Despite Objections, Zoning Changes Sent to Supervisors

By Ron West

During the public comment period of Tuesday’s meeting of the Northampton County Planning Commission, several speakers asked that the vote on the final version of the proposed zoning ordinance be delayed.

But their efforts were to no avail. Following considerable discussion and comments, the commissioners ultimately voted to move the proposed ordinance forward to the Board of Supervisors with some modifications.

Before the vote, Eastville resident Mary Miller expressed concerns over how the proposed ordinance would add greatly to the population density of the county. She complained that the plan does not take into consideration the additional services that the county would need to provide once the population increases.

Silver Beach resident Bob Meyers reminded the commissioners of their obligation to fully review the proposed zoning ordinance and urged them to delay any vote until that has been completed.

Arthur Upshur of Machipongo voiced concerns over how a portion of his property would be rezoned from Agricultural to Residential, preventing him from conducting agricultural operations on it.

Wardtown resident Ken Dufty suggested that while the existing ordinance needs some “fixes,” there is no need to replace it all. He too urged the commissioners to take a second look at the ordinance prior to voting on it.

Wendy Martin expressed concerns over possible pollution to the area’s waters on the seaside.

Realtor Dave Kabler stated that the current ordinance helped him when making property sales. “The proposed ordinance is not a right fit for the county,” he said.

Citizens for a Better Eastern Shore Director Donna Bozza stated that the county’s vision, as stated in the current Comprehensive Plan, should be the driving force that guides the Zoning Ordinance. She added that the county leaders have lost sight of what the people really want.

Nassawadox resident Larry Jones commented that his property is proposed to be rezoned, which would prevent him from farming it. Stating that he is the only certified organic farmer in the county, he charged that the county and courts are trying to take away his property rights.

Price Clark said the ordinance is difficult for many residents to understand and needs to be simplified.

Franktown resident Janet Sturgis also objected to the county moving forward with the ordinance. She suggested that there needs to be more public input in its development.

The final speaker to address the commissioners was Supervisor Granville Hogg, who said he was speaking as a private citizen. He stated that parcells that he owns in the Cherrystone area have had their zoning changed a number of times and need to be zoned according to their current use rather than as non-conforming usage.

After the commissioners completed a review of the final portions of the zoning ordinance, Commissioner Dave Fauber recommended that voting on it be delayed for six months to provide additional time to modify it. His recommendation failed to receive a second.

In other business, the Planning Commission heard a presentation from Hecate Energy on a solar energy facility that could be coming to the county. Preston Schultz, director of development for Hecate Energy, said the company is investigating the possibility of installing a solar energy farm northeast of Eastville, between Seaside Road and Cherrydale Drive.

The $38 million, 20-megawatt facility would occupy a portion of a 185-acre parcel and would connect to a portion of the nearby electrical grid. Schultz said the facility would increase the county’s tax base; offer some short-term construction employment; add no additional costs to the county; and likely provide efficient, alternative energy for at least 25 years.

If the plan moves forward, Schultz indicated that it would be constructed and operational in 2016.

Hecate Energy, Schultz described other projects that have been built or are in the construction stage in Georgia, Virginia, Rhode Island, and California. Asked about what would become of the facility at the end of its life cycle or in the event that it was started but not completed, Vice President for Project Development Patti Shorr explained that the company would be bonded and the land would be returned to its original condition by the company. While no formal application for a special-use permit has been submitted, Schultz suggested that it might be requested in the coming months.

The commissioners also reviewed a request to expand a storage facility near Cape Charles.

The request came from Michael Burnette, owner of Bay Storage, located on Parsons Circle, just east of Cape Charles. Burnette stated that the original permit for his facility, approved in 2001, called for the possibility of the construction in two phases. Phase I, consisting of four storage structures, with space provided to the rear for storing RVs and boats, has been in place for over a decade.

Phase II would add four more storage units.

The commissioners voted unanimously to forward the application to the Board of Supervisors with their endorsement.

The Planning Commission also elected Jacqueline Chatmon as chairwoman and Dixon Leatherbury as vice chairman for 2016.

Virginia Marine Police

The Virginia Marine Police have filed criminal charges against 12 commercial watermen, three of whom live on the Eastern Shore, alleging oyster violations in the Rappahannock River.

