Hate Bombs, then Love Bombs: The Aftermath of KKK Uproar on the Shore

By Linda Cicoira

It started with bird droppings of racial trash being distributed across the Eastern Shore of Virginia and linked to the Ku Klux Klan in North Carolina last Saturday and progressed to flowering plants calling for peace and love.

"I don't know of white supremacy groups on the Shore," Accomack Sheriff Todd Godwin said Monday after dozens of bags of Ku Klux Klan literature weighted with birdseed were apparently thrown from a pickup truck last Saturday, March 30, and into the yards and driveways of local residents. "They can stay out of here," he added.

Sheriff David Doughty had a similar reaction. "Not to my knowledge" is there a local group, he said Tuesday. His workers began receiving reports from citizens at around 6 p.m. last Saturday about "suspicious zip lock bags containing bird seed and small pieces of paper that had verbiage depicting hate propoganda. The material appears to contain recruiting and racial hate material published in connection with the Ku Klux Klan," Doughty said in a prepared statement Monday.

The literature was associated with the Loyal White Nights of Pelham, N.C., which is near Danville, Va., in the western part of Virginia.

There were reports of a red, burgundy, or maroon pickup that was involved. About 140 bags were collected in Northampton County.

Councilman Rich Selinsky, of Hallwood, in Accomack County, found a bag that had been "casually tossed into the road by a passing vehicle" Saturday afternoon. "The bag is weighted with birdseed. I saw the bag flutter as a burgundy pickup went by Stanley's shop (Stanley Young's store in Hallwood) ... maybe an early 2000s Chevy or GMC short bed. Didn't catch the plates."

At a council meeting Monday night, Vice Mayor Ben Ellis, of Chincoteague, voiced his distress with the distribution of the bags. "I don't think it's something we want or need on Chincoteague. ... It's just hateful propoganda," Ellis told a crowd of about 30. He said the bags were thrown into yards and put under vehicle windshield wipers on the island. Twenty or more bags had been recovered.

Although the literature is an expression of free speech, leaving it scattered around is considered littering and a charge for each bag could be made. Godwin said he has called the phone number associated with the literature and left a message asking for a callback.

The Eastern Shore Post called the number as well. A recorded woman's voice immediately answered and asked for a name. The phone then rang about five times before a man's voice asked for the caller to join the group, "if you are white and proud" and advertised a radio show. An inquiry was left but a call back was not received by press time Thursday.

"This is an effort to promote hate and division in our community," Doughty said. "I would encourage our citizens to remain strong and united against this type of behavior. This is not who we are or who we want to be affiliated with. This type of activity will not be condoned or tolerated by law enforcement."

"There is a right to freedom of speech," said Godwin. "But that doesn't make it right."

Reports that the bags were found came from Franktown, Eastville, Cape Charles, and Machipongo in Northampton. They also came from Cashville, Daugherty, Withams, Chincoteague, Pungoteague, Belle Haven, and Onley in Accomack.

The website that was provided on the document denies being a hate group but states "we do hate some things that certain groups are doing to our race and our nation. We hate drugs, homosexuality, abortion, and race-mixing because these things go against God's law and they are destroying all white nations. But rather than focus on hate, we try to focus on the love of our race. We Love for our Lord and Savior and our Country."

On social media, the reaction was overwhelmingly one of outrage. "My 12-year-old found one in our front yard today," Heather Mary Baumgardner wrote from Onley. "Better keep their hate out of VA!!!"

"Disgusting hate speech," wrote Debbie Wilkerson, of New Church. "We do not want you here!"

"My childhood town of Exmore doesn't need these Neo-Nazis who spread hate and bigotry," wrote Al Truitt.

"Sounds like whomever did this trying to bring more divide," wrote Stacy Maurice of Belle Haven. "I'm thinking this is a hoax to make it seem the supporters of our president are redneck racists. It is easy to find a group online and get all their info and fake a phony document to cause hatred towards one group.... grasping at straws so whomever is responsible is getting exactly what they wanted from our community. Don't let this divide us."

"Disgusting," wrote Roxane Gillet Mostrom, a Chincoteague native, who lives in Maryland.

"This is disgusting," wrote Lauren Gloria Williams, of New Church. "I genuinely hope a member of the KKK tries to talk to me 'cause I got something for them."

"This does not surprise me at all," wrote Shirl Dix, of Whitesville in Accomack County.

"The fish rots from the top," wrote Stefanie Hadden, of Cape Charles.

"This just sickens me!" wrote Janet Sturgis, of Northampton.

Maryland State Police reported from Easton that they are investigating racist literature distributed in Talbot County last weekend in similar fashion. On Sunday morning, March 31, a St. Michaels' resident reported the literature had been found in driveways in the community.

"The printed material indicates it is produced by the Ku Klux Klan," the state police wrote in a prepared statement. "It espouses racist views toward African Americans, Jewish people, American Indians, and others. The material also solicits people to join the KKK. The flyers were found in clear plastic baggies. The bags also contained birdseed, which provides weight, enabling the package to be thrown into a driveway and remain there."

"The trooper forwarded information from his investigation to the Maryland Coordination and Analysis Center, the

By Tuesday morning, Sherry Morgan, of Onancock, reported on Facebook about flowering plants that were "all over Onancock downtown this morning. How sweet. What a kind dear soul, that would spread so much love. God bless their soul." The plants held signs with messages like, "Spread Love," "Teach Peace," and "We Are United."

They were traced back to Onancock resident Courtney Hammer and her three children. Hammer said they encountered the KKK packages at their home and walked around town and collected more to throw away.

"There are people who do bad things. It's easy for people to be quiet. I've never been that person."

Her young son started asking questions and she had to explain that "racism is all around us." She asked her children what they could do to share love, and together they came up with the idea of leaving flowers for people to find. Soon people were posting and sharing their flower finds on social media sites.

Police Still Investigating Nelsonia Fire Where 3 Found Stabbed

By Linda Cicoira

The fire scene where three people died in Nelsonia on Feb. 1 "had a strong smell of petroleum distillates," which could include gasoline, naphtha, mineral spirits, kerosene, paraffin wax, and tar, a court document filed recently states. A knife handle and fire debris samples were confiscated from the area.

The fire, at a mobile home park on Johnson Court, was declared arson and the three family members were found by a state medical examiner to have died from stab wounds.

