Lewis To Have At Least One Opponent in Senate Election

By Linda Cicoira

Richard Ottinger, a Norfolk lawyer, is kicking off his campaign on the Eastern Shore today as he seeks the Republican nomination for Virginia’s 6th District Senate seat.

State Sen. Lynwood Lewis, an Accomac lawyer, former state delegate, and a Democrat, won the seat in a special election last year to complete the term of Ralph Northam, who vacated the post to take his new job as lieutenant governor. Another Senate election is slated for November. Ottinger was unsuccessful in his campaign to secure the Republican nomination last time.

“To win this election, it’s going to take sound ideas, boundless energy, and an ability to attract new voters,” Ottinger says on his campaign website. “That’s what I bring to this campaign.”

Ottinger says he understands the need for “a pro-business environment that leads to a thriving private sector in order to create jobs.” He promises to work “to reduce taxes on small businesses, reduce regulations and aggressively recruit new companies to expand or relocate in the commonwealth.”

He also wants to protect Virginia’s right-to-work law and “stop abusive union practices … and keep taxes low.”

“Government must be fiscally responsible with the taxpayers’ money and not spend more than it takes in,” Ottinger says, promising to “work to cut wasteful government spending, balance the budget and make sure our tax dollars are spent wisely.”

The father of two, Ottinger says he “cares deeply about our children’s education.” His wife, Lisa, is a former Norfolk public school teacher.

Ottinger “supports legislation that would ensure that at least 65 percent of school funding would be allocated to the classroom, leaving more money for textbooks, computers and teachers.”

He also claims ObamaCare “is causing a major crisis in our health care industry. People are losing their health care plans and losing access to their family doctors. The last thing we need in Virginia is an ObamaCare related Medicaid expansion.” He “will do everything in his power to stop Medicaid expansion so it does not bankrupt our state.”

Ottinger will be at Rayfield’s Pharmacy in Cape Charles today from 8:45 to 9:45 a.m. and at Club Car Café in Parksley from noon until 1 p.m.

He is a partner with the law firm Vandeventer Black LLP of Norfolk and specializes in commercial litigation. Ottinger was selected as one of Hampton Roads’ Top 40 Under 40 by Inside Business magazine and as one of Virginia’s Legal Elite Young Lawyers by Virginia Business magazine. He “attributes his strong work ethic” to the hours working in his father’s warehouse from the age of 14.

All but Supervisor Grayson Chesser agreed to that specification. He said before he was a supervisor “one thing that really gripped me was when attorneys got extra time but regular people didn’t.” He said he didn’t know how the opposition would go about choosing a representative.

“Some people don’t like to speak at a public meeting so they hire someone to speak for them,” Thornton said, adding that they have to pay a lawyer for an hour even if he or she only speaks for a few minutes.

The supervisors also got a report from consultants who prepared a joint land-use study known as JLUS that addresses “changes in military operations that may increase noise, dust or safety concerns on the surrounding areas while new residential or commercial development may restrict the military’s ability to operate or train. Determining compatible development patterns on and around the installation is needed to protect the long-term, viable relationship between the installation and the local community.”

This includes the aircraft accident potential zones, aircraft noise zones and rocket range hazard area. The study found the need to:

- establish an advisory panel, amend Accomack’s Comprehensive Plan and pursue grants or other funds for JLUS recommendations;
- establish a mitigation process for existing incompatibilities with Wallops Flight Facility (WFF) aircraft clear zones;
- establish a review process for requests for commercial wind turbines, cell towers, radio frequency emitters or structures;
- have NASA or the Navy identify potential offshore interference;
- establish a WFF rocket launch overlay district and provide notifications in the range hazard area;
- establish a WFF aircraft operations overlay district and amend the county zoning ordinance and subdivision ordinance for compatible land use;
- adopt real-estate disclosure measures for properties in aircraft accident potential and noise zones;
- provide information about incentives for retrofits for windows on existing buildings in hazard areas;
- encourage noise reduction measures in noise zones as part of the permit process;
- develop a mitigation plan for recurrent flood, storm surge events and sea level rise for the facilities on WFF Wallops Island;
- provide annual updates to Accomack regarding JLUS implementation progress.

Supervisor Thornton Will Not Seek Re-election

By Linda Cicoira

After serving for two decades, Supervisor Wanda Thornton of the Island District won’t run for re-election, she announced Monday at a Chincoteague Town Council meeting.

Thornton plans to fill out her term, which ends at the end of this year. The position will be up for grabs in November’s General Election.

“It’s been a pleasure to represent Chincoteague,” she said. “I will not be seeking election. I love this community” and will continue to work for it.

“I may want to sit on the (Accomack) Planning Commission or something,” Thornton said Tuesday when reached by phone. “I’m not the type of person who can sit back and not do something for my community.”

Also a town councilwoman for about 7.5 years, Thornton ruled out any possibility of running for a state or federal seat, saying she doesn’t like to spend the night away from home.

Four years ago, she announced her campaign by saying, “I believe we are facing the most difficult challenges that we have ever faced in this economy.” Her goals included economic development to bring jobs to the county, keeping spending and taxes under control, maintaining beach parking at Assateague Island while working toward dune stabilization and beach replenishment, and completing Wallops Research Park.

