Chincoteague Fire Company Can Finally Call New Fire House ‘Home’

Just before the ambulances and firetrucks were backed into the Chincoteague Volunteer Fire Company’s new firehouse Wednesday, three of the “old timers” from the company posed outside the building. From left, Treasurer Billy Joe Tarr (who is also the District 1 Accomack supervisor), J.W. Jeffries (a longtime member who has awards named after him), and President Chessie Rhodes. The 250-member company including 38 active, 30 life members who are active, honorary, associate, juniors, and auxiliary. “It’s a proud moment,” said Rhodes. “Not just for us but for the community. I never thought I’d see the day.”

DEQ Decreases Poultry House Water Use Estimates

By Linda Cicoira

The Virginia Department of Environmental Quality says it has a better handle on the amount of water that will be needed by big users like poultry houses in Accomack County. The new figure is about 62 percent less than what the agency reported last year.

“You were told 3.1 million gallons (per day) would be needed,” Joseph Grist, of DEQ, said Wednesday. “That was the worse case assumption. … Now we have much better information … that the use will be 1.179 million gallons.”

The DEQ came to the conclusion by using “slide numbers based on the 54 facilities, review of meter data, and the most recent scientific literature on cooling water used from a study of 10 years of meter data on the Delmarva,” Grist said.

Those attending a permit briefing held in Onley this week were shown a slide show that stated the initial number was for all 83 Virginia Pollution Abatement (VPA) facilities and the latter figure was for 54 with a consent special order (CSO) water use distribution.

The presentation was given by Scott Kudlas, director of the state Office of Water Supply. “Withdrawals fluctuate over the year,” Kudlas said. “Consumption...” (Continued on Page 5)
Northampton School Board Gets Laundry List of Summer Repairs

By Stefanie Jackson

Northampton schools Director of Operations Chris Truckner gave the school board a laundry list of building and equipment repairs and upgrades needed at Occhannock and Kiptopeke elementary schools at the April 25 school board meeting.

His decision to make the repairs was based on “information that we’re learning through all the issues at the high school and trying not to repeat history,” Truckner said.

Northampton High School was built 65 years ago, with an addition built more than 40 years ago. One structural engineering firm, Speight, Marshall, and Francis, of Virginia Beach, Va., has reported the school is deteriorating rapidly and the original structure is in poor condition.

A second firm, Waller, Todd, and Sadler, also of Virginia Beach, is conducting a full investigation of the building issues. The investigation is expected to be complete in late May, with a final report to follow in early June. The report will help the school board and county supervisors decide whether to repair or reconstruct all or part of the building.

At the 26-year-old elementary schools, the boiler systems that heat the buildings share what Truckner called a “design flaw” created by “not knowing what the future held.” The boiler systems were “over-engineered” and now need major work for them to function properly.

The boilers have already been replaced twice, Truckner added.

The elementary schools are ready for replacement of all window and door caulking and seals, which have dry rotted with age. In the brick exterior walls, the metal expansion joints will also be re-caulked.

Areas of the school grounds with poor stormwater drainage will be regraded, allowing water to flow away from the buildings.

The main water lines to the HVAC systems in the elementary schools have rotted “from the inside out” and need replacing, Truckner said. In some areas, improperly insulated pipes have completely rusted through.

Many of the water lines were replaced over the winter after pipes in the ceiling burst and flooded classrooms.

The elementary schools’ outdated communication systems need to be re-wired due to technological advances, Truckner added. Modern computers and TVs require connection with ethernet cables, not phone lines or coaxial cables, he said.

From a safety and security perspective, “In the case of an emergency, being able to notify people quickly is almost as important as having locks on the doors,” Chief Financial Officer Brook Thomas said.

Most of the projects are planned for the summer, but the communication system upgrades might be delayed, Truckner said. It’s a busy time of year for contractors, and most aren’t willing to travel across the Chesapeake Bay or from Salisbury, Md., for work without inflating their prices.

The Occhannock Elementary playground needs a new slide because replacement parts are no longer available for the old one. The slide will cost $8,000 to $10,000. Multi-functional pieces of playground equipment can cost between $35,000 and $70,000, Truckner said.

At the high school, the boys locker room and a storage room will get new ceilings this summer.

An unstable wall at the athletic field house will be rebuilt, and a section of the bleachers will be repaired.

The structural investigation of Northampton High School continues, including a destructive phase. The investigative team is drilling into the terrazzo floors and removing core-shaped sections to test the soil underneath for moisture that may be causing the building to settle.

The terrazzo will be refitted and sealed back in place following the soil test, as long as it doesn’t break apart when removed, Truckner assured school board members.

The investigative team will also remove a section of bricks from an exterior wall to examine and take photos inside; then the bricks will be replaced. Truckner is “not a big fan” of the process, “but it’s necessary,” he said.

“The Hate U Give,” the film adaptation of one of the most discussed - and, according to the American Library Association, one of the most challenged - books of 2017 and 2018, tells the story of the police killing of an unarmed African American teen, and the traumatic fallout for a friend who witnessed the shooting.

Roseland Cinema and Entertainment Center (RCEC) sponsored a screening of the film and brought a panel of journalists from the Washington Post who had covered the topic of police shootings nationally to discuss their work. Audience members had a chance to share their own experiences and to ask questions of the panel.

National Correspondent Wesley Lowery, who covered the August 2014 fatal police shooting of Michael Brown, said early in his time in Ferguson he compared in an email the situation of the riots and protests of the police shootings to the novel, “Lord of the Flies.”

“The people felt like the system is so unjust, that something so terrible had happened, and they had received no accountability for it, no recourse,” he said, which brought out chaos in the street. “If the police don’t follow the rules, why should we as well?”

The media was initially focused on the specifics of the shootings. But what was exposed over time, as more cases were highlighted, and especially where officers were not prosecuted, was the deficit of trust with the police. “That made it easier to understand why people were so upset,” he said.

“The book and the film captures really well the depth of the anger,” said Lowery.

“It’s not just anger, it’s absolute rage,” said Pungoteague resident Malaika Mitchell. “In a domestic terrorist situation, you’re taken alive, but if you’re selling cigarettes in the street, you get killed.”

“African American people, especially boys ... unarmed, are so much more disproportionately murdered (by police),” said retired physician Dr. Arthur Carter, of Nassawadox. “Until we as a people and as individuals address implicit racial bias, this stuff is going to go on and on and on.

“It’s 2019. Aren’t we all tired of this stuff?” he added, suggesting remedies. “We need restorative justice policing in this country; restorative justice prosecution in this country; restorative justice education in this country because this punitive stuff has never worked.”

is based on bird age” with more water being used when it is 80 degrees or hotter outside. For example, he said, a farm could use 645,000 total gallons in July, 511,000 total gallons in September, and 330,000 total gallons in December.

