Exmore Man Fatally Shot

By Linda Cicoira

The father of eight young children was gunned down last weekend in Northampton through a window of a shed where he and other neighborhood family and friends had gathered to play cards.

Terrell (Juice) Devone Mason, 26, of Frederick Douglas Boulevard in Exmore was immediately taken to Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital in Nassawadox via a private vehicle, according to Exmore Police Chief Angelo DiMartino. “They did everything they could, but he passed due to his injuries,” said the chief. “We have some really strong leads. We are working on some things.”

The shooting occurred at about 8:15 p.m. Friday, Feb. 6, just down the street from Mason’s home.

The officer said there were “possibly nine people in the shed. They didn’t see anything because when they heard the two shots, everyone jumped to the floor. When they came out of the shed … whoever did the shooting was gone. That’s when they realized that … Mason was injured from the gunshots.”

The victim had only been there a few minutes when the shooting happened. “Someone approached on foot by the south side of the shed and fired two rounds though the window,” said DiMartino.

The card players are “there all the time,” the officer added. “In the summertime they play horseshoes” in the adjacent yard. “Generally we don’t have trouble at this location. It’s just unfortunate. It is a known fact” that people hang out there. “Someone knew they were in that shed.”

The chief said there are “no curtains on windows. Whoever did it could see who he was shooting.”

Officers from Northampton and Accomack County sheriff’s offices and the State Police responded and are still helping with the case, DiMartino said. No one else was injured, he added.

However, Mason was involved in what was described in Northampton Circuit Court earlier this year as a “war” between two Exmore groups. Jeremy Carpenter was dragged from a house and attacked by Mason and two others. The act was payback for the head beating of a 14-year-old boy with a baseball bat. The retaliation led to felony charges of abduction and strangulation. In the end, plea bargains allowed the defendants to be convicted of misdemeanor counts of assault and battery and assault and battery while in a mob.

“I apologize for my reaction,” Mason told the court. “It will never happen again. I feel like I learned,” he added.

County Attorney Stepping Down in Accomack

By Linda Cicoira

Mark Taylor, who serves as attorney for Accomack County, will leave that post on April 12 to take the top job in Spotsylvania County where he worked before he came to the Eastern Shore.

The Spotsylvania Board of Supervisors voted Tuesday to pay him $159,000 annually to be the county administrator there beginning June 1. Taylor will be a consultant to retiring Spotsylvania County Administrator Doug Barnes from April 15 to May 31.

Taylor has been Accomack’s attorney since 2007 and is paid $131,602 for that position.

“I will always treasure the memory of my years here on the Eastern Shore,” Taylor wrote to Accomack officials in announcing his resignation. “I have enjoyed serving Accomack County very, very much. Confidentially, I want you to know that I was invited into (the) Spotsylvania County’s County Administrator search process by supervisors there. The offer came to find me and I have felt compelled to accept it. I will miss all of you.”

Taylor served as county attorney in Spotsylvania from 2000-06. Before that, he was assistant county attorney there.

“It has been both an honor and my great pleasure to serve as Accomack County Attorney,” Taylor wrote to Reneta Major, chairwoman of the Accomack Board of Supervisors. “I have appreciated the board’s support during my tenure. Part of my heart will always remain on the Eastern Shore … I hope that you and the Board of Supervisors will wish me well in this new endeavor.”
New Accomack Budget Proposed

By Linda Cicoira

Accomack supervisors were presented with County Administrator Steve Miner’s proposed $54 million budget for fiscal 2015-16 that is 1.6 percent more than the current year and in this election year includes no increase in the real-estate or personal-property tax rate.

Nearly $290,000 more for education is in the proposal compared to the current budget. That funding was based on a formula used annually and is way off the approximately $2 million in additional money that the School Board plans to request.

In Miner’s proposed budget, more than 41 percent of revenue goes to the school system. Other categories include about 12 percent for debt service, more than 8 percent each for public works and general government administration, nearly 8 percent for Emergency Medical Services, more than 4 percent each for public safety’s fire and law enforcement/jail, another 3 percent for other public safety issues, about 3 percent for planning and community development, 1.6 percent for parks, recreational and cultural, more than 1 percent for judicial administration and 0.5 percent for non-departmental.

When it comes to local money, 31 percent ($16 million) is earmarked for education, 20 percent ($10.9 million) for public safety, about 11 percent ($6 million) for health and welfare, 10.4 percent ($5.6 million) for public works, 10 percent ($5.3 million) debt service, nearly 8 percent ($4.2 million) for general government administration, 3.6 percent (about $2 million) for planning and community development, 2.8 percent ($1.5 million) for judicial administration, 1.5 percent ($819,000) for parks and recreation, and 1 percent ($526,000) for non-departmental needs.

The majority of the funding will come from $29.8 million in general property taxes.

“This budget is balanced with real-estate assessed values essentially unchanged from last year, no proposed tax increases, no capital items for new construction,” Miner told the Board of Supervisors Monday evening.

A 2.5 percent salary hike for non-contract employees is included in the draft at a cost of $53,508. The Rainy Day Fund is set to receive $795,000, bringing its total to $9.2 million. Landfill tipping fees are recommended to go from $66 to $69.50.

Miner also suggested three vacant positions — an appraiser, a zoning permit job and a tax collector — be eliminated. “These have not been filled for years,” the administrator said. The county is set to hire a human resources specialist. Two part-time positions in the Building and Zoning Department would go to full-time. Savings also expected as the division merges more with the Planning Department.

“Health-insurance costs are expected to increase more than 13 percent,” Miner continued. “For those with full family coverage, that represents an increase of $108 a month … $13 more for single subscriber.”

The proposal also includes $43,000 in additional funds for the Community Services Board “due to the expiration of a waiver,” as well as $222,000 for a second year of funding for a new Eastern Shore Community College building.

Among the requests not funded in the proposal are requests for $3.2 million for school capital projects and $3.5 million toward a new Eastern Shore Public Library.