Wilson L. Escalante-Perez, 24, and his sister-in-law, Oraliz Alejandra Gonzalez-Miranda, 26, both died from stab wounds to the chest. The woman's 3-year-old daughter, Daniella Escalante-Gonzales, identified by her grandfather as Sophia Escalante, died from stab wounds to the chest and abdomen. The deaths of the mother and child were ruled homicide. The manner of death for Wilson Escalante-Perez is still pending, Alvin Hopson, of the medical examiner's office, said Wednesday.

State police are continuing to investigate the deaths and fire. A search warrant for the woman's cell phone was obtained since "arson is used to conceal other crimes" and "victims often know and are in communications with their attacker ... cellphone data can provide locations where the victim frequently visited the people they were in frequent communication with, as well as the last people they spoke to over the phone. These people can be visited and persons interviewed as witnesses/suspects," according to the search warrant. The search warrant asked for all records connected to the phone and stated the offense as "murder 1st degree" and "burning of an occupied dwelling." Other residents of the trailer were not home when the crimes occurred. They include Feliciano Ortiz and his wife, Celestina Perez (mother of Wilson Perez), and Yener Perez, the girl's father. Other children who lived at the residence are ages 17, 13, and 7 and were in school when the fire was reported at 10 a.m. The home was destroyed.

ording to the search warrant.

Anyone with information about the fire or the decedents is asked to call the state police at 757-424-6800, or #77 on a cell phone, or by emailing questions@vsp.virginia.gov

Chincoteague Seeks New Police Chief

By Linda Cicoira

Chief James “Randy” Mills, of the Chincoteague Police Department, will be retiring soon and town officials reported at a council meeting Monday that they are searching for a replacement to oversee the team of 10 officers on the island.

Mills later said he will retire as of June 1. He became chief in April 2015 when Councilman Eddie Lewis, who was the chief for 16 years, retired. Mills, a Chincoteague native, was assistant police chief for 15 years before he took over the top position.

Major Bryan E. Lewis, Eddie Lewis’ son and a retired state police trooper, is next in line for the job. Apparently, he will have to go through the same hiring procedures that any other applicant would.

With no fanfare, the council changed the zoning district for the new firehouse, which is getting final touches, to public use. Council discussed a planning commission recommendation regarding changes to the island’s wayside vendor ordinance. Members decided to hold another public hearing in May before making a decision.

A recent update on the dog park showed little progress as drier conditions to complete grading are needed. “Although we awarded a contract to install (the) fence, that work is also delayed. We are proceeding with installing a water supply line inhouse after finding that the directional bore exceeded our project budget,” a report stated.

Proposed Northampton County Budget Has Increases for Education, EMS

By Stefanie Jackson

Northampton Director of Finance John Chandler proposed increased county expenditures of more than $2.6 million in fiscal year 2020, including an additional $345,000 for public education.

Among Northampton school division’s top funding priorities are a social worker, teacher pay increases averaging 2.5 percent, raises for school staff, and health insurance rate increases of more than 12 percent.

In light of costly structural issues at Northampton High School that need addressing, supervisors discussed the county’s debt situation.

Chandler said 56 percent of the county’s debt is from building the Eastern Shore Regional Jail for $24 million.

As the jail debt is paid off, “that will enable us, at that particular time – though we may not be able to wait that long – to increase more debt,” said Spencer Murray, chairman of the board of supervisors.

Combined county and school debt will fall below $15 million in FY 2022, $10 million in FY 2024, and $5 million in FY 2026.

In the upcoming fiscal year, Northampton county employees will receive a 3 percent pay raise at a cost of almost $280,000.

Health insurance rates for county employees have risen more than 10 percent, contributing to a wellness cost increase of nearly $100,000.

Northampton needs two more Emergency Medical Services personnel, and one existing EMS position must be upgraded from part-time to full-time to assist the Community Fire Department in Exmore, for a total cost of about $182,000.

Among the county’s highest proposed expenditures are $400,000 to replace the camera system at the jail and $250,000 to purchase software for the offices of the county treasurer and the commissioner of the revenue.

Solid waste services will cost about $206,000 more next year, and a planned upgrade to the Bayview convenience center will cost $200,000.

The planning department will get $100,000 to continue removing 200 structures identified as unsafe and another $100,000 for the professional consultant who will assist the planning commission with updating the county’s comprehensive plan.

The March 26 report focused primarily on proposed expenditures, with details on balancing the budget forthcoming.

Food Hub Proposal Gets Grilling From Planning Commission

By Stefanie Jackson

After a lengthy debate Tuesday night, the Northampton planning commission approved a minor special use permit to convert an old farm shed into a new business that will offer its patrons a farm-to-table dining experience and more.

"This is textbook adaptive reuse," said Eyre Baldwin, of Pearl LLC, the applicant. He has been deeply involved in adaptive reuse projects in Northampton County for the past 12 years and he says he has a "good track record."

The building is located in the Capeville district, on Latimer Siding Road by Route 13, a couple of miles from the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel exit, past the Eastern Shore of Virginia Welcome Center and Sunset Beach Resort.

The concept that county planning staff termed a restaurant and country store is better described as a "food hub," a business model gaining popularity across the country, Baldwin said.

A food hub is a platform for small, local businesses to sell wholesale, retail, and value-added food products. For example, a clammer could sell fresh clams by the dozen, and those same clams could be steamed and served onsite alongside a local craft beer, Baldwin explained.

There are 18 local businesses interested in the venture, he said.

"It also directs people for further interest," Baldwin continued. For example, an ice cream shop in Cape Charles could sell its product by the pint or quart at the food hub.

The proposed business is also directly across the street from the addition to the Magothy Bay Natural Area Preserve and behind the Southern Tip Bike and Hike Trail, and its restrooms would be open to visitors of either attraction.

Commissioner Janet Sturgis called the food hub a "fabulous idea" before the planning commission bombarded Baldwin with questions about his plans and the conditions for approval of the special use permit (SUP).

Sturgis was concerned that the project site plan did not indicate the future intended use of two other buildings on the property, which once provided housing for farm laborers.

"The main labor camp will never be occupied," and its buildings will only be used for storage, Baldwin assured commissioners. However, two "boss man" apartments in "horrendous" condition may be renovated into one 2,000-square-foot apartment to "rent to one of the people who work for us, as they can watch it when we're not there."

"That needs to be on the plans," Sturgis said.

"The only thing we're applying for today" is the adaptive reuse of the shed "to get all these people working by summertime," Baldwin said.

"We run into trouble when we add things, and add things, and add things," Sturgis cautioned.