Brooks Pruitt (MRC #001010) of Onancock, Thomas Pruitt (MRC #3366) of Bloxom, and Melvin Miller III (MRC #008779) of Saxis each have been charged with oyster dredging or having oyster dredging equipment on a boat and unlawfully using a scrape in an unauthorized area, both Class 6 felonies; theft of oysters, clams, shells, etc., a Class 1 misdemeanor; and violating the closure of a sanctuary area, a Class 3 misdemeanor.

The charges were filed by the Marine Police on Nov. 22 and 23 after consultation with the commonwealth’s attorney. All violations are alleged to have occurred Oct. 22.

Virginia Marine Resources Commissioner John M.R. Bull said, “The commission has no tolerance for oyster thieves, especially those who steal from a protected sanctuary. This matter will be resolved in court and if convicted, these individuals will stand in front of the commission to determine whether their licenses should be revoked and for how long. In the past two years, the commission has revoked 39 licenses for natural resources violations, which is the most in decades.”

Accomack Circuit Court

A Parksley man pleaded guilty Wednesday in Accomack Circuit Court to having sex with a teenage girl.

Chief Judge William R. O’Brien sentenced Richard Alexander Lewis, 26, of Mary Street to seven years in prison for carnal knowledge of a 14-year-old girl. He suspended all but time served.

In a plea agreement with Assistant Commonwealth’s Attorney C. Andrew Rice of Virginia Beach, a count of taking indecent liberties with a child was not prosecuted in exchange for the guilty plea to the first charge.

The victim did not testify and was not present in the courtroom. Evidence was presented in written form to the judge. It stated that Lewis and the girl had been texting on July 17 before he took her and one of her friends for a ride. They drank cinnamon whiskey and smoked cigarettes and it was during the ride that the encounter occurred, the court document states.

Lewis was ordered to register as a non-violent sex offender.

In another case, a former Eastern Shore woman got an early Christmas present this week in Accomack Circuit Court when she was resentenced for embezzling money from local scout troops and then freed from Accomack Jail.

Judge H. Thomas Padrick Jr. of Virginia Beach apparently had a change of heart Monday when he arranged to have 34-year-old Angela L. Taylor brought back before him. He suspended all of her sentence, allowing her to go home to Virginia Beach.

Earlier in the month, he suspended all but a year of her sentence for the 2013 embezzling convictions.

Taylor got 12 months on each of two counts of embezzling, to run concurrently. She was ordered to pay $7,500 in restitution to an insurance company for the crimes, which involved Boy Scout Troop 303 and Cub Scout Pack.
300. Taylor was sentenced to another 12 months, to run consecutively, for embezzling from Girl Scouts of the Chesapeake Bay with $5,827 in restitution ordered. The troops were associated with Grace United Methodist Church in Parksley.

Accomack District Court
Probable cause for charges of violence made against two Accomack County residents were certified Monday to the grand jury.

Malicious wounding charges were certified for Maximino Lopez, 43, of Ames Farm Road in Painter and Keyrria Corbin, 27, of Fleming Road in New Church in separate incidents.

Commonwealth’s Attorney Gary Agar said an additional charge of robbery will not be prosecuted against Lopez. The victim in that case, José Antonio Morales Morales, testified through a Spanish interpreter, that he was sitting in a van texting on Oct. 15 when Lopez “attacked me with a knife” and said, “I’m going to kill you.”

“I lifted my head and I saw the reflection of the knife,” Morales continued. “So when I saw the knife, I put out my hand and I pushed it. … I yelled for the police. I shouted because he was going to kill me.”

The incident allegedly occurred at 6Ls farm near Belle Haven, where the two men worked.

The victim in the case involving Corbin said the defendant purposely struck her with her with a car on Oct. 31, causing her legs to be crushed between two vehicles. Testimony showed the two women previously argued through Facebook.

Both suspects are being held in Accomack Jail.

Northampton District Court
An Accomack County man was charged with two felonies this week, according to records filed in Northampton General District Court.