Pruitt Named Interim Public Safety Head

By Linda Cicoira

Accomack County will be getting a Valentine’s Day present this year.

C. Ray Pruitt again has agreed to take the post of interim director of public safety for the county. He will assume the designation Feb. 14.

Pruitt filled in for about a year when Jason Loftus left the job in March 2012. He will return to the position as Jeff Terwilliger exits to return to Isle of Wight County.

Terwilliger came to work for Accomack about two years ago. At that time, Pruitt was given a resolution of commendation passed by county supervisors. County Administrator Steve Miner publicly told him, “You did a tremendous job. Thank you for filling in.”

Proposed Northampton Budget Would Require Tax Increase

By Ron West

Many members of the capacity crowd who attended Tuesday’s Board of Supervisors session addressed the growing need to provide adequate funding for the school system.

The initial budget as requested by county departments totals $27.6 million, up $2.6 million from this year’s budget. It would require a tax hike of 13 cents per $100 valuation.

Board Chairman Rick Hubbard emphasized that the figures represented the departments’ requests and it was unlikely that they would be approved without a number of deductions.

Among the requests is $8,576,883 for the school system, which is $560,117 above current funding. The new money includes a one-step pay increase for employees, technology costs, bus replacements.

Citing the need to attract and retain qualified teachers, Northampton County Education President Justin Wheeler urged the board to support the school budget as presented.

Occohannock Elementary School science teacher Leslie James pressed the supervisors to include funding for an additional science position. She stated that as the only science teacher for Grades 4 and 5, she is faced with teaching 16 different Standards of Learning (SOLs), with only about two weeks to spend on each during the school term.

Kiptopeke educator Etta Robins, completing her 40th and final year in the classroom, addressed the need to replace the 60-year-old high school because of its poor physical condition. Robins added that the county needs more funding to offer more electives so graduates will be more competitive in the post-secondary environment.

Robins said the county also needs to replace the former middle school.

Among the non-school-related budget requests was a $99,306 command vehicle for Emergency Medical Services.

County Administrator Katie Nunez noted that there will be a joint meeting of the School Board and Board of Supervisors to discuss the proposed FY 2016 school budget Feb. 23.

Supervisor Granville Hogg recommended that the proceeds from traffic fines collected by the county not be used in the formula that determines how much money is available to pay county expenses because it is not a dependable source of revenue. The county picks up just over $500,000 annually from traffic fines. Nunez responded that if the funds were not included in the county’s revenue stream, the tax rate would have to be raised by about 3 cents per $100.

Seaview resident Robert C. Richardson urged the board to seek an alternative power grid as a backup for the county. He also spoke of the need to modify the policy of reducing the assessment of farmland in agricultural-forestral districts (AFDs). The county receives approximately $2 million less in taxes from land placed in AFDs.

Eastville resident Mary Miller said the board needs to reconsider the proposed density for the waterfront villages of Oyster and Willis Wharf.

Wardtown resident Ken Dufty pressed the board to keep the Town Edge District in the new zoning ordinance and add the definition of the term “waste” to the zoning document. Dufty noted his concern over the possibility that the ordinance would allow a wide range of waste products to be brought into the county.

In other business, Nancy Stern of Eastern Shore Rural Health spoke of the need to replace the existing health facilities at Franktown and Bayview with a new building similar to those built in Accomack County in recent years. Stern indicated that the $7.4 million center would offer medical as well as dental services. She said Eastville is being viewed as the site for the building. If funding can be found, it could become a reality in approximately two years.

The board voted 5-0 to approve the sale of county property in Eastville to Eyre Baldwin. The property consists of several parcels across the street from the Courthouse Green.

Group Formed To Support Medical Services in Northampton

The non-profit Northampton County EMS and Medical Services Foundation has been established as a vehicle through which citizens, civic organizations, and other charitable groups could support expanded county and volunteer emergency response agencies.

H. Spencer Murray, foundation president and CEO, announced that a kick-off campaign has been planned for early spring.

Foundation board members are H. Furlong Baldwin, director; John Coker, treasurer and director; and Cela Burge, attorney and director.

Murray stated, “While we cannot know all the impacts of the Nassawadox hospital relocation to Onley, we know ambulance travel and turnaround times will increase dramatically, whether at the new ER in Onley or in Norfolk. If multiple ambulances are in service a rapid response to a 911 call may not be available. This is unacceptable.”

“While Northampton cannot sustain a stand-alone ER, the foundation’s long-term goal is to establish a stabilization facility in Northampton and through advances in telemedicine perhaps avoid some of the transports to an ER,” Murray added. “We hope the Foundation efforts will be well received by the community and together we can improve EMS and medical services for all Northampton citizens.”

For additional information, contact Murray at hsparnermurray@msn.com or call 678-6458. The foundation address is P.O. Box 1374, Eastville, VA 23347.

Northampton Circuit Court

An Eastville man described by his psychiatrist as “a gentle giant” with a psychological disorder was sentenced Monday in Northampton Circuit Court for the malicious wounding of a Cape Charles resident to 15 years, with all but five years and 11 months suspended.

Wilbert Lamont Sample Jr., 38, who beat Ricardo C. Finley, also known as Ricky Green, 61, on Aug. 24, 2013 also must make restitution of $1,552.

Ricky Green, 61, on Aug. 24, 2013 also beat Ricardo C. Finley, also known as Ricky Green, 61, on Aug. 24, 2013.

Assistant Commonwealth’s Attorney Spencer Morgan argued against bond for Portier in December. “The commonwealth has great concerns for the safety of witnesses” who saw Portier at the party, Morgan said. “He should stay where he is,” Gordon agreed.

At the hearing Monday, Pettit testified, “There was a shooting but I can’t say who was shooting. I got shot in my back. I’ve been shot before. I heard several gunshots.” Of Portier, he said, “We don’t have no problems with each other. He doesn’t have any reason to shoot me.”

Joseph said he saw a dark-skinned guy in a black hoodie pull something he defended himself when he struck the man numerous times with a pipe.