Commissioner Sarah Morgan added, "We do have the responsibility to find out what we need to know about your plans for this, so that we feel comfortable giving you the high five on it."

"And there have been instances in this county also, where people got permitted to do one thing and ended up doing something else," she reminded Baldwin.

Commissioner Glen Anders questioned why the plan was designed with more than 40 parking spaces. The restaurant portion of the business will have a maximum capacity of 50 guests.

Baldwin said the plans were designed according to Senior Planner Kelley Parks' recommendations, and Anders wondered aloud why staff hadn't informed planning commissioners of all its recommendations.

Anders also asked how potential customers would know about the business since it isn't visible from the highway when traveling northbound.

Baldwin said the business would be promoted through social media and connections with local welcome centers, campgrounds, and tourism-friendly towns, otherwise he's made "the biggest mistake of my life."

The planning commission interrogated Baldwin about the various easements related to the site.

Sturgis demanded a copy of the easement for the drain fields to the 4,500-gallon septic system, even though the easement's location in the Northampton County deed book was noted on the site plan.

There is also a landscaping easement that will allow clearing of debris and plants that present a nuisance, like privet, a shrub with poisonous berries.

The planning commission wanted to see the easement to ensure that the required vegetative screening in front of the buildings would not be removed.

Morgan asked about requirements for outdoor lights and signs. Baldwin said new lights had been installed “exactly where the old ones were.”

A new sign will be painted on the side of the building in the same area as the original sign. Baldwin noted the sign will require a separate special use permit because “we’re in Northampton County and we’re always going to make up our own rules.”

The continuous line of questioning seemed to take a toll on the applicant, who said he’s working to make Northampton County better and create jobs.

“I’ve tried to make a difference on urban blight,” Baldwin said. “Every project that I go into, the first thing I do is clean it up. ... Whether I get this permit or not ... we’ve spent a lot of money on cleaning it up” and “wiped out all the hazards, including a massive hole in the ground.”

“If it’s postponed, you’re going to put a lot of people out of business for a long time ... but if that means nothing to you ...” he trailed off as planning commissioners interjected further comments.

After more than an hour of discussion, planning commissioners settled on a motion to approve the SUP, with 10 conditions that addressed all the concerns they had raised in open session, plus a few extra.

For example, no outdoor music will be permitted after 9 p.m., and the SUP will expire upon the sale of the property.

The motion passed unanimously.

Before the project can proceed, it will require final approval from Northampton supervisors following a public hearing April 9.

Richard Drury

Dr. Richard "Dick" Lee Drury went to the Lord Saturday, March 30, 2019, at the age of 77, with his beloved wife, Nancy, at his side. Dr. Drury was born to Donald and Lillian Drury on June 27, 1941, in Springfield, Ill. Later, his family moved to Phoenix, Ariz., where he met his wife, Nancy Lee Wells, originally of Virginia. Dr. Drury graduated from West High School and attended Arizona State University where, upon graduating, he was commissioned in the U.S. Marine Corps. Dr. and Mrs. Drury were married at Trinity United Methodist Church in Orange, Va., June 17, 1961.

Dr. Drury

As a U.S. Marine Corps captain, Dr. Drury served as a helicopter pilot in the Vietnam War assigned to Marine Observation Squadron 2 (VMO-2). He was hit by enemy groundfire and severely wounded in August 1966 while piloting a rescue operation. He was awarded multiple medals for his heroism and service, including recognition for one daring evacuation mission of 23 wounded Marines. His awards included two Distinguished Flying Cross medals and the Purple Heart. After recovering for a year at Portsmouth Naval Hospital, Dr. Drury received an honorable discharge, and he and Mrs. Drury then lived many happy years together raising their two children in Virginia Beach, Va.

In civilian life, Dr. Drury served in executive management roles in private industry for many years, and he earned a master's degree in business administration (Old Dominion University) and a Doctor of Arts in education (George Mason University). He also served as the division director of the Continuing Education Institute for Management at Old Dominion University, and later as professor and director for small business programs and as director of the Small Business Institute at George Mason University. Dr. Drury also loved teaching masters level courses for many years at George Mason University. He also served as an associate dean of business at Northern Virginia Community College in Annandale, Va.. He authored several publications and was highly respected within the education arena.

Retiring in 2003, Dr. and Mrs. Drury built their retirement home on the Eastern Shore of Virginia, where they continued to live many happy years together along the Chesapeake Bay. There, Dr. Drury served as an active member and chair of the Northampton County School Board, a member of the Eastern Shore Community College Board, and chair of the Educational Advisory Council for WHRO. He was also a co-founder and president of the Northampton County Education Foundation.

Among his many talents, Dr. Drury was an amazing musician well-known for playing the piano and singing. As the choir director for Bethel United Methodist Church in Jamesville for many years, he extended his great talent to the joy of the church in the glory of God. He also loved the outdoors and spent many happy times with family and friends fishing and boating on the Chesapeake Bay and many happy family vacations on the beaches of Avon, N.C.

Dr. Drury leaves an imprint on the hearts of so many in his roles as a beloved husband, father, grandfather and family man, friend, leader, teacher, and mentor. Most of all, he was a kind, loving, and caring man who made a true difference, and he will never be forgotten.

31 Indicted by Accomack Grand Jury

Two for Murder

Two men were freed from Accomack Jail about three years ago after being charged with murdering a 22-year-old Horntown man because a prosecutor believed there wasn't enough evidence to convict them.

Those same suspects were brought back and indicted Monday by an Accomack grand jury for the premeditated murder of Robert Franklin Baytops IV, 22, of Horntown. The crimes occurred Feb. 4, 2016.

Jahad Areil Triggs, 24, of Chincoteague Road in New Church, and Tavone Tyrell Cropper, 28, of Cedar Street in Pocomoke City, Md., were also each indicted on a count of using a firearm in a threatening manner. Investigator Sam Castiglia, of the Accomack County Sheriff's Office (ACSO), gave information about the case to the jury.

Sheriff Todd Godwin said Triggs is in custody in Maryland. Police are looking for Cropper. The pair were released from jail in April 2016 after former Deputy Commonwealth's Attorney Matthew Brenner made the decision not to go forward with the charges.

"I thought we had a good case," Godwin said back in 2016. "They're out. It's not our decision whether or not they prosecute. We do the best we can. ... We're not looking for anybody else."

