36A. Triggers, sheepshead and spadefish are being caught around the bridge-tunnel and the fourth island.

Dr. Julie Ball says as the billfish population builds offshore, boats are returning with varied catches. Several white marlin, along with scattered sailfish, spearfish, and blue marlin, were released recently. The best catches of billfish continue to occur with live baiting techniques. Nice gaffer dolphin and wahoo are also adding some variety, along with scattered big yellowfin tuna and an occasional big eye tuna.

Animal Rehab Gets Big Boost

Dear Editor:

I would like to thank everyone who supported the Shore Wildlife Rehab Bake Sale and Raffle. This was our first attempt at raising funds and awareness for our local wildlife rehabilitators and it was a huge success!

Kathy Cummings and Gay Frazee invest long hours, emotions and their own money to care for these animals. Kathy and Gay have been asked many times over the years, “Who pays them to take care of these animals?” The answer is no one. Being a wildlife rehabilitator is a volunteer service. We provide free medical care to these animals, but the rest of the cost comes straight from the rehabilitators’ own pockets.

Thank you to all the bakers and buyers of those delicious desserts. Thank you to everyone who bought a raffle ticket and all of the local businesses that provided us with very generous gift certificates and items. Thank you to each wonderful soul who pulled out a wallet and made a donation without asking for a single sugary sweet in return. For everyone who gave blankets, paper towels, bleach and time to help pull this together, your gifts and efforts were amazing.

And of course, a very special thank you to Kathy Cummings and Gay Frazee for everything they do. Our event raised over $1,600 to help these incredible ladies continue caring for the Eastern Shore’s wildlife.

For more information and adorable pictures and videos, please check out Shore Wildlife Rehab’s Facebook page.

Arts Program Was Incredible

Dear Editor:

It is with much praise and gratitude that I express my sincere appreciation for the event “Harbor for the Arts” in Cape Charles Aug. 1-17. As the second annual event, this arts festival deserves great acclaim. Not only has our cultural arts organization, Arts Enter Cape Charles demonstrated expertise in grant and sponsorship funding, it has also proved to the world that our community has one of the premier cultural arts centers in the nation, if not the world.

Performances and exhibitions took place over two weeks, using venues that represented the best private and public assets of Cape Charles and her surroundings. Street performances, bands under pavilions on the park and at the beach, concerts and films in our beautifully restored historic theater, entertainers gathering audiences on the sidewalks, a multi-media dance production in a classic 150-year-old equestrian barn overlooking the seaside sounds and islands, and more — wherever one turned during these two weeks, the cultural arts permeated our living space here in Cape Charles. How blessed this writer felt to be living and working in such an incredibly talented community!

Arts Enter Cape Charles deserves all of the support our community can possibly give, through attendance, financial gifts, sponsorships and volunteer participation. This dedicated group colors our community with excellence in the arts, offering instruction in the performing and visual arts as well as amazing performances that educate, entertain and thrill her audiences. This is the essence of economic development, establishing our community as a center of the arts and education, improving our reputation and attracting new growth and business to our region.

Thank you to Arts Enter Cape Charles for enriching our lives and lifting our souls!

David L. Kabler, Machipongo