Cornell D’Lawayne Walker, 31, of Parsley is accused of eluding police and unauthorized use of a vehicle on Nov. 29, 2015. He was arrested the same day. Documents about the case were filed with the court on Dec. 1. Officer Marc Anthony Marshall of Exmore Police Department investigated.

PETA Sued for Euthanizing Local Dog
The owners of a dog that PETA (People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals) admitted to mistakenly euthanizing last year, recently filed a $9 million lawsuit against the organization.

Wilbur Zarate Llaven and Cynthia Isabel Zarate Tovilla filed the suit in Norfolk Circuit Court against PETA and workers Victoria Jean Carey and Jennifer (Jenny) Lisa Wood, both of Norfolk.

A hearing was tentatively set for Oct. 31, 2016.

The PETA members are accused of taking Maya, a chihuahua, from the porch of the couple’s home at Dreamland II Trailer Park near Parsley on Oct. 18, 2014, while they were gathering up strays to be euthanized.

The lawsuit alleges trespassing and emotional distress to the family, including Zarate’s young daughter.

The organization was fined for failing to keep the dog alive for the five days required by law.

‘The Survey Says ...’

By Linda Cicoira

“Giving” is the name of the game on the Shore at Christmastime.

In a survey conducted by the Eastern Shore Post, 100 percent of the participants said they prefer giving holiday presents rather than receiving them. Many also chose white handkerchiefs to “selfie sticks” and they aren’t particularly thrilled with those top 2015 gifts of drones and hover boards.

When Jennifer Ash of Eastville was a child, she enjoyed “going to the pantomime at a theatre in the city in a taxi. Our favorite was ‘Cinderella,” she wrote in an email. Since last Christmas, she took “a trip back to England to visit family and friends; driving through the Yorkshire dales and moors out to the coast and indulging in ‘native’ foods like pork pie and fish and chips.”

But she is proud of being an American. The best stocking stuffer she ever got was “a little ring with tiny red, white and blue stones to commemorate my becoming a U.S. citizen,” she said. This year she wants “good health for all our family.”

Ash said she uses both wrapping paper and gift bags. Asked in the survey if she lets her loved ones know what she wants for Christmas, she replied, “We take our chances but tell them not to spend too much on us. We have been blessed and all our needs are taken care of.” Ash spends “close to $1,000 for four grandchildren and their parents, which is about the same as last year.”

“My husband will use white handkerchiefs every day of the week,” she continued. “I buy as I see things throughout the year, so no one takes precedence.” Ash “definitely prefer(s) giving.”

Mary Dufty of Wardtown liked being a survey participant. “Thanks for giving me some fun this morning. Good questions. Made me think and reflect and made me some fun this morning. Good questions. Made me think and reflect and that’s a GOOD thing!” She liked the tradition of “decorating my dog with a bow and reindeer ears” when she was a kid. “He loved it and he waited for it all year, and I think he’s the first person you buy for. I enjoy giving back.”

Mary Dufty of Wardtown liked being a survey participant. “Thanks for giving me some fun this morning. Good questions. Made me think and reflect and that’s a GOOD thing!” She liked the tradition of “decorating my dog with a bow and reindeer ears” when she was a kid. “He loved it and he waited for it all year, and so our little minds thought.”

The best thing to happen to her since last year was “meeting wonderful new Eastern Shore friends.” Dufty will spend about $700 on gifts, the same as in 2014. “What I really want is more peace on earth and better health for all. What I really need is a re-fret for my Martin” guitar. “I give hints, real good ones, like Post-It notes on the bathroom mirror when the time draws near.” She picked a hover board over a drone “and a box of large Band-aids.” Dufty also chose a selfie stick “and a camera to bolt on top.” She said the best stocking stuffer is an “organic dark chocolate candy bar,” specifically with 85 percent cacao.

Dufty wrote, “Wrapping paper gives you a chance to reflect on the person and your love for them as you wrap.” She buys first for her daughter and son, “who live too far away.” Preferring to “give, I have received more than I could have imagined since moving back to the Eastern Shore — great friends, good music and all of the other blessings that anyone could ask for. I enjoy giving back.”