“I don’t know why he would attack me,” said Sample.

Witnesses testified that Sample lives beside his parents and takes care of them. His father is bedridden and his mother has asthma and diabetes.

He also watches his niece and nephew when their parents are at work. Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel Police Officer Leon Rogers, who is Savage’s brother-in-law and the father of those children, testified that he has known Sample for more than 20 years and completely trusts him with his children’s care.

Prosecutor Bev Leatherbury said, “The wounds are very serious. The man was beaten from top to bottom.” She said the incident occurred at the home of the victim when Sample went there. He was “brutally, brutally injured, attacked in his own home with a pipe.”

Judge W. Revell Lewis said Finley suffered a serious head injury and a fractured eye socket.

In other cases, sentencing was deferred until presentencing reports are completed for:

• Devonte Lamar Spady, 21, of Cheriton, who pleaded guilty to two counts of distributing cocaine;
• Ashley Terra Ellen Spady, 29, of Cape Charles, who pleaded guilty to possession of the narcotic pain reliever, Dilaudid, with intent to distribute it;
• Akeem Markiese Rogers, 24, of Exmore, who was convicted of felony eluding and a third or subsequent offense of driving on a revoked license that occurred last September.

Bobby Terrell Manuel, 27, of Norfolk, formerly of Brickhouse Road in Exmore, was sentenced for two counts of throwing an object at an occupied dwelling on April 4, 2014, to five years, with all but three months suspended. Restitution of $649 was ordered.

Nehshawae Nicole James, 37, of Nickel Lane in Birdsnest was sentenced for attempting to extort money from Glenn Beasley, her longtime boyfriend, on Feb. 2, 2014, to five years, with all but six months suspended.

Northern Neck District Court

George Custis III, 37, of Madam C.J. Walker Road in Exmore was charged late last week with burglary with the intent to commit robbery at Simona Smith’s house on Feb. 6. He was arrested the same day and is being held without bond in Eastern Shore Regional Jail.

Jodecii Kiwaan Purnell, 22, of Upper Hill Road in Westover, Md., was charged Feb. 2 with transporting a firearm after having been convicted of a felony in the last 10 years. Purnell is being held without bond.

Accomack District Court

Probable cause was found Monday in Accomack General District Court to certify to a Grand Jury 10 charges, including shooting four people, against Juyuan (Buck) Cortez Portier, who has ties to the local “Bloods” street gang.

One of the victims, who is partially paralyzed, uses a wheelchair to get around after being shot in the back at a birthday party last year. Another has had a colostomy as the result of injuries he received. Two other victims said they have recovered physically from being shot.

But all four victims — McKinley Pettit, Patrick Joseph, Davar Purnell and Douglas Jean Risme — told the court they couldn’t identify the person who hurt them.

Judge Gordon Vincent didn’t buy it.

“I don’t believe that testimony is honest,” he said. “I believe it’s false.” The judge said he trusted the testimony of the witness who said Portier “came out of the house still firing. That is the evidence I believe in this case.”

Vincent sent to the Grand Jury four counts of discharging a firearm in an occupied building, two counts of aggravated malicious shooting, two counts of malicious shooting and one count each of using a firearm in a felony and possession of a firearm by a felon. Portier is being held in Accomack Jail without bond.

Evidence showed the shootings occurred after someone yelled “Free Teddy” (Tyvon Lyntcurtis Smith) and another cursed in response.

Smith, 22, of Parksley, is being held without bond in Accomack Jail on charges of being a member of the “Bloods” and committing crimes at the direction of, or in association with, a street gang while an inmate at the jail.

Accomac lawyer Carl Bundick said Portier was at the party near Parksley but left before the shooting occurred. His girlfriend can collaborate that alibi, Bundick said.

Assistant Commonwealth’s Attorney Spencer Morgan argued against bond for Portier in December. “The commonwealth has great concerns for the safety of witnesses” who saw Portier at the party, Morgan said. “He should stay where he is,” Gordon agreed.

At the hearing Monday, Pettit testified, “There was a shooting but I can’t say who was shooting. I got shot in my back. I’ve been shot before. I heard several gunshots.” Of Portier, he said, “We don’t have no problems with each other. He doesn’t have any reason to shoot me.”

Joseph said he saw a dark-skinned guy in a black hoodie pull something from his pocket just before the shots were fired. “I’m not sure where the shots came from,” he said, adding that he headed for the front door to escape, as did with many others in the crowd.

Wheelchair-bound Purnell, 17, testified that the party was for his mother, Debra Schoolfield. “Somebody said he’s about to start busting,” Purnell said. “I took a run for it and tried to go outside. I got shot in my back.”

Purnell said he couldn’t remember if Portier was at the party.

Risme testified that someone told him, “‘Get out of here, man, they’re going to shoot up the place’ … right before I got to the front door, I heard ‘Pow. Pow-pow’ … I got shot in the back. I felt like … somebody pushed me … everybody was trying to get out of the house.”

The couple shared their meth lab/Gargatha home with their three young children. In Acomack Circuit Court last week, the mother was sentenced to 35 years in prison, with all but four years suspended. The father got 40 years, with five years and a month suspended.

William Allen Williams, 27, of Music Circle was sentenced to 10 years for manufacturing meth, with all but two years and a month suspended. He got 10 years each for three counts of manufacturing meth in the presence of minors, with all but a year of each suspended.

While senior drivers favor tougher driving laws, from bans on wireless devices to ignition interlocks for first-time DUI offenders, an overwhelming majority support greater scrutiny in the license-renewal process for themselves and their peers, according to the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety.

More than seven out of 10 drivers age 65 and older favor policies that require drivers age 75 and older to renew their license in person and also support requirements that seniors pass a medical screening to remain licensed.