Thornton has owned and operated Pine Grove Campground with her husband, Donald, for 40 years.

She has served as chairwoman of the Board of Supervisors, vice chairwoman of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel Commission and vice president of Delmarva Water Transport. She also has served as a member or officer on most of the various boards and commissions for Accomack County, including the Accomack-Northampton Planning District Commission, the Accomack Northampton Transportation District Commission, the Eastern Shore Railroad, the Groundwater Commission and the Public Service Authority.

Making a Difference

Mark G. Clarke, M.D.

I live here in Cape Charles and enjoy being active in the community. I enjoy having the opportunity to really get to know my patients. Family practice allows me to use the medical knowledge I have to make a difference in people's lives.

The Riverside Care Difference emphasizes treating patients as members of our own family. I feel good when my patients tell me that they hope I'll be here in the future for them.

Chincoteague Names New Town Attorney, Considers Comp Plan

By Linda Cicoira

Chincoteague’s Town Council voted Monday to name former Cape Charles Town Manager Cela Burge Chincoteague’s new town attorney. Officials also got a step closer to approving changes to the town's Comprehensive Plan.

Burge served as the Northampton town’s manager for six years. After leaving that position, she graduated from Regent Law School in 2005 and joined the firm, Turner & Turner in Eastville.

A native of Craigsville, W.Va., Burge graduated from Concord College in 1978 with a degree in community development and regional planning. A certified planner, she served as director of economic development and tourism for the West Virginia Parkway Authority for six years.

She will fill the position vacated by Jon Poulson of Accomac in December after 26 years. Poulson recently wrote to the mayor, council and town manager, “I much appreciate the thoughts and remembrances of all of you as my many years of representation end. I was pleased to be a part of the many positive things the town government achieved … and hope that I helped contribute. It was my pleasure to be associated with so many good people … I leave with great affinity for Chincoteague and its citizens.”

Regarding the town’s Comprehensive Plan, a guide for growth and development for the next 20 years, council and the town’s planning commission conducted a public hearing on priorities and a review of the overall document.

Supervisor Wanda Thornton was the only speaker. She made a few recommendations regarding wording, the difference between private and public sewage systems with emphasis on taxes and private roads. The commission will go back and discuss her suggestions before council votes on the plan, probably next month.

The commissioners recommended adding:

• a policy on coastal resource management as required by state law;
• strategies for private streets;
• a statement “regarding the need for a viable neighborhood grocery store, as well as other key businesses and services necessary to meet the daily needs of the community”;
• demographic data from the 2010 census and new sections on floodplain and tree cover;
• an expanded section on groundwater;
• the population as approximately 3,000;
• environmental goals and objectives;
• a state guide for coastal resource management;
• a history of relations among the town, refuge and seashore and planning efforts by federal agencies.

Also proposed is the replacement of Chapter 5 about sewage disposal strategies with a June 2013 Wastewater Advisory Committee report; removal of any confusion about whether an historic district exists by making the name of such areas consistent; and revision of the housing section to remove the emphasis on new development and increased density to provide a more positive tone.

Camera Will Show Hospital Progress

By Linda Cicoira

In a few weeks, Riverside Health System will install a webcam at the construction site near Onley so the world can watch the new Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital become reality.

Riverside Public Information Officer Peter Glagola said the camera will be placed behind the Montross House on the property along Market Street. People will be able visit the Internet website to see the progress. Glagola anticipated that depending on weather, construction should be completed in about 18 months.

“We’re underway,” he reported. “Construction has begun.” Soon workers will “start working on the foundation.”

At the end of construction, a time-lapse film will be made so field-to-hospital completion can be seen.
Police and Court Postings

Accomack & Parksley Police

A Temperanceville man was charged with three misdemeanor offenses following a shooting in Parksley early New Year’s Day.

Accomack Sheriff Todd Godwin said his office received a report of a disorderly crowd and shots being fired in a parking lot near Club Car Café on Dunne Avenue. While deputies and officers from the Parksley police responded, another report was made advising that a gunshot victim was at nearby Royal Farms on Lankford Highway.

Police who went to the convenience store found a 22-year-old woman with a gunshot wound. According to Godwin, “It was determined that her injury had resulted from the earlier incident in Parksley.” She was taken by ambulance to Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital in Nassawadox, where she was treated and released.

The victim was not identified to protect her safety.

Deputies arrested Altaize Lamont Drummond, 29, of Saxis Road and charged him with obstructing a law enforcement officer; resisting arrest and being drunk in public.

Drummond is free on a secured bond of $3,000. Accomack Deputy S.E. Henning investigated.

Anyone with information about the case is asked to call the sheriff’s office at 787-1131 or 824-5666 or Parksley Police at 665-5803. Tips also may be submitted on the sheriff’s website at www.accomackcountysheriffsoffice.org

Accomack District Court

A Parksley woman was arrested New Year’s Eve and charged with 12 felonies, according to Accomack General District Court records.