Richard McDowell of Pungoteague said as a child he enjoyed “opening cardboard war toys, airplanes, tanks etc. during World War II.” This year all he wants for Christmas is a “successful outcome of cataract surgery.”
The best thing that happened this year was his son got an IT job, that “I paid his tuition for.” He will spend about $200 or the usual amount for gifts this year. He leaves what he gets up to chance since he’d rather give than receive.

Jani Savannah of Melfa said her favorite tradition from childhood is “opening one gift on Christmas Eve and riding around looking at Christmas lights. The best thing that has happened to me since last Christmas is I have gotten to do a lot of traveling with my new business and have been blessed to have met so many amazing people who I can now call ‘my friends!'”

“I will probably spend between $500 and $1,000, about the same as every year,” Savannah added. “I know it may sound cliché, but the best Christmas present I could ever receive would be to have all of my family together in one place and to have everyone of them have the life that they want! Material things are nice, but you can’t take it with you!”

“Most of the time I just get what I get,” Savannah said, laughing when she added, “I always let my husband know what I want.” She chose the selfie stick over the handkerchiefs. “Makes the camera look down on you so you always look thinner. Is there EVER a better invention? I think not!” Savannah also picked wrapping paper over gift bags. “I do everything the hard way!”

“The best stocking stuffer ever is my oranges and nuts. Wouldn’t be Christmas without them,” she continued. “Giving is always better for me … the best gift is watching people’s faces when it is just the right gift. There is nothing better, in my opinion.”

The food is what is remembered by Anthony LoFaso of Onancock. “Antipasto with crispy Italian bread, lasagna (with ricotta cheese, of course) for lunch. Then nuts, pastries, candies … ham with macaroni and potato salad for dinner, more desserts and then leftovers the rest of the night.”

The best thing that happened to him since last Christmas was “our yearly vacation in Nags Head,” he wrote. LoFaso plans to spend about $200 for gifts, a bit less than last year. “I’d LOVE to get the iPhone 6s, but I’ll settle for an iTunes gift card.” He and his loved ones make wish lists so nothing is left to chance. He does not favor a drone, hover board, selfie stick or handkerchiefs. This guy wants to see chocolate in his stocking and wraps his presents.

The first person he buys for is “My Wifey,” LoFaso wrote. “I enjoy seeing the delight in the receiver’s eyes but I like seeing what people think I’d like.”

Sally Tuttle of Wachapreague has fond memories of wrapping gifts with her mother. Now she uses gift bags as well as the paper rolls. She’d rather give than receive, but said “diamonds” are the best stocking stuffer ever. This year, she wants “time off from work” for the perfect gift or “maybe a refrigerator. Isn’t that exciting?” The current one has put in its 30 years.

The first gifts she’ll buy are for her three children. She spends $500 or so annually for holiday presents. Tuttle said the best thing that happened this year is “a good friend has a boyfriend.”

Ed Kehrig of Jamesville reminisces about going to his grandmother’s house for Christmas when he was younger. “She made the best fudge.”

The best thing that happened this year was “our proxy daughter got married and I was the one to give her away,” he wrote.

Kehrig said he won’t spend “as much as I’d like to be able to” on Christmas gifts, or “about the same” as in 2014. He wraps them.

The Northampton man doesn’t make a list, but he’s hoping for a Canon Pixma iP8720 color printer” and chose handkerchiefs over a selfie stick, with “Good-n-Plenty” in his stocking. He said it is 50/50 on the giving and receiving.

Bruce MacMaster Jr. of Onley remembers the tradition of “watching Mother hang ornaments on the Christmas tree. We were not allowed to touch them.” The best thing that happened to him since last year was meeting a “fantastic friend.”

MacMaster gives cash gifts to his grandchildren. “At this stage in life,” he just wants “the love of my family and my friends” for Christmas. He’d rather give than receive presents. Still, between the hover board or drone, it was definitely the latter. He’d rather have white hankies than a selfie stick, but “I just bought a dozen this past weekend.”

Tangier Woman Dies

Mrs. Pamela Marshall Eskridge, 63, of Tangier Island went home to be with the Lord Saturday, Nov. 28, 2015, at her home.