The permits are being evaluated by DEQ based on “demand justification – amount requested and need; alternatives analysis – evaluation of other sources; (and) technical evaluation – potential impacts to confined aquifers and other existing withdrawals,” Kudlas said.

A groundwater permit is required for any facility withdrawing more than 300,000 gallons in any month, from all wells. In September 2018, consent special orders were issued to 56 poultry farms. Fifty-four facilities require a permit.

Draft permits may include monthly and annual withdrawal limits, withdrawal metering and reporting requirements, mitigation plan for adverse impacts, and water conservation and management plans. Special conditions may include geophysical logging, well abandonment, camera surveys, water quality monitoring, and alternative source evaluation.

Notices will be published in the Eastern Shore Post on May 24. The public comment period is from May 24 to July 12. Public hearings will be held at 6 p.m. on the following dates and locations: Monday, June 24, at Arcadia High School, in Oak Hall; Tuesday, June 25, at the Eastern Shore Community College, in Melfa; and Wednesday, June 26, at Northampton High School, in Eastville.

After the comment deadline, draft permits could be revised and a summary of public comments and the DEQ response will be made available. On Sept. 6, DEQ staff will present draft permits and public comments to the State Water Control Board for approval.
urban Virginia the “golden crescent,” including Northern Virginia (with cities near Washington, D.C., like Alexandria), Richmond, and Hampton Roads (with large cities like Norfolk). Beyond is the “rural horseshoe” that includes the Eastern Shore.

If the two regions were states, the golden crescent would rank number two in the country for educational attainment, but the rural horseshoe would be dead last, tied with West Virginia and Mississippi.

There are nearly twice as many high school dropouts in the rural horseshoe as elsewhere in Virginia.

About 19% of those rural Virginians don’t graduate from high school, compared to just 10% of the rest of the state.

Only 27% of those rural Virginians hold at least a two-year college degree, compared to 47% of the rest of the state.

According to Malarkey, the key to establishing a four-year university on the Eastern Shore is public support.

Virginia has 15 public universities and colleges.

The College of William and Mary is the only one that was established by royal charter as a colonial college, and it has three branch campus universities: Virginia Commonwealth, Old Dominion, and Christopher Newport.

Three Virginia public universities began as women’s colleges: Longwood, Radford, and James Madison. Two began as black colleges: Virginia State and its branch campus, Norfolk State. Two were military universities: Virginia Military Institute and Virginia Tech.

And then there was the university started by Thomas Jefferson: the University of Virginia.

According to Malarkey, Jefferson founded UVA because his alma mater, William and Mary, was “stifling the sciences.” Another reason behind UVA’s founding may have been that William and Mary originally did not admit women, and Jefferson’s only children who survived to adulthood were daughters Mary and Martha.

UVA eventually gained three branch campuses: the University of Mary Washington, George Mason University, and the UVA campus at Wise, Va.

Malarkey hopes “Shore University” will do the same for the Eastern Shore as UVA-Wise did for the southwestern end of Virginia’s rural horseshoe.

As of 2015, UVA-Wise generated $84 million in annual revenue, 387 direct jobs, and 293 indirect jobs.

But will Accomack or Northampton County donate land like Wise County and other Virginia localities have done for public universities?

There are 200 acres in Melfa, near Eastern Shore Community College, that are owned by Accomack County and are doing nothing but growing trees, Malarkey said. He has discussed the property with Supervisor Robert Crockett and is confident that it could be obtained for the University of the Eastern Shore of Virginia.

And where will the students come from? “It sounds like ‘build it and they will come,’” said Sandra Beerends from the audience.

Some audience members suggested following the example of UVA-Wise by recruiting veterans. They recommended contacting the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs and the Wounded Warrior Project to find Iraq and Afghanistan war veterans who may wish to pursue a four-year college degree.

But others said veterans today are too old and uninterested in going back to school.

Still others noted the “unique learning experiences on the Shore” that can be found at the VIMS (Virginia Institute of Marine Science) and UVA research facilities in Wachapreague and Oyster, respectively, and the Chincoteague Bay Field Station and the NASA (National Aeronautics and Space Administration) and NOAA (National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration) facilities in Wallops Island.

Malarkey agreed with Beerends’ suggestion to reach out to Accomack and Northampton school administrators about finding potential future Shore University students.

He also addressed concerns about building a four-year university when enrollment at the community college is dropping.

Eastern Shore Community College had 836 students last year, down from 929 the previous year. Enrollment peaked at 1,461 during the 2010-2011 school year, at the height of the Great Recession when job seekers were pursuing college degrees to stand out in a highly competitive job market, Malarkey noted.

He considers current enrollment as “normal.” The last time ESCC enrollment was approximately 830 students was in the late 1980s.

Malarkey added the Shore University project is intended to widen educational opportunities on the Shore, not undercut the community college.

He hopes to set the University of the Eastern Shore of Virginia apart by establishing it as a STEM-H school (science, technology, engineering, math, and health care), where students can prepare for careers at the NASA Wallops Flight Facility, for example.

As an electronic engineer, Malarkey favors the sciences over liberal arts. College graduates with STEM degrees make 20% more money than those with other degrees, he said. Students that want “to actually making a living” enter a STEM field, he quipped.

Neither does the region need another marine science university, he said, referring to VIMS and its presence on the Shore at its Wachapreague research laboratory.

One of the foundation’s next goals is to get someone from the Eastern Shore of Virginia on the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia (SCHEV), which must approve establishing any new university in the commonwealth.

The council has 13 members, 12 of whom are appointed by the governor, and the foundation believes now is the time to get an Accomack or Northampton County citizen on the council while an Eastern Shore native is governor, Gov. Ralph Northam.

An educational background is not necessary to sit on the council. Only two members have had a career in education: one is a school superintendent and one was a college president. The remaining members have held top-level positions in business, finance, law, health care, and technology.

Plea Agreement To Be Heard for Woman Accused of Falsifying NASA Records

A plea agreement between an Accomack woman and a federal prosecutor will be heard next week in U.S. District Court in Norfolk.

Monica Kristine Borowicz, 50, of Mount Wharton Estates in Assawoman, is scheduled to go before Judge Raymond A. Jackson with her plea regarding the charge that she made false statements or representations about discharges into local waters made from the NASA Wallops Flight Facility between April 2014 and March 2018. The hearing is set for May 8.

NASA stated it “can confirm that Ms. Borowicz is a former contractor employee at Wallops... The daily operations of the NASA Wallops Flight Facility’s wastewater treatment plant is supported by the facility’s contractor LJT & Associates.”