The AAA Foundation’s report, “Older American Drivers and Traffic Safety Culture,” also found:

- Nearly 80 percent of drivers over age 75 favor medical screenings for drivers ages 75 and older;
- Nearly 90 percent of older drivers (65 and older) reported no crashes in the last two years;
- Similarly, 90 percent of older drivers reported no moving violations;
- 65 percent of drivers 75 and older reported never using a cell phone while driving, compared to 48 percent of the younger “older” drivers (those age 65-69) who never use a phone when behind the wheel.

“Even though public perception tends to unfairly characterize seniors as a menace on the road, these findings indicate that older Americans tend to support policies to keep themselves safer behind the wheel, making them key allies in their mission to keep driving smarter and longer,” says Peter Kissinger, president and CEO of the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety.

Earlier this year, the AAA Foundation also released the “Understanding Older Drivers: an Examination of Medical Conditions, Medication Use and Travel Behaviors” report that found:

- 86 percent of those age 65 and older still drive;
- 84 percent of Americans age 65 and older hold a driver’s license, compared to barely half in the early 1970s;
- 68 percent of drivers age 85 plus report driving five or more days a week.

In addition to these reports, the AAA Foundation is taking a long-term look at aging drivers with a study that will systematically monitor the driving habits of more than 3,000 senior drivers over the next five years.

“With nearly nine out of ten seniors aged 65 and older still driving, it appears that additional years behind the wheel not only make drivers older, but wiser,” said Georgette Blumling, spokes-person for AAA Tidewater Virginia. “As older adults live longer and spend more time behind the wheel, it’s promising to see a trend towards a more pro-safety culture with increasing age.”

McMath Memoir Recounts Years in House

It’s a personal account of McMath’s time in the state legislature that will provide readers a glimpse into the process of making laws and working with constituents on a wide range of issues, many unique to the Eastern Shore.

As Arthur K. Fisher said in his foreword, “Yet then as now, legislators were confronted with hundreds of bills. McMath dealt with bills as philosophical as the Equal Rights Amendment, as vital as the creation of the first college on the Eastern Shore, and as frivolous as the Praying Mantis Bill.”

Fisher points out, however, that “You Win Some, You Lose Some” is far more than a recounting of legislative service. “Humor abounds as he chronicles his experiences on the campaign trail. Citizens expected their delegate to produce results whether the issue was dumps, or ramps, or markers, or about “five hen turkeys and two gobblers.”

McMath was elected eight times to the House of Delegates. He also served as chairman of the Republican Party of Virginia (1974-79) and as a member of the Republican National Committee.

In business, McMath was president of Atlantic Publications, Inc. in Accomac and grew the company to 32 community and resort newspapers in five states.

In public service, McMath served as president of the Virginia Jaycees and was a member of the Board of Trustees of Virginia Wesleyan College.

On his native Eastern Shore, McMath has headed numerous fund-raising campaigns for such institutions as the hospital, chamber of commerce and a rural health facility.

For all his varied experiences in Eastern Shore life, in this book McMath dwells primarily on his legislative career, including the campaigns that returned him to office every two years. Numerous photographs help tell the story and show some of the most prominent leaders in Virginia history.

Dr. Linda Thomas-Glover, president of Eastern Shore Community College, said the book is rich with history of the Eastern Shore. “I learned so much about how Eastern Shore Community College came to be and have a deeper appreciation of the efforts made to establish a community college here,” she said.

CAPITAL LETTERS

By Sen. Lynwood W. Lewis Jr.

The third full week of the 2015 General Assembly continued with numerous constituent visits to my office at the Capitol. A total of 108 individuals have signed our guest register. They include groups from all the localities represented in the 6th District and include representatives of agriculture, medicine, real estate, and education as well as citizens just interested in voicing their opinion or in watching the Assembly in action. These visits are important as they often put a face and real-life experience to a particular issue. One-on-one encounters with constituents are invaluable in understanding how issues and activities here at the General Assembly impact folks at home.

A number of important groups also have organized large visits to the Capitol to educate legislators and to press their issues. It usually starts with the Agri-Business Council reception and banquet during the first week of the session. We always have a nice group from the Eastern Shore visit in conjunction with that event and it’s good to see folks from home. Gov. McAuliffe has increased agricultural exports by almost 35 percent, to a 2014 total of almost $3 billion and has vowed to continue to increase exports.

We also just recently had Aerospace Day at the General Assembly, and we always have a good contingent of folks from NASA Wallops Island and Space Port visit. It is important to let legislators from outside the district know what great things are happening with the different activities at Wallops from the Navy to the Space Port to the beginnings of the drone industry.

We also had visitors from the maritime industry, which constitutes 6.8 percent of the gross state product and pays out $17.5 billion in wages.

A number of my bills will be heading over to the House of Delegates for consideration after Crossover. Specifically:
- SB 931 - Adds Virginia National Guardsmen to the definition of “veteran”;
- SB 950 - Establishes the Veteran Employment Grant Fund and Program to encourage businesses to hire veterans;
- SB 956 – Deals with congestion at the Hampton Roads Bridge-Tunnel caused by overweight trucks;
- SB 962 – Decreases the membership of the Virginia Military Advisory Council from 27 to 11;
- SB 1000 - Establishes a system of non-partisan redistricting in Virginia;
- SB 1115 - Allows for sampling and seizing unsafe food and dairy products;
- SB 1312 - Provides for the public maintenance of certain Shore roads;
- SB 1315 - Prohibits the private residential ownership of non-human primates;
- SB 1317 - Establishes the structure for the Shoreline Resiliency Fund.

Senate Bill 1312 is a great example of how a piece of legislation can have a positive impact on constituents’ lives. There is a small older subdivision in Accomack County which has struggled to have its primary right-of-way brought up to state standards, with the goal of having it eventually taken into the state system. The county wishes to help with this. However, a notation on the original plat prevented the Virginia Department of Transportation from ever being able to take the road into its system. Senate Bill 1312 would result in improvement to the roadway.

It is legislation and activities such as this that make service in the legislature gratifying and fulfilling, more so than involvement in heated debates over issues which are often irresolvable and which seem to dominate the news media. Del. Bloxom was the copatron of this bill in the House.