Vicki Taylor Rowley, 54, of Mary Street is accused of six counts of a third or subsequent petty larceny and six counts of breaking into the home of Travis Pruitt on Dec. 11, 16, 17, 18, 21 and 22. Parksley Police Chief W.T. Carpenter investigated. A March preliminary hearing was scheduled. Secured bail of $7,500 was ordered on the condition that Rowley have no contact with Pruitt.

Osie Lee Warren, 19, of Beacon Road in Melfa was convicted of misdemeanor embezzlement involving property belonging to Royal Farms on Oct. 18, 2014. He initially was charged with felony theft. Warren was given a 12-month suspended sentence.

Antonio Lamont Cox, 23, of Highland Boulevard in New Castle, Del., was charged with eluding, occurring Nov. 8, 2014. He was arrested Jan. 5. Investigator S. Castiglia of Accomack County Sheriff’s Office handled the case.

Cape Charles Police

Seven people were charged in connection with a riot at the town park in Cape Charles on Dec. 28, according to Police Chief Jim Pruitt.

The incident began on Facebook when “two of them decided they wanted to fight each other,” Pruitt said. “Then others wanted to bet” on who would win. The suspects later posted a video of a battle on the website. “That’s how we got wind of it.”

“Three or more people contributing to violence” is a riot, Pruitt said.

Cody Nicholas Brady, 19, of Cheriton, one of the people who allegedly fought, was charged with conspiring to incite a riot, participating in a riot and three counts of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The other person who was accused of being in the fight is a juvenile and his name was not disclosed. He and four other juveniles were charged with inciting and participating in a riot.

Dory Epps, 19, of Exmore was charged with conspiracy to incite a riot, participating in a riot and a count of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Officer Chelsea A. Pfeiffer of the Cape Charles Police Department investigated.

Accomack Sheriff’s Office

According to Sheriff Todd Godwin, a search warrant executed Tuesday evening in connection with reports of inadequate care of animals on Bayside Road in Onancock resulted in the recovery of 13 dogs, one of which was dead.

The dogs are in the care of the Accomack County Sheriff’s Office and are being held at Eastern Shore Regional Animal Control Facility.

Godwin said the investigation is continuing and charges are pending.

Riverside Makes Overtures to Hospice
By Linda Cicoira

Hospice and Palliative Care of the Eastern Shore and Riverside Health System are talking about a merger.

Officials from the two entities acknowledge it but won’t give specifics.

At first, Riverside Public Information Officer Peter Glagola said, “I’m aware. I just don’t have details.” In a subsequent conversation, he was stand-offish.

“There’s nothing I can comment on at this time,” he said. “From a corporate prospective we can’t comment.”

A few minutes later, Glagola issued a release which notes, “Riverside’s Compassionate Care Network is an array of services that focus on patient needs beginning with diagnosis and planning and continuing through treatment and end-of-life care.”

One hospice worker said the take-over would include the thrift stores.

Another said, “There have been negotiations that have moved forward in the latter parts of 2014. There has been an agreement reached and no contract signed as of yet,” though a “letter of intent,” was signed. “We’re kind of in limbo at the moment.”

“As of right now there is nothing really we can share,” said Hospice Director Mozella Francis. She concluded that things have to be finalized and it wouldn’t be fair to speak at this time.

With recent freezing temperatures, AAA reminds motorists that the extremely cold weather is tough on vehicles, especially your car battery. The average life of a battery can be as little as two years now because of the large amount of power required by the average “modern” car and driver, according to AAA Tidewater Virginia Roadside Assistance Program.

“The power needs of a modern-day vehicle drain the same 12-volt battery drivers have relied on since the 1960s,” said Georjeane Blumling, vice president of public affairs. “Car batteries that charge items such as cell phones, iPods, and navigation systems are more likely to need to be replaced sooner. Cars also draw extra energy to power fans, security and diagnostic systems, and engine management tools, even when the car is not being driven.”

“Drivers may get an early warning when their car battery is about to die. Motorists may notice their car will start slower than usual, interior lights may start to dim or flicker and aftermarket equipment may not function properly,” advised Blumling. “This is the time to test the battery to see if it needs to be charged or replaced to prevent being stranded.”

Should your vehicle not start due to battery issues, AAA offers the following tips on how to properly jump-start your car battery:

- See your owner’s manual for detailed information;
- Always wear safety glasses in case of explosion;
- Check for visible signs of failure, such as corroded or loose connections;
- Attach the negative connection to the metal frame of the car to avoid too much power going into the negative battery;
- Attach jumper cables to the dead battery first to prevent live cables;
- Attach positive cable and negative cable last to the live battery to avoid sparks;
- Always double check connections to make sure you have correct polarity to avoid damage to the car’s electrical system.

Water Pipes and Treatment Take Center Stage at Exmore Council Meeting

By Ron West

Water concerns of one type or the other dominated the most recent session of Exmore Town Council.

Shortly before 5 on a cold morning just prior to Christmas, a primary water line supplying water to the town broke. During repairs, water to the entire town was suspended for several hours.

At the council session, resident Donald Kellam questioned the wisdom of turning off water to the town and the safety of the water once the line was reconnected. Kellam noted that the water needed to be treated prior to use and that it posed a health risk to users. He added that there should have been a way to isolate the problem without turning off the water to everyone.