In January 2014, LJT, of Columbia, Md., was awarded a contract to perform institutional services at WFF at a maximum of $257 million. “Services LJT & Associates will provide under the contract include facilities planning, engineering, and construction management; facilities operations and maintenance; construction and mission support; grounds maintenance; logistics; occupational medicine; environmental management support; records management; duplication; mail handling; custodial work; and solid waste disposal” among other things, an earlier press release stated. A $200 million contract was awarded to the company for Feb. 1, 2019, through Jan. 31, 2024.

Joseph L. Kosky, the assistant U.S. attorney handling the case, referred questions to Joshua Stueve, director of communications. Stueve has not returned messages.

An old NASA listing on the agency’s website showed Borowicz was the water programs/analytical lab head.

The Post was unable to contact Borowicz. Her attorney did not return a reporter’s query.

The charge against Borowicz involves “monthly discharge monitoring reports submitted to the Virginia Department of Environmental Quality” that showed “false test results for Total Kjeldahl Nitrogen levels,” court records stated. The reports are required in accordance with the Clean Water Act.

Man Charged With Sex Crimes With Minor Released on Bond

A 74-year-old Bloxom man, charged with eight counts of sex crimes with a minor, was released from Accomack Jail on his own recognizance last week.

Sam Nock, of Hinman Street, had been in jail for two weeks when Judge Glen A. Tyler granted him an unsecured $5,000 bond. Unsecured means Nock did not have to post any money to gain his freedom.

Tyler also ordered that Nock wear electronic monitoring. That service is not provided in Accomack, so Nock must pay a private firm to monitor his ankle bracelet.

Nock was arrested April 11 and released April 25. He was charged with rape by force or threat, three counts of aggravated sexual battery by force/weapon, two counts of sodomy of a helpless victim, and two counts of object sexual penetration by force. The offenses occurred between Sept. 30, 2018, and March 24.

In a case involving adults, the Eastern Shore Post does not print the name of the victim in a sex case without the victim’s consent. In the case of a juvenile, the name is not printed.

Nock has retained James Broccoletti, of Norfolk, to defend him. An August preliminary hearing was scheduled in Accomack Juvenile & Domestic Relations Court.

Man Given Break on Heroin Charge

A Chincoteague man was given a break in Accomack Circuit Court last week when Judge Glen Tyler suspended about 4.5 years of a sentence for possession of heroin.

Kevin Dwayne Johnson, 26, of Gall Street, a waterman, was released so that he could help his grandfather with his seafood business.

The grandfather called for a rescue squad last October after finding Johnson unconscious with a needle nearby.

Johnson later admitted the drug paraphernalia belonged to him. He told officers that he bought the heroin for $5 a bag. Johnson served more than six months in jail.

Tyler sentenced Johnson to five years in prison with all but time served suspended. He also ordered indefinite probation and five years of good behavior. Johnson was found guilty of violating probation in two other cases. Those were reinstated and then suspended to run concurrently with the recent term.

“I’d like to thank you, your honor, “ Johnson said to the judge. “And apologize … I apologize for putting him through this,” he said of his grandfather.

“The problem is your own,” Tyler said. “But it is a public safety problem because someone is selling this stuff.”

In another case, Ray Ellis Townsend, 62 of Townsend Lane in Atlantic, was convicted of burglary and theft in connection with an incident at the home of George Brothers on Nov. 28, 2018. A video taken with cameras in the house showed Townsend committing the crimes. Brothers was upstairs sleeping when the crimes occurred.

Defense lawyer Garrett Dunham argued Townsend is a drug addict and needs treatment. He said his client was having dental issues and had taken a medicine that caused him not to remember what he did that night.

A short form presentence report was ordered. Sentencing was set for July 25.

Man Charged With Death of Companion Animal

An Atlantic man is accused of the unnecessary death of a companion dog in connection with an April 25 incident, according to records filed in Accomack General District Court.

Cleo Billings, 65, of Greta Road, was also charged with giving a false statement to police about the April 25 crime. Billings told officials the “dog was after his chickens and displaying aggressive behavior,” a court document disclosed.

Unsecured bond was set for $10,000. A preliminary hearing was scheduled for May 22. Deputy Zach Parks, of the Accomack County Sheriff’s Office, investigated.

In another case, Robert Manning Burgess, 25, of Shirley Circle in Parksley, was charged with hit-and-run with more than $1,000 worth of damage. The incident occurred April 27. A preliminary hearing was set for May 22. Secured bond was set at $2,000. Trooper D. Wallace investigated.

Deandre Arness Abbott, 28, of Woodland Park Avenue in Parksley, is accused of the March 31 intentional destruction of more than $1,000 worth of damage to property belonging to Park- sley Volunteer Fire & Rescue. Abbott was arrested April 29 and is being held in Accomack Jail. Cpl. C. Hodgson, of ACSO, investigated.

Elwood Edward Miles, 42, of Church Street in Onancock, was charged with the March 16 offense of conspiring to sell a Schedule I or II drug. He was arrested April 24. A May 15 preliminary hearing was set. Agent Steve Lewis, of the Eastern Shore Drug Task Force, investigated.

Teresa de Jesus Gonzalez Perez, 21, of Finney Lane in Parksley, was charged with for forging a driver's license on April 27. Deputy C. Hargis, of ACSO, investigated.

Demitchius R. Justice, 45, of Callen Street in Parksley, was charged with a third or subsequent offense of petty larceny, which is a felony, in connection with an April 23 incident. Justice was arrested April 24. Investigator Charles McPherson, of the Chincoteague Police Department, investigated.

Ashley Alaniz, 31, of Boundary Avenue in Onancock, is accused of conspiring to distribute a Schedule I or II drug on March 16. Secured bond was set at $1,500. Alaniz was arrested April 23. Lewis investigated.

Jamar Deshaun Hunter, 26, of Mears Station Road in Bloxom, was charged with selling between a half-ounce and five pounds of marijuana on April 22. Hunter was arrested the same day. Deputy K. McGregor, of ACSO, investigated. Unsecured bond was set at $5,000.

Tangier Waterman Pleads Guilty To Exceeding Oyster Harvest Limits

By Linda Cicoira

A Tangier waterman pleaded guilty last week in U.S. District Court, in Norfolk, to violating the Lacey Act by harvesting oysters from the Chesapeake Bay in excess of Virginia limits and then transporting them to Maryland and selling them.

Gregory Wheatley Parks, Jr., 43, a commercial oysterman operating the vessel Melissa Hope, was “properly licensed and therefore aware of the limits,” the prosecutor’s office stated. He could be given a maximum term of five years in prison. Sentencing is scheduled for Aug. 22.