It continues to be a privilege to represent the Eastern Shore as part of Virginia’s 6th Senate District. I will be in Richmond until Feb. 28. Please do not hesitate to contact me by telephone at (804) 698-7506 or by email at District06@senate.virginia.gov

Lewis Greenehouse Gas Bill Nixed by Senate GOP

On Monday, Senate Republicans axed Democrats’ hope of gaining some traction in Virginia on the Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative (RGGI), a multi-state, market-based approach to slow climate change by requiring power companies to pay when they pollute.

Sponsored by Sen. Lynwood Lewis, the bill called for a study to be conducted into the possibility of Virginia joining RGGI and using any new revenues for flood resilience in coastal communities. The resolution failed on a near-party-line vote of 21-17. (Twenty-six votes were required for passage.)

The study was to be conducted by the state Department of Environmental Quality. The resolution also specifically called for an analysis of the experiences in other states.

“I am disappointed that some of my colleagues fail to see the benefit in even studying ... the Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative’s potential here in the commonwealth,” said Lewis. “This program has the potential to not only protect the delicate ecosystem on which the commonwealth relies and ensure our long-term sustainability, but also to provide revenue that would help deal with imminent problems such as sea-level rise in Hampton Roads. ... We are not going to tackle climate change by turning a blind eye to the problem; we need to confront the problem head on.”

With the winter sports season winding down, it might be a good time to check in on some local athletes who are competing in collegiate sports.

Brendon Burrows, a 2014 graduate of Broadwater Academy, is playing his best ball as Christopher Newport University nears the end of its season, now standing at 15-6 in Division III play.

Although averaging 3.6 points and 11 minutes a game thus far, the 6’3” forward has scored at an 8-point clip for the past four contests, including a season-high 11 points in the Captains’ 63-55 win over York Jan. 31. He also pulled down five rebounds a game in that span.

For the season, Burrows is shooting 49 percent from the floor and is seeing increased playing time.

“Brendon has been giving us some good minutes,” said CNU coach John Krikorian following the game. “He has a good sense of how to attack zone defenses and got to the line a lot today,” making five of six free throws.

Burrows starred at Broadwater in football, where he made All-State, in addition to basketball and track.

Michael Riopel, a teammate of Burrows at Broadwater on a team that made the Final Four in the Virginia Independent Athletic Association tourney last year, has been fighting injuries since several breakout games earlier in the season for Amherst College, a Division III Massachusetts school.

In the second game of the season Riopel had a team-high 17 points on six of seven shooting, including three of four from 3-point range. Riopel made 11 of the first 14 shots he took in college, including five of eight 3-pointers.

Riopel took a hard fall driving for a layup in the next game and missed several outings with a concussion. Then a hip flexor injury cost him some playing time and slowed him down.

Still, he is shooting a very respectable 46 percent from the floor and 34 percent from the 3-point line while averaging 4.6 points a game.

The 6’5” guard has also contributed with three rebounds a game and has only two turnovers compared to 10 assists in conference play.

Casey Paglia, a three-time state wrestling champion at Northampton, also has been battling injuries this season as he competes as a redshirt freshman for American University in Washington, D.C., a Division I program that has produced 14 All-Americans since 2001 and often has been ranked nationally.

 Paglia posted a 5-1 record in the opening tourney of the season and placed third at 141 pounds.

Shortly after that, Paglia suffered an arm injury that has kept him sidelined much of the season and less than full strength when he does get on the mat.

At Northampton, Paglia finished his senior year at 42-1 and had a career record of 165-17. He was named the Virginia Single A Student Athlete of the Year by the Virginia Chapter of the National Wrestling Hall of Fame.

A tireless worker, Paglia also competed in cross-country, track and soccer at Northampton.

No doubt when he is healthy, Paglia will return to the winning form he has displayed his entire career.

The Eastern Shore has a number of other athletes competing at the college level, including several in upcoming spring sports such as baseball, softball and track.

We will be checking in on those athletes as the seasons play out in the next several months.
Wrestling Club at Northampton

The cost is $50 per wrestler. Each wrestler also must have a USA wrestling card which can be purchased online. Wrestlers who participated in the Fall Club Session will not have to purchase another USA Wrestling Card, but will have to pay the $50 club fee

Registration and payment will take place on the first night of practice.

Disc golf is like golf without the clubs and the balls. The game follows the same idea, with fewest strokes winning the match. The sport is growing and with two 18-hole (basket) courses at Indiantown Park, locals have been at it for about 13 years now.

Tee time is 10:30 a.m. on Feb. 21, sun, rain or snow. There will be prizes for the winners in several classes: men’s, women’s, boys’, girls’ and men’s over 50. Entries will receive a Nesting Mini with the Ice Bowl 2015 logo and a chance at other prizes.

The entry fee is $20, or $15 and six non-perishable food items.

Jackets Jolt Warriors 61-32

Story and photos by Bill Sterling

Northampton jumped to a 9-0 lead after four minutes and never looked back, storming to a 61-32 win over Nandua Wednesday night in Onley. The win gave Arcadia the regular season title with a 7-2 mark. The loss dropped the Warriors to 6-3.

Shore hoop teams now start conference play. At press time, Arcadia was in line for a first-round bye and will play at home next Thursday. Nandua hosts a Conference 33 game Tuesday, and Northampton was slated to go on the road Tuesday in Conference 41 play.

The Jackets had a 30-10 halftime lead and shared the ball all night with James Braxton and Rickiece Poulson getting 12 points each, Tony Robinson scoring 11 and Tamaze Brisco adding 10.

Qyheem Kellam led Nandua with 14 points, and Tyreim Blake scored 12.

“I felt we had a good chance to win, but this was a surprise,” said Jacket coach Wayne Bell. “We played really good defense.”

Northampton started two freshmen and two sophomores. Nandua honored six seniors on Senior Night.