Public Works Director Mike Johnson cited the difficulty of the repair and the fact that some of the valves that could have been used to limit the outage were inoperable due to their extreme age and corrosion.

Police Chief Angelo DiMartino reported the theft of water from the town when a resident by-passed his water meter. DiMartino noted that the individual had received a warning and that the water line had been reconnected to a meter. A short time later, the line was found to have been tampered with again. A lock applied by the Public Works Department had been pried off.

Town Manager Robert Duer stated that the individual will be prosecuted and the matter has been turned over to the commonwealth’s attorney.

DiMartino gave council an update on criminal activity in the town, noting that while many types of crime are decreasing, the number of break-ins is of concern.

Duer spoke of the increase in revenue being generated by the enforcement of traffic violations in the area and asked council to approve the purchase of a new patrol car for the Police Department. The vehicle, estimated to cost near $30,000 when equipped, would be ordered in July to replace one that needs to be retired from service. Council voted unanimously to purchase the vehicle.

Utilities Director Taylor Dukes and Mike Lawson, an engineer with Draper Aden Associates, addressed council regarding the need to upgrade the town’s aging wastewater system to better handle existing users as well as to provide for expansion of services to portions of the town currently not served by the system.

Dukes said plans called for work to begin on the new town water wells in March. Once completed, the Health Department will need to perform tests to evaluate the quality of the water.

Lawson added that should high levels of iron be discovered, the town would likely need to add a treatment package to the system.

Two Blood Drives Scheduled on Shore

Eastern Shore residents will have opportunities at the north and south of the peninsula to donate blood during January, which is National Blood Donor Month.

Collection sites will be set up:
• Wednesday, Jan. 28, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., at Chincoteague Coast Guard Station on Main Street;
• Friday, Jan. 30, from 2 to 7 p.m. at St. Charles Catholic Church on Tazewell Avenue in Cape Charles.

Donors of all blood types are needed, especially those with O negative, A negative and B negative. Type O negative is the universal blood type and can be transfused to patients with any blood type.
Local Health District Recognized

Eastern Shore Health District has been recognized again by the National Association of County and City Health Officials (NACCHO) for its ability to plan for, respond to, and recover from public health emergencies. It met the preparedness benchmarks required by Project Public Health Ready (PPHR), a partnership between NACCHO and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Eastern Shore Health District, which first met these standards five years ago, re-joins a cohort of nearly 400 local health departments across the country that have been distinguished for excellence in preparedness through PPHR.

“We are proud to have been re-recognized by Project Public Health Ready for our high level of preparedness,” said David Matson, MD, PhD, director of Eastern Shore Health District. “We will continue to improve our ability to respond quickly and effectively to any public health incident on the Eastern Shore of Virginia.”

Local health departments recognized by PPHR undergo a rigorous evaluation by peer review to assess their ability to meet a set of national standards for public health preparedness. These standards align with federal requirements and best practices and require health departments to collaborate with their state, local, and community partners to develop plans that account for all the constituents in their jurisdictions.

“All disasters strike locally, and local health departments are a critical part of any community’s first response to disease outbreaks, emergencies, and acts of terrorism,” said Robert Pestronk, NACCHO executive director. “NACCHO commends Eastern Shore Health District for being a model of public health emergency preparedness.”

Laila Holman
Youngest Essay Winner

At 5 years old, Kiptopeke Elementary student Laila Holman is the youngest winner ever in the annual essay contest held by Waste Watchers of the Eastern Shore. Jenny O’Neill, outgoing Waste Watcher president, commented. “Out of over 500 entries, hers stood out because she not only told an imaginative funny story, she drew a picture that illustrated it.” The topic of this year's fifth annual contest was “Don't be a Litterbug.”
Mrs. Cappel is survived by her husband, Silas R. Cappel; sons, David Cappel of Rocky Mount, N.C.; Daniel Cappel of Davis Wharf, and Robert Cappel of Davis Wharf; and brother, Joseph Bonilla (and wife, Nilda) of Florida.

A Celebration of Life service was held Saturday, Jan. 3, at Pungoteague Community Church, with Pastor Bobby Carroll Huether officiating. Online condolences may be sent offered at www.doughtyfuneralhome.com. Arrangements were made by Doughty Funeral Home in Exmore.

Retired Army Colonel Dies at Hermitage

Born in Kittery, Maine, Col. Fuller attended high school in York, Maine, where he met his future wife, Muriel Fuller. At the time of their marriage on Sept. 27, 1941, he was a corporal in the Army, later to graduate from Officer Candidate School as a second lieutenant in 1942.