The sheriff declined to comment Monday but gave credit to Commonwealth's Attorney Spencer Morgan and Castiglia for pursuing the charges. Morgan beat out Brenner in an election and gained the top job. He fired Brenner soon after taking office.

More Violent Crimes

Edward Warner "Meatloaf" Byrd, 36, of Airport Drive in Melfa, was indicted on counts of maliciously wounding Quanta Mapp, robbery, and displaying a firearm in a robbery, in connection with March 2018 incidents.

At a preliminary hearing, Mapp testified his five-year-old son got in the car, outside their Seaside Road home near Painter, and popped the trunk so his father could place a kerosene container inside. Mapp heard shouting over his shoulder and said he turned to find three men pointing guns at him. "They were masked," said Mapp.

The men began asking about money or drugs, the victim continued. "Warner Byrd ordered it. He told him (another of the gunman) to shoot me ... I ran away from the car so no stray bullet would hit my son."

Mapp was shot in the arm. The bullet went through to his stomach, according to testimony. He was also shot in the head. The boy was not injured. Mapp testified he was able to get inside his house when the men ran out of ammunition.

"He started shooting at my house and shot me in the head," he said of Byrd. "I thought I was dead. My son was still in the car." Mapp said Byrd later threatened him so he wouldn't go to court.

Investigator Chuck McPherson, of Chincoteague Police Department, worked for the ACSO when the incident occurred and handled the case. McPherson said he found four bullets, four bullet casings, and a hat at the scene. The ammo was sent to a lab for fingerprint analysis.

Byrd was also indicted on a count of stealing property valued at $200 or more from Walmart, in Onley, Aug. 28, 2017.

Joseph Paul Mullane, 19, of Waltham Street in Norfolk, Va., was indicted on counts of breaking into the home of Cindy Reed of Chincoteague while armed with a deadly weapon and stealing property valued at $500 or more belonging to Trevor Reed, the homeowner's son. The crimes occurred Oct. 22, 2018. Deputy S. Lenoff, of ACSO, investigated.

John William Johnston III, 66, of Cattail Road in Mears, was indicted on counts of burglary, abduction by force, and object sexual penetration. The crimes occurred Dec. 29, 2018. The Eastern Shore Post does not print the names of victims of sex crimes. Johnston is being held without bond. The preliminary hearing was closed to the public. Deputy J. Sharp, of the ACSO, investigated.

Bert Like IV, 36, of Main Street in Hallwood, was indicted on a count of rape by use of victim's mental incapacity or physical helplessness. The crime occurred April 18, 2018. The preliminary hearing was closed to the public. Like has been held without bond since Dec. 20. Investigator Meghan Patterson, of ACSO, handled the case.

Lanaeja Kellam, 20, of Boston Road in Painter, was indicted on a count of maliciously wounding Kailah Custis on June 10, 2018. Commonwealth's Attorney Beverly Leatherbury, of Northampton, will prosecute the case. Cpl. Kenny Reese, of ACSO, gave information about the case to the jury.

Berlie Roland Colona, 44, of Horsely Drive in Oak Hall, was indicted on counts of January assault and battery of Deputy S. Lenhoff, a felony, and violating a protective order, a misdemeanor. Lenoff investigated.

Ray Ellis Townsend, 61, of Townsend Lane in Atlantic, was indicted on counts of burglary at night of dwelling house of George Brothers and stealing $500 or more. The crimes occurred Nov. 28, 2018. Deputy J. Rose, of ACSO, investigated.

Wilson Thomas Wesley, 40, of Shirley Circle in Parksley, was indicted on counts of making a bomb or burn threat on Nov. 25, 2018, and embezzling money belonging to Mary Rager by virtue of his trust or employment between Nov. 23 and 24, 2018.

Substitute Teacher Charged With Having Guns on School Property

A substitute teacher accused last week of having firearms at Nandua High School, which is a felony, told authorities "he did not realize" that guns could not be kept in his car while on the premises.

Phillip Gordon Stewart, 63, was initially thought to live in Locustville, but an updated warrant shows his address on Nock's Landing Road in Atlantic.

He was arrested and charged March 27 with "possessing a firearm designed or intended to expel a projectile by action of an explosion of a combustible material upon the property of a public or religious elementary middle or high school, or upon that portion of a property open to the public and then exclusively used for school-sponsored functions or extracurricular activities while such functions or activities were taking place."

Deputy Jessica Young, of the Accomack County Sheriff's Office, who is the officer assigned to the school, investigated.

According to court records, Stewart said, "He put the firearms in (his) car for safekeeping from his ex. He did not realize he could not bring on school property." He was held in Accomack Jail for about two days without bond due "safety concerns" and "presumption" — a rule of law that allows a court to assume a fact is true until it is rebutted by the greater weight of the evidence against it.

"Def(endant) polite and cooperative during (a) bail hearing," the record stated.

Stewart was released on a $2,500 secured bond March 29 on the condition that he "avoid all contact with Debbie Bogardus" and "Do not travel on Burton Shore Road unless civil

Activist Connie Burford in the Race for Accomack District 4 School Board Seat

By Linda Cicoira

Connie Burford, of Bloxom, was one of the movers and shakers who rallied for an elected Accomack County School Board. She announced her candidacy this week for the District 4 seat on that panel in the November General Election.

“As a lifelong resident of the Eastern Shore and a single parent of two children, I am very aware of the difficult decisions the school board faces continuously,” she said. “I can also empathize with the employees who have to struggle to make ends meet on a daily basis. I want to give a fresh perspective on the board and breathe new ideas into our school system.”

“I am proud to say, I was educated in Accomack County Public Schools and graduated from Arcadia High School in 1982,” Burford said. “I spent a large portion of my life with educators. My uncle, Ricky Burford, retired from this school system after 32 years of service. Education has always played a big role in my life.”

Burford earned her practical nursing license from Northampton/Accomack County School of Practical Nursing. She was licensed in Virginia and Maryland in 1984. Her daughter is graduating from Longwood University in May with an education degree. Her son will be returning next year to Nandua High School. He was born with autism and various learning disabilities and excels in his classes there.

“As a parent, I volunteered daily at Kegotank Elementary School while my children attended there,” Burford said. “I helped chaperone field trips, decorated for graduations, and did anything else that was needed. I am a very active participant in both Arcadia and Nandua after-prom committees.”

Burford served on the Parent Advisory Committee through three superintendents and served on the Budget and Finance Committee when it was formed.