Northampton Nips Norfolk Christian

Tamaze Brisco and James Braxton had 16 points each, Tony Robinson had 15 points and 11 rebounds, and Rickiece Poulson had 13 points, including three of four 3-pointers as Northampton outlasted Norfolk Christian 72-67 on the road last Saturday.

Firebirds Split

Arcadia blitzed Salisbury School 78-35 last Wednesday as Devon Rogers led the Firebirds with 14 points and eight rebounds and Jerrick Johnson, Travon Copes and Jaquan Wharton each had 10 points. Johnson contributed six rebounds, with Copes dishing out five assists.

On Friday, Arcadia was overwhelmed by Windsor 89-42 Friday night on the road. JaQuagia Tull led the Lady Firebirds with 17 points, Sarah Jones added 12 points and Normaya Harris had 7 points.

The Nandua girls remained unbeaten in Shore District play with a 55-39 win over Northampton Tuesday night.

Nyizia Robinson led the Lady Warriors with 19 points. Angel Taylor and Derrica Toppin had 8 points each.

Briana Williams paced Northampton with 19 points. Taylor Nadeau and Quintara Lyons had 8 points each.

Nandua will get a bye in Conference 33 play and host a game next Thursday. Northampton will host a Conference 41 game Tuesday, with Arcadia and Chincoteague traveling.

Lady Firebirds Fall

Arcadia was overwhelmed by Windsor 89-42 Friday night on the road. JaQuagia Tull led the Lady Firebirds with 17 points, Sarah Jones added 12 points and Normaya Harris had 7 points.

Parker Commits to CNU Football

Jakorah Parker has agreed to play football at Christopher Newport University in Newport News. Parker, an All-District running back for Nandua who had over 1,000 all-purpose yards with 12 touchdowns last year, said that after talking to CNU coaches, he expects to be a running back or a slot receiver. Nandua coaches Deitrick Downing and Tom Rotkowskii said Tuesday they felt CNU was “a good fit” for Parker, a three-year starter for the Warriors. They described Parker as “quick, tough and a great competitor.” Parker’s parents, Tomeka Cummings (left, seated) and Jakorah Parker I, joined him at the signing ceremony Tuesday at Nandua. Pictured (from left) behind Parker are Nandua athletic director Gary Reese, assistant principal George Parker, co-football coach Deitrick Downing, co-football coach Tom Rotkoski and principal Brian Patterson.
Vikings Win Pivotal Pair for Playoffs

Story and photos by Bill Sterling

Broadwater won a key Metro Conference basketball tilt Friday over Isle of Wight 56-45 with 17 points from Taylor Major and 11 from twin brother Tyler Major, in addition to 8 points each from seniors Seamus Cooney and Tommy Golibart.

“We needed this win to keep alive our chances of getting in the state tournament,” said Viking coach Eddie Spencer. “The guys are playing hard this time of the year and working on defense. It wasn’t pretty tonight, but we got it done.”

Maybe the Vikings have to be moving to find the basket because they were 6-of-12 from the 3-point line, but 0-for-12 from the foul line. Overall, they shot a respectable 53 percent from the floor.

On Senior Night, Cooney and Golibart, the only Viking seniors who see significant playing time, were both four of seven from the floor, with Cooney getting all 8 of his points in the second quarter in addition to the eight rebounds he grabbed on the night. Taylor Major led the Vikes with 10 rebounds.

“We’ve told Seamus to be more aggressive on offense, and he showed flashes of it tonight,” said Spencer.

Major Morgan had 7 points, and John Gordon added 5 points for the Vikings.

Bryce Casey had a game-high 22 points for the Chargers.

Broadwater led 30-27 at half and opened its lead with a 15-7 margin in the third quarter before both teams tallied 11 in the fourth quarter.

The Vikings went to 11-10 with the win. Broadwater ranks just outside the top 10 in the VISAA Division 3 rankings. The top 12 make the state playoffs.

Vikings Fall to Alliance in OT

The Vikings trailed 16-9 after one quarter and 29-23 at half, but clawed back to knot the score at 50 at the end of regulation.

Taylor Major led Broadwater with 17 points, followed by Major Morgan with 12 points. Tyler Major added 10 points and Kevin Prettyman was three of three from the floor with 7 points.

Poor foul shooting, which has plagued the Vikings this season, again hurt with a 9-of-18 performance from the foul line.

Taylor Major had a team-high 12 rebounds. Seamus Cooney and Tommy Golibart had nine and seven rebounds, respectively.

Broadwater concludes its regular season tonight at Hampton Christian.

Broadwater Girls’ Free Throws Seal Comeback Win

Down 26-19 with 2:02 remaining, the Broadwater girls pulled off an improbable comeback by hitting eight of eight free throws and pulling out a 31-29 win over Isle of Wight on Senior Night last Friday at Hall Center.

Anna Sexauer scored 12 of her 16 points in the fourth quarter, including all six from the foul line in the last two minutes plus a couple of putbacks under the boards to fuel the Viking rally. Lauren McClaskey also hit her only two free throws in that stretch.

Neither team could find the basket until the last quarter, as Broadwater led 3-2 after one quarter and 11-9 at half. The Lady Chargers surged to a 5-point lead entering the fourth quarter and looked in control with a 7-point lead with just over two minutes remaining. The Broadwater girls then went to a full-court press and forced several turnovers before getting fouled driving to the basket.

“We work very hard on our free-throw shooting,” said Viking coach Ralph Northam. “We also practice end-of-game situations. It paid off tonight with a big win. Isle of Wight is a Division 2 school and a much larger school than us.”

Palmer Smith added 6 points, senior Jenna Hare had 4, McClaskey had 3 and senior Kathleen Kraft had 2 points, seven rebounds and six steals. Sexauer led the Lady Vikings with 10 rebounds.

Currently, Broadwater, 9-5, is ranked 11th in VISAA Division 3 state basketball rankings and would make the 12-team playoffs.