During World War II, he served in New Jersey, California, New Guinea, and the Philippines, where he and his communication unit prepared for the anticipated invasion of mainland Japan. His unit was to broadcast reports of the invasion for Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and was to go ashore 72 hours or 300 yards after the initial landings, whichever came first. The invasion never came and Lt. Fuller served on MacArthur’s communications staff in Tokyo during the post-war occupation. Demobilized from the Army in 1945, he worked for the Prudential Insurance Company in Portsmouth, N.H., and rejoined the Army in 1951 during the Korean War. He served in California, the Philippines, Kentucky, Vietnam, Texas, Germany, and Arizona, remaining in the Army until his retirement in 1966. After the Army, Col. Fuller worked as a communications engineer for Philco-Ford (and then Computer Science Corporation) in Alabama, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Olso, Norway, on an MIT Lincoln Lab seismograph project, and NASA Wallops Flight Facility. In 1973, the Fullers settled down in a home they helped build by a country pond, near Greenbush. Col. Fuller got his private pilot’s license (which he held until he was 80) and loved to fly his Beech Musketeer single-engine aircraft out of the Accomack County airport in Melfa. One of his favorite trips was to fly his wife up to the East Coast and past New York City to visit relatives in Maine.

Col. Fuller was predeceased by his wife of 71 years, Muriel Welch Fuller. He is survived by his son and daughter-in-law, Randall and Jane Fuller of Dallas, Texas; niece, Gabrielle Cote of York; nephew, James Husson-Cote of Providence, Mass.; Wendy Cote of Cape Neddick, Maine; the family of Wendy Cote and Col. Fuller’s deceased nephew, Matthew Cote; Teresita Asman of Milton Mills, N.H.; and the family of Teresita Asman and Col. Fuller’s deceased nephew, Christopher Cote.

There will be a memorial gathering of Col. Fuller’s friends and relatives to celebrate his life on Saturday, Jan. 10, at 2 p.m., at the Hermitage on the Eastern Shore in Onancock. Interment of the ashes of Col. and Mrs. Fuller will be where they grew up and were married, in York.

He was a loving son who spoke with his mother every Sunday, sharing weekly stories and conversations, which she will greatly miss. He enjoyed a good game of pool, and dabbling in the stock market.

Celebrating Our 9th Year!
Pro football is in the playoff season with only eight teams remaining in the hunt to raise the Super Bowl trophy on Feb. 1.

One of those teams is the Baltimore Ravens, whose assistant offensive-line coach is Todd Washington, who played for his father, Tony Washington Jr., at Nandua High School, graduating in 1994.

Washington already has two Super Bowl rings, one as a player with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers from the 2003 Super Bowl, and a second from the 2013 Super Bowl when the Baltimore Ravens defeated the San Francisco 49ers.

Washington, now in his fourth season as a coach with the Ravens, says, “If you are not about getting rings, you are in the wrong business. We are working 18-hour days preparing for the next opponent, but it’s worth it when the team prevails in a setting like Pittsburgh,” said Washington, who called from the Ravens’ team office Monday between film sessions on this week’s opponent, the New England Patriots.

The Ravens are road warriors, having won their last five playoff games, all on the road, including four as a wild-card entry the year they won the Super Bowl. They will have to do the same this year to earn another ring.

“Being on the road, it’s all about execution,” says Washington. “The noise is unbelievable, and everyone is against you but your teammates, the coaches and the staff that got on the plane with you.”

The Ravens have faced their share of adversity in getting to this point. They lost NFL All-Pro running back Ray Rice before the season began due to much-publicized off-field issues.

The offensive line that Washington helps oversee lost two starters late in the season and started two rookies last Sunday against the grizzled Steelers. Undrafted free agent James Hurst played the key position of left tackle and more than held his own as the Ravens put up 30 points.

“There were predictions that James would be overmatched by James Harrison and the Steeler defensive line. We knew he could handle the pressure, and he performed great,” notes Washington.

During the game, Washington is in the coaches’ box high above the playing field relaying information to the coaches on the field on adjustments to what the defense is showing.

Coaching is what Washington has wanted to do since he first started following his father around as a young boy at their Melfa home.

“There are pictures of me as a child with a whistle around my neck. I would sit for hours and help my father break down tape. I always wanted to coach. It’s something you have to love to do because it demands so much, but for me it’s what I always dreamed of doing,” says Washington.

“Even as a player, I always thought about coaching,” he recalls. “I noticed how the coaches handled players and game situations. I wasn’t just an NFL player looking to get into coaching. This was something I had been pointing toward since I first picked up a football.”

In the spring of 2014, Washington turned down an offer to be offensive line coach at the University of Southern California. “The pro game is where I want to be now,” he explains. “I am not ruling out going back to college, but right now I am comfortable with the Ravens and with what I am doing here. If we continue to be successful here, there will be opportunities for the assistant coaches because everyone wants to tap into a successful program.”

Washington began his coaching career as an offensive-line coach at the University of San Diego, where his offensive line helped the team average 44 points a game. He was promoted to offensive coordinator prior to the 2009 campaign. He spent one season with UFL’s Hartford Colonials as the offensive-line coach before joining the Ravens.

The Ravens are coached by John Harbaugh, maybe the lesser known of the two Harbaugh coaching brothers, but the more successful pro coach.

Washington calls Harbaugh “a player’s coach. He knows what he wants, and if he’s not seeing it, he will get after you. But he treats you like a man, and that’s all you can ask for in this business. Players not only want to play for him, they want to win for him.”