Parks harvested a total of 38 bushels over the limit and took them to Crisfield, Md., where he sold them to a seafood dealer, according to court records. “The protection of our environment is a keystone species responsible for maintaining the overall health of the Chesapeake Bay ecosystem,” said Jeff Odom, assistant special agent in charge for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. “This investigation focused on the most egregious of those commercial harvesters attempting to circumvent the law and should serve as notice that the USFWS will be vigilant in protecting our natural resources.”

Four Library Bids Received

By Linda Cicoira

Construction bids for the Eastern Shore Public Library in Parksley were opened this week with base figures ranging from $4.38 million to $5.67 million.

Four companies participated in the process. The low bid came from RH Contracting Inc., of Atlantic, which bid $4,383,000. Other bids were from Ocean Construction Services of Virginia Beach, Va., $5,068,056; Sussex Development Corp., of Virginia Beach, $4,616,699.57; and Delmarva Veteran Builders, of Salisbury, Md., $5,678,344.54.

The county’s purchasing department “will be checking that all required documents were submitted with the bids, e.g., bonds, licenses, etc.,” County Administrator Stewart Hall wrote in an email. “I’m sure that the library trustees and county administrator will be reviewing available funding over the next few weeks to determine if a contract award can be recommended to the board of supervisors.”

Bids from those companies for the four alternative plans will also have to be considered. The next time the supervisors meet is May 15.

Plans for the library include the 1,100-square-foot Brooks Miles Barnes Archives Room, the Eastern Shore Room, the 1,290-square-foot Dennis R. Custis Lecture Hall, a 755-square-foot teen room, and a 2,490-square-foot children’s space.

Individuals who skirt this responsibility and harvest oysters beyond established limits deplete our resources, degrade our environment, and cheat those honest oystermen who uphold the law.”

“The native American wild oyster population is a keystone species responsible for maintaining the overall health of the Chesapeake Bay ecosystem”

The $80,000 lawsuit filed against Virginia Hang Gliding was dismissed last week in Accomack Circuit Court and the Painter company is open for the season that will go through August.

“All was dismissed,” said lawyer Anita Johnson, of Acconac, who represented William McCarter and Donald Guynn, of Onancock and Shore Aviation LLC.

The case was brought by Robert and Kathy Joynes and their daughter Melissa. The family complained the operation was too noisy and unsafe, and that their house was being buzzed despite the promise the company would never fly over the nearby homes. They also contended the business had a special use permit for a private venture, not a business.

The Joynes said the company promised to operate from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. from mid-May to mid-August with no more than 25 flights per day but didn’t stick to the schedule. Kathy and Melissa Joynes complained Guynn made “cat calls” while flying over. Kathy Joynes said Guynn “spit on her striking her arm as he flew over” and “expelled a large glob of thick mucus spittle that struck her arm.”

The Joynes wanted $10,000 for Guynn’s intentional battery of Kathy Joynes, $50,000 as punitive damages against Shore Aviation and Guynn jointly, and $20,000 for trespassing.

“The judge found that they hadn’t met their burden of proof,” Johnson said.

The Post received a message Wednesday from the hang gliding company. Guynn said the Joyneses made “false claims about the business in the goal of getting it shut down.” The business brings “tourists to the Shore,” and there are “numerous charities that benefit from the donated flights for their raffles. It is one of only six businesses like it on the entire East Coast. There are decades of safe flights and aviation certifications held by the owner.”

Accomack Commissioner of the Revenue Deborah T. Midgett, of Parksley, announced Tuesday that she will seek re-election to her post in the November general election.

“For 36 years, I have worked in the office of the commissioner of the revenue and have enjoyed meeting people and helping them,” Midgett said. “In 2008, I completed my classes to become Master Chief Deputy. In November 2018, in a special election, I became the commissioner. This year, I am seeking a four-year term. Your vote will be greatly appreciated,” she added.

Midgett first took over as interim commissioner after the death of Commissioner Leslie Savage.

Shocked Worker Dies

By Linda Cicoira

The worker who was shocked last month while making repairs to Accomack County’s Communication Tower died from “complications of electrocution,” a Maryland medical examiner concluded. The manner of death was ruled accidental.

Kelvin Finck, 30, of Nebraska, died April 26, at Peninsula Regional Medical Center. The incident occurred at about 5:30 p.m., April 22. Finck was working on the tower for a company that was contracted by Allstate Towers, of Kentucky. Allstate had a contract for the work with Accomack County.

“Kelvin was a hard worker, dedicated to his family, and quite the character,” said his sister, Lindsay Blackwell. “He didn’t have a mean bone in him.”

Donations and cards of sympathy can be mailed to the family of Kelvin Finck, c/o Lindsay Blackwell, 1112 Hall St., Grand Island, NE 68801.
Thanks to All Who Made “Profiles of Honor” a Success

Submitted by Cara Burton, Director
Eastern Shore Public Library System

The “Profiles of Honor” traveling exhibit left the Eastern Shore of Virginia in awe of our patriotism and the wealth of World War I and II history here. The exhibit, hosted by the Eastern Shore Public Library, also included a scan-athon. Shore residents brought more than 400 items to scan, a record in the state at these events. We also broke the attendance record with over 300 visitors. The extraordinary numbers, however, are overshadowed by the extraordinary stories that came to light at this three-day tour. Families arrived and shared the stories of their loved ones, a true tribute to the sacrifices made by our service men and women and their families.

At our pop-up library in front of the exhibit trailer, I personally was moved each time a visitor placed a flag sticker on the world map we set up. This simple act highlighted that our small community had great impact during these wars by delivering our young men and women into harm’s way at points from Guam to Normandy. Photographs, letters, and other mementos were brought out to provide testimony and discussion. Their scanned copies will be joined together to tell a narrative of a dark chapter in history, one we cannot allow to be forgotten.

One Shore resident, still alive, served in Burma (now Myanmar), China and India. Another’s relative was on the plane that dropped the bomb on Hiroshima. Before the U.S. joined WWI, one man’s grandfather joined the French Air Corps. A WWI helmet was brought showing a bullet dent demonstrating a life miraculously spared. A father’s prisoner of war photo was shown. Touching camp life images highlighted the young soldiers’ humor in rough circumstances. The stories poured out.

The library plans to host other events like this when the ESVA Heritage Center opens in the new regional library opening in August 2020 in Parksley. We plan to teach you to care for family archives, and scanning equipment will be available to digitize items for future access when the ink has faded.

