The mother of an Accomack County Public Schools’ student and her friends and family were praising and thanking God on Monday for protecting a 15-year-old girl and a bus driver from a fire that destroyed the bus just after Kania Beck-ett, a sophomore honor roll student at Nandua High School, was picked up.

“Giving God all the praise this morning because it could’ve gone the other way at around 6:45 this morning,” said Wanda Beckett, Kania’s mother. “Thank you, Jesus, she is safe ... and thanks to the bus driver.”

Tasley Volunteer Fire Company and the Accomack Department of Public Safety, with a fire medic, were called to the scene on Mini Road between Route 13 and Drummondtown Road.

“We had it extinguished in about 15 to 20 minutes,” said Tasley’s Deputy Chief Don Amadeo, who is also a county deputy. He identified the vehicle as a 2003 Freightliner bus. “I’d say it’s totaled,” Amadeo continued. “Fire appears to have started in the engine compartment. Evidently, the driver, Mrs. Warrington, was picking up her first rider, noticed smoke, got the child off the bus quickly, then it was burning that fast. No one was injured,” he said.

“Thank you to the bus driver for not continuing on your route because it could’ve gotten really bad,” Beckett continued. “She gets on the bus and the bus driver, Mrs. Warrington, also known as Rete, tells her to get back off. It starts to smoke harder then the flames start to get bigger. I just wanna give God some praise this morning because she could have gotten around the corner with the bus and her and my daughter could’ve been trapped on there. I said this to say, ‘Don’t take life for granted. Tell your loved ones, friends and family, that you love them.’”

Beckett said another bus eventually came for Kania and she went to school. “She doesn’t like missing days unless she has a doctor’s appointment.”

“I don’t know what caused the fire,” Beckett said. “She’s my only child, the bus driver is fine, also a neighbor and longtime friend and great bus driver.”

“The cause of the fire is under investigation, but as of yet, is undetermined,” said Superintendent Chris Holland.

The “bus driver exited the vehicle and dialed 911 as she noticed smoke coming from the engine compartment.”

“The safety of our students is our number one concern,” Holland continued. He also thanked the sheriff's department, state police and fire department “for their quick response.”

The most pressing issue at the Eastern Shore Chamber of Commerce’s Eggs and Issues breakfast and political forum at Wallops Flight Facility, May 9, was the lack of a state budget for the next fiscal year beginning July 1.

Medicaid expansion, which would insure about 300,000 more low-income individuals, is the hot button issue causing the delay. Democrats largely support Medicaid expansion, as do Republicans from the House of Delegates, but Republicans from the Senate of Virginia oppose it.

A state budget was not passed by the March 10 deadline, pushing lawmakers into a special session. They must pass a budget by June 30 to avoid a government shutdown.

Del. Robert Bloxom said he voted for Medicaid expansion because “I just don’t want to have another uninsured group,” and the block grants he originally pursued “wouldn’t have been worth as much” as Medicaid expansion.

Hospitals are supportive of the $400 million “bed tax” that would offset the cost of Medicaid expansion, he added.

Bloxom’s goal for health insurance is cost control, for the benefit of farmers and small business owners whose health insurance costs have tripled, he said.

Sen. Lynwood Lewis discussed his cooperation with Bloxom and Del. Keith Hodges, of the 98th district, in the successful establishment of the Virginia Waterway Maintenance Fund.

“Virginia’s going to get back in the dredging business in a significant way,” Lewis announced.

The waterway maintenance fund was established with about one-third of the $4.5 million requested. Bloxom admitted $1.5 million “won’t go very far,” but when that amount is obtained each year, it will make a significant impact on waterway maintenance.

Bloxom indicated some localities that have no dredging needs may attempt to obtain waterway maintenance funds for BMPs (best management practices for water pollution control, such as stormwater and industrial wastewater management), but, “We’re trying to make sure that coastal Virginia’s taken care of,” he said.

Lewis said legislators are working on Freedom of Information Act exemptions regarding sensitive and proprietary security information that would positively affect Wallops Flight Facility’s ability to track its rocket launches.

Chairman of the Accomack County Board of Supervisors, Robert Crockett, announced the county’s $57.5 million budget will give $500,000 more than last year to education, including a 4 percent raise for teachers, despite a 1.8 percent decrease in taxable land values.

Aacomack sheriff’s deputies will each receive a $6,000 raise, a response to recent high turnover of experienced deputies who were able to get higher paying law enforcement positions in towns.

Acomack will hire six new EMTs to bring emergency response times up to par in the county’s northernmost localities, like Greenbackville. The staffing increase will allow ambulances to respond to emergencies anywhere in the county within 20 minutes.

Crockett reported Accomack’s rainy day fund is up to $855,000 and within two years the county will have two months of operating expenses saved.

Chairman of the Northampton County Board of Supervisors, Spencer Murray, said Northampton is “doing well,” particularly in its towns.

Exmore has a surplus of more than $2 million. Redevelopment is underway in Eastville on Courthouse Road and is expected in Cape Charles on both the north and south sides of the town harbor. Murray anticipated “in the very near future … good news” on the former site of Bayshore Concrete.

One town issue supervisors are working on is the sewer system in Nasawadox, which is still owned by the Riverside medical group, Murray said.

Northampton also plans to give raises to county employees without raising taxes.

Northampton’s budget has not been finalized but proposes a 4 percent raise for all teachers, $4,000 raises for sheriff’s deputies, and property tax relief for farmers.

Selection Committee Appoints Bull and Handy, Passes Over Burford Again

By Stefanie Jackson
In five minutes on May 15, the Accomack County School Board Selection Committee voted to reappoint two school board members, denied membership to a third candidate, and adjourned their meeting.

After a brief review of previous meeting minutes, the commission skipped straight to a vote with no further discussion of the candidates and their qualifications.

Paul Bull will continue to represent District 6 on the school board, as he has for the past five years. His reappointment was a unanimous decision, 6-0.

Camesha Handy retained her seat on the school board, representing District 5. That decision was also unanimous.

Connie Burford failed to gain the District 4 seat, vacated by Margaret Miles, in yet another unanimous vote, 0-6.

There were no other candidates for the District 4 seat, and the commission must re-advertise for that position. There is a deadline of June 30 to fill the vacancy.

Both Bull and Handy submitted letters of intent seeking reappointment to the school board and Bull also appeared at the May 8 selection committee meeting.

Burford requested the board’s consideration of her for the District 4 seat in person, also at the May 8 meeting.