In 2014, “I became co-sponsor of Arcadia High School BETA Club with my friend Cecilia Baker. For several years we have been recognized as a National BETA Club School of Merit.”

Five years ago, Burford started serving on the School Health Advisory Board, a group committed to creating healthy school environments. She continues to be an active member.

“Our mission is to advise the school division on issues and programs related to health and healthy lifestyles,” Burford said. “We are actively involved in the development and presentation of school policy.”

“As a special education advocate, I receive countless phone calls from parents about issues regarding their children,” Burford continued. “I offer advice, make phone calls, provide them with websites, and/or paperwork, to help find solutions. I have, when invited, attended their child’s Individualized Education Program

Connie Burford

(IEP) meetings.”

“As a school advocate,” Burford said, “I am the one employees feel comfortable reaching out to when it seems that all other doors are closed to them.”

Nancy Proto, Advocate for Restorative Discipline in Northampton Schools, Will Not Seek Reelection

By Stefanie Jackson

A Northampton school board member and advocate for reform in the county's public school system, Nancy Proto, of Cape Charles, announced March 28 that she will not run for reelection in November.

Until her term expires, the retired school psychologist will continue promoting "a shift in the mindset of how we look at discipline" to "start us on the road to empathy and understanding."

Every year in Northampton schools, two and a half times as many students are suspended compared to the state average.

Suspension rates are even higher for black and Hispanic students. In Virginia, black students account for nearly 25 percent of the public school student population, but they receive more than 50 percent of suspensions.

Proto supports the views of Dr. Arthur Carter, a retired obstetrician from Nassawadox who frequently attends school board meetings and requests implementing restorative discipline in Northampton schools.

Restorative discipline, aka restorative justice, is an alternative to traditional, punitive discipline. It involves both the offending student and any other student, teacher, or staff member affected by the behavior, encouraging character-building by making reparations and repairing relationships.

Proto has completed several training sessions on or related to restorative discipline, and she would like to make a presentation to the school board explaining what restorative discipline is and how it works.

She wants the school board to consider "how we're disciplining our children and to do it differently so that we are building character, building resiliency." A date for the presentation has not been determined.

Proto has completed studies of Ruby Payne's "A Framework for Understanding Poverty" and "Emotional Poverty." Payne is an educator and author who trains teachers to understand the culture of poverty and how it affects children's education.

Superintendent Eddie Lawrence has said he would like to schedule a Ruby Payne staff development session for the next school year, possibly in November.

Proto's experience on the school board has also included working with the teacher retention committee that spent two years surveying Northampton teachers and conducting research on possible strategies the school board could use to keep qualified teachers in the county's public school system.

In September 2017, after the teacher retention committee completed its work, Proto made a motion for the school board to accept the committee's recommendations, but it was not seconded and died.

Her focus for the last months of her term remains on restorative discipline. She hopes the school board will follow through on its idea of meeting with public school administrators across the bay in Mathews County, where restorative discipline has been introduced. Mathews is a small, rural Virginia county, similar to Northampton.

At the March 28 school board meeting, Proto and fellow school board member Maxine Rasmussen voiced their support for Director of Operations Chris Truckner's efforts to reduce a severe shortage of bus drivers.

Both school board members suggested updating job advertisements to reflect that paid training is available for new bus drivers.

Truckner said there were several days within the last month that bus drivers had to make seven double runs, and Northampton school buses travel as far north as Onancock and as far south as Virginia Beach to pick up students. Some bus drivers are preparing to retire, worsening the dilemma, he added.

Proto also reported receiving a letter from Sen. Lynwood Lewis requesting a tour of Northampton High School. The request must be approved by the superintendent, but Truckner said Lewis is welcome to visit anytime.

Proto is an at-large school board member, meaning anyone from Northampton County's five voting districts can run to become her replacement.

Two other school board members are up for reelection in November: Jo Ann Molera, of Franktown, representing District 4, and Chairman William "Skip" Oakley, of Exmore, representing District 5.

SCIENTISTS HOPE BUILDING MARSH ON CEDAR ISLAND WILL SLOW SEA LEVEL RISE CHANGES

By Linda Cicaira

Scientists are planning to build a marsh on the southern end of Cedar Island in an effort to slow movement caused by sea level rises. They also found a layer of pebble under Chincoteague Island believed to be 300,000 years old.

"Virginia has the second fastest rate of sea level rise in the country," Christopher Hein, an assistant professor of Virginia Institute of Maine Science (VIMS) Department of Physical Sciences, recently told Chincoteague officials who were eager to learn what could eventually happen to Chincoteague and Assateague islands and if anything can be done to slow the changes.

"The barrier islands in Virginia are more dynamic than anywhere else in the world," Heine continued. "Their reactions are from sea level rise," Hein said of the lands that protect the Eastern Shore.

The approach on Cedar Island is to try to naturally manage the changes. According to minutes of the meeting, Hein said he is working with an engineering firm on the cost to develop a marsh about a quarter-mile wide. Spoils from nearby channels would be used for the fill.

"There are federal navigational channels there that need dredging and non-federal channels that local boaters and the Eastern Shore Navigable Waters Committee want to dredge," he said.

Cedar Island was divided into lots in the 1980s and sold to those dreaming of a private paradise. But the houses that were built there were washed away.

"It has moved 30 feet in the past 30 years," Hein said. "If they're hit by a big storm maybe it will move 50 feet," he speculated. "The average of the entire system it is about 25 feet over 30 years ... A beach on a barrier island can erode, losing sand and become narrower."

"Once it gets narrow enough, the same storm that used to take sand away, can go up and over the island and push sand to the back side to help itself stay above water," he

Hein referred to Ocean City, Md. He stated "because of the private and public infrastructure they shouldn't be moving anywhere ... when you have dense development with all the houses and then try to have an over-wash where the waves throw sand, those houses stop the waves and stop the sand from moving. You end up with half as much sand or no sand making it from the front side to the back side. It either stops or is pushed back on the beach."

"You have a developed island, Chincoteague, and then a federally developed island, Wallops, and you have a federally managed island, Assateague," he said. "Chincoteague Inlet, which is constantly moving, is unique among the Virginia barriers" as it is "stabilized with rock and brick ... It's the only place with an old barrier island, Chincoteague, and ... a new barrier island, Assateague, that has grown in front of it. It cut itself off from the open ocean years ago."