Born in Nassawadox and raised on Tangier, she was the beloved daughter of Wanda Wheatley Marshall of Tangier and the late Teddy R. Marshall, and a graduate of Tangier High School. Mrs. Eskridge was owner and operator of New Creations Salon at her home on Tangier for years. Her most passionate years were spent visiting Mission of Mercy Orphanage in Nigeria. There, she was known as Auntie Pam by almost 400 orphans. She traveled there 13 times in eight years and even has two grandkids adopted from the orphanage. While at home, she enjoyed facilitating Bible studies for ladies, and always helped young women and as wives and mothers. Mrs. Eskridge loved biking, kayaking, and spending time with her “grands.” She made her home a haven for young people, who knew they were always welcome there. She was thrilled to hear her grandsons and their friends rough-housing during a sleep-over. Her desire to please her Lord and Savior Jesus Christ permeated her life, and while we mourn, we rejoice that she is with Him. She was a devoted member of New Testament Church.

For the second consecutive year, Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital (RSMH) has been named a Top Performer on Key Quality Measures® by The Joint Commission, an accrediting body for health care organizations across America. “Safety and quality are the leading principles in our Riverside Care Difference which guides our work every day,” said John Peterman, administrator and vice president of RSMH. “It takes teamwork and a focus on the patient in addition to highly reliable processes. Our processes are ‘evidence-based,’ meaning that we use decades-worth of data to prove what processes and treatments are most effective.”

The Joint Commission evaluates performance on quality indicators for heart attack, heart failure, pneumonia, surgical care and more. In all, 1,043 U.S. facilities have been recognized as Top Performers this year. To earn the award, hospitals must provide treatment that meets all the standards 95 percent of the time overall, as well as on each individual care measure.

This year’s Top Performer recognition — based on data from 2014 — highlights performance by RSMH in heart failure, pneumonia, surgical care and stroke.

In addition to being included in The Joint Commission’s “America’s Hospitals: Improving Quality and Safety” annual report, RSMH will be recognized on The Joint Commission’s Quality Check website.

The Virginia State Police's Chesapeake Division earned top honors for its efforts to increase seat belt usage and safety on the Eastern Shore. Chesapeake Division commander, Capt. B.D. Olha, joined Area 31 Sgt. J.D. Tudor (left) and Area 31 Sgt. A.G. Warren (right) for the presentation of the “2015 Most Improved Seatbelt Use Award” and the “2015 Highest Seatbelt Use Award.”

SPORTS

This and That From Past Sports Columns

By Bill Sterling

Here are a couple of footnotes to recent columns.

The 6’, 6” lefty, a 2009 graduate of Northampton, pitched 2.1 scoreless innings, striking out five while not allowing a base runner on Nov. 19, his final appearance of the five-week season.

The sparkling outing lowered his ERA to 5.84 in 12.1 innings. Webb, who is the all-time career appearances leader at the University of South Carolina, did not allow a run in six of his nine appearances. However, a three-run homer in his first outing and three walks in another outing inflated his earned run average.

A recent Major League Baseball video recounts how Webb was sent to the Arizona Fall League by the New York Yankees to find his form after missing much of the minor league season with Triple A Scranton/Wilkes Barre due to an unusual injury to his pointer finger.

Webb said in the video that it was bittersweet watching many of his teammates get the call to the major leagues at the end of the season when teams can expand their rosters, knowing in all likelihood he would have been in six of his nine appearances. However, a three-run homer in his first outing and three walks in another outing inflated his earned run average.

In last week’s column on Monica Shields, the former Central High School standout who once scored 56 points in a basketball game and recently passed away after a lengthy battle with cancer, I did not mention that she also played basketball at Delaware State.

I wasn’t sure of her basketball activity until this week when I heard from Anthony Sharpe, a 1978 graduate of Central who earned a football scholarship to Delaware State, where he was the 1982 captain and still ranks in the top 10 in tackles in the Mid-Atlantic Eastern Conference.

Sharpe and Monica attended Delaware State at the same time, and he watched several of her games. “She made quite a contribution to the team and got a lot of playing time,” said Sharpe.

He said that when Delaware State changed coaches after Monica’s sophomore season, she and several of her teammates left the team.

“She was a fantastic athlete,” he said “ Everything she touched turned to gold.”

This past summer I profiled Sharpe in a column about his journey from high school to college to a successful business career in Texas, where he gives back to the community as a youth coach and official.