Jenean Hall, a former special education administrator and retired school psychologist submitted a letter of recommendation on behalf of Burford.

“When I was a new, unseasoned administrator for special education, a vocal parent or teacher could unsettle me,” Hall wrote. “I came to know that vocal parents and teachers ... were my best resources for learning what needed attention in the program.” Burford was one of those vocal parents.

“Connie Burford is a parent I’ve known for as long as her son has been in school. She has a knowledge of school programs and school policy that surpasses that of most school folks. She has a passion for supporting what is best for students and teachers that surpasses that of most people,” the letter continued.

“That Connie Burford wishes to put her time, service and passion into the system of a school board is a superb opportunity for the school division. A seasoned and wise leadership can channel such knowledge and energy toward needed improvement on behalf of students and teachers,” Hall stated.

Last November, Accomack citizens voted “yes” for an elected school board, but the terms of the District 4, 5, and 6 school board members do not expire until Dec. 31, 2019. The first school board election in Accomack will occur in November 2019.

Deal with Library Finalized and Other County Business

By Linda Cicoira
A deal was finalized this week between Accomack County and the Eastern Shore Public Library boards that provides $2 million for the library project and ensures the current library building will be given back to the county.

The supervisors also set a June public hearing on increasing tire disposal fees from $1.14 to $2, which is what Northampton and Worcester County, Md., charge. The cost of getting rid of the tires once they come to the landfill is $1.75.

Colby West Jr., a new appraiser in the county’s assessment office, was introduced to the board. Supervisor Paul Muhly was appointed to the Eastern Shore Public Library Steering Committee.

The real estate tax collection rate is 94 percent for the Dec. 5, 2017, levy, and 90 percent for the June 5, 2018, levy. The collection rate for personal property is 85 percent for the Dec. 5, 2017, levy, and 80 percent for the June 5, 2018, levy. Officials were concerned for a year Treasurer Dana Bundick had not put Division of Motor Vehicle (DMV) stops or restrictions on vehicle registrations and licenses on those who had not paid their personal property taxes.

County Administrator Mike Mason said Bundick was hoping to get those done in late July or early August.

The panel voted to give $1,000 to Kids Count, a program promoting early childhood development. The amount was contingent on a match from Northampton County. The request was for $2,500. That amount was proposed by a Northampton supervisor but had not yet been funded.

Director of Emergency Services Donald Hart and Department of Public Safety Director C. Ray Pruitt told of a state exercise to prepare for a worst-case scenario hurricane. The program included a 15-foot tidal surge, 25 inches of rain, evaucations, and power outages. “It was a very scary thing that we hope never comes to us,” Hart said.

The supervisors also approved a $211,567 50-ton rooftop renovation for a heating and cooling system for the new courthouse. The Parks and Recreation Department’s state-funded summer food program will be held from June 25 to Aug. 3. It was estimated 11,430 breakfasts, more than 15,010 lunches, and more than 1,270 suppers will be served.

The historic Mar-Va Theater in downtown Pocomoke City has announced that it will host a “Chop Hop” Dance Party at the theater on Saturday evening, May 19. The event will begin at 7 PM and end at 10:30 PM. The fun-filled event will feature famous radio personality and local resident, Choppy Layton, playing dance and party music from the 50s, 60s, and 70s. There will also be live entertainment on the stage, a dance contest, hula-hoop contest, best-dressed contest, silent auction, and more. Light refreshments will be provided by XO Beanery & Bites, and beer, wine, and other refreshments will also be available.

Tickets for the Chop Hop Dance Party are $25/couple or $15/single. Tickets may be purchased in advance at XO Beanery & Bites, Lusby’s Appliances in downtown Pocomoke City, or at the door.

The Mar-Va Theater Performing Arts Center is currently celebrating its 90th year of operation at 103 Market Street in downtown Pocomoke City. It was originally built in 1927 as a venue for silent movies and vaudeville acts. For the past several years, it has been owned and operated by a local, nonprofit group of volunteers who are dedicated to providing current movies, live entertainment, birthday parties, and other entertainment and cultural activities for area residents. Over Neighbor Protests, Supervisors Grant Permit for Chincoteague Wells

By Linda Cicoira

Accomack supervisors unanimously granted a conditional use permit Wednesday for 32 acres along Route 175 that would allow Chincoteague officials to move forward with plans to buy the property by the May 27 contract deadline, get needed site work, apply for permits, and dig wells for drinking water.

The property is about a half-mile from Atlantic Road. Residents at nearby Watts Bay Estates said they feared new wells withdrawing large amounts of water would put a drain on their already slow-pumping water holes.

The site for Chincoteague drinking water is also nearly two miles south of town wells on NASA's base on Wallops Island that were found in April 2017 to be contaminated with high levels of PFAS (per- and polyfluoroalkyl substances) from fire retardants sprayed by NASA's fire department.

When the problem was discovered, the town well fields were shut down. Since then, Town Manager Jim West said, — NASA's wells were found to be safe, so they were used for Chincoteague. “Although NASA is providing us with water now, it's not a long-range solution,” West said.

The alternative would be to use the contaminated wells and filter the water, which he said is “expensive.” Continuing the drain on NASA water could mean a risk of contamination to those wells from PFAS, which are believed to have flowed north.

West said the same amount of water used in the initial wells would be used at the new site. “It's important to note that this is all preliminary,” the town manager continued. “We drilled a couple of exploratory wells. The first yield was relatively low.” But when the second test well was dug lower, as recommended by a local company, the yield was better.

Attorney Jon Poulson was representing Chincoteague. He said six residential lots that were subdivided on the property, and never developed, would not be used for housing there. “NASA will be participating in the cost of relocation” of the wells, he said. We “can't wait for something catastrophic to happen. Can you imagine the devastation ... if Chincoteague had no source of water, or if NASA's water supply was compromised?” he rhetorically asked. “The public interest is beyond overwhelming.”

At a joint public hearing held by the county supervisors and planning commission, complaints were voiced about a test well being drilled in a right-of-way. Poulson said the actual wells would not be allowed in that area. Commissioner Angela Wingfield wanted to protect those property owners and suggested an additional buffer of 15 feet be added to the 50-foot right-of-way.

The planning commission recommended approval with the extra buffer, but the supervisors said it wasn't necessary.

“This is land use,” Poulson said. “It comes down to the technical expertise of the DEQ (Virginia Department of Environmental Quality) and the health department. These are things they will be looking at ... wells or no wells. Essentially, they will be the ones who will be putting (on) the conditions. We have to have a starting point.”