Before he was a coach, Washington was an outstanding football player. Aided not only by the knowledge from a coaching father but also good football genetics that allowed him to eventually grow to 6’3” and 324 pounds as a pro, Washington went from Nandua to star at Virginia Tech, where he started at both center and guard for four seasons, helping the Hokies to average more than 200 yards per game over his final two seasons.

Washington started at center as a senior, earning first-team All-Big East honors and had 81 knockdown blocks. He was selected to play on the South squad in the Senior Bowl.

Washington was drafted by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in the fourth round (104th overall) of the 1998 NFL Draft.

During the 2002 offseason, he was re-signed by Tampa Bay to a four-year contract worth $6 million. Salary cap considerations with Tampa Bay brought his release in 2003 following the Super Bowl, but Washington signed with the Houston Texans and started 14 straight games.

After three years there, he was signed by the Cleveland Browns, but chronic knee injuries led Washington to announce his retirement before the 2006 season.

Washington and his wife, Shannon, have two sons, Cameron (15) and Zane (9), and a daughter, Ava (11). During the season, his time with the family is precious.

“The amount of time and effort we invest in each game is staggering. We sacrifice a lot,” says Washington, who comes from a tight-knit family that includes his mother Earline and brother T.J. in addition to his father.

Those sacrifices as a coach made his second Super Bowl ring even more special than the first. “It was great to be a player on a team that was named world champions, but the feeling as a coach is something I can’t even describe. It makes all the work worthwhile,” says the 38-year-old Washington.

And a third Super Bowl ring would be even sweeter, he adds.

Broadwater Beats Chincoteague 72-62 in Free-Throw Fest

Story and photos by Bill Sterling

Broadwater outlasted Chincoteague 72-62 Wednesday night on the road as Keegan Czesak scored 29 points, including 13 of 19 from the foul line.

The game was marred by fouls, including two technicals on each team in the first half, as Broadwater went to the line 34 times, making 22, while Chincoteague was 14 of 21. Czesak went to the line 16 times in the first half alone.

Supporting Czesak were Taylor Major with 18 points and Tyler Major with 11.

Jakiel Handy led Chincoteague with 19 points, while Trevor Bailey had 11.

Broadwater held a 45-34 halftime lead. Chincoteague cut the margin to 6 midway through the third quarter, but could not take advantage of a cold spell by the Vikings as the Ponies scored 9 points to Broadwater's 6 in that third quarter.

The Ponies were down 61-52 with 4:10 remaining, but Broadwater maintained its lead as Tyler Major drove the length of the floor twice for key buckets.

Broadwater, in the midst of playing six games in eight days, hosts Alliance tonight at 7 and Norfolk Academy tomorrow at 6:30 p.m.

Vikes Top IWA

Broadwater opened the new year with a 62-49 road win over Isle of Wight Academy Tuesday night. The Vikings trailed 13-11 after one quarter, but a 15-9 run in the second quarter and a 21-10 margin in the third gave them a commanding 15-point lead entering the final stanza.

Keegan Czesak led Broadwater with 20 points on 8-of-12 shooting from the floor. Taylor Major added 14 points, with Major Morgan scoring 9.

Bryce Casey led Isle of Wight with 20 points.

Tyler Major led the Vikings in rebounding with seven. Taylor Major and Morgan had five each.

Ponies Blast SC

Jaquan Persinger led Chincoteague with 17 points and Jakiel Handy added 12 as the Ponies easily prevailed over Salisbury School 61-37 Tuesday night on the island.

The Chincoteague girls lost a narrow 22-18 decision to Salisbury School Tuesday night at home.

“This was probably our best game of the season thus far,” said Pony coach Kelly Fox. “The Lady Ponies came out strong. They moved the ball executing their plays well. They were pretty tough on defense.”

Kristin Fox led Chincoteague with 8 points, Ronny Malone had 5, Sarah Turner 3 and Krista Reed added 2 points.

Chincoteague led 34-15 at halftime as 10 Ponies scored. Trevor Bailey added eight points.

Chincoteague hosts Worcester Prep Monday with the tip off at 5:30 p.m. The girls play at 4 p.m.

Chincoteague Drevon Johnson (20) and Anthony Wailes (34) defend Broadwater’s Tyler Major on a drive to the basket Wednesday night. Broadwater emerged with a 72-62 win.

Chincoteague Girls Edged by SS

E. Butler led Salisbury School with 10 points.

“I’m proud of the girls. They’re meeting their season and game goals one at a time. They are consistently improving,” added Fox.

Chincoteague held a 6-3 lead after one quarter before Salisbury School took the lead with a 11-0 spurt in the second quarter. The Lady Ponies closed the gap with a 9-6 fourth-quarter rally.

Lady Vikings Fall to IWA

The Broadwater girls fell to Isle of Wight Academy 53-35 on the road Tuesday night. The Lady Vikings trailed only 15-12 after one quarter, but managed only 4 points in the second quarter and 6 in the third.

Anna Sexauer led Broadwater with 19 points. Palmer Smith added 5 points, while seniors Jenna Hare and Kathleen Kraft had 6 and 4 points, respectively.

Sexauer also had 10 rebounds to lead Broadwater. Kraft led the Vikings with four steals.
The 58th annual Virginia Saltwater Fishing Tournament, which opened Jan. 1 and runs throughout the year, has added golden tilefish to the list of species eligible for citation awards.