On the Shore to celebrate Thanksgiving with his family and also his mother’s birthday this past Tuesday, Sharpe gave me two T-shirts, one long-sleeved and the other short, as an expression of gratitude for the column.

The shirts have “Central High School Bulldogs Alumni” with a picture of the Bulldog mascot imprinted on the front. As a 1969 graduate of the school, I will wear them proudly.

Sharpe also purchased my recent book, “Still Browisin’ - 40 Years of Newspaper Stories with Bill Sterling,” having heard there were columns in the book on his two high-school coaches, Tom Parks and Phil McCaleb, and former Central principal John Parsons, who helped him get into college on a football scholarship when he had never thought of attending college because he felt his family couldn’t afford it.

Coach Parks and McCaleb were also my coaches, and I knew Parsons well, having played golf with him a few times and also having covered his karate exploits quite often.

There is also a column in the book on Coach Trent Serini. I can remember talking football with him as a young boy when he and his wife played bridge with my parents in the days he was a Central coach. I later followed his 1978 Onancock football team all the way to the state championship game as a sports reporter.

The book includes several profiles of former Shore athletes, including Robert Savage, Ricky Bailey, Kim Miles, Hank O’Kusky, Nate Wilson and Starr Boggs, in addition to a tribute to the late Greg Merritt, who covered sports on the Shore for 25 years.

There’s also a column on the best athlete I ever saw at Belle Haven Elementary School, my childhood friend, David Coleman, who died at 14 from leukemia. I often wonder how his life — with a vast potential unfulfilled — would have turned out if he had lived.

Of course, as an avid outdoorsman, there’s a fair sampling of columns on hunting, fishing and just exploring our beautiful Delmarva peninsula, as well as profiles of wildlife artists and others who reflect the character of our land.

I will be at a Christmas Open House at the Book Bin tomorrow from 11 to 1 p.m. signing books. I am always open to suggestions for columns down the road.

Redneck Romp Held in Wachapreague

This year’s 2nd annual Redneck Romp, an annual event held in Wachapreague on the Saturday following Thanksgiving, was a very successful event. There were 154 registered participants who ranged in age from 10 to 81. Participants included locals and runners from several states on the East Coast. This event was to help raise awareness for responsible disposal of waste on the Shore and to promote local business and tourism. The post-race celebration included venison chili, cornbread and cookies. Without the volunteers and sponsors this event would not have been possible. The overall winners in the 10-mile race were Tom Murphy from Virginia Beach, Va., and Josie Brown from Dames Quarter, Md. Overall winners in the 5K were Jay Etheridge from Norfolk, Va., and Laura Gonzalez from Exmore. For complete results and pictures, visit www.RedneckRomp.net.
Nandua Tops WP 60-46 in Opener

Story and photos by Bill Sterling

Nandua opened its basketball season with a 60-46 win over Worcester Prep Wednesday night at home.

Qyheem Kellam dominated the boards with 15 rebounds and led the Warriors in scoring with 15 points. Evan McGregor had 12 points, including 8 in the first quarter with a pair of 3-pointers when Nandua spurted to a 24-13 lead. Point guard Daigwain Walker distributed the ball well and added 12 points for Nandua.

Worcester Prep was led by Tucker Brown with 18 points.

First-year coach Chad McGregor was pleased with his Warriors. “For our first game I thought we played well. We are focusing on teamwork, rebounding and effort. I thought we got away from what we were doing well when we got a lead, but we will work on that.”

Nandua led 30-20 at half while substituting liberally off the bench.

Nandua hosts Middlesex tonight at home and has a key district matchup with Arcadia next Thursday.

Firebirds Romp Past HG

Arcadia raced to a 71-29 win over Holly Grove Wednesday night at home. Jaquan Wharton led the Firebirds with 21 points, followed by Brandon Townsend with 11. Paul Brown had 8 points with 10 rebounds. Other Firebirds denting the scoring column were Austin Bunting with 9, Trequan Veney with 7 and Devon Rogers with 7.

The Firebirds host Stephen Decatur tonight with a 7 o’clock tipoff.