According to the supervisors' agenda packet, up to four wells with the depth being determined by the state would be used and possibly a 100-square-foot pump house would be erected.

One commissioner wanted a fence to be put around the wells. But the rest of the planning commission was not in favor of such action. Supervisor Robert Crockett, chairman of that panel and the county's former sheriff, said a fence would draw more attention to the wells and would not serve as a hinderance to terrorism as suggested.

Deputy Administrator of Building, Planning and Economic Development Rich Morrison said the request for the conditional permit met all the standards. “Our review is limited to what the thing is going to look like -- landscape, pump house. It's a zoning issue. The proposal from a physical aspect, land use standpoint. It's pretty benign really.”

When more than 300,000 gallons of water is pumped per month, the DEQ requires a withdrawal permit, which Chincoteague will need.

Mayor Arthur Leonard represents a town of 3,500 residents. “Riding on coattails of NASA and the Navy, we are bound by this,” he said. Wells on the island would not be usable. “It's what we are being made to do,” he said of the proposal. “If we are not allowed to continue on this process,” it would be adverse for the town and the county, which derives a lot of income from Chincoteague. “There are a lot more steps that we have to do after this,” Leonard added.

Michelle Walker, who lives near the new well site was distressed. “They knew about this problem in 2017,” she said but now with a deadline looming, she has to figure out what to do to fight it. “Who's going to share the burden of the cost” of a new well for the adjacent property owners she wondered. “I don't mind if they get water, that's fine” but “where's the hard-core promise? I don't know what my legal rights are. I don't know if I have to get a lawyer. I don't even know how deep they are going to drill it. They don't know. ... I don't know what you expect me to do in less than a month. ... I really don't.”

Poulson said stipulations about mitigation would be made by the DEQ.

West said disruption to Chincoteague Road to extend the water line would be minimal.

NASA supported the solution.

“I'm very concerned about this,” said David Walker of Watts Bay Estates. “The wars in the future are going to be fought over water ... I have a very major concern of Chincoteague putting demands on my water, especially since they put in a waterpark.”
Northampton citizens advocated for the health, safety, and well-being of children and families at a county supervisors meeting May 8.

Dr. Linda Schultz is the leadership council chair of Smart Beginnings Eastern Shore, whose mission is “to promote the health, well-being and school readiness of children” from birth to age 5.

“Children’s earliest experiences … lay the foundation for their cognitive, social, and emotional development,” Schultz said. It’s the guiding principle behind all Smart Beginnings initiatives.

One of those initiatives is the second annual Kids Count forum, scheduled for June 5 at Eastern Shore Community College – an opportunity to learn, connect, and discuss ways to improve the well-being of children in the local community.

Kids Count on the Eastern Shore started last year when professional demographer and Cape Charles resident, Bill O’Hare, approached Smart Beginnings coordinators to share his data on children from birth to age 18.

According to Schultz, the four main factors that determine a child’s overall well-being are: education, health, family and community relationships, and economics. In Northampton, poverty is one of the greatest risk factors to children’s well-being, she said.

Smart Beginnings is seeking funding for its annual budget of $55,000 to $60,000, which includes the salary of Roberta Newman, the part-time consulting coordinator, and $25,000 the group raises every year to support its diaper bag program at Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital, which gives each newborn’s family a diaper bag filled with formula and other essentials.

In another matter, Christine Tankard, a Cape Charles private school teacher and the wife of Charles Tankard, a local farmer, cautioned supervisors against the potential hazards of a proposed path for the third phase of the new Northampton bike trail.

Tankard said she supports the bike trail and has used it herself, but a working farm is “not a playground.”

The Tankard farm’s irrigation pond is near the railroad right of way where the trail would be located. Tankard called the pond an “attractive nuisance” to hikers who could jump in and drown, unaware that irrigation ponds are dug straight down and offer no means of escape.

“Are you willing to accept … the financial responsibility and liability of someone drowning?” Tankard asked supervisors.

The loud irrigation pumps near the proposed trail path, which could damage the hearing of a person without ear protection, are another potential source of a lawsuit, she said.

Hikers or bikers passing through the property could also be sprayed with water by irrigation equipment or with pesticides by a land sprayer or crop duster, Tankard added.

The proposed bike path also runs directly behind the Kiptopeke Elementary School playground and could give access to someone meaning to do harm. According to Tankard, when she told former Northampton official Charles Bell 25 years ago, he voted against the bike path and said, “We’re not going to put our kids in danger for a few more tax dollars.”

Tankard proposed a “simple solution”: Running the bike path from the Capeville crossroads to Seaside Road, leading to Cheriton, and then turning back west towards Cape Charles, crossing at the traffic light.

NASA Offers Guidance for Drone Use When Viewing Antares Launch

Drone operators are being urged to exercise caution when using their aircraft to view the May 20 Antares rocket launch and to avoid flying over the public and NASA Wallops Flight Facility property, according to an announcement made Tuesday.

“We don’t want to prevent drone operators from getting that perfect launch video,” said Doug Voss, deputy chief of the Wallops Range and Mission Management Office. “However, we also are obligated to make sure the viewing public is safe and that drones do not pose a threat to the success and safety of launch operations.”

Operators should adhere to Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) regulations, the statement continued. Several thousand people are expected to be in the area viewing the launch. When using drones, operators should not fly over crowds. Public safety is paramount.

To not cause a hazard to launch operations, drones should not fly over NASA Wallops Flight Facility property, the marsh areas between Wallops Island and the mainland, and over the Atlantic Ocean east of Wallops Island.

“We want to make this a safe and successful launch experience for everyone,” Voss said. “We think this can be accomplished if everyone follows established drone operation guidelines.”

The Antares launch to resupply the International Space Station is scheduled for Sunday, May 20, 5:04 a.m.
Man Tied to Shooting At Deputy Gets 5 Years

A Norfolk, Va., man was sentenced to five years in prison last week in Accomack Circuit Court in a case that initially included a charge of attempted capital murder of a county deputy.

Lamond Perry, 22, of Marshall Avenue, got five years for assault and battery of the officer, which was reduced from the capital offense, and five years for felony eluding. The terms were set to run concurrently. Counts of discharging a firearm from a vehicle and use of a firearm in a felony were not prosecuted.

The incidents occurred on Sept. 26, 2016, when Maryland police were notified of an alarm going off at PNC Bank in Pooomoke, Md. Officers went to the scene and were told “the bank was robbed by three subjects who threatened to blow it up.” The three left the bank, ran towards the area in a silver Chevy Malibu with a Virginia tag,” court papers stated.