I would like to thank the following without whom this event would not be possible: The Virginia WWI and WWII Commemoration Commission, the Towns of Nassawadox and Parksley, the Parksley Volunteer Fire Department, and the numerous library volunteers. Most of all, I thank the families that attended and opened their scrapbooks, photo albums, and hearts to make this event a success. The “Profiles of Honor” staff want to return when we open the Heritage Center to continue collecting your history for the Library of Virginia Memory Database. The scans will be available to view through their website virginiawwiandwwii.org

The Artmobile Rolls Into Parksley

The Artmobile is back! It will be in Parksley on May 5 and 6. Shore residents may remember it from the 1960s. The Virginia Museum of Fine Arts has brought it back to life with a new project called “VMFA on the Road.” The current exhibit is “How Far Can Creativity Take You: VMFA Fellowship Artists,” which celebrates the role VMFA has played in the lives of fellowship recipients. The exhibition includes works by the following acclaimed artists, who all have some connection to Virginia: Julien Binford, Ann Chenoweth, Esther Worden Day, Steven Fishman, Emmet Gowin, Sally Mann, Arthur Sayers, Charles Sibley, Cy Twombly, Benjamin Wigfall, and Dennis Winston.

One of the artists, Emmet Gowin, lived on Chincoteague in his youth. He is now an internationally acclaimed photographer exhibiting in museums around the world. Library Director Cara Burton worked with Mr. Gowin on a retrospective exhibit of his work while she was executive director of the Danville Museum of Fine Arts and History. “Of course we connected as we had ties to Chincoteague!” Burton said. “It was wonderful to work with him as he is both endearing and an intense artist. I learned a new appreciation for photography and hope this artmobile exhibit will inspire the Shore as well.”

Gowin lived on Chincoteague on Church Street from 1955 to 1957, after which he moved to Danville, Va., which is where the exhibit photograph was taken and his birthplace. His father was Emmet William Seay Gowin Sr., and was pastor at Christ United Methodist Church on Chincoteague.

The younger Gowin received his Bachelor of Fine Arts at what was Richmond Professional Institute, now Virginia Commonwealth University, and his Master in Fine Arts at the prestigious Rhode Island School of Design in 1967. Gowin is well known for his memorable family photographs. Since the 1980s he has focused on the environment with images of nature and aerial photographs and has published several books. His work has exhibited around the world, is owned by museums, and he has received numerous awards, like the VMFA fellowship. “Actually, I had two Virginia Museum fellowships. The first was in state to finish my senior year at RPI in 1964. The second for graduate study at Rhode Island School of Design, 1965 to 1967,” Gowin clarified when Burton asked him about his fellowship.

“For many, such as Mr. Gowin, winning the fellowship was just the beginning of a long relationship with the VMFA that resulted in acquiring their subsequent work,” stated Sean Kane, curator of the exhibit. He encourages exhibit visitors to view a 1970 VMFA interview of Gowin discussing the story behind the photograph in the exhibit, entitled “Barry, Dwayne, and Turkeys, Danville, Virginia.” The interview link can be viewed at https://youtu.be/BATLJ7ToWScQ.

The “VMFA on the Road” artmobile exhibit will be in Parksley two days in May 2019 and is free. On Sunday, May 5, from 1 to 4 p.m., the public is invited to visit the exhibit during the Celebrate Us! library multicultural festival. School and community groups are invited to come on May 6 and may schedule an appointment by contacting Janice Felker at youthservices@espl.org or calling 757-787-3400. The exhibit will be back at another time, to be determined, in Nassawadox and Cape Charles.

DIFFICULTY THIS WEEK: ******

Moderate  Challenging  HOO BOY!
Richardson Sets School Record for William & Mary

By Krystle Bono

Broadwater Academy alum and William & Mary graduate student Preston Richardson made his mark in Tribe history this week, setting a school record in the Penn Relays last Friday, battling the wet and turbulent outdoor elements to shatter the program’s record in shot put at 18.37m (60 feet, 3.25 inches). The Shore native also threw to a personal best of 52.05m (170 feet, 9 inches) in discus, beating his previous lifetime record by three feet, earning him a fifth-place finish.

“It was an awesome feeling. Breaking the school record was a goal I set for myself after my junior season. Unfortunately, my senior year was plagued with injuries. Now [that I’m] in graduate school, it feels great to overcome everything and achieve the goal I set two years ago,” said Richardson.

Richardson’s new marks have bumped him up to be ranked fifth overall in the event in school’s history, and second overall this season in the Colonial Athletic Association (CAA). His impressive performance also surpassed his previous record by two feet, and ultimately moved him up in the NCAA East Region rankings to 17th.

Game 1: (6 seed) Eastern Speed Shop Canucks 0, (1 seed) K&E Marine Capitals 2

The quest for the Parksley Cup began with a competitive, strong defensive matchup between first and last seeds. Though the ‘Nucks were able to largely contain the Caps’ offense, they couldn’t quite find the scoring touch on the other end of the rink. Holding the Caps, who averaged over four goals per game in the regular season, to only a pair is impressive indeed. Still, it just wasn’t enough, as Pat Luckenbach and Bradley Colona each found the back of the net to seal the win. Dylan Harrington picked up the playoff shutout in net. The Caps take a 1-0 lead in the best-of-three series.

Game 2: (2) Hoyt Insurance Ducks 4, (5) Blues 0

The next series featured another first-game shutout, as the Quackers sailed for an easy win. The Blues managed to register only seven total shots on net, getting pinned in their own end for stretches by the young legs of the Ducks. Jon-Jon Leach went out and scored himself a playoff hat trick, and he was smilin’ like a butcher’s muscles and closed out their series against the hard-luck ‘Nucks. Jesse West scored a goal from an assist by Catlynn Dowling to spoil Dylan Harrington’s second straight shutout parade. The Onancock Kid, leader by example, hustled his way to five shots on net through the thick Caps defense, but just could not generate a goal. Meanwhile, the Pat Trick registered two goals and three assists; Dustin Aigner tickled the twine and added two apples; Bradley Colona struck twice; Matt Yetter scored; James Haley picked up an assist. The Capitals close out their series with a 2-0 sweep.

Game 3: (3) EZ Loan Bruins 8, (4) Delmarva Soil and Concrete Red Wings 1

The Wings were the most likely team to be able to pull off a potential upset in the first round, but were fatedly encompassed by a short bench on this day. Unable to establish any rhythm against a tactically prepared Killer B’s squad,.Of Plagalong and company suffered a blowout in their first game. The Red Wings were able to stave off a shutout thanks to a Mike McCreary marker, with an assist by the Huntsman. The Smooth Criminal made certain in this one, however, ringing up four goals, two assists and several exclamation points. T.R. Hoyt earned a goal and three assists; Sharkey Parks netted a goal and two assists; Cliff Windsor picked up a helper. The Bruins emphatically take a 1-0 lead in the series.