At its annual meeting last month, the tournament committee considered a request from the public to add golden tilefish and grouper (any species) to the list. The initial minimum qualifying weight was set at 30 pounds.

Recent stock assessment data for Mid-Atlantic waters indicates the golden tilefish stock is not overfished. In Virginia, the aggregate possession limit for tilefish (golden, blueline and sand tilefish) is seven fish. Snowy grouper and wreckfish are the two most commonly caught species of “grouper” (wreckfish are not true grouper, but are lumped in with a 30-pound minimum, tilefish will not be eligible for a release award. Additionally, the committee felt the request to add grouper to the program was not justifiable at this time.

The committee reviewed the trend in citation number by species, comparing the 2014 season to prior years. Citation numbers for several of the most popular inshore species, such as croaker, flounder, grey trout and spot, were at very low levels, but this has occurred in other times since the tournament began in 1958.

The committee next considered increasing the minimum qualifying length (currently 46 inches) to 48 inches for red drum. This discussion was carried over from the 2013 annual meeting to assemble additional background material. Red drum was added to the tournament as an eligible species in 1960 with a minimum weight of 40 pounds. A release citation was added in 1988 with a 44-inch minimum. The weight citation was eliminated for 1999 and the minimum qualifying length was increased to 46 inches in 2004. The impact of increasing from the current 46-inch minimum to 48 inches would be significant. In 2013, 36.7 percent of the red drum registered for citation awards would not have qualified. For 2014, 54.7 percent would be eliminated. The committee discussed what was considered a trophy red drum in other states and considered the potential impact to the tournament from an angler’s perspective and in cost savings.

Following this review, the committee voted to maintain the current qualifying standards. “The tournament committee believes the current minimum qualifying standards represent a true trophy catch that warrants recognition by the tournament even as the population size structure changes within a species,” stated Tournament Director Lewis Gillingham.

The tournament committee made major changes to the program in 2004, instituting release citations for all species and increasing the qualifying minimums for more than a dozen species. In recent years, the committee has attempted to fine-tune individual minimum qualifying weights and lengths to coincide with historical trophy-fish standards.

Other popular programs administered by the Virginia Saltwater Fishing Tournament, such as the Junior Angler Program, and the Expert and Master Angler programs, will return unchanged in 2015. The Junior Angler Program challenges children younger than 16 years of age to catch and release six species of saltwater fish. To qualify as an Expert Angler, an angler must register fish in at least six different species for citation awards during the year. Master Angler requirements are 25 citations (with a maximum of one per species per year) in at least five different species over an unlimited period starting in 1996. Additional Master Angler levels can be achieved with an additional 25 qualifying citations and five species.

On another note, anglers should check their current saltwater fishing license for its expiration date before heading out on the water in 2015, as saltwater fishing licenses are now valid for 365 days from the date of purchase. Anglers must have a valid Virginia saltwater fishing license unless legally exempt. Again in 2015, those anglers over 65 years of age and older, but not required to purchase a saltwater fishing license (such as those anglers over 65 years of age or anglers fishing on another angler’s licensed vessel), must register with the Virginia Fisherman Identification Program (it is free and can be done online at www.mrc.virginia.gov/FIP).

Anglers also are advised to pay attention to all 2015 fishery regulations as they are announced. All applicable fisheries regulations must be adhered to and a saltwater fishing license is required for tournament participation. In addition, anglers fishing the territorial sea south of the Virginia border for striped bass are reminded these are North Carolina waters and anglers must have a valid North Carolina saltwater fishing license. Virginia does not have a reciprocity agreement with North Carolina, and the Virginia saltwater license will not be accepted in North Carolina waters.

The Virginia Saltwater Fishing Tournament is a program of the Virginia Marine Resources Commission funded with revenues from Virginia’s saltwater fishing license. The tournament offers wooden wall citation plaques or album-sized certificates for 36 species of saltwater fish which meet minimum criteria. The tournament operates all year.

The above described real property is hereinafter collectively referred to as the “Property”.

TERMS OF SALE: CASH OR CASH EQUIVALENT.

A bidder’s deposit, in cash or certified or cashier’s check, of $5,000.00 may be required at the time of sale from the successful bidder. The balance shall be paid in cash, certified or cashier’s check at settlement. Settlement shall be held within ten (10) days from the date of the sale (or at such other time as may be acceptable to the Substitute Trustee) at the office of the Substitute Trustee, Pender & Coward, P. C., 222 Central Park Avenue, St. 400, Virginia Beach, VA 23462, TIME BEING OF THE ESSENCE. The Substitute Trustee reserves the right to waive the deposit requirement as to any bidder, withdraw the Property from sale at any time before the termination of bidding, keep the bidding open for any length of time, and reject any and all bids. In the event the successful bidder fails to complete settlement as required, the deposit shall be retained and applied to the costs of the sale, including Substitute Trustee’s fees, with the remaining balance delivered to the Lender to be applied against amounts secured by the Deed of Trust, and the Property shall be re-sold at the risk and expense of the defaulting bidder. Such retention of deposit shall not limit any rights or remedies of the Substitute Trustee or the Lender with respect to such default. All closing costs, including but not limited to the payment for preparation of the Substitute Trustee’s Deed by the Substitute Trustee’s attorney and payment of the grantor's tax, shall be borne by the successful bidder. Real estate taxes shall be pro-rated as of the date of sale.