Accomack authorities were notified to be on the lookout for the car. Accomack Deputy Eric Nottingham got the alert and then saw the vehicle on Route 13, near Temperanceville. He followed the car, which turned right on Nelsonia Road and headed towards Bloxom. When the vehicle ran a stop sign he attempted to pull it over.

“The vehicle was acting like it was stopping,” said Nottingham. “It rolled to about five to 10 mph, and then (the driver) floored it and went up to 80 to 90 mph.” The deputy said the driver then “jammed on the brakes.” That’s when he saw an arm come out of the driver’s window with a gun pointed.

“It started popping off,” he said. “I heard metal clanking around. I just heard a whole bunch of shots.” Nottingham put the squad car in reverse. The Malibu took off again. The deputy tried to chase it but he could smell something burning and then his car quit running. He said the gun fired twice as the vehicle was driving off. “Three bullets struck my vehicle, one of them hit the transmission core,” he continued.

Perry was accused of being among those in the vehicle.

In another case, a Melfa man was sentenced to a total of six years in prison for robbing a local convenience store in 2015.

Vontrell Lataize Trader, 29, of Savageville Road, was sentenced to 15 years for robbery with 13 years suspended. He got three years for use of a firearm in the offense.

The incident occurred at Oceanway in Tasley on April 13, 2015. Trader was arrested in June 2016. The defendant was ordered to be on probation for three years and good behavior for 10 years after release from prison.

Trader must also pay back the approximately $800 that he took from the store clerk, Kenyun Wyche, of Melfa. He could have gotten life in prison plus a fine of $100,000, court records disclosed.

John Donald Peterson II, 40, of Kentucky, was sentenced to five years each for burglary and grand larceny in connection with incidents at Marsh Jewelers in Onancock in 2013.

“I’m not the same person I was years ago,” Peterson said. “I’ve had a whole lot of time to think … Words are feeble so there is no way I could genuinely convey (his regrets), but I am really sorry. That should have never happened.”

He was also ordered to pay restitution, to be on indefinite probation, and to be on good behavior for 10 years after release.

Hot Rod Charges Won’t Be Prosecuted

Charges will not be prosecuted against a Chincoteague man who was accused of setting a motorcycle on fire in November.

Randy Lee Jack, 37, was also listed as having an address in Jacksonville, Fla. He was charged with arson and destruction of property. The motorcycle belonged to Robert J. Kelly and was valued at more than $1,000. The incident occurred Nov. 15, at Marina Bay Motel on Chincoteague.

Dajon Trikece Wise, 21, of Melfa, was charged with unauthorized use of a vehicle in connection with an April 30 incident. He was arrested May 9. Deputy Chris Hargis of the Accomack County Sheriff’s Office (ACSO) investigated.

William Collins, 55, of Parksley, was charged with making a bomb or burn threat on May 9. He was arrested the same day. Deputy M. R. McCready of ACSO investigated.

Nandua Teacher Indicted For Strangulation, Related Charges

A Nandua High School teacher was indicted Monday by a Northampton Grand Jury and will go to trial in connection with a violent crime at a nightspot in Cape Charles during Christmas vacation 2017.

Jeffrey Antonio Wayman, 39, of Belle Haven Road in Belle Haven, was indicted on a count of strangulation or “impeding the blood circulation or respiration of Tyler Combs,” of Seaside Road in Cape Charles, “by knowingly, intentionally, and unlawfully applying pressure to the neck of such person resulting in wounds or bodily injury” on Dec. 24, 2017.

Wayman is a physical education and driver’s education instructor. He has been working for Accomack County Public Schools (ACPS) for the last 15 years, according to court records. The incident happened at Kelly’s Gingernut Pub, on Mason Avenue, in front of a crowd of customers. Officer Andrew Spencer of the Cape Charles Police Department investigated.

Two misdemeanor charges also came over with the certification from the district court and are for assault and battery and disorderly conduct in a public place.

There has been no move by the school division to temporarily suspend Wayman, either with or without pay, while he attempts to clear his name. He is free on an unsecured $5,000 bond.

No action was taken by the school board Tuesday regarding Wayman’s status. Superintendent Chris Holland of ACPS was emailed for a comment in the case but did not respond. His secretary verified that he received the message, which was also sent to her.

So far three people have removed themselves from the case. District Court Judge Gordon Vincent was replaced by retired Judge James A. Moore, of the fifth judicial district, to preside over the preliminary hearing. Tony Branch, a deputy clerk of the district court, sat in for Clerk Karen Sparrow Merritt, Wayman’s aunt. A member of the grand jury excused herself during the deliberation since the arresting officer is her grandson.

Combs, 21, (the person Wayman is accused of injuring) pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and reckless handling of a firearm, both misdemeanors, in Northampton General District Court. Moore sentenced Combs to six months in jail for each of the offenses with all but a month suspended. He was fined $250.

In another case, Ali Abdo Ali Alsmet, 18, of Gleason Avenue in Bronx, N.Y., and Mechanicsville Turnpike in Richmond, Va., was indicted on a count of possession with intent to distribute about 40,000 cigarettes or 200 cartons or more of tax-paid cigarettes on Nov. 6, 2017. Information was given to the grand jury by Officer David Drummond of the Virginia Marine Police.

Rohley Todd Hastings, 36, of Westfield Avenue in Exmore, and Jeffrey Craig Bradford, 35, of Belle Haven Road in Belle Haven, were each indicted on a count of breaking into a building belonging to Gwen Riggin on Jan. 15, Deputy William Lewis, of the Northampton County Sheriff’s Office, investigated.

BROADBAND AUTHORITY EXPANDS SERVICE AREA

The Eastern Shore of Virginia Broadband Authority announced it is bringing high-speed fiber optic services to Oak Hall, Hallwood, Nelsonia, and Bloxom. The additions bring the total residential communities being served on the Shore to 12.

“We are thrilled to begin serving Oak Hall, Hallwood, Nelsonia, and Bloxom residents,” said Robert Bridgham, executive director of the authority. “But, for those we haven’t reached yet, please know that we’ve got big plans and are not slowing down any time soon. ESV-BA plans to bring high-speed fiber optic services to 14 more local communities in the coming months,” he said.

Residents may sign up for fiber to the home, also known as FTTH internet, starting at $39.99, by contacting ESVBA at 757-709-7080.