Game 4: (1) K&E Marine Capitals 6, (6) Eastern Speed Shop Canucks 1

One haymaker followed the other on this day, as the mighty Caps flexed their muscles and closed out their series against the third-seeded Canucks. Jesse West scored a goal from an assist by Catlynn Dowling to spoil Dylan Harrington’s second straight shutout parade. The Onancock Kid, leader by example, hustled his way to five shots on net through the thick Caps defense, but just could not generate a goal. Meanwhile, the Pat Trick registered two goals and three assists; Dustin Aigner tickled the twine and added two apples; Bradley Colona struck twice; Matt Yetter scored; James Haley picked up an assist. The Capitals close out their series with a 2-0 sweep.

Game 5: (2) Hoyt Insurance Ducks 5, (5) Blues 4

In a wild, back-and-forth nail-biter playoff extravaganza, the Quackers were able to find the extra marker to sweep their series with the Blues and punch their ticket to the next round. The Blues opened up the scoring in the first when power forward Jennie Rice slammed home a rebound from a Michael Garbacz shot to take their first lead of the series. It stayed that way until the second when the Ducks took the lead, opening up the scoring floodgates. A seesaw affair took off, and it was the Ducks who managed to squeak away with the win, and the series. The General rang up a hattie plus one assist; Jon-John Leach scored; Devon Corbin procured two assists; Zach Webb and Danny Tweedy each threw in a helper. For the Blues, Rice and Garbacz set each other up to the tune of a goal and an assist apiece (Garbacz’s first since the eighth-grade pic-nic); Brandon Morgan and Wes Stapleton each made a playoff deposit.

Game 6: (4) Delmarva Soil and Concrete Red Wings 2, (3) EZ Loan Bruins 3

The final game of the day proved the trend of the higher seed winning, as the Killer B’s ousted the Wings from Cup contention. Perhaps the best game of the day, the Red Wings jumped out to the lead, but couldn’t hold on as none other than the Smooth Criminal mounted the winning comeback effort. C.J. Jones and Ethan Ayer each tickled the twine in the Wings’ swansong effort; the Huntsman, New York Metzger, and Mike McCready each recorded an assist. For the Bruins, Sharpkey Parks found the back of the net twice; Williams registered a goal and an assist; Austin Gregory picked up a playoff helper. The Bruins close out the series sweep.

With the Red Wings, Blues, and Canucks vanquished in their respective quests to win the Parksley Cup, playoff action resumes Sunday, May 5, at 2 p.m., at Stapleton Rink in Parksley. The semi-final round of the Parksley Cup playoffs features the third-seeded Bruins against the second-ranked Ducks. The top-seeded Capitals win a bye for this round and advance to the Parksley Cup final. Who’s your Bs Ducks pick to meet them?

Eastern Shore Yacht & Country Club Sailing Camp

Submitted Article and Photo

The Eastern Shore Yacht & Country Club is holding its annual Sailing Camp this summer with two new instructors with impressive resumes.

The instructors include Tim Tyler, head sailing instructor for the Augusta Sailing Club and a U.S. Navy veteran who has sailed in the Long Island Sound, Bermuda, and the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of Panama. Tyler has been sailing for over 40 years and has been a member of the Larchmont Yacht Club and the Augusta Sailing Club, and is a U.S. Sailing certified instructor.

Also serving as an instructor will be Kris T. Califano Herbert, who has been sailing and racing since the age of eight. She sailed for Florida State University sailing team and was a skipper on the women’s team when it placed ninth and 10th nationally. Herbert is a member of the Apalachee Bay Yacht Club near Tallahassee, Fla., where she helped revitalize the sailing education program and has been teaching sailing to all ages for the last four years. She is a U.S. Certified sailing instructor and has recently relocated to the Eastern Shore.

The purpose of the class will be to have fun while learning how to rig, de-rig and sail a boat alone, sail to many different locations around Pungoteague Creek, learn about boat safety and rules on the water, and learn the basics of racing. No previous sailing experience is necessary.

Half-day session camps will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. Monday-Friday June 24-28 and July 22-26, with registration costs of $200 for members and $250 for nonmembers.

This week player of the week for the YBL 5-8 age group was Jayden Henderson. Netiese Copes was the defensive player of week.

5-8 Team Records:

The Lakers won a thrilling overtime game defeating the Knights by two points. With one second in regulation, Jayden Henderson was fouled shooting a three-pointer trying to tie the game. Henderson went to the free throw line and calmly hit three consecutive free throws to send the game into overtime. Kyle Shockley’s game-high 16 points was too offense for the Knights. Great game by both teams.

In the final game of the night, the Lakers lost by three points to the Bulls. The Bulls Tylek Smith with 10 points was high scorer for that game. Smith was aided by Jayla Handy’s five points and tremendous board work.

In the YBL 9-12 age group, Shockley was the player of the week, and Jayla Handy was the defensive player of the week.

Watch for next weeks Mother’s Day Specials!
Almost 550 anglers have registered to compete in either of the Eastern Shore’s two largest flounder tournaments, which kicked off last weekend and will run through Sunday, May 5. We will have a complete rundown of all the events’ winners in next week’s edition. Drum action is starting to heat up on both sides of the peninsula and, as expected, the Virginia Marine Resources has taken steps to eliminate the recreational trophy seasons for striped bass on both the bay and seaside.

Lower Shore - Chris Snook, at Chris’ Bait & Tackle, reported that both red and black drum were being caught off the beach between Smith and Fisherman’s Island, as well as out of Oyster. Chris’ is now receiving shipments of sea clams on Fridays; the demand is high and reservations are encouraged to secure these popular and productive black drum baits. The shop weighed in its first sheepshead of the season, a 10-pound, 3-ounce fish caught and released from the seaside. Chris specifically mentioned Oyster and “the Ditch” as productive flatfish producing locales.

Jeff Brady, of Bailey’s Bait & Tackle, reported that the weather continued to be the determining factor in fishing success over the last weekend. Several of the anglers that were able to get out were rewarded with catches of black drum. Brady said he expected the action to improve over the next couple of weeks with the nicer weather. Flounder were being caught on the seaside when fishermen were able to find clear water.

Wachapreague – Debbie, at Trident Tackle, reported that anglers have been doing “really good” with flounder, especially for the recent windy conditions. Live minnows and Berkley Gulp have been the most consistent baits. Green and Drawing Channels, the Hummocks, and Burton’s Bay are receiving most of the attention. The shop’s 29th Annual Captain Zed’s Flounder Tournament has attracted a field of 395 registered anglers. Kenny Irwing was holding on to first place early in the week with a 4-pound, 9-ounce flounder, Rocky Grisby was in second with a 4.65-pound fish and Tim Snyder was clinging to third with a 4-pound, 6-ounce flatfish. J.B. Bell was the top junior angler with a flounder weighing 2 pounds, 9 ounces. The tournament will conclude on Sunday, May 5.