The risk of loss or damage to the Property by condemnation, fire or other casualty shall be borne by the successful bidder from and after the date and time of the sale. The Substitute Trustee is not obligated to deliver possession of the Property to the successful bidder; obtaining possession of the Property shall be the responsibility of the successful bidder.

The successful bidder shall be required to execute a Memorandum of Sale concerning the purchase of the Property by the successful bidder, a copy of which will be available immediately prior to announcing the sale.

The Property shall be conveyed with no warranties and by special warranty deed. The sale of the Property shall be subject to the right, if any, of parties in possession, and the Property shall be sold “AS IS” and “WITH ALL FAULTS”, without representation or warranty of any kind including, without limitation, warranty relating to the zoning, structural integrity, physical condition, extent of construction, construction, workmanship, materials, habitability or environmental condition, fitness for a particular purpose or merchantability of all or any part of the Property, and SUBJECT TO conditions, restrictions, rights-of-way, easements, reservations, agreements and other conditions contained in the chain of title thereto, and all other matters of record taking priority over the Deed of Trust, if any.

The Memorandum of Sale will contain the following provision: “Purchaser waives and releases the Substitute Trustee, the Lender, and their respective agents, successors, and assigns from any and all claims the Purchaser or its successors and assigns may have now or in the future relating to the “AS IS” condition of the Property, which was a negotiated part of the Memorandum of Sale and serves as an essential component of consideration for the same. The parties specifically acknowledge and agree that this clause bars all claims by the Purchaser arising from the condition of the Property pursuant to the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act of 1980, as amended, and all other actions pursuant to state or local laws, ordinances or regulations of any environmental condition of the Property.”

January 9, 2015 • Eastern Shore Post • 29
Fifteen years ago, I hardly could believe we were living in a new century. I never ever thought I would live to see the sci-fi year, 2015. But here it is and the possibilities are endless.

This new number also has caused me to think a lot about what I could do with $15. Two salads and two drinks at a fast-food restaurant would be about right. Or maybe if prices don’t change a whole lot, I could fill my tank half way with gas. (I drive a small car.)

When I was 15 years old, all my friends were going out on dates. My mother forbade it until I was 16. But I wore her down and she finally gave the OK as long as I got home before 10 p.m. And I did.

I should have had a quinceañera, a festivity that celebrates a young girl’s official entrance into womanhood. The birthday girl dresses up like a princess and often gives away 15 candles to the people who have had the most positive impact on her life.

So what else is happening? Pope Francis just picked 15 new cardinals. Reality TV star Teresa Giudice surrendered to authorities earlier this week to begin serving 15 months for fraud charges.

Some believe the number 15 is a magic square that an emperor discovered in 2205 BC on the back of a turtle. That square is used in magic and is inscribed in rings or stone for good luck. In Asia, the square is called Lo Shu and is used as a tool in feng shui, a design system that distributes energy.

The 15 top search engines, in order according to an Internet probe, are Google, Bing, Yahoo, Ask, AOL Search, Wow, WebCrawler, MyWebSearch, In-space, Info.com, DuckDuckGo, Blekko, Contenko, Dogpile and Alhea. That was educational. I didn’t know about a few of those.

I used the last of those and keyed in “15” and learned that The Christian Science Monitor was thinking my way by writing about 15 numbers that symbolize key trends and events for the new year. The list includes the 13,000 troops that will remain in Afghanistan; 20,000 miles per hour, the speed of the Orion spacecraft on its first flight; 320 million, the U.S. population estimate; 1996, the last year in which the nation’s champion football team was a first-time honoree; two to four degrees, the projected rise in temperature in most areas of the U.S. in the next few decades; seven, the day in January when Comet Lovejoy was visible in the constellation Orion (did you see it?), $2.26 a gallon, the average price of gasoline; 2/3, the number of new marriages that are predicted not to end in divorce based on current trends; 21, the number of states (not Virginia) that will have an increase in the minimum wage in 2015; zero, the number of comprehensive federal reports that track incidents in which people are killed by police each year; 19, the number of states in which control of the government will be split between the two main parties; 83 million, the number of households affected by a data breach at JPMorgan Chase Bank; 17 percent, the decline in homelessness since 2005; and 80 percent, the number of students graduating from high school in four years.

And then there is the Andy Warhol expression, “In the future, everyone will be world-famous for 15 minutes.” The number 15 is considered a triangular number, I guess, because three evenly divides it. Phosphorus has the atomic number of 15. A Crystal Anniversary celebrates 15 years. May 15 is the International Day of Families. Susan B. Anthony Day is Feb. 15, the date of her birth.

When a human fetus is 15 weeks old, it is about the size of a navel orange, weighs 2.5 ounces and measures four inches. And most importantly, for $15 one can buy 60 Tootsie Roll lollipops. Yippee!