The authority is a public not-for-profit company that was formed in 2008 by the boards of supervisors in Accomack and Northampton counties. It runs an “open access” network and serves education, government, healthcare and commercial customers.
Police, investigated. According to the court file, Jones was pulled over for going 71 mph in a 55 mph zone. It was then discovered that Jones’ license was suspended or revoked so his car was towed to the North Plaza where an inventory of its contents was made and the ammo was found. The incident occurred Jan. 18.

Norman Hugh Thomas, 50, of Northam Lane in Painter, was indicted on a third or subsequent count of petty theft, which is a felony, and obtaining a credit card without the owner’s permission. Both offenses occurred Feb 16. Sgt. A. T. Zieger, of the Exmore Police Department, investigated.

Alfred Howard Holmes, 55, of Seaside Road in Painter, was indicted on a count of possession of a firearm by a nonviolent felon. The incident occurred Dec. 4, 2017. Lewis investigated.

Kendyl Anthony Ruthven Ferguson, 38, of Layton Street in Virginia Beach, Va., was indicted on a count of neglect and abuse of a child under 18 years old who was in his care on Nov. 26, 2017. The crime was listed as being “so gross, wanton and culpable as to show a reck- less disregard for human life.”

Trooper M. A. Blankenship gave information about the case to the grand jury. Ferguson was also accused of DUI with an alcohol level of .21 grams per 210 liters of breath. The legal limit is .08.

Tyler Logan Lewis, 22, of Masden Cut Lane in Machipongo, was indicted on a count of DUI maiming in connection with a traffic crash that occurred March 10 at Route 13 and Stone Road, “resulting in permanent and significant physical impairment.” Lewis admitted to authorities he was drinking alcohol and had used cocaine when he ran a red light.

Sharon Yvonne Royster, 50, of Seaside Road in Cape Charles, was indicted on a count of stealing an outboard motor valued at $200 or more belonging to Robert Orsinger of Cape Charles. Deputy Lewis gave information to the grand jury about the case.

Daryl Bernard Taylor Jr., 46, of Cobb Station in Cheriton, was indicted on a third or subsequent offense of petty larceny, which is a felony. The theft was from the ABC store in Exmore and occurred Oct. 15, 2017. Zieger investigated.

Kentrell Marquies Cherry, 25, of Saltworks Road in Jamesville, was indicted on a count of assault and battery of an officer. The incident occurred March 26. Lewis investigated. Cherry is accused of punching Lewis when the officer was attempting to restrain him after Cherry made a suicide threat.

Five Felonies Filed

Five people were arrested recently and charged with felonies, according to records filed in Northampton General District Court.

Samantha V. Diforte, 29, of Sweetbriar Road in Del., and John D. Vincent, 29, of Coastal Highway in Milton, Del., are accused of possession of a Schedule I or II substance on May 9. An unsecured bond was set for Diforte at $3,500. Secured bond was set for Vincent at $1,000. Officer P. W. Spreader of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel (CBBT) Police Department investigated.

Kelvin C. Edmond, 53, of Morton Street in Camden, N. J., was charged with possession with the intent to procure a pass title to a 2006 Chevrolet Impala, knowing it was stolen or having reason to believe it was stolen. The charge was made after the vehicle was stopped for going 70 mph in a 55 mph zone in Eastville. Trooper D. P. Tudor investigated. Secured bond set at $3,000. Officer Shelley Beasley of CBBT Police investigated.
Community Service Becomes Requirement for Future Accomack Graduates

By Stefanie Jackson

In line with the goal of Accomack County Public Schools to give students a well-rounded education that reaches beyond the classroom, Director of Secondary Education Karen Taylor announced Tuesday that beginning with next year’s freshman class, community service will be a requirement for high school graduation.

Students must perform 10 hours of community service per year of high school for a total of 40 hours. A student who performs 50 or more hours of community service will be awarded with an extra seal on his or her diploma.

It will not be the first time Accomack County students get the opportunity at school to go out and serve the community. Student organizations like Beta Club and Hi-Y already include community service among their activities.

Northampton schools have had a community service program for many years that has been very successful, Taylor said.

The new graduation requirement will be included in Accomack’s 2018-2019 high school course offering guide, which Taylor reviewed with the school board May 15.

Taylor also discussed new requirements for students taking advanced placement classes and participating in dual enrollment at Eastern Shore Community College.

To discourage an increasing number of students from quitting AP and dual-enrollment courses after the first nine weeks, the fee to drop a course will increase from $75 to $100, Taylor proposed.

The $100 penalty will also apply to students who complete a dual-enrollment course with a grade of D or F, and they will not be permitted to take the next course in their sequence of studies at the community college.

A total of 775 credits earned by Accomack students through dual enrollment cost the school district $116,000.

School board member Audrey Furness, who was not present at the meeting but participated remotely via audio connection, said preventing a student from continuing dual-enrollment studies and requiring them to pay a fee constitutes a “double penalty” with which she does not agree.

Taylor also recommended raising the minimum grade point average required for dual enrollment studies from 3.0 to 3.2 for dual-enrollment courses, and from 3.0 to 3.5 for AP classes, because a lot of students who drop the courses say they’re “too hard” or “too much work.”

School board member George Waldenmaier disagreed with the recommendation. He said if students take an AP class and it’s the first time they’ve had to work hard in school, “that’s on us,” for not adequately preparing students.

Classes generally are geared toward preparing for the Standards of Learning (SOL), a test of “minimal competency,” Waldenmaier said.

There should be more honors classes to provide “scaffolding” and help students adjust to increasingly rigorous course work.

Increasing GPA requirements for taking advanced courses would exclude students who performed poorly early in their high school careers due to immaturity but are now ready to take on an academic challenge, Waldenmaier indicated.

“I’m always hesitant to restrict somebody who wants to give it a try,” he said. He used a former student as an example, an individual who failed the first class Waldenmaier taught him but went on to become a doctor.

He said a student who does not meet the minimum GPA requirements for advanced studies should still be allowed to take a dual-enrollment course or AP class with recommendations from two teachers.

Taylor and school board members agreed to retain the new GPA requirements but add Waldenmaier’s suggestion.

Taylor’s final recommendation was adding environmental science as a high school course offering, which could be done without hiring any extra teachers.

Environmental science benefits students by helping them prepare to take biology, Taylor said. Students could use environmental science as one of the three science credits they need to graduate, and the subject has no accompanying SOL test.

Our Own Wacky Eastern Shore Families Are Second to None

By Linda Cicioira

A volume called “My Crazy Family,” by Susan Newmark, was recently added to the “Chicken Soup for the Soul” book series and includes an excerpt from an Eastern Shore resident.