Warrior Girls Win

The Nandua girls outscored Worcester Prep 13-0 in the second quarter to break open a 1-point game and earn a 37-21 win in its opener Wednesday night at Berlin, Md.

The Lady Warriors held a 9-8 lead going into the second quarter before scoring 13 unanswered points.

Kyteia Smaw led Nandua with 17 points, Derrica Toppin had 8, and Jada Locklear added 6 for the Warriors.

Nandua has its home opener tomorrow against Norfolk Collegiate at 6 p.m.

Vikes Split Pair to Open Season

Broadwater dropped to 1-1 Tuesday night with a 71-58 loss to Hampton Christian on the road.

Taylor “Tippy” Major led the Vikings with 20 points on 9 of 18 shooting. Tyler Major added 10 while Major Morgan had 7 points. Taylor Major had a team-high 12 rebounds. Morgan pulled down seven.

With four of five Broadwater starters having played football, practice time has been limited so far, showing up at the free throw line, where the Vikings were 13 of 29.

Broadwater opened its season with a 61-43 win over Worcester Prep on the road Monday night.

Taylor Major led the Vikings with 21 points, Tyler Major had 18 and Major Morgan added 14. John Gordon and Dontae Weatherly added 4 each.

Taylor Major led Broadwater with nine rebounds, while Prettyman and Morgan had six each.

The Vikings led 31-15 at half.

“Considering we had one practice with everyone there before our first game, I thought we played very well,” said Broadwater coach Eddie Spencer. “The alumni game really helped us. We learned a lot that night,” added Spencer.

Broadwater has its home opener tonight with Portsmouth Christian.

BA Girls Fall to WP

The Broadwater girls lost a low-scoring game when Worcester Prep outscored them 12-4 in the final quarter to take a 26-16 decision Monday night in Berlin, Md.

Anna Sexauer led Broadwater with 9 points while Laura McClaskey had 3 points and Palmer Smith and Courtney Floyd had 2 each. Sexauer had nine rebounds while Courtney Floyd had a team-high five blocks.

The Lady Vikings have two road games next week before playing their home opener against Tidewater Academy on Dec. 11.
The Gordy family fished with Matt Abell of Seahawk Sports Center over the Thanksgiving holidays and caught 100 rockfish by casting and jigging. Several were in the low 30-inch range.

The holiday season is here and for many kids, that means one thing: toys. Approximately 50 percent of all toy purchases in the United States occur between the Friday after Thanksgiving and Christmas. While parents are on a mad dash to scoop up the hottest toys, Safe Kids Eastern Shore advises that safety should be at the top of their wish lists.

An estimated 262,300 children were treated in emergency rooms for toy-related injuries in 2011, and more than a third of toy-related injuries are in children ages 4 and under.

Seven hundred children a day are treated in emergency rooms for toy-related injuries. Right now, parents and caregivers are in the middle of the country’s busiest toy-buying season. It’s a great time to think about fun as well as safety by making sure toys are appropriate for a child’s age and maturity level.

If secondhand toys are purchased, or received from friends or relatives, Safe Kids Eastern Shore advises parents to visit www.cpsc.gov and make sure the toy hasn’t been recalled for safety reasons.

Used toys also should be in good condition with all original parts and packaging, if possible. If a new toy comes with a product registration card, it is helpful for parents to mail it in so the manufacturer can contact you if the item is ever recalled.

In addition, Safe Kids Eastern Shore recommends the following five toy safety tips:
- Consider your child’s age when purchasing a toy or game. It’s worth a second to read the instructions and warning labels to make sure it’s just right for your child.
- Keep a special eye on small game pieces that may be a choking hazard for young children. While these kinds of games are great for older kids, they can pose a danger for younger, curious siblings.
- After play time is over, use a bin or container to store toys for next time. Make sure there are no holes or hinges that could catch little fingers.
- Keep button battery-controlled devices out of sight and reach of children. These include remote controls, singing greeting cards, digital scales, watches, hearing aids, thermometers, children’s toys, calculators, key fobs, tea light candles, flashing holiday jewelry or decorations.
- Stay informed about harmful products in the marketplace. Safe Kids will make it easy for you by sending an e-mail alert twice a month. Parents can sign up at www.safekids.org/product-recalls.