Wallops has grown wider, and Tom's Cove hook has grown narrower as Chincoteague Inlet has grown wider. This has been the focus of his group for the last year. "Part of the land is trapping an enormous grove of land that should be going to Wallops, Assawoman, Metompkin and Paramore" islands, he said.

VIMS collected sediment cores. "From the thickness of the cores, they can tell how thick fishing point is. They can see how much sand is trapped in that part of Assateague at that time."

He reviewed a picture with the lower shorelines back to 1859 with the lighthouse that wasn't built close to the beach. He showed the growth comparing the images with those of modern times and back many years when Ridge Road was a beach.

Virginia recently provided funds to develop a hydrodynamic model for Chincoteague to predict future movements. Hein's group will study sand on Chincoteague this summer to determine its age and history.

Building a marsh near Tom's Cove will be a big challenge due to the risk to shellfish, he said. On Wallops, "they can keep nourishing the beach, but it will still wash away," he said referring to the money spent to build up the beach near the NASA launchpad.

Projections for sea level rise "are nearly a foot by 2050," he continued. "The way the currents are, they should fall within the high end of the projections."

The beach will steadily roll west even if they build marsh, said Councilman Gene Wayne Taylor. He doesn't think it will stop migration.

"It would slow it down," said Hein. "This is one of those areas that is chaos. It is the most complicated area. It has to be looked at in a strategic and integrated way rather than each individual interaction."

Paramore Island has some of the highest elevations on the Eastern Shore with 250-year-old dunes, he said.

Hein offered a review of Hogg Island from the 1865 shoreline. "It has changed more than seven times its own width."

Exmore Budget Matches County's in Employee Salary Increases

By Stefanie Jackson

It's budget season, and Exmore Town Manager Robert Duer is committed to keeping pace with Northampton County in the salary race.

Northampton County employees will get a 3 percent raise in fiscal year 2020, and so will Exmore town employees, Duer announced on Monday.

But Duer went one step further. Some employees will get a 3 percent raise, while others will get 2 percent plus $500, whichever is greater for the individual employee.

Another highlight of Exmore's FY 2020 budget is monthly contributions of $3,000 to the town's capital improvement fund.

Duer updated the town council on Exmore's pursuit of U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) grant funds to

"It seems like the islands move every week," the scientist continued. "Most of the barrier islands formed about 6,000 years ago and are constantly moving. They tend to be long and the longest is 100 miles in southern Brazil in South America."

help pay for a new garbage truck.

Exmore has more than $2.8 million in assets, and one USDA representative is worried that the town has "too much cash" to qualify for assistance.

Considering that Exmore has a $508,000 bond to pay off and well and sewer projects to pay for, the town does not have too much cash, Duer asserted. He will continue to update the council on the grant as more information becomes available.

Director of Utilities Taylor Dukes reported that he visited a wastewater facility in Lewes, Del., that operates without drain fields. Instead, the wastewater drains into sand bunters, also called sand traps.

What Exmore's sewage system accomplishes on about 30 acres, the Delaware facility accomplishes on about 2.5 acres – and it's cheaper, Dukes said.

He plans to meet with the Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) to discuss what it would take to bring the technology to Virginia.

Duer asked town council members if anyone was interested in attending a meeting in Onley on April 11 for updates on the sewage treatment feasibility study being conducted by the Hampton Roads Sanitation District. The meeting is invitation only, he said.

Council members were also amenable to Duer's idea of a billboard featuring the message, "Welcome to Exmore – Home of the World-Famous New Ravenna," the custom mosaic manufacturer.

He said the relationship between the town and business has "never been better" and both would benefit from the advertising venture.

No civil suits have been filed by either party, according to Accomack district and circuit court records. The relationship between Stewart and Bodargus was unclear from the file.

The police were following a tip when they found the firearms in Stewart's vehicle, said Major Shane Childress, of ACSO. Records also state that attorney Paul Watson, of Eastville, was retained to defend Stewart.

He got five years with all but two months suspended for disarming a police officer of a firearm on Jan 15, 2017, and another five years with all but two months suspended for disarming an officer of his stun gun. Three counts of assault and battery of an officer landed him with five years each with all but six months suspended. Maldonado-Rosales was sentenced to 12 months with 11 months suspended each for resisting arrest and obstruction of justice.

Johnson was also barred from participating in federal healthcare programs as a provider for 10 years. She was among a half dozen people who were investigated. The crimes occurred between 2013 and 2018.

In another case, Amanda Lea Grover-Snyder, 35, of Costen Road in Westover, Md., was sentenced to a total 21 years in prison for seven counts of grand larceny in connection with the theft of copper wire from ANEC between Aug. 31 and Oct. 4, 2018. All but 12 months of the terms were suspended. She was ordered to be on indefinite supervised probation and to complete 48 to 52 weeks of a community corrections alternative program, known as CCAP.

Accomack County resident and Holly Grove Christian senior Gwyneth Loniewski signed her formal letter of intent Thursday, March 21, to play Division I volleyball with the Regent University team in Virginia Beach.

Loniewski, who has played for Holly Grove since her freshman year, was named Player of the Year in the ESIAC Conference this past season. The outside hitter also has been a member of the Dynamic Volleyball Academy for two years.

The future Royal has a great passion for sports and is a year-round athlete, as she is also a member of the varsity basketball and softball teams.

Although she is unsure yet what major she will declare during her collegiate career, she was sure Regent was the right fit for her. She chose the private Christian university for its size; she did not want to go to a big school, as well as it's close to home and to be with like-minded people.

Celebrating National Volunteer Month

Chincoteague and Eastern Shore of Virginia National Wildlife refuges celebrate the impact of volunteer service in our community and inspire others to act during the National Volunteer Month of April. Assisting with monarch butterfly tagging and bird surveying, maintaining wildlife gardens, welcoming visitors at the visitor centers, and conducting trail maintenance are just a few ways volunteers learn new skills, meet new people, and have fun. Join the trash pickup along Route 175 on Wallops Island National Wildlife Refuge Wednesday, April 17, at 8:30 a.m. or contact Laurel Wilkerson, Volunteer Coordinator, for future volunteer opportunities at 757-336-6122, ext. 2310.

Off the Shelf: News From Eastern Shore Public Library

April 2019

'Celebrate Us!' and Celebrate Your Community Library

The public is invited to the Eastern Shore Public Library's "Celebrate Us" Multicultural Festival. This free family-fun event, Sunday, May 5, from 1 until 4 p.m., will include the Virginia Museum of Fine Art's traveling exhibit artmobile and the participation of many local organizations.