BA Trounces Alliance

Anna Sexauer scored a career-high 30 points and added 20 rebounds to lead Broadwater to a 62-16 win at Alliance Christian Tuesday.

Leading 22-7 at half, the Lady Vikings used a 25-1 run in the third quarter to break the game open.

Palmer Smith had 10 points and 16 rebounds. Courtney Floyd had 11 rebounds. Lauren McClaskey and Kathleen Kraft had 7 and 5 points, respectively.
Jackets 2nd in Conference Wrestling

Northampton finished second last weekend in the Conference 41 wrestling championships, scoring 92 points to 114 for first-place Franklin. Sussex Central was third with 58 points.

Winning first place in the Conference 41 wrestling championships for Northampton were:

Hide and then find a way to sparkle. Today is Friday the 13th. Tomorrow is Valentine’s Day. And then to prolong the agony, the weekend also merges with Presidents’ Day on Monday. Will the celebrating ever end? Not only that, but miracle of miracles, this winter lover is ready for spring. There hasn’t been any real snow and snow’s the best part, so let’s get it. Will the celebrating ever end?

February is also a time to celebrate American Heart Month, An Affair to Remember Month (the 1957 Cary Grant movie?), Black History Month, Canned Food Month, Creative Romance Month, Great American Pie Month, National Cherry Month, National Children’s Dental Health Month, National Grapefruit Month and National Weddings Month.

Today is the first Friday the 13th of the year, it is also Blame Someone Else Day. That’s what I’m talking about. The Eastern Shore Post’s Angie Heuther Crutchley did it. I admit it!

Was it the truth? Was it fair? Did you notice my eyes glazing over? They did.

I’m bored with staying indoors. A friend gave me a bicycle and I want to ride it. I need to do something with my flower garden, clean out the garage and open the windows.

Always feel I’m cheated by February anyway what with monthly bills persisting without a discount even though a few days were knocked off the calendar. It’s just not fair. Did you notice the month stretches exactly across four weeks like a box? It’s just not normal.

Food Freedom Is Dangerous

By Janet Sturgis of Franktown

While Karen Gray’s evocative simile (in the Jan. 30th edition of the Eastern Shore Post) comparing the Virginia Food Freedom movement with Martin Luther King Day/Lobby Day activities may sway many to support that movement, I wish to make a few points that will hopefully enlighten the reader to the potential pitfalls and perils associated with the Free Food Movement and HB 1290.

To equate the Free Food Movement with the struggle for civil rights is folly and, to me, downright insulting. Business owners claimed it was their right not to serve or employ minorities, just as this movement claims it is their right to engage in dangerous commercial activities.

Current Virginia laws regarding food safety as pertaining to public health surely pass the Supreme Court standards of rationality and strict scrutiny. The state, in fact, has a duty to protect its citizens, especially those most vulnerable, i.e., children, the elderly and those unable to make an informed decision.

Many of today’s “emerging pathogens” can be transmitted through food and/or water. I won’t burden the reader with the list. All one has to do is Google “emerging pathogens food and water.” Of course, we still have the old standbys as well: hepatitis A, salmonella, staph, strep, tuberculosis, brucellosis, listeria, E.coli, etc. While food production or preparation in licensed, inspected, compliant facilities does not insure 100 percent that illness will not be transmitted to the consumer, it certainly reduces the risk. It also makes epidemiological investigation of suspected outbreaks easier to track, treat and subdue.

Recent recalls may, on the surface, suggest the foods involved are unsafe, even if regulated and inspected, but they are actually evidence the system works. To rely on physicians and hospitals to report (even though required) suspected illness due to food or water, is not ordinarily helpful. Experience has taught me this simply does not happen most of the time.

To suggest that watermen cook their shellfish if illness has been reported in association with their raw product, is closing the barn door after the horses have escaped. While “dry type non potentially hazardous baked goods” offer the least risk for making the consumer ill (unless toxins have been inadvertently incorporated), dairy and shellfish are potentially lethal — no exaggeration.

State programs involving inspection, education, training and oversight insure to the maximum degree possible that you, the consumer, are not exposed to foods contaminated by rodent and insect filth, cross-contamination, improper refrigeration or other mishandling and are properly sourced, thus minimizing exposure to pathogens. Many of these are easily transmitted to others. The “raw milk” movement scares the daylights out of me due to the number of and severity of illnesses implicated by exposure to pathogens through unpasteurized dairy products (again, Google it).

You see, at one time, I was employed by the Virginia Health Department. My training and rotation of duties included inspection of dairies, food-processing and shellfish plants, nursing homes, hospitals, restaurants, childcare facilities, marinas, meat-processing and packing plants, and bottling plants, and investigation of foodborne illnesses. I was also a member of the Eastern Regional Committee that helped review and write laws as they pertain to food protection and safety. I believe I am in a better position than most to bear witness to what can happen due to unsafe foods. I also have worked with the best and worst of processed and unprocessed foods from farm to table. I have made it an ongoing priority to educate myself, formally and at leisure, on food and nutrition.

I am a proponent of organically and locally sourced foods and eschew what many would refer to as “processed foods.” I grew most of my own produce for decades, buy organic whenever possible, and support the Buy Local movement. I am not a stooge or flunky of the government, or some food code thumping nut.

The worst foodborne outbreaks I have seen were due to homemade ice cream at a family reunion (salmonellosis) and homemade potato salad, served to more than 100 people (staphylococcal poisoning), all lovingly prepared in home kitchens.

Our oversight and enforcement of food safety have eroded in recent years, due to budget constraints, etc. We are seeing the results of that, I believe, with the deterioration of safe food supplies.

We have not mentioned liability. That little disclaimer on the food product will likely amount to squat in court. Also, how will taxes be tracked and collected? Surely, the “movement” does not propose to be exempt from those responsibilities as well.

I realize that many are looking to supplement their incomes. While the intent might be noble, it will certainly lead to many unintended consequences and is NOT in the best interest of the public. “Caveat emptor” simply has no place in public safety or health policy.