Chincoteague - Donna Rae, at Captain Bob’s Marina, commented that the winds have been the enemy of the flounder fishermen over the weekend and early part of this week. However, anglers who have been able to find a spot with some protection from the wind have been able to put a few keeper flounder into the cooler. The most productive areas continue to be in the northern portion of Assateague Channel, Watts Bay, and Four Mouths. Productive baits have included live minnows, silversides, Berkley Gulp 4-inch Swimming Mullet, and strips of clean, white squid. Donna Rae recommended that anglers seeking flounder utilize two hook rigs adorned with mylar flash to increase their baits visibility in the muddy waters as well as regularly cleaning the drifting seaweed and “sludge” off the hooks. Puffers aka swelling toads continue to increase in number and some trout have been landed outside the inlet. Black drum catches have come from the surf.

Jimmy Vasilou, at Captain Steve’s Bait & Tackle, reported flounder continue to be caught in the channel and small-medium black drum continue to be caught in the surf. Anglers Jeff Gosnell, Ken Klinedinst, and Mike Jacobs returned with a 12-fish flounder limit of 17 to 20-inch fish over the weekend. The shop’s spring flounder tournament has approximately 150 registered entrants. Robert Lynch and John Cherault shared the lead early in the week with a pair of 4-pound, 15-ounce fish. Lim Nessul was in third place with a 4-pound, 6-ounce flounder. The tournament winds up on Sunday, May 5.

Upper Shore – Captain Matt Abell, of the Sea Hawk Sports Center, reported that flounder fishing has been “pretty good” despite the windy conditions. Abell and his crew had seven keepers on Tuesday and went back for quick trip on Wednesday and quickly boated four more. Silversides were his most productive flounder bait. Matt said that there had been lots of red drum in Pocomoke Sound as local angler Ted Burbage boated three on a recent trip. Striped bass have made an appearance in the barrier island surf, with one customer releasing eight stripers on a recent trip.

Striped Bass Update. In a release dated April 23, the Virginia Marine Resources Commission announced that it had closed the scheduled recreational spring striped bass trophy seasons in the Chesapeake Bay from May 1 through June 15, on the Atlantic Coast from May 1 through May 15, and in the Virginia tributaries to the Potomac River from April 29 through May 15. Anglers looking to keep a striped bass in the saltwaters of Virginia are now limited to the spring Chesapeake Bay slot season, which runs May 16 through June 15 with a two-fish limit that must fall within the 20 to 28-inch slot limit. Virginia remains the only state to impose a more restrictive measure than the ones currently approved by the Atlantic States Marine Fisheries Commission (ASMFC) due to what it claims is a recent scientific low stock assessment.

Bill Hall was the first Eastern Shore resident to achieve Virginia Salt Water Master Angler Status. He has been named Virginia Saltwater Angler of the Year and Virginia Saltwater Release Angler of the Year. Bill is an I.G.F.A. International Committee Representative and a longtime member of the Virginia Saltwater Fishing Tournament Committee. He is the Virginia Recreation Fishing representative on the ASMFC Striped Bass Management Panel and is a past recipient of the CCA-VA Virginia Outdoor Writer Conservation Leadership Award.
Boys & Girls Club of Southeast Virginia Celebrates 100 Years

By Stefanie Jackson

The Boys & Girls Club of Southeast Virginia (BGCSEVA) celebrates its 100th anniversary this year, and its 11 branches, including the Eastern Shore Boys & Girls Club, are participating in the festivities.

In honor of the anniversary, each locality that is home to a branch of BGCSEVA declared a Boys & Girls Club Day. In Northampton County, that day was April 25.

The celebration took place at Occohannock Elementary School in Exmore, where the club meets.

Director Kathy Custis said the Boys & Girls Club is a “home away from home for my kids,” referring to the nearly 250 youth ages 6 to 18 who attend the club that “has kept them out of trouble.”

But the Boys & Girls Club has done more than just keep kids out of trouble.

In 2017, the club provided nearly 38,000 meals and snacks at no cost to families.

During the school year, when the Boys & Girls Club meets on Monday through Friday from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m., dinner is served.

In the summer, when the club meets mid-June through mid-August, from 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., breakfast and lunch are served.

The Boys & Girls Club also provided nearly 35,000 hours of tutoring and homework help in 2017. Peer tutoring is a part of the activities, with older students helping younger students.

The tutoring program has helped kids that were making straight F’s improve their grades to B’s and C’s. Kids have even become straight-A students with the help of the tutoring program, Custis said.

With the dedication of the Frances Bibbins Latimer Library at Occohannock Elementary April 25, Boys & Girls Club members will have more resources to help them improve their reading skills and grades.

Latimer, who died in 2010, was a well-known Eastern Shore educator and historian who emphasized the African American experience. The Frances Bibbins Latimer Library holds books chosen by Boys & Girls Club kids and staff and bookshelves purchased with a small percentage of a $75,000 endowment began by Latimer’s husband, George Latimer.

Guests at the library dedication included Frances Bibbins Latimer’s brother, Paul Bibbins, Sen. Lynwood Lewis, Northampton Board of Supervisors Chairman Spencer Murray and Supervisor David Fauber, and BGCSEVA Chairman Bill Payne and board member Karen Hatch.

Payne also presented a check for $5,000 from the United Way of Virginia’s Eastern Shore.

Accomplishments of Eastern Shore Boys & Girls Club members include making honor roll, graduating high school, attending trade school or college, and graduating college.

The club helps students ages 14 to 18 find financial assistance for college and gives them opportunities to attend the annual National Keystone Conference, meet students from other Boys & Girls Clubs, tour colleges, and explore career options.

Desiree Kellam, of Painter, won runner-up in this year’s BGCSEVA Youth of the Year competition.

The goal of the club is to give kids the tools for success and “direct them on the right pathway,” Custis said.

Her role as a Boys & Girls Club director is not a far cry from her role as a mother when she raised her three sons. Her children’s friends often came over to play basketball. Custis treated them like extended family, feeding them many meals and taking the crew with her to church twice a month.

She also considers the Boys & Girls Club kids like family and works to ensure that “every child succeeds and has the opportunity to succeed.”

Indelible Memories: The Stained Glass Windows of Historic Cokesbury Methodist Church

By Connie Morrison

Late afternoon light filled the sanctuary of Historic Cokesbury Methodist Church through its freshly restored stained glass windows, and piano and harpsichord music swelled to meet it.

Musicians Lee Jordan-Anders and Thomas Marshall performed “Windows: A Keyboard Kaleidoscope,” which incorporated pieces for piano, organ, and harpsichord to celebrate the completion of the restored windows. The concert was held last Sunday.

“This day has been a long time coming — 15 years to be exact,” said the Rev. Elizabeth Freund, greeting those who had gathered for the dedication.