It will take place at the future site of the regional library, at 24313 Bennett St., in Parksley. The event celebrates the strength of our community by recognizing its diversity. The theme for the 2019 National Library Week is "Libraries = Strong Communities." The new regional library will be a landmark that demonstrates how libraries build strong community.

National Library Week is an annual celebration highlighting the valuable role libraries, librarians, and library workers play in transforming lives and strengthening our communities. This year's theme illustrates how today's libraries are at the heart of our cities, towns, schools and campuses, providing critical resources, programs, and expertise. They also provide a public space where all community members, regardless of age, culture, or income level, can come together to connect and learn.

Library programs are designed to encourage community members to meet and discuss civic issues, work together using new technologies or learn alongside one another in English language or technology classes. Library staff also partner with other civic and service organizations to actively engage the people they serve, always striving to make sure their community's needs are being met.

Eastern Shore Public Library is looking forward to its new regional library in Parksley which will have new features such as meeting rooms, a gallery for exhibits, a makerspace for creating audio/visual materials, environmentally controlled archive space, and more visitor-friendly gathering spaces.

Thanks to hundreds of volunteer hours by the ESPL Foundation, Friends of the Library, Campaign Committee and Fundraising Committee volunteers, and the generous contributions of donors, the new Regional Library is coming to fruition. Look for an announcement of the groundbreaking event in late June 2019.

Donations are still needed to meet the $5 million goal for a fully outfitted facility.

The "VMFA on the Road" artmobile will be in Parksley two days in May. On Sunday, May 5, from 1 to 4 p.m., the public is invited to visit the exhibit during the "Celebrate Us!" multicultural festival. School and community groups are invited to come on May 6 and may schedule an appointment by contacting Janice Felker at youthservices@espl.org or calling 757-787-3400. The exhibit will be back at another time, to be determined, in Nassawadox and Cape Charles.

The Eastern Shore Public Library System has four libraries: Accomac, Cape Charles, Chincoteague, and Nassawadox. An ESPL library card can be used at any of the four libraries. To learn about the regional library building project and ESVA Heritage Center in Parksley, opening in 2020, or to donate visit www.shorelibrary.com For more information about your library services, library hours of operation, or your library account, visit www.espl.org, "like" us on Facebook and Twitter, or call the library at 757-787-3400.

Health Matters Child Abuse Prevention Month

Courtesy of Prevent Child Abuse America and Accomack DSS

April is Child Abuse Prevention month. Accomack County Department of Social Services, along with agencies around the state, will be displaying blue pinwheels on its lawn for the month of April. A pinwheel is the national symbol and physical embodiment for the great childhoods all children deserve.

Why Pinwheels for Prevention?

In 2008, Prevent Child Abuse America introduced the pinwheel as the new national symbol for child abuse prevention through Pinwheels for Prevention®. By its very nature, the pinwheel connotes whimsy and childlike notions.

Why care?

Because everyone plays a role in children's lives, whether an employer enacting policies that impact the work-life balance or a neighbor who offers parents time away from stress, everyone has an effect on the lives of children. The responsibility is to contribute to the kind of nation in which we want to live. When all children don't have equal opportunity for healthy growth and development, the future as a society is put at risk. Every day is a call to action and an opportunity to recognize that everyone plays a role in children's lives.

Because children are our future

The great childhoods required for children involve a loving and supporting environment. Children who are raised in supportive and stable environments are more academically and financially successful, and great childhoods help children grow into productive, contributing adults who help their community, and our country, be prosperous and competitive in the global economy.

Because the costs are too high

Unfortunately, children are sometimes exposed to extreme and sustained stress like child abuse and neglect, which can undermine a child's development. Research conducted by Prevent Child Abuse America estimates that implementing effective policies and strategies to prevent child abuse and neglect can save taxpayers $80 billion per year. The cost of not doing this is measured in increased costs for foster care services, hospitalization, mental health treatment, and law enforcement, as well as loss of individual productivity and expenditures related to chronic health problems, special education, and the justice system.

How to help

The Pinwheels for Prevention® campaign provides a unique opportunity to take action by learning more about prevention, supporting child and family friendly policies and services, and volunteering at the local, state, and national levels.

Simple actions make a difference

There are simple things one can do to make a difference. Whether it's volunteering at a local pre- or after-school program, babysitting for an overburdened family in the neighborhood, or calling local legislators to advocate for policies like home visiting, there are many things that can be done to help promote great childhoods and the prevention of abuse and neglect. PUBLIC NOTICE

The Northampton County Wetlands Board will meet Wednesday, April 17, 2019 at 11:00 a.m. in the Board Chambers located at 16404 Courthouse Road in Eastville, VA, for the purpose of considering the following wetlands/coastal primary sand dunes matter under public hearing and to conduct regular business. The Board will assemble at 9:00 a.m. to conduct a site visit.

A.) VMRC 2019-0280: Eyre Hall Land Trust LLC is applying for a permit to replace an existing, failing bulkhead with a new vinyl bulkhead. The existing bulkhead is approximately 270 feet in length. The replacement bulkhead will be approximately 250 feet in length in order to preserve the wetlands at the northern end of the bulkhead. The new bulkhead will have one 30-foot-long return wall which will be located at the bulkhead's northern end. The replacement bulkhead will be placed 2 feet channelward of the existing bulkhead. The applicant also wishes to place a rip rap toe scour protector in front of the new bulkhead. The toe scour will be approximately 6 feet wide and 3 feet high. The applicant also wishes to reconfigure the existing pier by adding a 20' ramp that will lead to a 20' x 16' floating section which will be attached to a 32' x 8' floating "L" head. The access portion of the pier will be re-decked in the places where it is needed. The primary purpose of this project is to replace a failing structure and to rebuild the pier. The property is located at 3139 Eyre Hall Drive in Cheriton. It is further described as Tax Map #76-A-3.

B.) VMRC 2019-0316: The Ballard Fish and Oyster Company is applying for a permit to construct an approximately 170' x 8' open-pile wharf, a new 1,200 square foot covered work platform, and a new 92' long low vinyl bulkhead. They are also applying to dredge an approximate 15,513 square foot area which includes an approximate 576 square foot area in the non-vegetated wetlands. The primary purpose of this project is to expand the company's commercial fish production capacity to provide for the ever-increasing demand for fresh, quality shellfish. The secondary purpose of this project is to improve navigation and to stabilize the existing shoreline. The property is located at 1596 Townfield Drive in Cape Charles. It is further described as Tax Map #83-7-A.