For more information about toy safety, call 442-4819, ext 320, or visit www.safekids.org.

For someone who has diabetes or a diabetic family member, grocery shopping presents unique challenges and can be confusing. Riverside Shore Home Health has teamed up with the Shore’s Food Lion stores to present in-store Diabetic Grocery Shopping seminars for anyone interested in learning more about healthy eating and shopping for those with diabetes.

Attendees will walk the grocery store aisles with Beverly Norris, a registered nurse with Riverside who is a certified diabetic educator and certified health coach. Norris will share tips on portion control; what to look for in each area of the store; how to decode a food label; and how carbohydrates, sodium, fats, proteins, and whole grains affect glucose levels.

The seminars will be offered Thursday, Dec. 10, at 10:30 a.m. at the Food Lion in Oak Hall and at 1 p.m. at the Food Lion in Exmore. Attendance is limited. To make a reservation, call 414-8856, email melissa.glenon@rivhs.com or go to www.facebook.com/riversideshorememorial.

Over 25 Years Experience

“We quality work at a reasonable price”
I have been fortunate lately to have carved out some time to spend gardening. I call it gardening, but much of it is comprised of uncovering landscaping components — like stepping stones and the driveway — which through the years have been overtaken by vegetation — a refined term for weeds. It’s much more a root-imentry by vegetation — a refined term for through the years have been overtaking stones and the driveway — which landscaping components — like step-

Or as I am digging up and yanking out yet another huge weed, could it be a tooth extraction? And as I then toss it in the wheelbarrow, might that just as well be the surgical bowl for the excised tissue?

But then again, it also goes in reverse. As the endodontist recently performed my inaugural root canal (you think you see a gardening root metaphor coming up, don’t you?), explaining, as I requested, each thing he was doing, I couldn’t help but think of the tedious chore of cleaning shrimp as he fastidiously removed the tiny nerves from my tooth.

Yard work lends itself to all kinds of unusual comparisons.

Surely I am not the only one who sees the similarities between cutting one’s grass and shaving one’s legs: eliminating new, unwanted growth one even row after another. Immediate results.

Surely I am not the only one who sees the similarities between cutting one’s grass and shaving one’s legs: eliminating new, unwanted growth one even row after another. Immediate results.

And as I carefully uncover stepping stones, separating the soil to be used elsewhere from the unwanted weeds, I see myself panning for gold 175 years ago.

OK, cast the earthy analogies on the compost heap and try this one — but it’s only for the female readers, at least for the most part.

Tell me you don’t think of playing pick-up-sticks as you gingerly try to separate the wanted from the unwanted strands with tweezers while plucking your eyebrows.

Then again, I found myself reflecting on Achilles’ heel as I recently dipped our pork chops in eggwash, gingerly dangling it by the bone.

Well, back to my real job, which leaves no room in my brain for whimsical comparisons.

But later tonight when I shave my legs, I hope I have the clarity of mind to forgo the grass cutter.

Dear Editor:

The Kiwanis Club of Accomack wants to thank all who attended and helped at our recent craft show.

Proceeds from this event are distributed to local non-profit organizations, serving the needs of children and families. This year, more than 800 attended and we want to thank everyone who made it, by all standards, a huge success.

To the crafters and artisans who participated in this show’s 25th year, thank you for being with us, because it is you who make the event successful year after year.

To those who attended and brought canned food, we were blessed to give to the Foodbank 296 pounds of non-perishable items.

To the Nandua Beta Club members, a huge amount of gratitude goes out to each of you and your club adviser for all you did prior to, during and after the show to assure it went smoothly. We could not have the event without the staff of Nandua High School and Accomack Public Schools for maintenance assistance, and to each of you we are so appreciative of your time and willingness to help with any matter.

This year, for the first time, attendees were provided tote bags upon entry and those would not have been possible without the support of local businesses. To all the businesses who sponsored the show’s commemorative bags, we thank you for your support and contribution. We also know there were many community businesses and volunteers who, without hesitation, helped promote and assist in the months and days leading up to the show and we couldn’t have done it without each of you.

We are wonderfully blessed to be part of a caring and giving community. We thank everyone who supported the event in any way.

Connie Campbell, President
Kiwanis Club of Accomack