It’s a project that completes a circle that began when Millie Mapp Mason sponsored restoration of the first window in memory of her parents in 2004. The project was concluded the week before the dedication with the reinstallation of a window sponsored by David F. Mason in memory of his wife, Millie Mapp Mason.

In all, a dozen sanctuary windows were restored. Four were funded by the Eastern Shore Community Foundation; others were sponsored in memory of loved ones. Each window cost between $10,000 and $12,000 to repair, said Anne Nock, who was a driving force behind the restoration.

Such careful work requires highly skilled hands. The first four restorations were made by Shenandoah Art Glass Restoration at the Mark Russell Firm in Winchester, Va., working from 2004-2008. From there, Mezalick Design Studio LLC, from Philadelphia, took over to complete the remaining eight windows.

The original windows were believed to have been designed by Frederick Wilson of Alfred Godwin & Co., a Philadelphia stained glass company. Godwin left shortly after the Cokesbury windows were done to become the artistic director at Tiffany, thus their resemblance to Tiffany windows, according to a booklet published to commemorate the restoration.
Health Matters  VDH Focus Group and Older Americans Month

Every five years, the Virginia Department of Health is tasked with assessing the health needs of the Commonwealth, specifically as it relates to women ages 15 to 44, men of any age, pregnant women, new mothers and parents. The Eastern Shore District will host one of six regional opportunities for volunteers to join a focus group or take part in a private, personal interview (by phone or in-person) to discuss health issues in our community.

They will conduct personal interviews for individuals in the following sub-population groups: LGBTQ+, Spanish-speaking Women, Women of Color, Men of Color, Refugee/Immigrant, Indigenous Peoples, College Students, Children in Foster Care, and Women who are incarcerated.

The goals of conducting this assessment are to learn about the emerging health concerns of Virginia residents, to ensure that public health programs gain insight to the best way to use funding, and to use the data received to promote health improvement using policy and technology.

The local focus group sessions will be Wednesday, May 29, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., at the Accomack County Health Department, 23191 Front Street, Accomac. Refreshments will be provided during the regional focus groups, and a $25 gift card is offered for participants in focus groups and personal interviews.

Older Americans Month

Each year, more and more older adults are making a positive impact in and around Accomack and Northampton counties. As volunteers, employees, employers, educators, mentors, and advocates, they offer insight and experience that benefit the entire community. That’s why Older Americans Month (OAM) has been recognizing the contributions of this growing population for 56 years.

Led by the Administration for Community Living (ACL) each May, Older America Month provides resources to help older Americans stay healthy and independent, and resources to help communities support and celebrate their diversity.

This year’s OAM theme, “Connect, Create, Contribute,” encourages older adults and their communities to:
• Connect with friends, family, and local services and resources.
• Create through activities that promote learning, health, and personal enrichment.
• Contribute time, talent, and life experience to benefit others.

Accomack County Parks and Recreation will celebrate Older Americans Month by promoting ways that community members of all ages can take part in helping Accomack County thrive.

In observance of Older Americans Month, Accomack Parks and Recreation and Eastern Shore AAA/CAA will host our 19th Annual Older Americans Extravaganza and Luncheon, Wednesday, May 15, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., at the Chincoteague Community Center. This black and white with a hint of red dress to impress event is free to citizens of Accomack and Northampton Counties that are age 60 and over.

In addition to crowning the oldest male and female in attendance King and Queen, centennials and persons 60 and over will be honored. Contact the Accomack Parks and Recreation office or ESAAA/CAA to nominate a centennial or a person 60 and over who has gone that extra mile giving back to his or her community. May 6, 2019 is the deadline to RSVP attendance and to submit the name, age, and picture of persons to potentially be honored. For additional information, contact the parks and recreation office at 787-3900 or 710-9301, or ESAAA/CAA office at 442-9652.

Ja’Briah Tynise Mears 5/8/2019

Happy, Happy Birthday, Ja’Brigha Tynise Mears. Words can not express how we’re feeling. There’s not a day or minute that goes by that we don’t think of you. Our souls and hearts are empty. Briah, you would light up a room when you walked in... our sunshine. When either one of us was down, you had that gift where you would pick us up. You’ve taught Mommy a lot of things—most importantly, how to be the best mom I can. It’s hard living without you. I’m trying to remain strong for your siblings, like you would want me to. You thought so much of your siblings. You really played your Big Sissy role. May 8 is your big day. It’s gonna be hard to celebrate without us up. The Melfa River flows through the Monti delle Mainarde, a range of calcareous mountains. I have always been told that the local Melfa is the highest spot on the Shore. The Italian river has been associated with the goddess Mefitis, who was worshipped in a sanctuary that was uncovered near the waterway in 1958. Mefitis is not to be confused with mephitis, which means a noxious or foul-smelling gas or vapor.

Despite that other word, wouldn’t Melfa be a great name for a baby? I think so.

The website www.sevenreflections.com states a person with the name would have “psychic power. You can carry on for others with joy. You have a receptive nature and may bear burdens for others. You are pragmatic, thorough, strong-willed, practical and stubborn at times. You are hard working, often martyr to duty. You like home and security above all. You have an eventful, exciting life. You are versatile and have the ability to learn easily. You are always looking for a chance to do your own thing, to be your own person, and to have things done your own way.” Yippee!

According to www.names.org: “As a last name, Melfa, was the 140,157th most popular name in 2010. The oldest recorded birth, by the Social Security Administration, for the name Melfa is Thursday, Dec. 22, 1892. From 1880 to 2017, less than five people per year have been born with the first name Melfa … In 2010, the U.S. Census Bureau surveyed 119 people with the last name Melfa.” It is “one of the most unique last names ever recorded,” the website concluded.

“The Melfa family name was found in the USA between 1880 and 1920,” www.wanancestry.com states. “The most Melfa families were found … in 1920. In 1880, there was one Melfa family living in Missouri … The average life expectancy for Melfa in 1961 was 44, and 88 in 2003.”

According to www.namespedia.com, the first name, Melfa, is 100% masculine and is “found 30 times in five different countries.” The surname “is used at least 234 times in at least eight countries.” The name written with Chinese letters is shown at the right. (pinyin: méi ěr fā). I bet someone will want to use this for a tattoo.

If you have a girl, I suggest naming her “Linda,” which means beautiful. One can find that information anywhere. Or you could call the kid, “Tangier,” after that wonderful island in the Chesapeake Bay. From 1880 to 2017, the name Tangier was given to 15 babies in the U.S. It was given to five babies in 1970.

Saxis, another Shore town, would also be a great name for a child. www.urban-dictionary.com says some people pronounce Saxis, the controller for a PlayStation 3 game system, the same way we say Saxis.

So start a tradition in 2019 and name your babies Melfa, Saxis, and Tangier. Yippee!