To celebrate the accomplishment of radio personality and advice columnist, Cj Cole, who got her story, “Flying Fish,” in the book, the Eastern Shore Post decided to ask around about the episodes of other locals. And we obtained a few doozies.

Cole’s story takes place in Kansas where “we took Christmas dinner seriously,” she wrote. “During the most memorable holiday season of my childhood, we had fried fish as well as ham for Christmas dinner. My grandfather would fish for crappie and filet them with no bones. We had freezers full of it and I grew up spoiled by the harvest from our garden.

Sally Tuttle, of Wachapreague, said her son was about three years old when he woke up early one morning and saw that it had snowed outside. He was pretty excited when he looked out the window and wanted to investigate. Everyone else in the family was asleep.

“He was naked and decided to dress by putting on his dad’s knee-high boots that came up to his thighs,” his mother said. “He went outside and a short time later realized he was very cold. He couldn’t reach the doorknob from the outside because the step was lower than the inside floor,” Tuttle said.

“His father and I woke to a screaming child banging on the door with nothing on but his birthday suit and a pair of big boots,” she added.

Someone is going to be embarrassed. But we are still trying to figure out why the first guy didn’t take his clothes off to rid of the minnow.

“My father’s family came to visit for New Year’s one year,” Connie Morrison, of the Onancock area, remembered. Morrison is our boss at the Eastern Shore Post.

“We decided to play poker all night to ring in the new year;” she said. “My sister was in her later teens and a friend dropped by to get her to head out to some parties.”

But while Morrison’s sister “was upstairs with her friend getting ready, my uncle went into my mother’s closet and found a dress, with matching shoes and purse.”

He stood inside at the front door waiting. “When they came downstairs dressed to the nines, so was he! He didn’t go with them, but I think they were afraid he was going to! We still laugh about that,” Morrison said.

When Stefanie Jackson’s garage was being built, “a cement truck driver unwittingly drove over our septic tank, in spite of having been informed of its location,” she said this week. “Until the septic tank could be replaced, there was a hole in the backyard leading down to a deep pit of liquid waste. Certain family members, who shall remain nameless, were repeatedly told to stay away from the hole, but decided anyway to get out their bikes and ride circles around the backyard, jumping their bikes over the hole.”

Jackson remembers “a sheet of wood slanted over the hole.” The unnamed family members “were using it like a bike ramp. Needless to say, one of them lost control of his bike and fell right in that hole. He was hanging onto the edge for dear life, calling for help. Luckily, my husband and I were standing about a hundred feet away or so.” Her husband ran over, “grabbed the kid by the arm and hauled him up out of danger. It was one of those situations that’s frightening at the time, but hilarious in the telling afterward. It was definitely a crappy day and one of the wackier events that happened at our house.”

“Call it the wackiest or most unbelievable thing that ever happened to me,” said Robert Doughty, of South Chesconessex. “From March to September 1968, I was stationed at Governor’s Island in New York City (at the) U. S. Coast Guard radio school. One summer Saturday I decided to catch the subway up to Times Square to people watch and have a few libations. I turned onto 44th Street, off Broadway, and ran face-to-face into two guys that I went to high school with, in Virginia Beach. For a moment we stood there in amazement. They were in NYC for a few days before starting their sophomore year at ODU. I got those few libations in that afternoon. What are the numerical chance of that happening?” he asked.

LIBRARY MAKES YEARBOOKS AVAILABLE ONLINE

The Eastern Shore Public Library is participating in the Library of Virginia’s digitization project to make school yearbooks available online. Sixty-six Eastern Shore of Virginia yearbooks are now online and can be viewed through a link under the “digital history” page of the “genealogy” tab on the library’s website, www.espl.org. The project is funded through the Institute for Museum and Library Services.

Yearbooks, also called “annuals,” are a valuable resource for people researching their family history and provide historic information on the school’s clubs, sports, and academics. The books are also valued for their artwork. The Eastern Shore yearbooks now online include several from Cape Charles schools titled “The Arrow,” loaned by the Cape Charles Museum.

Various titles from the ESPL Frances Bibbins Latimer collection including Northampton High School’s “The Lighthouse” and the Hampton Institute “Hamptonian” were scanned. The collection also includes annuals from the Northampton-Accomack School of Practical Nursing’s “White Caps” and four years from Onancock High School’s “The Beacon.” The nursing school annuals were donated to Eastern Shore Public Library by Riverside Shore Memorial Hospital prior to the hospital’s move to Onley.

The Library of Virginia yearbook project includes yearbooks from across Virginia, but the ESPL project focuses on Accomack and Northampton county schools. Individuals wishing to include their yearbook in the online database can contact the Eastern Shore Public Library at 757-787-3400 or email espl@espl.org for information. Your yearbook can either be permanently donated to library archives or loaned to ESPL only for the duration of the scanning project.

Forty years ago, a young boy by the name of John Harris Kellam crouched on the diving block at the Onley Pool waiting to hear the start signal to begin his race. Today, Kellam is preparing to return to The Onley Pool to coach the Skimmers, the only competitive summer swim team on the Eastern Shore of Virginia. He will be joined by Coach K.J. Bentley, a former collegiate swimmer at University of North Carolina-Wilmington.

Kellam just finished his first year as a swim coach at the Eastern Shore Family YMCA, though his role as swimming coach really began when his two daughters were swimming competitively in Hampton Roads years ago. Kellam developed his coaching style under the mentorship of Bill Bynum, who taught Kellam the value of hard work and discipline when Kellam played football at Broadwater Academy. Kellam's hard work at Broadwater paid off; he played college football at Hampden Sydney and The College of William and Mary.

“I learned through college sports that anyone who is willing to work hard can be trained and see improvement. I can work with any swimming ability, as long as a child wants to swim, try to improve technique, and work hard. The most rewarding part of coaching is to see the progress a child makes over the season. Being part of a swim team isn’t about winning every race, but about seeing improvement throughout the season, whether you’re a new or experienced swimmer. That’s why I love coaching, and that’s why swim team is such a wonderful environment for children. Children young and old can work together to improve individually, but make progress as a team,” Kellam says.

Bentley is new to competitive swim coaching this year, but has been coaching talent for the Skimmer’s women’s team to win the D-1 championship conference at UNC-W.

“We are thrilled to have such coaching talent for the Skimmer’s this season,” says board member, Lori Smith, “We think this will be one of the swim team’s best years yet, and we hope that we’ll see many new swimmers join this year to take advantage of this wonderful coaching opportunity.”