C.) VMRC 2019-0448: Ballard Brothers Fish and Oyster Company is applying for a permit to install an approximately 45 foot long rip rap addition to their existing rip rap revetment. They need the rip rap addition because there has been additional erosion at the site which has created unsafe and hazardous conditions for campers. The rip rap addition will be placed on the north end of the existing revetment. The rip rap addition will tie into the tombolo that is forming from a recently constructed breakwater. No vegetated wetlands will be impacted. The primary purpose of this project is to correct unsafe conditions for humans and structures. The secondary purpose of this project is for erosion control. The property is located at the Cherrystone Campground near the bait and tackle shop. It is further described as Tax Map #83-A-2.

Anyone interested in the above matter should attend the scheduled public hearing. The application may be viewed in the Planning, Permitting, and Enforcement Office located at 16404 Courthouse Road in Eastville, VA. Written comments can be submitted to the Planning, Permitting, and Enforcement Office P.O. Box 538, Eastville, VA 23347.

By Linda Cicoira

Pat Hart, of Wachapreague, has retired again. If she isn't reading two books a week on her side porch on Main Street, one can find her weeding in the garden or at her nearby antique store.

This time the 82-year-old, a dear friend who I love like a mother, has left the real estate business to concentrate on her store and other tasks. Pat changes course every decade or so. Her life is always full of color, from the watercolor and oil paintings she claims to just be "trying" to create, to her rose garden, and the array of people who are constantly visiting her. She is very popular and loves to entertain and talk to the masses. "They've worn the paint right off my porch," she said with a grin.

Pat was the seventh Kellam child of eight who grew up down the street in a house that didn't have plumbing. She sure has moved up in the world. Pat was Miss Wachapreague 1952 and, in my eyes, she still is queen of the town.

She met her sweetheart, Tom Hart, just after he graduated from the rival school, Onancock. They met while attending the Melfa Carnival, also in 1952. She was a Central High School student then.

Hart, a master carpenter and tile layer, swept her up "in his 1947 Ford Coupe for all the dates" and they eventually ran away to Pocomoke, Md., got married, and kept it a secret until she was finished with school.

She stayed home to raise two boys until she was in her early thirties when she landed a job at the deli at the Onley Acme Market when it opened, which has since been converted into a couple of restaurants on the north end of Four Corner Plaza.

Pat soon became a meat wrapper and union member and managed to retell the funniest jokes to her fellow workers, which for a time included me, and all while she was filling the meat case. I was a checker and had gone to school with her sons. She retired from that job when she turned 50.

Pat said she came back from lunch one day and announced, "I'm going on vacation for two weeks and I not coming back. It was several years before they closed. I had Burton House and something else on my mind I wanted to do," Pat said.

She and Tom had bought the two-story, wood-frame Victorian-style house, on Atlantic Avenue, in Wachapreague, for $23,000 in 1985, and Tom and his helper, Morris Smith, renovated it for about a year before it was opened as a bed-and-breakfast.

"It wasn't so much the money as it was the labor," she said. "They made it into a beautiful home. The first thing we bought was a cast-iron wood stove that was covered with enamel because we had to have heat. Every room had a half bath and the guests shared the showers on each floor. Originally, there was one bath that was barely usable because the house was vacant for a decade or so."

"We loved the people," she said. "Tom built a screened porch on the back. Randy Lewis, (also of Wachapreague and the former owner of the Wachapreague Hotel and the Island House) gave him railings that were saved from the old hotel after it burned and was torn down. We loved sitting on the porch visiting with our guests. Hundreds came from all over the world. And a lot of repeat people. We had one man who cried when we told him we were closing down because of Tom's health," she said. "Tom was my best help and he couldn't do it anymore."

In 1988, just two years after she gained her real estate license, Pat began to sell houses to her visitors who loved the "Little City by the Sea."

"I sold 10 houses one year that were under $100,000 to guests," she said. At Burton House, one could get a room for $50 a night that included a breakfast she and Tom served of eggs to order, sausage and bacon, ham on Sunday, biscuit or muffins, everything homemade, with unlimited coffee and juice. Eventually, that price went up to $75.

Pat said she loved how pretty the house turned out and how it was furnished with used items that were good and polished. "Nothing fancy but people were comfortable with it. We had one TV in the living room and we had lots of books for people to read."

"I had one man who called when he got home to Baltimore so I wouldn't worry," she said. "He really wanted to tell me that my biscuits were better than McDonald's."

The late Tom Hart and his wife, Pat, in 1995.

"We started out with five guest rooms and three years later a stairwell and two more bedrooms were added to the attic so we could keep up with business," she said. "We did that for 18 years and ended up with another house that had four cabins and a small boat marina." The Harts sold the business in the early 2000s.

Last month, Pat left Weichert Realty, in Onancock. The company gave her a catered surprise retirement party that she was really excited about. "I'm going to read and I'm a wannabe an artist. I joined the art league but that doesn't mean I'm an artist," she said. She has Seaside Antiques. "I've been a dealer since 1970," she said. She is open by chance, mostly on the weekend and by appointment. Pat also has a booth at J & M Collectibles, in Exmore, where she takes the books she reads to sell for a $1 each after she's finished.

Yippee! I love you, Pat.

Groundwater Depletion Is Still a Concern

Dear Editor:

The last ground water committee meeting had members critical of an article in CBES which contended that we were "moving towards an aquifer-recharge deficit." Although the consultant maintains we are removing water at a rate equal to the recharge, he cautioned this was without factoring in any future poultry houses. More are in the offing, so how can the statement "moving towards" be false? Also, the history of other nearby communities, like Virginia Beach, where it was thought the reserves adequate, they weren't, so they accessed a lake. We don't have that option. The board of supervisors echoed the groundwater committee and it was widely reported.

It is shameful when volunteers with no ulterior motive than to protect us, who study the situation with a science background, by the way, attend countless meetings and who put themselves out there are criticized by those whose official capacity is to protect us, but who won't consider erring on the side of caution. Besides well depletion, salinization will likely increase given the poultry use of our Yorktown reserves.

The governor has just signed a bill backed by Sen. Lewis to encourage more use of the more plentiful, shallow Columbia Aquifer. It was suggested at the groundwater meeting that it might have served better five years back. Be that as it may, let's encourage those who can, hopefully, see the larger picture and work to preserve this great shore for us and for future generations.