One outbreak could tarnish the reputation of the burgeoning local food movement and farmers’ markets. Wanting something to be true will not make it so. Pseudo science,fad and fashion make poor reference and evidence for argument. Individual choice and freedom end where the safety of others is put at risk.

Offshore Drilling Threaten Shore

Dear Editor:

As part of the Obama Administration’s announcement of new leases for offshore drilling, Secretary of the Interior Sally Jewell continually stated, “Some places are too special to drill.”

Apparently, Virginia and the Eastern Shore didn’t make the cut. Virginia’s Eastern Shore is the largest remaining stretch of coastal wilderness on the entire Eastern Seaboard of the United States. Additionally, the Eastern Shore has been recognized by the United Nations as an International Biosphere Reserve, and as a Western Hemisphere Shorebird Network Site.

There is no place like Virginia’s Eastern Shore, the very definition of special. Less than five years since the BP disaster overwhelmed the Gulf Coast, our leaders are ready to open our region to the same risks.

Our culture, our economy, and our quality of life are inextricably linked to the waters of the Atlantic and the Chesapeake Bay. Our booming aquaculture industry, fisheries, and tourism all depend on clean waters and are susceptible to the slightest changes. Even if we never had a major spill, we would have tarballs on our beaches, and drilling fluid, toxic metals, and metal shavings in our ocean as part of the standard operating practice for an offshore rig.

If a spill were to occur, our very way of life on the Shore would be forever altered. Researchers on the Gulf Coast are still trying to quantify the long-term damage to that region’s ecology as a result of oil and the subsequent dispersants. Mutations, deformed hearts, lesions, and sterility have been documented in staggering numbers throughout the fish population. Corals were wiped out, taking with them millennia-old ecosystems. Petroleum products and oil dispersant have been found in the shells of blue-crab larvae and pelican eggs.

What would the cost to us be? Coastal Virginia’s tourism economy brings in close to $5 billion annually. Our growing aquaculture industry on the Shore brings in an estimated $55 million per year. In Northampton County alone, with a little over 11,000 residents, 987 jobs are tied to aquaculture or commercial fishing. This income and these jobs would evaporate overnight should oil wash upon our shores.

Let’s not forget NASA and the Navy, both of whom have previously raised serious doubts about their ability to work off our coast with the introduction of oil rigs.

With over 1,300 miles of coastline, Virginia’s Eastern Shore is by far the community that stands to lose the most should we see a repeat of the BP disaster in our waters. Even more disturbing is that we are the community likely to gain the least as well.

Currently, zero dollars in oil revenue would come to the commonwealth from drilling off our coasts. Any revenue sharing would require convincing the rest of the country to let us keep profits from federal waters, a prospect that is in no way guaranteed. Even then, the Eastern Shore would still carry a disproportionate amount of risk. Given our small population and two-person state house contingent, any oil money is not likely to flow into our community.

We on the Eastern Shore need to ask ourselves how we can reconcile the multitude of risks inherent in drilling off our coast with the slim chance of some money trickling down from Washington, to Richmond, and to our home. The answer is we can’t.

We need to tell our governor and our president, “No thanks. We agree with you that some places are just too special to drill and Virginia’s Eastern Shore is one of them.”

Virginia Eastern Shorekeeper Jay Ford

Stricter Litter Laws Needed

Dear Editor:

Please allow me to add my thoughts to the chatter regarding the litter/trash problem in Accomack which is quite annoying to responsible residents who have been trying to put a lid on it for years, but can’t because our governing bodies won’t deal with this problem. The county needs to step up to the plate and enact some laws that have teeth in them. Until then, the ditches, median strips, woods, etc., will be filled with unsightly litter and plain trash.

In the past, I have heard ideas proposed by the county, but there has been no follow-up. It’s like the county turns a blind eye because they don’t want to make a voter mad.

When travelers comes down Route 13 and enters Virginia, what do you think is their impression? If you are honest with yourself, it won’t be favorable. This is sad, because we could do much better.

The Health Department needs to step in and make some rules regarding living conditions. Fences or screens could hide junk cars, etc. There are ways if someone is willing to pursue the issue. I feel there is a prevailing anger among our young people who are stuck in poverty for the lack of opportunity. Community leaders need to become involved.

Linda K. Smith, New Church

Why Do They Litter?

Dear Editor:

I wish to say to those on the Eastern Shore who are careless, inconsiderate and ignorant by throwing their trash alongside the roadway: You are creating hazards by your behavior.

When your beer cans and bottles are struck by state mowers, they fly out as large, sharp projectiles. That means you have created a safety hazard.

When animals are attracted to the road’s edge by your chicken wings and potato chip bags, they are hit by vehicles. That means you have created a traffic hazard.

When your garbage leaches into the ditches, it be-

Support After-Prom Events

Dear Editor:

With the school year half over, prom season will soon descend.

According to the U.S. Department of Transportation, on a typical prom weekend, 48 teenagers are killed and another 5,200-plus are injured in vehicle accidents and 40 percent of the deaths are alcohol related. In an effort to prevent local teens from adding to those statistics, Accomack and Northampton counties’ after-prom parties will offer a safe, supervised alternative to traditional prom night parties.

A popular annual event aimed at keeping local teens safe following the big dance, the after-prom party offers food, non-alcoholic drinks, music, games and other activities, all under the supervision of adult volunteers and teachers.

There are big incentives for attendees who stick out the after-prom events, which usually run until 3 to 5 in the morning, including televisions, computers, tablets, game systems, and money. Committees of volunteer parents and teachers raise funds throughout the year to make these events possible.

Each teen gets a ticket upon check-in and the winners must be present to win, which helps most hang around until the end. Indeed, the statistics do bear out the importance of supervised after-prom events.

If you are asked to provide support in the form of money, food, or supervision, remember they do make a difference. And if you know a teen, encourage him or her to attend.

Nandua’s Basket/Purse Bingo will be held on March 22 at the Belle Haven Moose. Call 787-3710 for more information.