Swim team registration is open to children between the ages of five and eighteen, and will be held at the Onley Pool on Saturday, May 19 from 10 a.m. until noon, or on May 26-28 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. The Onley Pool is located at 26136 Ames St, Onley. To learn more about practice times, the meet schedule, or swim team registration fees, please email theonleypool@gmail.com, call 757-787-2689, or view information on Facebook @OnleyRecreationAssociation.

Memorial Youth Surf Fishing Outing

Eleven young anglers took to the Assateague beach on Sunday to garner tips on surf fishing. Under the auspices of the Eastern Shore of Virginia Anglers Club, the participants were students of the “Fish Hoggs,” a championship surf fishing team comprised of club members Jamie Logan, Marty Bull, Ray Willett, and Brian Hill, who offered their rods and reels and expertise. The fishing was slow, but the group learned about reading the surf, rigging, baiting, and casting. The event was in memory of longtime club members, prodigious surf fishermen, and champion casters J.T. Bolding and Bill Mariner. It was offered to promote the joys of surf fishing to youth. Food, drinks, and souvenirs were provided to the group. Special thanks go to sponsors Danny Scarborough and Chuck Bradford (on behalf of the family of Bill Mariner), Jean and Sam Sellard, Dorothy and Steve Elliott, Jimmy Vasiliou of Captain Steve’s Bait and Tackle, Matt Abell of Sea Hawk Sports, and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Pictured is Jack Barker and his 29-inch black drum, earning him a surf rod and reel donated by “Fish Hoggs” team captain Logan.
The big news of the last week has been the appearance of large striped bass in the barrier island surf. Trophy-sized rockfish have been landed from Fisherman’s Island all the way up to Assateague Point on the inside. Black drum action was also reported in the shallows between Onancock and Pungoteague Creek. A few have been caught trolling, but most fish were being caught by anglers soaking fresh cut bait and peeler crab.

Bill Hall was the first Eastern Shore resident to achieve Virginia Saltwater Master Angler Status. He has been named Virginia Saltwater Angler of the Year and Virginia Saltwater Release Angler of the Year. Bill is an I.G.F.A. International Committee Representative and a longtime member of the Virginia Saltwater Fishing Tournament Committee. He is the Virginia Recreation Fishing representative on the ASMFC Striped Bass Management Panel and is a past recipient of the CCA-VA Virginia Outdoor Writer Conservation Leadership Award.

Over on the bayside, Karl Haugh reported that red drum were being caught in Tangier Sound on peeler crab baits. Plenty of rockfish were being caught by anglers casting lures in the shallows and speckled trout have started to show up in the catches. Red drum action was also reported in the shallows between Onancock and Pungoteague Creek. A few have been caught trolling, but most fish were being caught by anglers soaking fresh cut bait and peeler crab.

Chris Snooks of Chris’ Bait & Tackle reported that Bloxom’s Josh Yunker was leading the shop’s black drum tournament as of early in the week, with an 80.1 and an 80.2-pound fish. Black drum catches were being made in most of the seaside inlets, as well as just beyond the breakers of the lower barrier islands. Black drum and red drum, as well as trophy-sized striped bass, were coming from the waters just off Fisherman’s Island. Inside the lower Chesapeake Bay, black drum action was reported in the vicinity of buoys 16 and 13. Sea clams have been the top black drum bait and the shop was expecting a delivery during the middle of this week.

Sea mullet and bluefish have been caught by anglers fishing off the pier at the Kiptopeke State Park. Sheepshead were still being caught around the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel. Flounder action has been good out of Oyster when the winds were not blowing, and the best flounder action was occurring in the “Ditch.”

Chincoteague – Donna Rae of Captain Bob’s Marina reported that not much has changed from the previous week. Flounder fishing was described as “iffy,” due to the recent wind issues. Flounder fishermen were losing their patience with the drifting seaweed. Assateague Point on the inside has still been producing keeper-sized fish, with a few catches coming from the waters of Queen Sound. The catch of a dogfish created excitement on the pier at Tom’s Cove Campground. Trophy-sized rockfish were being caught outside the inlet, as well as a few black drum. The best drum action, however, was coming from anglers fishing from the beach. Smaller stripers continue to be caught around the bridge pilings.

Peter at Captain Steve’s Bait & Tackle reported that there has been a steady striper bite in the surf. The shop weighed in a 40-pound citation striper on late Monday afternoon. Black drum were still being caught off the beach, but the average size drum has been smaller during the last week. Peeler crab has been the top bait for both stripers and drum. The shop will be holding its Striper Surf Fishing Tournament this weekend.

Flounder fishing was still described as good inside Chincoteague Bay as the flounder are starting to spread out. Chincoteague Channel and Queen Sound were cited as well. Peter said that the season for black sea bass came in this week and both the offshore and inshore wrecks were holding good numbers of the tasty fish.

Wachapreague – Captain Lindsay Paul of Trident Tackle reports flounder fishing had slowed up over the weekend as the winds picked up. Flounder catches were described as “scattered,” but fish up to 23.5 inches were caught on a trip with Captain Nat Atkinson aboard the Foxy Lady. Black drum were still being caught in the surf. Paul had not received any reports of offshore activity out of the port.

Shore – Mr. Allan Ring at Sea Hawk Sports Center reports that seaside flounder fishing is “hot” with anglers enjoying success using live minnows, silversides, and/or Berkley Gulp baits. The black drum bite in the surf was described as just okay, but a population of large rockfish has moved in during the last week and have been hitting peeler crab baits. The shop has live peelers in stock.

Over on the bayside, Ring reported that red drum were being caught in Tangier Sound on peeler crab baits. Plenty of rockfish were being caught by anglers casting lures in the shallows and speckled trout have started to show up in the catches. Red drum action was also reported in the shallows between Onancock and Pungoteague Creek. A few have been caught trolling, but most fish were being caught by anglers soaking fresh cut bait and peeler crab.

Lee puts a lot of effort into making every patient feel special.

Because of ongoing treatment for a chronic condition, Sam Gray has had several stays in the hospital, including the ICU. Sam has been cared for by Lee Johnson, RN, and it’s made a difference in the whole experience.

“She always has a smile and is especially good about explaining things. She never forgets that I’m a person not just some medical problem.”

Northam cited the importance of workforce development and the need to step up vocational and technical training, saying, “The jobs of the 21st century have changed significantly since I was in high school. In today’s world, if you don’t have a skill, you are not going to be able to get a job.”

Northam said all through Virginia we need to diversify our economy so a region is not dependent on just a few sectors. On the Eastern Shore, Northam said, agriculture, forestry working on the water, tourism and NASA Wallops are all important to the economy, but he asked business leaders to think of ways to diversify our economy and how to bring more jobs to the area. He added we then need to communicate to the educational system the skills we need to fill those jobs.

Citing his strong religious upbringing as a member of the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church in Onancock that continues to serve him today with daily prayer on how to best serve Virginians, Northam quoted Matthew 25:40. “I tell you the truth, whatever you did for one of the least of these brothers of mine, you did for me.”

CBA president Garnett Kellam recognized elected officials, law enforcement officers, educational officials and the clergy who were invited guests at the annual prayer breakfast, held to promote unity and a sense of cooperation among Eastern Shore leaders.

Poets Win Regionally

Eastern Shore Public Library recently announced that two of the winners in the Tidewater Reads regional poetry contest are from Northampton County. Kayla Durst placed third in the teen competition and Robin Butler placed first for adults. Tidewater Reads is a literary collaborative of libraries along with the Muse Writing Center and the Suffolk Art League.

Kwame Alexander was chosen as the author because he writes children, teen, and adult books, as well as poetry. Alexander was the guest speaker at the awards ceremony and spoke about growing up in Tidewater and how his parents instilled in him a love of reading and writing.

Prior to the regional poetry competition, the library held a local contest. Fifty-six poems were entered into the local competition. First place winners in the Eastern Shore competition are: Currin Burrell for grades K to 2, Ava Siegrist for grades 3 to 5, Josephine Kohler for grades 6 to 8, Kanijah Brickhouse for grades 9 to 12, and A'Marie Bailey in the adult category. The poems of these first place winners as well as the second and third place winners were submitted to the regional Tidewater Reads competition.

Winning entries in the regional competition will be compiled into a digital poetry book and available at tidewaterreads.org

The Northampton County Board of Zoning Appeals will meet on Tuesday, June 5, 2018, at 10:00 a.m. in the Board Chambers located in the County Administration Building at 16494 Courthouse Road in Eastville, VA. The Board of Zoning Appeals will meet for the purpose of conducting regular business and public hearing on the following matter:

A. Exception 2018-03: Jeffrey & Elizabeth Horner have filed an application for a buffer exception. While reframing and resurfacing the existing deck, they decided to add two sets of steps for a safer and more convenient access to the ground level. The steps were constructed in a manner that they would remain on a level area. Part of the house, ramp, and deck are already in the buffer zone, therefore the steps would encroach only an additional 4’ 3” into the RPA. The property is located in the Highland Heights subdivision, at 10517 Occohannock Blvd. in Belle Haven, VA. The property is zoned ES/R-A1 and is further described as Tax Map 3B, double circle 4, parcel 2.

Anyone interested in the above matter should attend the public hearing in order to make their views known. Additionally, commented may also be written and sent to the Planning, Permitting and Enforcement Department. The files may be viewed in the Northampton County Planning, Permitting and Enforcement Department in Eastville, VA, located at 16404 Courthouse Road in Eastville, VA.

For years people have participated in strange doings to reach a state of relaxation. There are Bubble Wrap busters and those who count the lines on highways and the tiles on ceilings. Some sip wine or guzzle beer while others take baths or breathe slowly out and deeply in.

I have to admit, I have formed robots from the shapes of tiles on floors to pass the time and keep myself from getting stir crazy in waiting rooms. It will work for short stretches.

When I was a child and went to the stock car races with my mother and stepfather, I would flip my head around while sitting on the bleachers and turn the other spectators’ frowns upside down. It was quite entertaining to see their chins turn into noses. It was mostly boredom that led me to participate in the peculiar behavior. But, I learned something important — kids can get away with a lot of staring.

Don’t try that if you are a grown-up. Besides, now there is no need to make up such entertainment because we all have cell phones. We can go to google.com and look up “oddly satisfying videos” and then binge on the bizarre to our heart’s content. Yippee!

According to the search engine, there are videos that provide calmness and well-being for all. Perhaps our world leaders need to spend some time on the World Wide Web.

The Post’s Editor-in-Chief Connie Morrison was the one who brought these websites to my attention and suggested I use the topic for a column. Maybe she was also trying to tell me something? I’m not sure. Regardless, I get paid for this. Isn’t life a dream? Double Yippee!

I’ve watched hard candy being wrapped, gold bars being smashed down, a candle being put out with a bullet, a clear glass measuring cup breaking apart, fruit being cut into pretty forms for parties, pottery being made, and a cat being drawn on a foam-topped cup of coffee.

Miniature s’mores that wouldn’t fit into a mouse’s mouth bored me. But chocolate pudding being poured on cakes and Slinkies being formed held my interest. Turning the music off on the videos made the segment more relaxing for me because some of it was played too fast.

In many cases, I wasn’t sure what was being done but I became glued to the video to figure it out or wait to see if the source would be revealed. Apples were sliced by a gadget, a man happily was spinning a pillow on his finger, pizza dough was punched, a pencil was sharpened, glaze was put on donuts, butter was melted in a pan, glass was blown and manipulated, and the printmaking was awesome to watch.

Yes, I became addicted. It was better than what I imagine many other habits could be like. Of course, there was also an irritating commercial that kept coming up and I’d have hit the “x” with my cursor. There was a giant log being cut into planks.

I watched this stuff for about an hour and now I am truly calm, cool, and collected. How many of you can say that or even be that for a few minutes?

Try these sites, you’ll love them. And if you don’t, well turn them off and go back to Facebook or read a book. It’s getting hot out there. We winter people have to find something to do besides clean the house.

Staged Readings Help Playwright Develop New Projects

Playwright Greg Jones Ellis takes a look at a pair of “ladies of a certain age” and their younger counterparts in each era, in his new plays, “Roman Fever and Culver City Fever.” “Roman Fever,” based on a short story by Edith Wharton, set in the 1920s, reunites two old friends, each of whom has a secret that has significant impact on the other’s life.

“Culver City Fever,” set in the present, introduces the audience to two contemporary women in very different circumstances than the ladies visiting Rome, but not so different in their personalities and their relationship with one another. The subtleties and formalities of the first are replaced with high comic modern skepticism in the second, making for an exciting and diverse evening of theatre.

Get in on the development of these new works. Following the staged readings, Ellis will be looking for comments and suggestions from the audience. Join the North Street Playhouse for this Studio Series production and stay to be part of the process!

Showtimes are 8 p.m. Friday, May 18, and Saturday, May 19. Tickets are $12 for adults, $10 for seniors, and $8 for students.
